- Technology Upgrade – existing broadcast equipment was reviewed to identify any potential risks to the business and whether a technology upgrade was required. Following the review it was determined that an upgrade is required, however, a scope of works is to be carried out ensuring the latest studio equipment is fully costed alongside capability and requirements going forward.
- Revenue Opportunities (Advertising) – previously advertising opportunities through TABradio have not been maximised. Increasing advertising will help to increase awareness of the station and help to further generate income to assist with the operational costs of the business.
- Content – this area of the review concentrated on the production of content. TABradio's overall vision is to be the ultimate source of reliable general and sport information, therefore the provision of up to date, interesting and engaging content is critical.
- Talent - it is very important that TABradio employs individuals with a passion for racing coupled with the knowledge and enthusiasm to promote all three racing codes. This includes both studio staff and race callers.

In July 2016, RWWA announced a new breakfast show talent line-up. From August 2016, former Melbourne Nine Network news reporter and Sky Racing presenter Gareth Hall has been manning the morning show five days a week, joined throughout the week by fellow panelists Darren McAullay, Steve Butler and Wes Cameron.

COMMUNICATIONS AND EVENTS

The Racing Marketing and Communications division, through its media resources and platforms, will continue to promote flagship racing events that have received significant funding boosts this year. Key racing events for each code (e.g. The Masters at Ascot and the Inter Dominion Series) can give racing wider appeal, whilst generating economic value and tourism development.

The Racing Marketing and Communications team also handles RWWA's internal corporate communications, public relations affairs and media relationships.

In November 2015, RWWA unveiled a new design for its website (www.rwwa.com.au). The design aims to suit the needs of industry participants, and to attract new audiences by being more visually appealing, mobile responsive and hosting engaging content that showcases the Western Australian racing and wagering industry.

Key features include:

- Mobile responsive access to Customer Racing Information Service;
- Race and trial replays for thoroughbred racing; and
- News, media and events promoted throughout the website.

2015/16 has also seen a significant growth in RWWA's online and social media followings.

CHAPTER 2 / REPORT ON OPERATIONS

TAB RACEWALL

WAGERING

The Wagering division is responsible for the functions of the Western Australian TAB including sales, marketing and all wagering operations.

The sales channels include the retail exclusive licence and account based channels in mobile, internet and call centre.

In 2015/16, customers continued to migrate from traditional pari-mutuel pools to fixed odds betting products as well as showing preference for the high growth mobile channel. RWWA has been responsive and focused its wagering investment in these key consumer areas whilst also maintaining investment in the retail base.

The annual investment in the business was focused on providing growth, growing capability or reducing the variable costs of wagering to ensure sustainable revenues for the funding of the Western Australian racing industry.

RETAIL TECHNOLOGY

A key part of RWWA's strategic plan is to invest in its exclusive retail wagering licence. The Racewall technology (pictured) was installed in 79 agencies during 2015/16, with the majority of investment targeted in the licensed outlets.

The paperless retail model has been embraced by TAB Agents and customers alike. The investment delivered TAB Agents a more efficient race day whilst the customers can access the next six races to jump with a direct pari-mutuel to fixed odds comparison available, amongst other ratings and traditional racing information.

The Racewalls are complemented by new NEO terminals that offer extended racing information and form, plus self-service betting. The high customer acceptance of self-service betting terminals has seen them account for 60% of sales in licensed outlets and 50% of RWWA's total retail sales.

WAGERING CONT.

DIGITAL

To continue to be competitive in the digital market, RWWA's development pipeline focused on improvements in user experience, product and customer value. These included:

- Deployment of the Specials engine and a customer value platform through digital channels;
- Further automation of the Rewards engine for greater internal productivity;
- Customer Intelligence foundations built from data and online analytics;
- Digital streaming of Western Australian race replays;
- Redevelopment of the online transactions pages; and
- Race club "check in" for TABtouch customers to improve on-course wagering trends and club profitability.

Speed to market is the key focus for the digital channels and the creation of a Project Management Office (PMO) was an important step in 2015/16. The PMO's role is to assist in the assessment of all business cases as well as ensuring development occurs in an agile and efficient manner.

CUSTOMER MARKETING

2015/16 saw the TABtouch brand seek clear space in a cluttered wagering market. The 'Get the Touch' campaign was a distinct move away from the heritage TAB brand and was based on lifting awareness in the competitive digital market. 'Get the Touch' was a highly inclusive campaign that showed the emotional connection with racing and sport, underpinned by 'money back' value statements.

Research on frequent customers' emotional connection to the brand showed that:

- Trust was maintained;
- Value, typically whereby a customer is offered specials and bonuses, has improved; and
- They continued to appreciate retail convenience, access to cash and an easy to use mobile app.

Research on infrequent customers showed:

- Awareness of the brand was stable;
- Gains from competitors through above the line marketing of specials; and
- Mobile app simplicity and volume of betting options is an advantage.

TABtouch's key marketing campaigns included:

- Get the Touch - Money Back and Profit Plus specials across the racing and sport calendar;
- Sponsorship of 'The Game' fantasy tipping competition with the West Australian;
- Sponsorship of the TABtouch Perth Darts Masters; and
- Activity surrounding the Kalgoorlie and Bunbury Cups.

2016/17 DIRECTION

RWWA continues to build capability in the digital and mobile teams to allow an agile methodology and deliver continuous improvement. A customer-led development strategy will result in a new and unique value proposition that will be available in the market for the Spring Carnival.

Wagering turnover is still heavily skewed toward retail, and the investment in retail Racewalls and terminals, as well as key metropolitan and provincial clubs, which will drive growth in retail turnover and fixed odds yield.

The traditional TAB brand in the form of retail agencies will remain an information rich, cash friendly and social betting experience for TAB customers. The primary challenge for RWWA is how to leverage the retail sales force to help improve market share of digital customers.

COMMUNITY TAB

Community TAB is responsible for upholding the Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) of RWWA. CSR is the way a business takes into account the financial, environmental and social impacts of decisions and actions it is involved in. Effective CSR guides and contributes to the sustainability of RWWA, is recognised as good business practice and is increasingly expected by stakeholders. Community TAB communicates the support that the TAB and RWWA provides to Western Australia.

MAJOR PARTNERS

Community TAB has been in partnership with three major organisations since December 2014 - Lifeline WA, Riding for the Disabled WA (RDAWA) and Fremantle Sea Rescue (FSR). Community TAB recognised these three organisations as positive partners due to the services they provide to the community being held in high esteem and their worth of financial and promotional support.

Community TAB was the major partner for Lifeline WA's 'Lights for Lifeline' campaign for a second year in a row during 2015/16. The campaign shone a light on suicide prevention during the festive period when demand for Lifeline's crisis support services are highest. The partnership saw a contribution of $78K for a second year in a row from Community TAB to directly support the training of 20 new crisis support volunteers and help their service run 24/7. This brings Community TAB's total sponsorship contribution to Lifeline over the course of the partnership to $153K, not including other informal contributions. Lifeline WA provided Safe Talk sessions to RWWA staff and key speakers and resources for events such as Mental Health Week.

RDAWA has 18 riding centres statewide, which assist more than 1,000 riders with disabilities to enjoy safe, fun and therapeutic recreational riding. This service has proved to help the physical and mental well-being of children and adults with disabilities. Community TAB completed a second year of partnership with RDAWA in 2015/16, which saw a second sponsorship donation of $92K to the organisation, to support their program development and ensure high standards of animal welfare for RDA horses around the State. RWWA staff often volunteer their time at RDAWA events and RDA provided sessions to RWWA staff so they could experience what it is like to volunteer at RDAWA.

Community TAB entered the second year of partnership with Fremantle Sea Rescue (FSR) in 2015/16, which saw a $40K contribution to FSR from Community TAB after purchasing two rescue-modified Yamaha jet skis for FSR in 2015. FSR operate between Cockburn and City Beach and across to Rottnest Island, and the Swan and Canning Rivers. The rescue volunteers are able to conduct shallow and swift water rescues, as well as support many community and sporting events where there are large numbers of people in the water and run a 24/7 service thanks to the contribution from Community TAB. Over the 2015/16 summer, FSR used the jet skis to assist 5,930 people in 12 separate community and sporting water events, and the Community TAB rescue vessel to rescue or assist 45 vessels and 204 people.

RACING INDUSTRY PARTNERSHIPS

Since February 2015, Community TAB has been running a program with Western Australian Race Clubs to fundraise for not-for-profit groups in their communities. In 2015 and 2016, Community TAB asked every one of the 51 Race Clubs to choose a not-for-profit organisation in their community and provided them with the opportunity to fundraise at a major race day, where Community TAB matched what was raised for the community partner. Now in the program's second year, Community TAB has had 55 partnerships with Race Clubs with another 28 committed for the rest of 2016. To date, Community TAB has matched nearly $110K in fundraising, and by the end of 2016 will have matched close to $180K.

Allowing the Race Clubs to choose their own community partner ensures that the groups who are in most need of the funds are receiving it. Some community groups that have benefited from the project so far include, Give Me 5 for Kids, Men's Shed, Lions Club, Royal Flying Doctor Service, various St John Ambulance Sub Centres, Full Circle, SAFE, South West Bushfire Relief, Breast Cancer Care WA and Revise WA.

Community TAB has received media coverage for almost all of the different partnerships in the program. Community TAB has also received extremely positive feedback via clubs and the community partners who have benefited from the program.

COMMUNITY SPORT CONTRIBUTION

Over the past 10 years, over $30M of funding has gone to the Department of Sport and Recreation, and in 2015/16 the contribution was close to $4M. Some of the prominent sport and recreation organisations and programs that are funded by the TAB's contribution include the WA Sports Federation, Parks and Leisure WA, Athlete Travel Subsidy Scheme, Sports Club Equipment Subsidy Scheme, Royal Life Saving WA Water Safety Strategy, Communicare, Drugs in Sport education, Inclusive Sports Funding Scheme and Your Move. Through these programs hundreds of sporting clubs, teams, athletes and organisations are funded to help the Western Australian community grow healthy both physically, socially and economically. This contribution is communicated through Community TAB.

PERTH FASHION FESTIVAL

In 2016, Community TAB signed on as the Principal Presenting Partner for the 2016 Telstra Perth Fashion Festival (TPFF). The TAB had partnered with TPFF in the past, but Community TAB was brought on board in 2015 and 2016 to ensure the partnership is leveraged to its full capacity. This partnership saw more TPFF events held at Ascot, more of a racing presence in TPFF promotional material and at events, the racing industry align with fashion and allowed CommunityTAB/TAB/RWWA to be able to communicate with a different audience.

WA COUNTRY CUPS FASHIONS ON THE FIELD

In March 2016, Community TAB in conjunction with WA Country Cups, announced the WA Country Cups Fashions on the Field initiative, a state-wide racing fashion competition consisting of nine regional heats held at major race meetings across the State, culminating in a Final at Ascot Racecourse. The Final will be held on Saturday 26 November 2016, where the winner will receive a $25,000 Racing Holiday and Spending Spree in Hong Kong.

STAFF ENGAGEMENT

Community TAB has become more responsible for internal engagement at RWWA over the past 12 months and taken on existing RWWA initiatives to be communicated through the Community TAB brand. Stress Down Day, Responsible Gambling Week, Mental Health Week and RSL fundraising are examples of initiatives that are communicated and organised through Community TAB to enhance staff and community engagement. Staff are also given opportunities to take part in volunteering at events for Community TAB's three partners or demonstrations to learn more about the organisations and why Community TAB is a sponsor.

CHAPTER 2 / REPORT ON OPERATIONS

The IS division recognises the need to respond quickly to RWWA’s strategic business needs. For 2016/2017, IS will focus on internally growing its individual capability with the right resourcing including partnering, tools and processes enabling IS to deliver even more rapidly and effectively than ever before. This will be achieved by improving its business capability, in order to help maximise RWWA’s effectiveness in an increasingly competitive digital market.

NUMBER OF CHANGE REQUESTS IMPLEMENTED

The following graph details change requests implemented into the division’s change controlled environments over the last financial year. Changes are broken down by month and IT environments which include QUAL, PRE-PROD and PROD.

|--------------|--------------|
| PROD         | 3,220        |
| QUAL         | 1,716        |
| PRE-PROD     | 65           |
| TOTAL | 5,001 |

INFORMATION SERVICES MATURITY ASSESSMENT

Supported by outcomes of various third party reviews during 2015/16, the division has assessed its maturity rating for technical infrastructure and operations at level 4 (service-aligned) and moving toward level 5 (business partner).

This means that the IS department is seen as a trusted service provider, with SLA’s and industry best practices in place. There is scope for improvement by proactively piloting new technology for business innovation, developing strategic relationships and setting out a roadmap for real-time infrastructure using private cloud computing.

HUMAN RESOURCES

The Human Resources (HR) division is responsible for the development and implementation of human resource management strategy and effective management of all related workplace and employee related functions across the organisation.

The division provides support to staff and managers on all employment related matters including recruitment, induction, performance management, interpretation and application of policies and workplace conditions. Advice and support to line managers in their people management skills and workforce planning has remained a constant requirement as the organisation continues to develop and change. Learning and Development, OSH and employee wellness functions also play a key role within the division for RWWA and external stakeholders, which include TAB agents and the broader racing industry. In addition, the delivery of payroll services and the management of staff data and reporting sit within this division.

The responsibility of RWWA's corporate social responsibility was also a key function within the division over the past twelve months. The primary focus of this function is to provide greater awareness of the community investment RWWA contributes to racing, sport and the community, with Community TAB being the brand name to highlight this.

The HR team endeavoured to keep driving the positive momentum that has been achieved to date in the areas of developing further leadership capabilities and fostering an engaged workforce. Primarily this has involved a broad range of activities targeting specific work groups. The strategy again focused from bottom up with the intent of building clearer communication lines around the business strategies, skill building and improving engagement levels for all staff. From a leadership perspective, the continuation of individual coaching sessions and learning group sessions around the key areas of resilience, managing expectations and effective communication has resulted in greater confidence being demonstrated by managers in these areas. This was supported through building greater awareness and engagement around the organisation's core values, coinciding with key events such as Melbourne Cup and other similar occasions.

Since the implementation of a broader learning and development framework last year, a greater take up of learning and development opportunities was evident. This not only supported the overall culture strategy of investing in people's development but has also assisted in RWWA's managing risk management through employees completing mandatory online training sessions on various topics. With the ongoing positive results achieved and the continued high level of staff retention across RWWA, considering the more recent times of uncertainty for employees, RWWA is committed to further building capability and engagement, reinforcing the ongoing commitment to invest in its people and culture strategy.

CHAPTER 3 / DISCLOSURES & LEGAL COMPLIANCE

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1 Australian Accounting Standards

General

RWWA's financial statements for the year ended 31 July 2016 have been prepared in accordance with Australian Accounting Standards. The term 'Australian Accounting Standards' includes Standards and Interpretations issued by the Australian Accounting Standard Board (AASB).

RWWA has adopted any applicable, new and revised Australian Accounting Standards from their operative dates.

Early adoption of standards

RWWA cannot early adopt an Australian Accounting Standard unless specifically permitted by Treasurer's Instruction (TI) 1101 'Application of Australian Accounting Standards and Other Pronouncements'. There has been no early adoption of any other Australian Accounting Standards that have been issued or amended (but not operative) by RWWA for the annual reporting period ended 31 July 2016.

2 Summary of significant accounting policies

(a) General Statement

RWWA prepares general purpose financial statements in accordance with the Australian Accounting Standards, the Framework, Statements of Accounting Concepts and other authoritative pronouncements of the AASB as applied by the Treasurer's Instructions. Several of these are modified by the Treasurer's Instructions to vary application, disclosure, format and wording.

The Financial Management Act 2006 and the Treasurer's Instructions impose legislative provisions that govern the preparation of financial statements and take precedence over the Australian Accounting Standards, the Framework, Statements of Accounting Concepts and other authoritative pronouncements of the AASB.

Where modification is required and has had a material or significant financial effect upon the reported results, details of that modification and the resulting financial effect are disclosed in the notes to the financial statements.

(b) Basis of Preparation

The financial statements have been prepared on the accrual basis of accounting (except for Grant Income which is recognised on a cash basis) using the historical cost convention, except for land and building which have been measured at fair value.

The accounting policies adopted in the preparation of the financial statements have been consistently applied throughout all periods presented unless otherwise stated.

The financial statements are presented in Australian dollars and all values are rounded to the nearest thousand dollars ($'000).

Note 3 'Judgements made by management in applying accounting policies' discloses judgements that have been made in the process of applying RWWA's accounting policies resulting in the most significant effect on amounts recognised in the financial statements.

Note 4 'Key sources of estimation uncertainty' discloses key assumptions made concerning the future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty at the end of the reporting period, that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities within the next financial year.

(c) Reporting Entity

The reporting entity comprises Racing and Wagering Western Australia (RWWA).

(d) Contribution equity

AASB Interpretation 1038 Contributions by Owners Made to Wholly-Owned Public Sector Entities requires transfers in the nature of equity contributions, other than as a result of a restructure of administrative arrangements, to be designated by the Government (the owner) as contributions by owners (at the time of, or prior to transfer) before such transfers can be recognised as equity contributions. Capital appropriations have been designated as contributions by owners by TI 955 Contributions by Owners made to Wholly Owned Public Sector Entities and have been credited directly to Contributed Equity.

The transfers of net assets to/from other agencies, other than as a result of a restructure of administrative arrangements, are designated as contributions by owners where the transfers are non-discretionary and non-reciprocal.

(e) Income

Revenue Recognition

Revenue is recognised and measured at the fair value of consideration received or receivable.

Revenue is recognised for the major business activities as follows:

Betting Receipts

This represents bets taken net of monetary prizes and GST. Revenues are only recognised when the events to which they relate are finalised.

Interest

Interest income is accrued on a time basis by reference to the outstanding principal and the effective interest rate applicable.

Unclaimed Dividends

Betting dividends are deducted from turnover to arrive at the commission on turnover. In accordance with the RWWA Act 2003 (section 104), dividends that are not claimed within seven months are included as income under Other Revenue.

Gains

The gain or loss on the disposal of assets is recognised at the date the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the asset passes to the buyer, usually when the purchaser takes delivery of the asset. The gain or loss on disposal is calculated as the difference between the carrying amount of the asset at the time of disposal and the net proceeds on disposal.

Government Grants and Subsidies

The Western Australian Government provides partial reimbursement for GST paid on RWWA's margin.

Under the Gaming and Wagering Commission Act 1987 (section 110B), the Gaming and Wagering Commission may credit RWWA with the proceeds collected under the Western Australian Race Fields legislation. The Racing and Wagering Western Australia Act 2003 (section 107A) requires these funds to be credited into a special purpose account and distributed to registered racing clubs in Western Australia. Treasurer's Instruction 1102 requires these amounts to be disclosed as Grants from the State Government.

Royalties for Regions funds, as well as contributions received through the Racecourse Infrastructure Grants Program, are recognised as revenue at fair value in the period in which RWWA obtains control of the funds. RWWA obtains control of the funds at the time the funds are deposited into RWWA's bank account.

(f) Tax

Section 102 of the Racing and Wagering Western Australia Act 2003 requires RWWA to pay tax in respect of bets at the rate imposed by Sections 4 and 5 of the Racing and Wagering Western Australia Tax Act 2003.

State Wagering Tax

The tax rate for Parimutuel Sports betting is 5.0% of turnover, whereas the tax rate for Parimutuel Racing is 11.91% of gross revenue. The tax rate for Fixed Odds Betting (FOB) Sports is 0.5% of turnover and FOB Racing is 2.0% of turnover.

(g) Goods and Services Tax (GST)

Revenues, expenses and assets are recognised net of GST, except where the amount of the GST incurred is not recoverable from the Australian Taxation Office (ATO). In these circumstances, the GST is recognised as part of the cost of acquisition of the asset or as part of the expense.

The net amount of GST recoverable from, or payable to, the ATO is included as a current asset or liability in the Statement of Financial Position.

Cash flows are included in the Statement of Cash Flows on a gross basis. The GST components of cash flows arising from investing and financing activities which are recoverable from, or payable to, the ATO are classified as operating cash flows. The GST on operator's margin, which is reimbursed by the Western Australian Government, is classified as cash flows from State Government.

(h) Property, Plant and Equipment

Capitalisation/expensing of assets

Items of property, plant and equipment costing over $5,000 are recognised as assets and the cost of utilising assets is expensed (depreciated) over their useful lives. Items costing less than $5,000 are expensed direct to the Statement of Comprehensive Income (other than where they form part of a group of similar items which are significant in total).

Initial recognition and measurement

All items of property, plant and equipment are initially recognised at cost.

For items of property, plant and equipment acquired at no cost or for nominal cost, the cost is the fair value at the date of acquisition.

Subsequent measurement

Subsequent to initial recognition as an asset, the revaluation model is used for the measurement of land and buildings and the cost model for all other property, plant, equipment and infrastructure. Land and buildings are carried at fair value less accumulated depreciation (buildings only) and accumulated impairment losses. All other items of property, plant and equipment are carried at cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses.

Where market-based evidence is available, the fair value of land and buildings is determined on the basis of current market buying values determined by reference to recent market transactions. When buildings are revalued by reference to recent market transactions, the accumulated depreciation is eliminated against the gross carrying amount of the asset and the net amount restated to the revalued amount.

In the absence of market-based evidence, the fair value of land and buildings is determined on the basis of existing use. This normally applies where buildings are specialised or where land use is restricted. Fair value for existing use assets is determined by reference to the cost of replacing the remaining future economic benefits embodied in the asset i.e. the depreciated replacement cost. Where the fair value of buildings is determined on the depreciated replacement cost basis, the gross carrying amount and the accumulated depreciation are restated proportionately. Fair value for restricted use land is determined by comparison with market evidence for land with similar approximate utility (high restricted use land) or market value of comparable unrestricted land (low restricted use land).

Land and buildings are independently valued annually by the Western Australian Land Information Authority (Valuation Services) and recognised annually to ensure that the carrying amount does not differ materially from the assets fair value at the end of the reporting period.

Infrastructure is carried at historical cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment loss.

The most significant assumptions and judgements in estimating fair value are made in assessing whether to apply the existing use basis to assets and in determining estimated economic life. Professional judgement by the valuer is required where the evidence does not provide a clear distinction between market type assets and existing use assets.

Derecognition

Upon disposal or derecognition of an item of property, plant and equipment any revaluation relating to that asset is retained in the asset revaluation surplus.

Asset Revaluation Reserve

The asset revaluation reserve is used to record increments and decrements on the revaluation of non-current assets on a class of assets basis.

Depreciation

All non-current assets having a limited useful life are systematically depreciated over their estimated useful lives in a manner that reflects the consumption of their future economic benefits.

Depreciation is calculated using the straight line method, using rates which are reviewed annually. Estimated useful lives for each class of depreciable asset are:

|                                       | 2015/16        |
|---------------------------------------|----------------|
| Buildings                             | 10 to 40 years |
| Infrastructure                        | 10 years       |
| Leasehold Improvements <sup>(a)</sup> | 5 to 15 years  |
| Motor vehicles                        | 5 years        |
| Machinery, Plant and Equipment        | 5 years        |
| Furniture and Fittings                | 5 years        |
| Computer Equipment                    | 4 years        |
| Software <sup>(b)</sup>               | 2 to 15 years  |

(a) Leasehold Improvements useful life will depend on duration of lease.

(b) Software that is integral to the operation of related hardware.

Land is not depreciated.

(i) Intangible Assets

Capitalisation/Expensing of Assets

Acquisitions and internally generated intangible assets costing over $50,000 are capitalised. The cost of utilising the assets is expensed (amortised) over their useful life. Costs incurred of less than $50,000 are immediately expensed directly to the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

All acquired and internally developed intangible assets are initially measured at cost.

The cost model is applied for subsequent measurement requiring the asset to be carried at cost less any accumulated amortisation and accumulated impairment losses.

Amortisation for intangible assets with finite useful lives is calculated for the period of the expected benefit (estimated useful life which is reviewed annually) on the straight line basis using rates which are reviewed regularly. All intangible assets controlled by RWWA have a finite useful life and zero residual value.

The expected useful lives for each class of intangible asset are:

|                         |               |
|-------------------------|---------------|
| Software <sup>(a)</sup> | 2 to 15 years |
| Web site costs          | 3 to 5 years  |
| Domain names            | 10 years      |

(a) Software that is not integral to the operation of any related hardware.

Computer Software

Software that is an integral part of the related hardware is treated as property, plant and equipment. Software that is not an integral part of the related hardware is treated as an intangible asset.

Web Site Costs

Web site costs are charged as expenses when they are incurred unless they relate to the acquisition or development of an asset when they may be capitalised and amortised. Generally, costs in relation to feasibility studies during the planning phase of a web site, and ongoing costs of maintenance during the operating phase are expensed. Costs incurred in building or enhancing a web site, to the extent that they represent probable future economic benefits that can be reliably measured, are capitalised.

Domain Names

Domain names have a finite useful life and are carried at cost less accumulated amortisation and accumulated impairment losses.

(j) Impairment of Assets

Property, plant and equipment, infrastructure and intangible assets are tested for any indication of impairment at the end of each reporting period. Where there is an indication of impairment, the recoverable amount is estimated. Where the recoverable amount is less than the carrying amount, the asset is considered impaired and is written down to the recoverable amount and an impairment loss is recognised. Where an asset measured at cost is written down to its recoverable amount, an impairment loss is recognised in profit or loss. Where a previously revalued asset is written down to recoverable amount, the loss is recognised as a revaluation decrement in other comprehensive income.

The risk of impairment is generally limited to circumstances where an asset's depreciation is materially understated, where the replacement cost is falling or where there is a significant change in useful life. Each relevant class of assets is reviewed annually to verify that the accumulated depreciation/amortisation reflects the level of consumption or expiration of the asset's future economic benefits and to evaluate any impairment risk from falling replacement costs.

Intangible assets with an indefinite useful life and intangible assets not yet available for use are tested for impairment at the end of the reporting period irrespective of whether there is any indication of impairment.

The recoverable amount of assets identified as surplus assets is the higher of fair value less costs to sell and the present value of future cash flows expected to be derived from the asset. Surplus assets carried at fair value have no risk of material impairment where fair value is determined by reference to market-based evidence. Where fair value is determined by reference to depreciated replacement cost, surplus assets are at risk of impairment and the recoverable amount is measured. Surplus assets at cost are tested for indications of impairment at the end of each reporting period.

(k) Non-current Assets Classified as Held for Sale

Non-current assets held for sale are recognised at the lower of carrying amount and fair value less costs to sell, and are disclosed separately from other assets in the Statement of Financial Position. Assets classified as held for sale are not depreciated or amortised.

(l) Leases

RWWA holds a number of operating leases for buildings. Lease payments are expensed on a straight line basis over the lease term as this represents the pattern of benefits derived from the leased properties.

(m) Financial Instruments

In addition to cash, RWWA has two categories of financial instrument:

- Receivables
- Financial liabilities measured at amortised cost

These have been disaggregated into the following classes:

Financial Assets

- Cash and cash equivalents
- Restricted cash and cash equivalents
- Receivables
- Investments

Financial Liabilities

- Payables
- Agents Deposits

Initial recognition and measurement of financial instruments is at fair value which normally equates to the transaction cost or the face value. Subsequent measurement is at amortised cost using the effective interest method.

The fair value of short-term receivables and payables is the transaction cost or the face value because there is no interest rate applicable and subsequent measurement is not required as the effect of discounting is not material.

(n) Cash and Cash Equivalents

For the purpose of the Statement of Cash Flows, cash and cash equivalent (and restricted cash and cash equivalent) assets comprise cash on hand and short term deposits with original maturities of six months or less that are readily convertible to a known amount of cash and which are subject to insignificant risk of changes in value.

(o) Accrued Salaries

Accrued salaries represent the amount due to staff but unpaid at the end of the financial year. Accrued salaries are settled within a fortnight of the financial year end. RWWA considers the carrying amount of accrued salaries to be equivalent to its net fair value.

(p) Inventories

Inventories are measured at the lower of cost and net realisable value. The cost of inventories is based on the first-in first-out principle, and includes expenditure incurred in acquiring the inventories and bringing them to their existing location and condition.

Inventories not held for resale are valued at cost unless they are no longer required, in which case they are valued at net realisable value.

(q) Receivables

Receivables are recognised and carried at original invoice amount less an allowance for any uncollectible amounts (i.e. impairment). The collectability of receivables is reviewed on an ongoing basis and any receivables identified as uncollectible are written-off against the allowance account. The allowance for uncollectible amounts (doubtful debts) is raised when there is objective evidence that RWWA will not be able to collect its debts. The carrying amount is equivalent to fair value as it is due for settlement within 30 days. Agents settle on a weekly basis.

(r) Payables

Payables are recognised at the amounts payable when RWWA becomes obliged to make future payments as a result of a purchase of assets or services. The carrying amount is equivalent to fair value, as they are generally settled within 30 days.

(s) Provisions

Provisions are liabilities of uncertain timing and amount and are recognised where there is a present legal or constructive obligation as a result of a past event and when the outflow of resources embodying economic benefits is probable and a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation. Provisions are reviewed at the end of each reporting period.

(i) Provisions – Employee Benefits

All annual leave and long service leave provisions are in respect of employees' services up to the end of the reporting period.

Annual Leave

Annual leave is not expected to be settled wholly within 12 months after the end of the reporting period and is therefore considered to be 'other long-term employee benefits'. The annual leave liability is recognised and measured at the present value of amounts expected to be paid when the liabilities are settled using the remuneration rate expected to apply at the time of settlement.

When assessing expected future payments consideration is given to expected future wage and salary levels including non-salary components such as employer superannuation contributions as well as the experience of employee departures and periods of service. The expected future payments are discounted to present value using market yields at the end of the reporting period on national government bonds with terms to maturity that match, as closely as possible, the estimated future cash outflows.

The provision for annual leave is classified as current liability as RWWA does not have an unconditional right to defer settlement of the liability for at least 12 months after the reporting period.

Long Service Leave

A liability for long service leave is recognised after an employee has completed two years of service based on remuneration rates current as at the end of the reporting period.

When assessing expected future payments consideration is given to expected future wage and salary levels including non-salary components such as employer superannuation contributions, as well as the experience of employee departures and periods of service. The expected future payments are discounted to present value using market yields at the end of the reporting period on national government bonds with terms to maturity that match, as closely as possible, the estimated future cash outflows.

Unconditional long service leave provisions are classified as current liabilities as RWWA does not have an unconditional right to defer settlement of the liability for at least 12 months after the end of the reporting period. Pre-conditional and conditional long service leave provisions are classified as non-current liabilities because RWWA has an unconditional right to defer the settlement of the liability until the employee has completed the requisite years of service.

Superannuation

The Government Employees Superannuation Board (GESB) and other fund providers administer public sector superannuation arrangements in Western Australia in accordance with legislative requirements. Eligibility criteria for membership in particular schemes for public sector employees varies according to commencement and implementation date.

Employees may contribute to the Gold State Superannuation Scheme (GSS), a defined benefit lump sum scheme now closed to new members. Employees commencing employment prior to 16 April 2007, who were not members of GSS, became non-contributory members of the West State Superannuation Scheme (WSS).

Employees commencing employment on or after 16 April 2007 became members of the GESB Super Scheme (GESBS). From 30 March 2012, existing members of WSS or GESBS and new employees became able to choose their preferred superannuation fund provider. RWWA makes contributions to GESB or other fund providers on behalf of employees in compliance with the Commonwealth Government's Superannuation Guarantee (Administration) Act 1992. Contributions to these accumulation schemes extinguish RWWA's liability for superannuation charges in respect of employees who are not members of the Pension Scheme or GSS.

The GSS Scheme, the WSS Scheme, and the GESBS, where the current service superannuation charge is paid by RWWA to the GESB, are defined contribution schemes. The liabilities for current service superannuation charges under the GSS, the WSS, and the GESBS are extinguished by the concurrent payment of employer contributions to the GESB.

The GSS is a defined benefit scheme for the purposes of employees and whole-of-government reporting. However, from an agency perspective, apart from the transfer benefits, it is a defined contribution plan under AASB 119.

(ii) Provisions – Other

Employment on-costs

Employment on-costs, including workers compensation insurance, are not employee benefits and are recognised separately as liabilities and expenses when the employment to which they relate has occurred. Employment on-costs are included as part of 'Other expenses' and are not included as part of RWWA's 'Employee benefits expense'. The related liability is included in 'Employment on-costs provision.'

(t) Superannuation Expense

Superannuation expense is recognised in the Statement of Comprehensive Income in profit or loss for defined contribution plans, including the concurrent payment of employer contributions to the GSS scheme, as and when the contribution falls due.

(u) Comparative Figures

Comparative figures are, where appropriate, reclassified to be comparable with the figures presented in the current financial year.

3 Judgements made by management in applying accounting policies

The preparation of financial statements requires management to make judgements about the application of accounting policies that have a significant effect on the amounts recognised in the financial statements. RWWA evaluates these judgements regularly.

Operating lease commitments

RWWA has entered into a number of leases for buildings for branch office accommodation. Some of these leases relate to buildings of a temporary nature and it has been determined that the lessor retains substantially all the risks and rewards incidental to ownership. Accordingly, these leases have been classified as operating leases.

4 Key sources of estimation uncertainty

Key estimates and assumptions concerning the future are based on historical experience and various other factors that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amount of assets and liabilities within the next financial year.

Long Service Leave

Several estimations and assumptions used in calculating RWWA's long service leave provision include expected future salary rates, discount rates, employee retention rates and expected future payments. Changes in these estimations and assumptions may impact on the carrying amount of the long service leave provision.

5 Disclosure of changes in accounting policy and estimates

Initial application of an Australian Accounting Standard

RWWA has applied the following Australian Accounting Standards effective, or adopted, for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 August 2015 that impacted on RWWA:

AASB 2013-9

Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Conceptual Framework, Materiality and Financial Instruments

Part C of this Standard defers the application of AASB 9 to 1 January 2017. The application date of AASB 9 was subsequently deferred to 1 January 2018 by AASB 2014-1. There is no financial impact.

AASB 2014-8

Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from AASB 9 (December 2014) – Application of AASB 9 (December 2009) and AASB 9 (December 2010) [AASB 9 (2009 & 2010)]

This Standard makes amendments to AASB 9 Financial Instruments (December 2009) and AASB 9 Financial Instruments (December 2010), arising from the issuance of AASB 9 Financial Instruments in December 2014. There is no financial impact.

AASB 2015-3

Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from the Withdrawal of AASB 1031
Materiality

This Standard completes the withdrawal of references to AASB 1031 in all Australian Accounting Standards and Interpretations, allowing that Standard to effectively be withdrawn. There is no financial impact.

AASB 2015-7

Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Fair Value Disclosures of Not-for-Profit Public Sector Entities

However, RWWA cannot apply this standard as the land and buildings are held primarily for generating future net cash inflow. There is no financial impact.

Future impact of Australian Accounting Standards not yet operative

RWWA cannot early adopt an Australian Accounting Standard unless specifically permitted by TI 1101 'Applications of Australian Accounting Standards and Other Pronouncements'. Where applicable, RWWA plans to apply the following Australian Accounting Standards from their application date:

| Title  | Operative for reporting periods beginning on/after |
|--|--|
| AASB 9 Financial Instruments This Standard supersedes AASB 139 Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement, introducing a number of changes to accounting treatments. The mandatory application date of this Standard is currently 1 January 2018 after being amended by AASB 2012-6, AASB 2013-9, and AASB 2014-1 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards. RWWA has not yet determined the application or the potential impact of the Standard. | 1 Jan 2018   |
| AASB 15 Revenue from Contracts with Customers This Standard establishes the principles that RWWA shall apply to report useful information to users of financial statements about the nature, amount, timing and uncertainty of revenue and cash flows arising from a contract with a customer. RWWA has not yet determined the application or the potential impact of the Standard.  | 1 Jan 2018   |
| AASB 16 Leases This Standard introduces a single lessee accounting model and requires a lessee to recognise assets and liabilities for all leases with a term of more than 12 months, unless the underlying asset is of low value. RWWA has not yet determined the application or the potential impact of the Standard.  | 1 Jan 2019   |
| AASB 1057 Application of Australian Accounting Standards This Standard lists the application paragraphs for each other Standard (and Interpretation), grouped where they are the same. There is no financial impact.   | 1 Jan 2016   |

Valuation techniques to derive Level 2 fair values

Level 2 fair values of Non-Current assets held for sale, Land and Buildings are derived using the market approach. Market evidence of sales prices of comparable land and buildings in close proximity is used to determine price per square metre.

Non-Current assets held for sale have been written down to fair value less costs to sell. Fair value has been determined by reference to market evidence of sales prices and comparable assets.

There were no changes in valuation techniques during the period.

Valuation Processes

Transfers in and out of a fair value level are recognised on the date of the event or change in circumstances that caused the transfer. Transfers are generally limited to assets newly classified as non-current assets held for sale as Treasurer's Instructions require valuations of land and buildings to be categorised within Level 3 where the valuations will utilise significant Level 3 inputs on a recurring basis.

Land (Level 3 fair values)

Fair value for restricted use land is based on comparison with market evidence for land with low level utility (high restricted use land). The relevant comparators of land with low level utility is selected by the Western Australian Land Information Authority (Valuation Services) and represents the application of a significant Level 3 input in this valuation methodology. The fair value measurement is sensitive to values of comparator land, with higher values of comparator land correlating with higher estimated fair values of land.

Buildings and Infrastructure (Level 3 fair values)

Fair value for existing use specialised buildings assets is determined by reference to the cost of replacing the remaining future economic benefits embodied in the asset, i.e. the depreciated replacement cost. Depreciated replacement cost is the current replacement cost of an asset less accumulated depreciation calculated on the basis of such cost to reflect the already consumed or expired economic benefit, or obsolescence, and optimisation (where applicable) of the asset. Current replacement cost is generally determined by reference to the market observable replacement cost of a substitute asset of comparable utility and the gross project size specifications.

Valuation using depreciated replacement cost utilises the significant Level 3 input, consumed economic benefit/obsolescence of asset which is estimated by the Western Australian Land Information Authority (Valuation Services). The fair value measurement is sensitive to the estimate of consumption/obsolescence, with higher values of the estimate correlating with lower estimated fair values of buildings.

Basis of Valuation

In the absence of market-based evidence, due to the specialised nature of some non-financial assets, these assets are valued at Level 3 of the fair value hierarchy on an existing use basis. The existing use basis recognises that restrictions or limitations have been placed on their use and disposal when they are not determined to be surplus to requirements. These restrictions are imposed by virtue of the assets being held to deliver a specific community service.

Significant Level 3 inputs used by RWWA are derived and evaluated as follows:

Consumed economic benefit/obsolescence of asset

These are estimated by the Western Australian Land Information Authority (Valuation Services).

Selection of land with restricted utility

Fair value for restricted use land is determined by comparison with market evidence for land with low level utility. Relevant comparators of land with low level utility are selected by the Western Australian Land Information Authority (Valuation Services)

For the year ended 31 July 2016

|-------|-------|

30 Financial Instruments

(a) Financial Risk Management objectives and policies

Financial Instruments held by RWWA are cash and cash equivalents, receivables, payables and agent deposits.

RWWA has limited exposure to financial risks. RWWA's overall risk management program focuses on managing the risks identified below.

Credit Risk

Credit risk arises when there is the possibility of RWWA's receivables defaulting on their contractual obligations resulting in financial loss to RWWA. The majority of the authority's trading with customers is conducted on a cash basis. In addition, receivable balances are monitored on an ongoing basis with the result that RWWA's exposure to bad debts is minimal. At the end of the reporting period there were no significant concentrations of credit risk.

The maximum exposure to credit risk at the end of the reporting period in relation to each class of recognised financial assets is the gross carrying amount of those assets inclusive of any provisions for impairment.

Liquidity Risk

Liquidity risk arises when RWWA is unable to meet its financial obligations as they fall due. RWWA is exposed to liquidity risk through its trading in the normal course of business. RWWA has appropriate procedures to manage cash flows by monitoring forecast cash flows to ensure that sufficient funds are available to meet its commitments.

Market Risk

Market risk is the risk that changes in market prices such as foreign exchange rates and interest rates will affect RWWA's income or the value of its holdings of financial instruments. RWWA does not trade in foreign currency and is not materially exposed to other price risks. The Authority has no such exposure.

RWWA has limited exposure to foreign currency risk on purchases that are denominated in a currency other than Australian dollars.

Other than as detailed in the interest rate sensitivity analysis table, RWWA's exposure to interest rate risk is limited because it does not have any borrowings.

(b) Categories of Financial Instruments

Comment

- (1) Margin decreased against last year primarily due to the impact of the adverse economic environment on RWWA's business activities.
- (2) Interest revenue decreased due to a drop in the average interest rate to 2.57% compared to 2.85% last year.
- (3) The increased cost of sales results from a full year impact of the calculation methodology introduced in October 2014 for WA Product fees and an increase in product fee rates with new agreements in place.
- (4) The increase in Racing Services costs in 2016 is mainly due to an expansion of the Racing, Marketing & Communication activity including establishment costs of "Greyhounds as Pets" program.
- (5) The increase in Support Services costs in 2016 is due to a switch from large capitalised projects to smaller incremental enhancements to products and systems that are not capitalised due to being below the capitalisation threshold.
- (6) The decrease in Grants and subsidies from the prior financial year is primarily due to a one off grant towards the new Cannington greyhound track of $10.2M in 2015.
- (7) Consistent with previous years, RWWA Distribution Policy for 2016 allowed for an increase in funding over 2015, with the aim of keeping distribution increases at sustainable levels.

CHAPTER 3 / DISCLOSURES & LEGAL COMPLIANCE

KEY PERFORMANCE INDICATORS

For the year ended 31 July 2016

Outcome: To provide an efficient, competitive and responsible betting service for Western Australia.

| Effectiveness Indicators            | Description   |       | 2016 Actual | 2016 Target | 2015 Actual | 2014 Actual | Result   |
|-------------------------------------|---|-------|-------------|-------------|-------------|-------------|--|
| Primary Betting System availability | The availability of the betting system is paramount to the TAB's ability to generate revenue. The high availability target reflects the importance RWWA places on this. A service that is reliable is necessary for the TABs to attract and retain customers. | %     | 99.99       | 99.96       | 99.94       | 99.98       | The availability of the betting system during the year is above RWWA's target and prior year ratios. |
| Staff (FTE)                         | With staff employee benefits expense being one of the largest cost categories at RWWA, managing the FTE levels is an important part of ensuring an efficient competitive business.  | No.   | 366         | 365         | 364         | 362         | The number of FTE at the end of 2015/16 is broadly in line with the previous year.                   |
| Number of Bets Processed            | The number of bets processed is an indicator of the TAB's competitiveness in the wagering and gambling marketplace.   | 000's | 197,954     | 202,844     | 190,679     | 180,819     | The number of bets for 2016 shows a 3.7% increase on 2015.   |

| Profit per employee   | Profit per employee, like margin per employee, is a measure of the efficiency of the business in delivering wagering revenue and also providing racing and integrity services to the industry. | $000 | 360         |             | 376         | 369         | Profit per employee is slightly down compared to last year due to decrease in operating profits before distributions to industry. The reduction in operating profit is due to the impact of adverse economic conditions on RWWA's business activities. |
| Return on assets (Operating profit as a percentage of total assets) | Return on assets (ROA) is a widely accepted indicator of the efficiency in the use of assets.  | %     | 77.2        | 87.0        | 74.9        | 75.9        | ROA is lower than target because the operating profit before distribution to industry for 2016 is lower than target and total assets for 2016 are $6.8M higher than target. However the current year result is an improvement on 2015.                |

Outcome: To achieve optimum level of funding to the racing industry and for sports.

|---|--|---------------------------------|----------------|----------------|----------------|----------------|--|
| Distribution to Industry                  | RWWA's primary purpose is to provide a sustainable future for the West Australian Racing industry, achieved by maintaining the optimum level of funding for the racing industry. | $000% Change on prior year | 140,1577.3 | 137,9675.4 | 131,0335.5 | 124,2055.6 | As per previous years, RWWA Distribution Policy for 2015/16 allowed for an increase in funding over 2014/15, with the aim of keeping distribution increases at sustainable levels.   |
| Grants to Industry (RWWA Funded)          | Grants to industry are essential to provide the safest possible racing environment and ensure the integrity of the racing product.   | $000                           | 9,112          | 5,779          | 13,655         | 9,494          | Reduction from the prior financial year is primarily due to a one off grant for Cannington Greyhound track of $10.2M in 2014/15. Increase on target is due to a change in priorities, scope and timing of known projects which resulted in an increase in the grant payments during the year. |
| Grants to Industry (WA Government Funded) |  | $000                           | 1,284          | 4,200          | 3,621          | 3,617          | Not all funding budgeted for the financial year was distributed to clubs during 2015/16. These amounts will be distributed during 2016/17. The decrease compared to last year was due to no Royalty for Regions funding received in the current year.  |

| Margin   | Margin is an important indicator of the capacity of RWWA to fund the racing industry and sports.   | $000 | 330,169     |             | 335,685     | 339,474     | Margin decreased compared to last year primarily due to the impact of adverse economic conditions on RWWA's business activities. |
| Operating Profit excluding the profit/loss from sale of assets before distribution to codes. | Operating Profit excluding the profit/loss from sale of assets before distribution to codes highlights the amount of revenue that has been generated for distribution to the Racing clubs. | $000 | 131,815     |             | 136,933     | 133,464     | The decrease on last year is a result of the reduction in margin alluded to above.   |

KEY PERFORMANCE INDICATORS

| % of Winners Swabbed / Returned Negative                            | A key component in maintaining the integrity of the racing industry is an efficient and effective drug testing regime and the "% of winners swabbed / returned negative" is a key indicator of the drug testing regime impact on the industry.  | Thoroughbreds % | 99.7        |             | 99.6        | 99.8        | The result is consistent with previous years.   |

| Annual Growth in TAB Turnover on WA racing                          | The TAB accepts bets on racing and sports product from WA, the Eastern States, and International Jurisdictions. The growth in TAB turnover on WA Racing is an indicator that the WA product is seen as an attractive proposition, demonstrating a quality product, with high levels of integrity. | %               | (6.91)      |             | (4.71)      | 1.45        | The negative growth in TAB turnover on WA product for 2015/16 is attributable to the adverse economic environment prevailing in WA presently. It was also due to the closure of Cannington greyhound racetrack during the year for redevelopment. |

| Racing and Steward expenses per WA race meeting | The racing and stewarding functions performed by RWWA are paramount to both the development and integrity of the racing industry. In delivering these functions, RWWA ensures that the cost of delivery is kept under control, and the cost per meeting is an important indicator of how well RWWA is at controlling the cost of delivery. | $000                  | 23.50       | 26.00       | 21.10       | 19.08       | There was an expansion of the Racing and Stewarding functions during 2015/16 in the areas of Animal Welfare and Racing Marketing. The additional costs have been reflected both in the increase in the 2016 target, and the 2016 actual result. |

EMPLOYMENT AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

Staff Profile

As at the end of the reporting year the number of people employed at RWWA was 512 (525 in 2015). ##### Industrial Relations

Within the reporting period, negotiations were successfully undertaken with all RWWA employees to develop new enterprise agreements. The RWWA TAB Radio Agreement 2015 was approved in October 2015 and the RWWA General Staff Agreement 2015 was approved in March 2016 with any resulting changes implemented shortly after the respective approvals. These agreements will both expire in 2018.

Racing Industry Safety, Health and Injury Management

RWWA has continued to provide vital leadership to the Western Australian racing industry on the legal requirements governing the management of workplace safety, health and wellbeing within horse racing and training environments. The improvement of racing industry safety, health and injury management standards has continued over the past twelve months with focused effort directed toward lifting OSH compliance levels at licensed clubs across the three racing codes. This is in addition to improving general awareness of the legal safety and health obligations placed onto all racing industry stakeholders including club committees, staff, volunteers, trainers and associated racing industry personnel. This focused effort will continue throughout the 2016/17 financial year in anticipation of the new Work Health and Safety Act and Regulations being introduced by the State Government in 2017 (after the state election in March).

To ensure that racing industry stakeholders are suitably informed and equipped to respond to changes in safety, health and injury management legislation, RWWA will continue to prioritise dedicated resourcing in this area. The work to be completed will include ongoing risk identification, assessment and control activities, delivery of training to industry stakeholders and the ongoing development of race club health and safety management systems.

During 2016/17 the focus will be on identifying key improvement areas at the operational level and streamlining the safety, health and injury management process aimed at reducing the workload that has to be completed by race club representatives in the OSH area. Race club OSH compliance standards have been structured to ensure that they can be reached and maintained by racing industry stakeholders. As with previous years, RWWA will continue to conduct formal OSH audits and infrastructure inspections at race and training clubs across Western Australia. The purpose of the audit process is to ensure that race club committees and their staff/volunteers are maintaining acceptable safety, health and injury management standards whilst seeking to address key improvement areas as identified by the RWWA OSH Advisor. The ultimate goal is to ensure that club committees and their staff can provide safe venues for all future race meetings and industry training activities.

CHAPTER 3 / DISCLOSURES & LEGAL COMPLIANCE

GOVERNANCE DISCLOSURES

CONTRACTS WITH SENIOR OFFICERS

At the date of reporting, other than contracts of employment or Directorship appointment, no Senior Officers (Directors and Executives) or firms of which Senior Officers are members or entities in which Senior Officers have substantial interests had any interests in existing or proposed contracts with RWWA.

However, it is noted that some Senior Officers own (in full and/or part) racehorses and/or greyhounds that participate in racing within Western Australia.

INSURANCE PREMIUMS PAID TO INDEMNIFY MEMBERS OF THE BOARD

An insurance policy was undertaken to indemnify members of the Board against any liability incurred under sections 13 or 14 of the Statutory Corporations (Liabilities of Directors) Act 1996. The amount of the insurance premium paid for 2016 was $15,345.

UNAUTHORISED USE OF CREDIT CARDS

Officers of RWWA hold corporate credit cards where their functions warrant usage of this facility. Despite each cardholder being reminded of their obligations under RWWA's credit card policy, 6 employees inadvertently utilised their corporate credit card for personal use. The matters were not referred for disciplinary action as the Chief Finance Officer noted prompt advice and settlement of the personal use amount and, that the nature of the expenditure was immaterial and characteristic of an honest mistake.

RWWA'S CORPORATE GOVERNANCE PRINCIPLES

RWWA's Board strongly supports the principles of Corporate Governance and is committed to maintaining the highest standards within the organisation. This is particularly important given that RWWA has to balance commercial decisions with the welfare and integrity of the racing industry within a heavily regulated environment. This is to ensure that RWWA and the racing industry remain viable and sustainable into the future.

BOARD POWERS, STRUCTURE, COMPOSITION AND MEMBERSHIP

The management of the business and affairs of RWWA is under the direction of the RWWA Board. RWWA Act 2003 gives RWWA broad powers in relation to the management of its affairs and also in the management and regulation of the Western Australian Racing Industry.

Whilst the Gaming and Wagering Commission of Western Australia regulates RWWA's commercial wagering activities, RWWA's Board is not subject to government direction. Part 2, Division 2 of RWWA Act 2003 describes how the Board is to be structured, its composition and membership.

The Board comprises:

- One chairperson appointed by the Minister responsible for RWWA;
- Four members selected for their expertise in management, finance, business, commerce or information technology, one of which has knowledge of and experience in regional development; and
- Three members representing each of the racing codes, comprising one representative from each code.

Boardroom Conduct and Relationships

The roles and delegated authorities of the Board, Board Committees, Chairperson, CEO and Executive Members are clearly defined and understood within RWWA.

Key roles of the Board include:

- Strategy – set goals and objectives for the organisation and the racing industry and provide strategic direction and planning;
- Policies and procedures – determine the organisation’s and industry’s policies and priorities;
- Leadership and selection – appoint the Chief Executive Officer;
- Monitor performance – monitor the performance of the organisation and management in achieving its goals;
- Financial performance – oversee the allocation of the organisation’s finances and resources;
- Risk management – understand the major risks involved in the organisation’s operations;
- Relationship with the Minister, regulators and other key stakeholders – create a regular flow of information to and from the Board, public, employees and industry stakeholders to contribute to the marketing and maintenance of RWWA’s good reputation; and
- Social responsibility – consider the social, environmental, financial and ethical impact on RWWA’s stakeholders and the community when making decisions.

Regulatory Disclosure and Stakeholders Communications

A Board Member who has a notifiable interest in matters involving RWWA must conform to the following:

- Disclose this interest to the Board;
- Not vote on the matter; and
- Must not be present while the matter or resolution is being considered at the meeting.

However, if the Board has passed a resolution that specifies the Board Member, the interest or the matter, and the other Board Members voting for the resolution are satisfied, the interest should not disqualify the Board Member from considering or voting on the matter (Sections 18 & 19, Schedule 1, clause 8(1) of the RWWA Act 2003).

RWWA complies with the requirements of disclosure as required by RWWA Act 2003, Financial Management Act 2006 and applicable Australian Accounting Standards.

RWWA maintains regular communications with its stakeholders through:

- Racing Industry Consultative Groups;
- TAB Agents Advisory Council;
- Meetings with the Minister responsible for RWWA; and
- Communications with employees.

Robust Management and Compliance Processes

RWWA has a sound system of risk management, compliance and internal control. RWWA is responsible for ensuring that high standards of risk management and compliance are maintained. This is monitored by the Board’s Integrity Assurance Committee, Audit and Risk Committee, as well as risk management, compliance, internal audit and stewards functions operating within the organisation. RWWA is committed to complying with all legislative requirements, including but not limited to OSH and Equal Opportunity requirements.

CHAPTER 3 / DISCLOSURES & LEGAL COMPLIANCE

Ethical Decision Making

RWWA considers the social, environmental, financial and ethical impact on RWWA's stakeholders and the community when making decisions.

RWWA has developed a Responsible Wagering Policy to guide Board members, employees, TAB agents and race clubs in the responsible provision of wagering services and to ensure that RWWA provides its customers with the highest standard of customer care.

Strategy, Planning and Monitoring

To fulfill RWWA's Purpose, an annual Statement of Corporate Intent and a Strategic Development Plan (longer term plan) is developed that documents the plans, direction and vision for RWWA and the Racing Industry.

The Board monitors and evaluates the progress of implementing the Strategic and Business Plans of RWWA.

Encouraged Enhanced Performance

Annual Budgets and Business Plans are developed to meet the targets set in the Statement of Corporate Intent and the Strategic Development Plan and these are linked into RWWA's Performance Management System.

Sustainability

RWWA considers sustainability an important issue, not only for the organisation but also for the Western Australian Racing Industry. RWWA believes that sustainability concentrates on providing a sustainable future focusing on economic, environmental and social elements.

Key Initiatives include:

- Continuous OSH audits of all race clubs;
- Responsible Wagering Programme and Code of Conduct;
- Equity and diversity within the workplace; and
- Ensuring the financial viability of the Western Australian Racing Industry through financial practices.

RWWA is committed to improving its sustainability practices and principles.

RECORD KEEPING

In accordance with Section 61 of State Records Act 2000, RWWA provides the following information in support of compliance with the State Records Commission's Standard 2 (Principle 6).

To maintain accurate records a schedule is in place to conduct testing of records integrity on an ongoing basis. This schedule was used during 2015/16 for checks of records held at offsite storage, on RWWA's intra-web and on central databases. The process includes cross referencing of information recorded on the intra-web with permanent and temporary records archived both onsite and offsite.

CHAPTER 3 / DISCLOSURES & LEGAL COMPLIANCE

GOVERNMENT POLICY REQUIREMENTS

OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH

In accordance with Western Australian Occupational Safety and Health (OSH) legislation, the RWWA Board and executive team are committed to providing a safe and healthy working environment for all staff, contractors and visitors to the organisation. The RWWA OSH Policy and associated procedures seek to promote the proactive management of workplace safety, health and wellbeing throughout all levels of the organisation by setting measurable key performance indicators that are tracked over a twelve month period. The key performance indicators have been identified in an effort to control high risk work activities and minimise risk exposure whilst improving the standard of OSH management throughout RWWA and the wider racing industry.

As the primary resource, the RWWA OSH Advisor is tasked with continuing to develop the internal OSH management standards within the organisation in addition to ensuring that the RWWA OSH Committee continues to meet regularly and act as an additional means of internal communication and consultation on OSH matters. During 2016/17, there will be an increased focus on addressing the OSH risks faced by RWWA staff, contractors and visitors at the two Industry Training Centres and throughout the TAB agency network. This is in addition to further expanding available OSH training via the OnTRACK training program where certain roles or job types at RWWA will be required to complete mandatory safety and health training modules as identified by the training and development team.

Recent improvements to the RWWA OSH management system, including updated safe work procedures, workplace inspection records and the development of a new online hazard and incident report process, have sought to maintain legislative compliance with the Western Australian Occupational Safety and Health Act 1984 and Regulations 1996. The RWWA OSH management system also seeks to maintain compliance with the Workers Compensation and Injury Management Act 1981 via the management of all workers compensation claims, including the completion of return to work plans and the provision of vocational rehabilitation as and when required. Regular workers compensation claim reviews involving representatives from RWWA and the insurer RiskCover will continue during 2016/17 to ensure that active claims are being appropriately managed and finalised in an appropriate time frame.

Industry group backs TAB sale

The group formed to represent the interests of the racing industry has given both sides of WA politics an effective green light to proceed with privatisation of the TAB.

WA Racing Response Group chairman and leading trainer Michael Grant said yesterday that he had told the Government and Labor that the industry believed the TAB should be sold.

Industry group backs TAB sale - The West Australian

This was as long as there were guarantees the industry would be no worse off under a private owner, that there was a fund set aside for infrastructure investment and that governance issues were resolved.

Mr Grant, who presided over a $300,000 industry needs report funded by the Government, said he had delivered the message to the Government two months ago and to Labor this week.

"The industry has said, 'Get on with it,'" he said. "We've absolutely given them a green light to go ahead and do it.

"If it had been handled commercially instead of politically, it would have been done and dusted by now."

The comments come after Racing and Wagering WA, the government agency that operates the TAB, warned its viability was being undermined by uncertainty over privatisation.

With just one week left of parliamentary sittings before the March State election, it is unlikely a sale can be progressed before the second half of next year.

Shadow racing and gaming minister Mick Murray, who met Mr Grant this week, said Labor's position remained that it would sell the TAB only if it had the support of the entire racing industry.

"We will take our position as is to the election and certainly have further talks on where the industry as a whole wants to go," he said.

"That's important, because there's still some groups that don't agree with where Michael Grant's group is going."

Asked to clarify his position, Premier Colin Barnett said he had long held the view the State should not own the TAB and he believed the racing industry now shared his view.

"I am hopeful the Nationals and racing industry will join with the Liberal Party on an agreed position to sell the TAB," he said.

"Once that is agreed, legislation will be brought to the Parliament to progress the sale."

SUMMARY

---

ACTTAB was an ACT Government betting agency that provided totalisator, betting and wagering services in the ACT. It had two voting shareholders, the Chief Minister and the Deputy Chief Minister, and an independent Board.

In October 2014 ACTTAB was sold to Tabcorp and continues to provide totalisator, betting and wagering services under these new arrangements.

On 17 June 2014, the Select Committee on Estimates 2014-15 made a recommendation in relation to the sale of ACTTAB:

The Committee recommends that the Legislative Assembly refer the sale process of ACTTAB Ltd to the ACT Auditor-General to consider a review of the sale.

In September 2014 the Auditor-General decided to conduct a performance audit on the sale of ACTTAB.

Overall conclusion

The sale of ACTTAB successfully realised $105.5 million for the Territory. This far exceeded expectations. The sale was undertaken in a timely manner. Tabcorp was selected as the successful purchaser with the appropriate experience, capacity and integrity to operate a wagering business. In this regard the Bid stage (Stage 2 of the sale process), involving two potential purchasers, was effectively undertaken.

The local racing industry was not negatively affected by the sale and the welfare of ACTTAB employees was considered as part of the sale process.

Although a successful sale was achieved, the high standard of probity that would be expected for such a complex, large and high risk sale is not evident. There is a lack of transparency due to poor documentation. Some processes were inadequate, including there being no finalised risk plan and the one that was produced being developed too late to influence processes.

At the Expression of Interest stage (Stage 1 of the sale process), involving five interested parties, there were inadequacies due to the poor quality, and the inadequate assessment, of some evaluation criteria. Correcting these and the other inadequacies, although important in terms of probity, may not have changed the result. However, the inadequacies could have been relatively easily avoided.

Conclusions

PREPARING FOR THE SALE

The extensive governance arrangements in place and a number of subject matter experts involved are strengths of the sale process. However, there is a lack of documentation in relation to the conduct of the overall sale process, including a finalised risk management plan and an evaluation plan for the sale. These are significant inadequacies, for such a complex, large and high risk sale.

One person undertook the Probity Advisor role and also provided legal advice. This by its nature presents a risk, which given the characteristics of the sale, would have been prudent to avoid.

THE SALE PROCESS

The sale process was inadequate at the expression of interest stage due to the use of poorly constructed evaluation criteria and an inappropriate assessment of some evaluation criteria, including the use of information that was not submitted by potential purchasers in response to the criteria.

SALE RESULTS

The sale was successful as it met the five Sale Objectives set out in the November 2013 resolution of the ACT Legislative Assembly:

- achieve a fair and reasonable price;
- ensure local racing industry is not negatively affected;
- achieve a timely sale;
- ensure the successful party has appropriate experience, capacity and integrity to operate a wagering business; and
- ensure employee welfare is considered.

Key findings

PREPARING FOR THE SALE

Paragraph

PwC's ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013) recommended the sale of 100 percent of ACTTAB shares through a trade sale (i.e. a business to business sale). The report identified an indicative value range for the sale of $35.6 million to $47.6 million.

2.2

The nature of the sale, i.e. what was being sold by the Territory, whether it was ACTTAB shares or its main undertakings, was at the discretion of the interested parties themselves as this was deemed to be the best means of maximising the sale price.

It would have been prudent to structure and manage the sale of ACTTAB with regard to the requirements of the Government Procurement Act 2001 until it was clear that the Act did not apply (i.e. only assets were being sold and not shares). The Audit Office was advised by Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate that 'the sale was conducted on the basis of legal advice (albeit only verbal advice) received before the sale commenced indicating that the Procurement Act was not applicable regardless of whether it was a share sale or an asset sale.' The Sale Project Team relied on the legal advice that the sale was not subject to the Government Procurement Act 2001. 2.16

The sale of ACTTAB is considered to be a joint Territory and ACTTAB sale, which for all practical purposes means it would be appropriate to treat it as a 'Government sale'. 2.18

The approach adopted of an open competitive process, using expressions of interest from the broader community to shortlist and identifying interested parties' preference for an asset or a share sale for the sale was an acceptable process for implementing the Sale Objectives 2.25

The sale of ACTTAB is regarded as high risk, when compared against risk indicators identified in the Australian National Audit Office (ANAO) Fairness and Transparency in Purchasing Decisions Better Practice Guide (2007). This assessment was confirmed in interviews with Sale Project Team members. 2.29

The structure of the governance arrangements for the sale of ACTTAB, including the Steering Committee and Sale Project Team, were appropriate. 2.43

The draft procurement risk register (May 2014) developed for the sale of ACTTAB had very limited coverage of process risks. A more comprehensive risk assessment would have facilitated identification and treatment of a broader range of risks. 2.52

The sale of ACTTAB was a high risk procurement for which there was no finalised or approved procurement risk register. The draft procurement risk register that was prepared was inadequate and presented late in the process to the Sale Project Team. Accordingly, there was an absence of an adequate risk management framework. 2.54

Documentation of the processes used for the sale of ACTTAB was inadequate and did not meet accountability and transparency requirements for procurement commensurate with the size, complexity and risk of such a sale. Importantly, there was a lack of documented sign off or advice from the Probity Advisor following the completion of key stages of the sale process, including the finalisation of the sale. 2.84

Paragraph

An open approach to the market was taken, whereby any interested party responding to the advertisement of the sale received a Request for Expression of Interest. The open approach to the market was initially flagged as being preferred by the Treasurer in the debate of the resolution for the sale of ACTTAB in the Legislative Assembly in November 2013.

3.10

A Request for Expression of Interest was sent out to interested parties that responded to the newspaper advertisements from 3 February 2014 onwards. Expressions of interest were required to be submitted by no later than 5:00 pm on 14 February 2014.

3.15

The Request for Expression of Interest sent to interested parties contained all relevant information requirements and was structured appropriately to allow for them to respond.

3.18

No evaluation plan(s) were prepared for the sale of ACTTAB.

3.28

The evaluation criteria in the Request for Expression of Interest did not align with the Sale Objectives, as identified in the ACT Legislative Assembly resolution in November 2013. It would have been straightforward to directly align the evaluation criteria in the Request for Expression of Interest with the Sale Objectives. This would have provided greater assurance that the Sale Objectives would have been appropriately considered in the evaluation process. Not aligning the criteria to the Sale Objectives presented a risk that important objectives of the sale were not given appropriate prominence in the selection process.

3.30

The criteria used for the evaluation of expressions of interest were poorly crafted as:

3.40

- one of the criteria was 'binary' and did not lend itself to being used to make a comparative evaluation between interested parties. Binary requirements are usually conditions for participation in a process rather than an evaluation criteria; and
- one of the Sale Objectives (timeliness) was aggregated with the financial capacity criterion and consequently could not be evaluated independently from financial considerations.

Five responses to the Request for Expression of Interest were received by the closing time of 5:00 pm on 14 February 2014, including responses from the two holders of totalisator pools in Australia.

The evaluation of the responses took place between 14 and 27 February 2014. The evaluation was initially conducted by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) with an evaluation report (the first evaluation report) produced and sent to the Sale Project Team on 19 February 2014. The evaluation report recommended all five interest parties proceed to the next phase of the process.

In response to the first evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte), on 20 February 2014 the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice sent an email to members of the Sale Project Team. The email (which was subsequently retracted and updated) provided comments on each of the expressions of interest that were received, and ranked the expressions of interest 'in order of the quality of their responses'.

Following a meeting of the Sale Project Team on 20 February, the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) produced a second evaluation report on 21 February 2014. The evaluation report recommended all five potential interested parties proceed to the next phase of the process.

On 25 February 2014 the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice sent an email to the Sale Project Team that retracted and updated the email previously sent on 20 February 2014. Similar to the first email, comments were provided on each of the expressions of interest that were received, and the expressions of interest were ranked 'in order of the quality of their responses'. The email provided an opinion that only two of the interested parties should proceed to the next phase.

On 25 February 2014, the Steering Committee considered the Sales Advisor's (Deloitte) second evaluation report and requested that the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) update the evaluation report and provide a ranking of the interested parties.

On 27 February 2014, the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) produced a third (and ultimately final) evaluation report that recommended inter alia that '[two of the interested parties] should progress to the next phase ...'

3.59

At its meeting on 28 February 2014, the Steering Committee considered:

3.63

- the third (and ultimately final) evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte); and
- an agenda paper from the Sale Project Team, which the Sale Project Team advised was its evaluation report.

The third (and ultimately final) evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) stated '[two interested parties] should progress to the next phase of the process. The key risk which the shareholders should consider in determining whether to progress the remaining three bidders is their ability to execute a pooling agreement, for which no party has presented a clear alternative to [one of the interested parties], presenting a significant execution concern.' The agenda paper from the Sale Project Team stated '... there are only two suitable candidates who should be invited to participate in the indicative offer stage.'

There was no evidence of:

3.74

- documented and retained individual assessments of the submissions by members of the Sales Project Team;

- documentation showing a consolidated assessment of where the individual assessments of the submissions by members of the Sales Project Team were brought together; and
- a formal evaluation report with detail and judgements highlighted.

One of the key probity objectives set out in the Probity Plan was: Establishing and maintaining a clear audit trail for accountability purposes. The creation and maintenance of evaluation documentation is a key part of the accountability requirement. Documentation to support the evaluation of the expression of interest criteria was inadequate. 3.77

The Australian Government Solicitor and Mr Charles Scerri, QC concluded that it was more likely than not that the principles of the Hughes Case applied to the sale of ACTTAB. As a result, a 'process contract' existed in the sale of ACTTAB and there was, therefore, an obligation to conduct the sale in accordance with the defined procedures and the stated criteria that was in the Request for Expression of Interest. 3.81

The ACT Government Solicitor advised in responding to the proposed audit report that the principles of the Hughes Case did not apply. 3.82

While there is a difference of views, given the type of sale with its complexities and uncertainties, and given the consequences if the Hughes Case did apply, it would have been prudent for such an issue to have been explicitly considered in a risk analysis, in preparation for the sale. However, there is no evidence that this occurred. If it had occurred, any issues emerging could have been managed to reduce any associated risk. 3.83

The evaluation of the expression of interest criteria is considered to be inadequate regardless of whether (or not) the principles of the Hughes Case apply. If the Hughes Case does apply the issues have greater gravity because of: 3.84

- the use of different criteria to those in the Request for Expression of Interest document;
- the evaluation of binary criteria in a non binary way; and
- evaluation using material not provided by the applicant.

Neither the final evaluation report prepared by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) or the agenda paper from the Sale Project Team to the Steering Committee precisely or rigorously applied the evaluation criteria set out in the Request for Expression of Interest document sent to interested parties. The incorrect application of evaluation criteria presents a risk to the probity of the sale process. If the Hughes Case is relevant to the sale of ACTTAB, this risk is exacerbated. Regardless, there is a high probability that interested parties would have had an expectation that they would be evaluated against the criteria in the Request for Expression of Interest document. This did not occur. 3.89 criterion that did not contemplate a subjective assessment, inappropriately excluded interested parties from further consideration. These interested parties may not have met the criterion had it been more aptly worded to allow for a subjective assessment.

The incorrect application of the probity criterion, which was essentially a 'binary' 3.96

The use of external material in evaluating submissions, including the work associated with evaluating interested parties' responses, should not have been used as the basis for the exclusion of interested parties from further consideration. This material could have been considered had the process been designed differently. 3.107

The operational capacity criterion required that interested parties demonstrate that they currently have the ability, or have a plan, to successfully operate a wagering business including a pari mutuel pooling arrangement. 3.108

Two interested parties operated large totalisator pools in Australia. The three other interested parties did not, and submitted their planned intentions in relation to establishing a pari mutuel pooling arrangement. The three other interested parties were primarily excluded from the process because they were assessed as not meeting the operational capacity requirement. 3.110

The evaluation of the operational capacity criterion inappropriately excluded interested parties from further consideration. These interested parties may not have met the intention of the criterion, if it had specified that they should have already been operating a totalisator pool. If the evaluation criteria had explicitly stated the need to already be operating a totalisator pool, then there would be no issue. 3.129

The 'reserved discretions' in the Request for Expressions of Interest were intended to allow for greater flexibility in the sale process. However, the Australian Government Solicitor and Mr Charles Scerri, QC advised that it is more likely than not that the Hughes Case principles applied and a 'process contract' was relevant to the sale of ACTTAB. Therefore, the 'reserved discretions' in the Request for Expressions of Interest document cannot be relied upon. It would have been prudent not to exercise the 'reserved discretions' as if they had priority over the Request for Expressions of Interest criteria. 3.143

Concerns regarding the incorrect use and application of expression of interest criteria are not issues of semantics as three of the five potential interested parties that provided expressions of interest were excluded from further consideration in the sale process. 3.144

Probity activities associated with managing confidentiality agreements, the approach to the market, probity planning, responding to interested parties' clarification requests and due diligence were performed satisfactorily. 3.147

There were some areas where not all probity requirements were met: 3.148

- formal sign-off on key 'approach to market' documents and evaluation criteria;

- formal sign-off on evaluation processes and key 'milestones' and phases of the procurement process; and
- the management of a complaint.

The Probity Plan (December 2013) required the Probity Advisor to prepare a written report to the Steering Committee on the complaint referred for consideration. There was no evidence of this report and the Steering Committee minutes do not indicate whether any such report was presented to them. 3.157

SALE RESULTS

Paragraph

On 14 October 2014, the ACT Government accepted Tabcorp's final bid price of $105.5 million, subject to a number of terms and conditions. 4.2

The final bid price was more than that offered by the other potential purchaser. Given that the indicative Trade Sale Value of ACTTAB was estimated to be between $35.6 million and $47.6 million, as estimated by PwC in the ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013), this represents a good financial result for the Territory. 4.4

The sale met all of the Sale Objectives, as set out in the resolution of the Legislative Assembly on 28 November 2013. 4.8

The indicative bids and final bids offered by the two potential purchasers offered various models and revenue streams. The evaluation of the financial value of the various bids was conducted by way of a discounted cash flow analysis, which allows for a comparison of revenue streams at current day values (Net Present Value). 4.12

The rate used for discounting future cash flows required a robust technical analysis to ensure appropriate treatment of cash flows. The Sale Project Team accepted the method for discounted cash flow analysis provided by PwC in the ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013). This provided for the valuation of projected future cash flows in applicants' bids in terms of present day values. 4.14

There was appropriate consideration of the balance of risk and benefit in evaluating the net present value of upfront payments in potential purchasers' submissions. 4.23

One of the Sale Objectives was to ensure that the local racing industry was not negatively affected by the sale. 4.24

Before the ACT Government decided to pursue the sale of ACTTAB, representatives of the racing industry had proposed that the new owner should be required to fund the local racing industry on a similar basis as other TABs in the larger states. Representatives of the local racing industry indicated that their preferred funding model included a 40 year funding agreement with a fixed annual payment of $9.5 million indexed by CPI plus 6.3 per cent racing turnover generated by ACTTAB (in 4.28 excess of $152 million).

PwC and the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) cautioned that a funding agreement of the magnitude proposed by representatives of the ACT racing industry would strongly deter any potential purchasers. 4.29

The racing industry has not been negatively impacted by the sale of ACTTAB. 4.36

One of the Sale Objectives was to ensure that employee welfare was considered. Accordingly, the Request for Indicative Offers, provided to the potential purchasers in March 2014, sought an indication from the shortlisted potential purchasers of which employees would be offered positions with the successful purchaser in the event of the sale. 4.37

In the lead up to the ACT Government's decision to pursue the sale, the Community and Public Sector Union (union) put forward its preferences for proposed sale conditions including enhanced redundancies and a three year job guarantee. Neither of the union's proposals was made a condition of sale as both PwC and the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) cautioned that this would discourage buyers who would be unable to justify investing in a business with such limited cash flows (ACTTAB's profit for 2013-14 was only $750,000). 4.40

Potential purchasers were therefore informed of the preferences of the union and the racing industry and encouraged to submit alternative proposals with indicative pricing. However, no potential purchaser was prepared to fully adopt the preferences of the union or the racing industry. 4.41

Sufficient consideration was accorded to employee welfare during the sale process. 4.42

Recommendations

RECOMMENDATION 1      PROCUREMENT POLICIES, PROCEDURES AND PROCESSES

The Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate should examine, and if needed amend, its procurement policies, procedures and processes so they comprehensively cover:

Risk management:

- 1) all complex, high value or high risk procurements should be subject to a procurement risk assessment and be supported by an approved risk plan which is developed before procurement activity commences (this plan may subsequently be modified as needed); and
- 2) the risk assessment should guide mitigation measures and inform governance and administrative processes for the procurement;

Evaluation criteria:

- 3) evaluation criteria should be designed to match the way in which they will be evaluated; and
- 4) the assessment of evaluation criteria by an assessor and/or panel members should be precise, rigorous and documented;
- 5) Procurements that are not subject to the ACT Government Procurement Act 2001:
  - i) need to have the policies, procedures and processes to be used defined and documented at the beginning of a procurement activity; and
  - ii) need to be the subject of a risk assessment and have an approved risk plan;

Probity Plan and Probity Advisor role in complex, high value or high risk procurements:

- 6) a Probity Plan should include a requirement for the provision of written independent assurance at key stages of the procurement;
- 7) the Probity Advisor role as a principle should be independent of other roles in the procurement process. However, if this does not occur, the reasons for not so doing should be documented and a risk assessment undertaken to identify how any associated risks are to be managed;

Documentation and record-keeping requirements:

- 8) complex, high value or high risk procurements should be well documented; and
- 9) an audit should be undertaken immediately at the conclusion of the procurement to identify any gaps so that they can be corrected in a timely manner.

Auditees' responses

In accordance with section 18 of the Auditor-General Act 1996 the Director-General of the Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate and the ACT Government Solicitor were provided with:

- a draft proposed report for comment. Comments received were considered and required changes were included in the final proposed report;
- a final proposed report for further comment. Comments received were considered and required changes were included in the revised final proposed report; and
- a revised final proposed report for further comment. Comments received were considered and required changes were included in the final report.

Sections of the draft and final proposed report were sent to other relevant entities as was considered appropriate.

Neither the Director-General of the Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate or the ACT Government Solicitor provided overall comments for inclusion in the Summary of this report.

1 INTRODUCTION

Background

- 1.1 ACTTAB was an ACT Government betting agency that provided totalisator, betting and wagering services in the ACT. It had two voting shareholders, the Chief Minister and the Deputy Chief Minister, and an independent Board.
- 1.2 ACTTAB operated from 52 physical locations in the ACT, which included three oncourse venues at Canberra Racecourse, Canberra Stadium and Manuka Oval; 37 sub-agencies located within clubs, hotels and Casino Canberra; and 15 branches. In addition to the physical locations, customers could also place bets online or via telephone.
- 1.3 ACTTAB employed approximately 68 full time staff at 30 June 2013.

ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study

- 1.4 In February 2013, the ACT Government engaged PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) to conduct a study on future options for ACTTAB.
- 1.5 In July 2013, PwC submitted a report on the outcomes of this work. The ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study report provided an analysis of the 'risks and opportunities' associated with the ACT Government's ownership of ACTTAB. The report provided an analysis of four options for the ACT Government:
  - maintaining the status quo;
  - forming a joint venture with a suitable private sector organisation;
  - retaining government ownership and contracting out the management of ACTTAB; and
  - a trade sale.
- 1.6 PwC recommended that the ACT Government should not retain ownership of ACTTAB and that the preferred method of sale should be via a trade sale (i.e. a business to business sale) of 100 percent of ACTTAB (shares).
- 1.7 PwC's rationale for recommending that ACTTAB be sold by way of a trade sale was that:
  - the industry was rapidly changing and ACTTAB's relative market position was in decline;
  - ACTTAB's commercial focus was constrained;
  - ACTTAB's financial performance was in decline;
  - the risk profile of the Territory's investment in ACTTAB was increasing;

- the potential funding gap was material; and
  - ACTTAB's value was reducing.
- 1.8 PwC also assessed the indicative Trade Sale Value of ACTTAB (i.e. the money that might be expected to be achieved from a business to business sale) to fall within the range of $35.6 million to $47.6 million. Included in these valuations was the value potential buyers place on 'synergies', which was valued at $12.6 million. In simple terms, 'synergies' reflects the fact that combining two entities allows for cost savings and/or increased revenue.

Betting market and changes in recent times

- 1.9 The ACT wagering market comprises three types of racing: thoroughbred, harness and greyhound.
- 1.10 PwC's ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013) noted 'the industry is rapidly changing and ACTTAB's relative market position is in decline.' The report further noted:
- In the period FY03 to FY10 the ACT share of the national wagering market has decreased from 5.0% to 1.2%. During the same period the ACT share of the national gambling market decreased from 2.3% to 1.6%.
- In recent years numerous large international wagering operators have entered the Australian market driving innovation, an increased product offering, easier access to wagering and therefore creating a strong competitive landscape. There has been a leakage of ACT residents from ACTTAB to the online bookmakers.
- 1.11 Figure 1-1 presents the financial performance data for ACTTAB for the three years to 2011-12 and the budgeted performance for 2012-13, as identified in PwC's ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013).

Note 1: EBITDA is Earnings Before Interest, Taxation, Depreciation and Amortisation

1.12 PwC's ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013) showed:

- ACTTAB's earnings before interest, taxation, depreciation and amortisation had fallen by 26.1 percent from 2009-10 to 2011-12; and
- ACTTAB's revenue had fallen by 5.0 percent from 2009-10 to 2011-12.

1.13 As the owner of the shares in ACTTAB the ACT Government was the recipient of licence fees and other returns from the corporation. Table 1-1 shows the total payments made by ACTTAB to the ACT Government for the period 2009-10 to 2011-12.

Sale of ACTTAB

- 1.14 On 22 November 2013, the ACT Government issued a media release which stated that it 'has determined to sell ACTTAB Corporation following careful consideration of the recommendations made in the ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study'.
- 1.15 On 28 November 2013, the Legislative Assembly passed a resolution that ACTTAB be sold, either through a sale of shares or a sale of ACTTAB's main undertakings.
- 1.16 The sale necessitated an amendment to the Territory-owned Corporations Act 1990 (ToC Act), which was achieved by the passing of the Territory-owned Corporations Amendment Bill 2014, which removed references from ACTTAB from the ToC Act. The Bill also provided for amendments to the Taxation (Government Business Enterprises) Regulations 2003, to ensure that ACTTAB would no longer be subject to this legislation as it ceased to be a government business enterprise.

Sale Objectives

- 1.17 The objectives for the sale of ACTTAB (the Sale Objectives), as provided for by the Legislative Assembly resolution, made on 28 November 2013, were to:
- achieve a fair and reasonable price;
  - ensure local racing industry is not negatively affected;
  - achieve a timely sale;
  - ensure the successful party has appropriate experience, capacity and integrity to operate a wagering business; and
  - ensure employee welfare is considered.

Sale process

- 1.18 The sale of ACTTAB was undertaken in two stages:
- Stage 1 – Expression of Interest (EOI); and
  - Stage 2 – Bid.
- 1.19 Stage 1 of the sale process involved seeking expressions of interest from interest parties and was focused on short listing potential purchasers for progression to the next phase.
- 1.20 Stage 2 of the sale process involved the consideration and evaluation of bids from two potential purchasers. This stage involved the receipt and evaluation of indicative bids and final bids (the Bid phase), and was focused on the value of the deal that could be agreed.

Sale result

- 1.21 On 30 July 2014 the ACT Government announced that Tabcorp had been successful with its tender and had been selected as the purchaser. The sale amount was announced as $105.5 million, which included ACTTAB assets and associated issue of licences. The sale was completed in October 2014.

The Audit

Audit objective and scope

- 1.22 The objective of this audit was to provide an independent opinion to the Legislative Assembly on the probity of the sale of ACTTAB.
- 1.23 The audit included consideration of whether there was appropriate analysis of bids received from potential purchasers against legislative, policy and financial requirements and considerations.
- 1.24 The audit focused on the conduct of the sale including the planning, administration and communication processes associated with the sale. The audit also assessed if there was appropriate consideration of bids received.
- 1.25 The audit did not consider:
- the ACT Government's decision to sell ACTTAB's assets and liabilities;
  - the ACT Government's policies and/or support with respect to the ongoing role of ACTTAB employees or the broader racing industry in the ACT; or
  - the management and administration of ACTTAB, its activities or operations.

Audit criteria, approach and method

1.26 The audit object was addressed through examining the following audit criteria as based on better practice procurement guidance:

- Was the sale process conducted in compliance with ACT Government Legislation and policy associated with the sale of public assets?
- Was the sale process conducted using an appropriately competitive process?
- Was the sale process conducted fairly and impartially?
- Was the sale process conducted consistently and transparently?
- Was there appropriate financial consideration of bids/tenders received against ACT Government legislative policy requirements, including taxation and licensing considerations?

Legal considerations

1.27 The audit of the sale of ACTTAB raised four key legal questions:

- Was the sale of ACTTAB subject to the Government Procurement Act 2001?
- Was the sale of ACTTAB a 'Government sale'?
- Was the sale of ACTTAB subject to the Hughes Case (Hughes Aircraft Systems International v Airservices Australia (1997) 76 FCR 151)?
- Do the 'reserved discretions', in the Request for Expressions of Interest, remove or reduce the application of the Hughes Case?

1.28 Discussion associated with these questions, including differing legal views, is presented in Appendix A.

1.29 The audit followed the ACT Audit Office's Performance Audit Methods and Practices and related policies, practice statements and guidance papers.

1.30 The approach and method consisted of:

- interviews and discussions with key Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate staff associated with the sale;
- interviews and discussions with other key participants in the sale and evaluation process (e.g. members of the Sale Project Team and Steering Committee, Sales Advisor (Deloitte), and Legal and Probity Advisor);
- review of key sale documents, including potential purchasers' submissions, evaluation documents and Cabinet documents;
- review of correspondence, including email communication, between key participants in the sale process for the relevant period of sale;

- sourcing legal advice from the Australian Government Solicitor (Chief Counsel Commercial; Deputy General Counsel Commercial); and Mr Charles Scerri, QC; and
- extensive consultation with auditees, and other entities involved in the sale process, on potential findings and conclusions in the draft proposed report, final proposed report and revised final proposed report.

2 PREPARING FOR THE SALE

2.1 This chapter examines activities associated with preparing for the sale of ACTTAB, including developing governance and administrative, risk management and probity arrangements for the sale process. It also considers documentation.

Summary

Conclusion

The extensive governance arrangements in place and a number of subject matter experts involved are strengths of the sale process. However, there is a lack of documentation in relation to the conduct of the overall sale process, including a finalised risk management plan and an evaluation plan for the sale. These are significant inadequacies, for such a complex, large and high risk sale.

One person undertook the Probity Advisor role and also provided legal advice. This by its nature presents a risk, which given the characteristics of the sale, would have been prudent to avoid.

Key findings

|  | Paragraph |
|--|-----------|
| PwC's ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013) recommended the sale of 100 percent of ACTTAB shares through a trade sale (i.e. a business to business sale). The report identified an indicative value range for the sale of $35.6 million to $47.6 million.   | 2.2       |
| The nature of the sale, i.e. what was being sold by the Territory, whether it was ACTTAB shares or its main undertakings, was at the discretion of the interested parties themselves as this was deemed to be the best means of maximising the sale price.   | 2.4       |
| It would have been prudent to structure and manage the sale of ACTTAB with regard to the requirements of the Government Procurement Act 2001 until it was clear that the Act did not apply (i.e. only assets were being sold and not shares). The Audit Office was advised by Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate that 'the sale was conducted on the basis of legal advice (albeit only verbal advice) received before the sale commenced indicating that the Procurement Act was not applicable regardless of whether it was a share sale or an asset sale.' The Sale Project Team relied on the legal advice that the sale was not subject to the Government Procurement Act 2001 . | 2.16      |

---

|   |      |
|---|------|
| The sale of ACTTAB is considered to be a joint Territory and ACTTAB sale, which for all practical purposes means it would be appropriate to treat it as a 'Government sale'.  | 2.18 |
| The approach adopted of an open competitive process, using expressions of interest from the broader community to shortlist and identifying interested parties' preference for an asset or a share sale for the sale was an acceptable process for implementing the Sale Objectives  | 2.25 |
| The sale of ACTTAB is regarded as high risk, when compared against risk indicators identified in the Australian National Audit Office (ANAO) Fairness and Transparency in Purchasing Decisions Better Practice Guide (2007). This assessment was confirmed in interviews with Sale Project Team members.   | 2.29 |
| The structure of the governance arrangements for the sale of ACTTAB, including the Steering Committee and Sale Project Team, were appropriate.  | 2.43 |
| The draft procurement risk register (May 2014) developed for the sale of ACTTAB had very limited coverage of process risks. A more comprehensive risk assessment would have facilitated identification and treatment of a broader range of risks.   | 2.52 |
| The sale of ACTTAB was a high risk procurement for which there was no finalised or approved procurement risk register. The draft procurement risk register that was prepared was inadequate and presented late in the process to the Sale Project Team. Accordingly, there was an absence of an adequate risk management framework.   | 2.54 |
| Documentation of the processes used for the sale of ACTTAB was inadequate and did not meet accountability and transparency requirements for procurement commensurate with the size, complexity and risk of such a sale. Importantly, there was a lack of documented sign off or advice from the Probity Advisor following the completion of key stages of the sale process, including the finalisation of the sale. | 2.84 |

Nature of the sale

- 2.2 PwC's ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013) recommended the sale of 100 percent of ACTTAB shares through a trade sale (i.e. a business to business sale). The report identified an indicative value range for the sale of $35.6 million to $47.6 million.
- 2.3 A 28 November 2013 resolution by the ACT Legislative Assembly approved the disposal of the ACT's interest in ACTTAB limited:

... by way of a sale of the ACTTAB Limited shares held by the Territory;

or

... by way of a sale of the main undertakings of ACTTAB Limited.

2.4 The nature of the sale, i.e. what was being sold by the Territory, whether it was ACTTAB shares or its main undertakings, was at the discretion of the interested parties themselves as this was deemed to be the best means of maximising the sale price.

2.5 PwC's ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013) had presented forecasts of a long term decline in the value of ACTTAB:

ACTTAB's financial performance is in a state of decline, with Management forecasting a 3.6% compound annual decrease in EBITDA (pre government fees) over the next four years.

2.6 A brief to the Chief Minister and Treasurer from the Chair of the Sale Project Team on 16 May 2014 stated:

It appears inevitable that this industry will be very different in a relatively short timeframe, and no doubt by the end of ten years ... there is significant doubt over how long any value will remain in the main asset we are selling, which is the right to operate a pari-mutuel retail betting presence.

There is a strong continuing trend away from totalisators to fixed-odds betting (both racing and sports betting) ... This shift away from the product we are selling - the tote fixed retail terminal presence - presents significant uncertainty for the long term viability and value of the totalisator licence.

2.7 In part the decline in value of ACTTAB may have been attributable to a lack of access to economies of scale that larger betting organisations have and, as a consequence, the 'synergies' that would enhance the value to a potential buyer. This was recognised by the ACT Racing Industry in a letter to the Deputy Chief Minister on 28 October 2013 which stated that:

... a sale is the best outcome because ACTTAB does not have the scale of operation to maintain and grow market share or to adapt to the rapidly changing digital wagering market which is supported by the PwC study.

2.8 PwC's ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013) also identified that ACTTAB's ownership structure 'limits its ability to operate in a profit maximising manner' and that 'ACTTAB's market position constrains its ability to attract industry leading management resources'.

What was being sold

2.9 Notwithstanding that the precise nature of the sale was flexible, what was being sold was a complex asset. The key components being sold were:

- the physical tangible assets and liabilities of ACTTAB;
- the intangible assets such as brand and goodwill;

2: Preparing for the sale

---

- an exclusive licence to operate a totalisator business in the ACT and a range of other wagering and betting licences; and
- the Government's commitment to certain regulatory settings with compensation provisions in the event that these settings change.

2.10 When considering the value of ACTTAB, it is important to understand that it is an asset within the context of a regulatory environment. Small changes to the ACT Government's regulation of the gaming industry could have a significant impact on the value of associated gaming licences. This relationship was commented on by the Australian Racing Board in a submission to the Productivity Commission's 2008 inquiry into Gambling:

Gambling Markets are, and have always been, a creature of regulation. The current scale and nature of the Australian Thoroughbred Racing Industry is not accidental: it is the product of a set of regulatory arrangements that have existed for some 40 years. ... (T)he future regulatory framework for the wagering market must be such that enables not only the consumer benefits from competition between operators but also industry sustainability to be achieved.

2.11 A key component of the value of ACTTAB is the level of intervention and/or regulation by the ACT Government. For example, if the ACT Government were to limit or extend the regulation of wagering and totalisator operations, and/or the validity period for exclusive licences, it could have a significant impact on the value of the business.

Government sale

2.12 As mentioned in paragraph 2.3, the sale of ACTTAB could have resulted in either a:

- sale of the ACTTAB Limited shares held by the Territory, i.e. the ACT Government selling the Territory's shares; or
- sale of the main undertakings of ACTTAB Limited, i.e. the ACTTAB Board selling its business.

2.13 The sale process resulted in a sale of the main undertakings of ACTTAB. This was not determined until the bid stage.

2.14 As mentioned in paragraph 1.27 the sale of ACTTAB raised four key legal questions (refer to Appendix A). While all questions are relevant to the sale of ACTTAB, two are particularly pertinent to the nature of the sale. The two questions are:

- Was the sale of ACTTAB subject to the Government Procurement Act 2001?
- Was the sale of ACTTAB a 'Government sale'?

2.15 With respect to the application of the Government Procurement Act 2001, the Australian Government Solicitor advised that 'had the sale resulted in a sale of shares by the ACT Government, such a sale would then have been a "procurement" as defined in the [Government Procurement Act 2001]'.

- 2.16 It would have been prudent to structure and manage the sale of ACTTAB with regard to the requirements of the Government Procurement Act 2001 until it was clear that the Act did not apply (i.e. only assets were being sold and not shares). The Audit Office was advised by Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate that ‘the sale was conducted on the basis of legal advice (albeit only verbal advice) received before the sale commenced indicating that the Procurement Act was not applicable regardless of whether it was a share sale or an asset sale.’ The Sale Project Team relied on the legal advice that the sale was not subject to the Government Procurement Act 2001.
- 2.17 With respect to whether it was a ‘government sale’, the Australian Government Solicitor advised that the sale could:
- ... be best described as being a joint Territory and ACTTAB sale. Whilst in practice only ACTTAB could sell its main undertaking and the Government could not do this itself other than via a sale of shares it is clear that in practice the Government exercised a significant degree of control over the sale of ACTTAB’s business. ACTTAB did not of its own volition independently pursue and conclude the sale of its main undertaking.
- 2.18 The sale of ACTTAB is considered to be a joint Territory and ACTTAB sale, which for all practical purposes means it would be appropriate to treat it as a ‘Government sale’.

Sale as a ‘procurement’

- 2.19 In the following section of the report, and thereafter, references to the sale of ACTTAB frequently use the term ‘procurement’ or refer to ‘procurement’ processes. Procurement is defined in section 2A of the Government Procurement Act 2001 as follows:

procurement—

- (a) means the process of acquiring goods, services, works or property by purchase, lease, rental or exchange; and
  - (b) includes the process of disposing of goods, works or property including by sale.
- 2.20 Accordingly, in this report, references to ‘procurement’ or ‘procurement processes’ are used for the sale process examined in this audit.

Approach to the sale

- 2.21 In a Legislative Assembly debate associated with the sale of ACTTAB on 28 November 2013, the Treasurer stated:
- ... the sale will also be conducted through an open competitive process so as to maximise the number of bidders. This approach should ensure the best outcome for the Territory.

2: Preparing for the sale

2.22 This approach was reinforced in a letter to the Chief Executive of the Canberra Racing Club (and others) on 13 December 2013 from the Deputy Chief Minister, which stated:

The first stage will call for expressions of interest but will not be as prescriptive as a conventional sale as to the means of meeting the Government's objectives. As such it is intended to encourage prospective bidders to provide their best offering in meeting the Government's overall objectives including support for existing staff and the racing industry. During the second stage short listed bidders will have the opportunity to improve and firm up their offerings during an intensive period of clarification and parallel negotiations.

2.23 These statements indicate that the ACT Government's intention for the sale of ACTTAB were that the sale process:

- be run as an open competitive process;
- seek expressions of interest from the broader community in order to shortlist suitable potential purchasers; and
- identify applicants' preferences for the purchase of ACTTAB.

2.24 Such an approach is not unusual and may be adopted for two reasons:

- it facilitates consideration of a range of commercial approaches to meeting the Sale Objectives (refer to paragraph 1.17); and
- it allows for the effective short listing of potential purchasers.

2.25 The approach adopted of an open competitive process, using expressions of interest from the broader community to shortlist and identifying interested parties' preference for an asset or a share sale for the sale was an acceptable process for implementing the Sale Objectives

Scale, complexity and sensitivity

2.26 The greater the complexity, the larger the scale, and sometimes the greater the sensitivity of a procurement, the more likely it is that the level of inherent risk of the procurement is high. In these situations resources, team capabilities and processes need to be designed to reflect the level of risk that needs to be managed. One example of guidance on procurement risk is set out in the Australian National Audit Office (ANAO) Fairness and Transparency in Purchasing Decisions Better Practice Guide (2007). The ANAO better practice guide provides guidance on the types of factors to be considered to determine the level of risk associated with a procurement:

- The expected cost of the purchase is high, or relatively high compared with the purchases normally undertaken by the entity
- The entity has limited experience in either the nature of the purchase being undertaken or the market
- The project itself is inherently complex (technically, legally or financially)

- The project is potentially controversial or politically sensitive.

2.27 The ANAO guidance is only one of many better practice guides for procurement and is broadly representative of them.

2.28 Table 2-1 shows an assessment of the risk associated with the sale of ACTTAB, against the ANAO's indicators of risk. This report does not consider the sale process against any other Commonwealth or state better practice guidance, as it is considered that the ANAO guidance is broadly reflective of other better practice guidance. This material is used as general guidance rather than specific direction.

Table 2-1 Risk assessment associated with the sale of ACTTAB against better practice risk indicators

| ANAO Indicator   | Assessment of sale of ACTTAB  | Rating |
|--|---|--------|
| The expected value of the procurement is high.                                       | Value at the commencement of the process was initially estimated by PwC at $36-$48 million.   | High   |
| There is limited experience in either the nature of the procurement or the market.   | The sale of ACTTAB was a 'one-off' sale for the Territory.  | High   |
| The procurement process is inherently complex (technically, legally or financially). | The sale of ACTTAB involved a complex combination of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• sale of a Territory Owned Entity with an independent management structure and Board;</li> <li>• government policies on licensing, taxation, regulation, probity and legislation;</li> <li>• tangible and intangible assets;</li> <li>• business integration;</li> <li>• forecasting and modelling; and</li> <li>• complex commercial drivers.</li> </ul>   | High   |
| The procurement is potentially controversial or politically sensitive.               | The sale of ACTTAB was recognised as highly sensitive, due to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• political stakeholders and owners (as illustrated by the fact that the sale required a resolution by the Legislative Assembly);</li> <li>• community expectations (due to recognition of ACTTAB as a public asset);</li> <li>• industry expectations (due to the possible impact on the local racing industry); and</li> <li>• industrial matters (due to the impact on ACTTAB employees).</li> </ul> | High   |

2.29 The sale of ACTTAB is regarded as high risk, when compared against risk indicators identified in the Australian National Audit Office (ANAO) Fairness and Transparency in Purchasing Decisions Better Practice Guide (2007). This assessment was confirmed in interviews with Sale Project Team members.

2: Preparing for the sale

---

- 2.30 A high risk transaction, such as the sale of ACTTAB, requires greater levels of control than lower risk transactions. In particular, higher risk transactions may require:
- more detailed planning;
  - access to specialist skills;
  - access to good market knowledge; and
  - comprehensive and explicit identification, documentation and management of risk.
- 2.31 In planning for a high risk sale, such as the sale of ACTTAB, it is essential that risks are identified as early as possible, and that they are documented and understood, so that management of the risks is integrated into governance and controls at the outset of the sale.
- 2.32 Key ways to manage a high risk sale, such as the sale of ACTTAB, (and its inherent risks) would include:
- appropriate governance arrangements, including well-defined roles and responsibilities;
  - risk management, including the management of process risks and probity risks;
  - use of specialist advisors;
  - appropriate administrative policies, procedures and rules; and
  - good documentation and record-keeping.
- 2.33 These are discussed in the following sections of the report.

Governance arrangements

- 2.34 The need for appropriate governance arrangements for the sale of ACTTAB was specifically identified in a documented Probity Plan - Sale Process for the Territory's Interest in ACTTAB Ltd (December 2013) and more generally in other documents associated with the sale process. The main governance elements associated with the sale process are illustrated in Figure 2-1.

Source: ACT Audit Office

2.35 Key governance committees for the sale of ACTTAB were:

- the Steering Committee; and
- the Sale Project Team.

Steering Committee

2.36 The Steering Committee had two members; the Director-General of the Commerce and Works Directorate (Chair); and the Chair of the ACTTAB Board (Deputy Chair). Following the transfer of Commerce and Works Directorate functions in July 2014 the position of Steering Committee Chair transferred to the Director-General of the Territory and Municipal Services Directorate.

2.37 The Steering Committee had primary responsibility for:

- the oversight and direction of the Sale Project Team; and
- addressing and reporting to the Shareholders any regulatory and policy issues emerging from analysis of market responses and vendor due diligence.

2.38 Steering Committee meetings were required to be attended by ACTTAB's Managing Director and Executive Manager Finance and Business Services, the Sales Advisor (Deloitte), the Probity Advisor (ACT Government Solicitor) and the Chair of the Sale Project Team. Other officials and advisors attended relevant meetings as required.

Sale Project Team

2.39 The Sale Project Team comprised the Senior Manager, Government Business Enterprises (Commerce and Works Directorate) (Chair), the ACTTAB Chief Executive (as Deputy Chair), Director of Corporate and Governance (Commerce and Works Directorate) and ACTTAB Executive Manager Finance and Business Services.

2.40 Advisors to the Sale Project Team included a Probity and Legal Advisor (ACT Government Solicitor), the Sales Advisor (Deloitte), Specialist Legal Advisor (Thompson Geer) and the Director, Office of Industrial Relations (from the then Chief Minister and Treasury Directorate). Minter Ellison also provided legal advice to ACTTAB and its Board.

2.41 The Sale Project Team had primary responsibility for managing the entire sale process including:

- day-to-day management of the sale process (including the development and implementation of an overall project plan for the sale, providing regular updates on key elements of the project and monitoring and resolving issues in accordance with the project plan); and
- management, arrangement and participation in all aspects of due diligence for the sale process. This included establishing protocols and appropriate verification and sign-off mechanisms; the organisation of, attendance at, and reporting on, potential buyer site visits; interviews and presentations to potential purchasers; conduct of due diligence and reporting with appropriate sign-off on key issues arising; establishing and maintaining data rooms including question and answer processes.

2.42 Both the Steering Committee and Sale Project Team were required to convene at regular intervals to receive progress reports, assign tasks and to resolve issues that may arise. The Steering Committee and the Sale Project Team met regularly and considered issues put before them.

2.43 The structure of the governance arrangements for the sale of ACTTAB, including the Steering Committee and Sale Project Team, were appropriate.

Managing procurement risk (including probity)

- 2.44 There are many publications that set out better practice guidance for managing procurement risk. The guidance provided is relatively consistent and for this report the Audit Office has relied on the Australian National Audit Office (ANAO) Fairness and Transparency in Purchasing Decisions Better Practice Guide (2007) which states that:

Whether relatively straightforward or complex, the nature of procurement activity means that it generates a range of probity issues. With this in mind, the Better Practice Guide emphasises the important role of procedural integrity in managing procurement and probity risks.

Procurement risks

- 2.45 At the formative stages of procurement it is important to analyse and document procurement risks. This allows the whole procurement team to have a shared understanding of the risk and establish appropriate processes and measures to mitigate the risk so that there is assurance that the procurement does not present an unacceptable level of risk.

- 2.46 A key mechanism for managing procurement risk is to have a documented risk register.

- 2.47 The earliest evidence of a draft risk register for the sale of ACTTAB was in January 2014. It was, however, not provided to all Sale Project Team members until May 2014, which was three months after the release of the Request for Expression of Interest document. On 19 May 2014 an email was sent by the ACTTAB Sale Project Officer (an officer providing administrative support to the Sale Project Team and Steering Committee) requesting comments on a draft procurement risk register. On receipt of this email, a member of the Sale Project Team commented:

Sorry, but a bit late and I would have thought a complete waste of time producing this document to us for the first time on 19 May 2014 (when the finishing line is in view), unless of course the primary purpose is to rewrite history and cover backsides, which I have no interest in doing. You will recall for instance that ACTTAB was of the view that there was a risk in going to the market in the manner which the Government has subsequently chosen to do (various options and uncertainty around licence terms and conditions) and there is no mention of this despite numerous conversations at Project and Steering Committee meetings. There was also the risk in wasting time in attempting to placate vested interest groups as well as an EOI process open to all and sundry who thought it might be nice to own a Tab. The document might serve some purpose within the Directorate but doesn't require our input at this late stage.

- 2.48 Later that day the same member of the Sale Project Team continued as follows.

My response might have seemed a bit harsh ... however, I would have thought that if the project was going to have a risk assessment and register then that might have been discussed with the Project Committee members at inception and that we might have been invited to contribute before this. In racing parlance, the horse has bolted!

2: Preparing for the sale

2.49 The draft procurement risk register (May 2014) included the risks shown in Table 2-2.

Table 2-2 Draft procurement risk register for the sale of ACTTAB May 2014

| Risk Reference | Risk Description   |
|----------------|--|
| 1              | Potential Failures to key sales objectives as stated below:- A fair and reasonable price is not achieved- The racing industry is negatively affected- Purchaser does not consider employee welfare- Purchaser does not have the appropriate experience, capacity or integrity to operate a wagering business- Failure to achieve a timely sale- Failure to sell ACTTAB |
| 2              | Adverse Publicity / Scrutiny   |
| 3              | Racing industry and associated unions expectations do not align to Key Territory Sale objectives (see risk 1) for the sale, resulting in legislative and regulatory issues   |
| 4              | ACTTAB and CWD do not co-operate effectively on the Sale   |
| 5              | Loss of key personal / advisors to the process   |

Source: Sale of ACTTAB Risk Register v5 19 May 2014

2.50 The draft procurement risk register (May 2014) does not focus on specific risks. For example, Adverse Publicity / Scrutiny is a consequence rather than a risk in itself and ACTTAB and CWD do not co-operate effectively on the Sale is a cause and not a risk event. Poorly crafted risk registers can lead to necessary treatments being overlooked or inappropriate ones being developed.

2.51 The draft procurement risk register (May 2014) is also brief and identifies five risks that are primarily focused on outcome. In contrast, for example, the Tasmanian Government Procurement Risk Checklist identifies 46 procurement process risks in 10 categories as set out below:

- Identifying the need and planning the purchase;
- Developing the specification;
- Purchasing documentation;
- Inviting, clarifying and closing offers;
- Evaluating offers;
- Selecting the successful tenderer;
- Negotiations;
- Contract management;
- Evaluating the procurement process; and
- Disposals.

- 2.52 The draft procurement risk register (May 2014) developed for the sale of ACTTAB had very limited coverage of process risks. A more comprehensive risk assessment would have facilitated identification and treatment of a broader range of risks.
- 2.53 Compounding the problem of having an inadequate draft procurement risk register was the lateness of when it was developed and presented to the Sale Project Team. There is no evidence that the draft risk register guided the development of sale processes or that specific risk management actions were taken as a result of its guidance.
- 2.54 The sale of ACTTAB was a high risk procurement for which there was no finalised or approved procurement risk register. The draft procurement risk register that was prepared was inadequate and presented late in the process to the Sale Project Team. Accordingly, there was an absence of an adequate risk management framework.
- 2.55 With respect to the development of a risk register, the ACT Government Solicitor advised that:

Key aspects of the proposed sale were unknown including:

- whether prospective purchasers would wish to purchase the corporation's shares and/or assets and undertakings;
- likely purchase price (notwithstanding the "PwC" indicative value range);
- the key value points in the transaction;
- the likely conditions of the sale; and
- any undertakings a purchaser might ask of the Territory (if any) in relation to regulatory matters, and could only be the subject of speculation. This was borne out by the wide range in conformity, substance and quality of applications in response to the REOI.

Accordingly, any attempt to prepare a detailed and meaningful risk assessment at any early stage of the process for the entire sale process was not feasible. The risks of the process to ACTTAB and/or to the Territory were instead identified at each key stage of the process, with relevant and appropriate mitigation measures considered. The engagement of an experienced team of government officers and private sector advisors working day to day on the sale was seen as a key factor in the success of this strategy.

- 2.56 The Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate similarly advised that:

The Project Team considers it was well equipped to deal with particular risks, if and when they arose. Several members of the Project Team had been involved in previous privatisations overseas and in Australia, the Sales Advisor and the Legal Advisor are experienced in the sale of government and private businesses, and the specialist Legal Advisor has participated in the privatisation of all previous government owned TABs.

The process adopted by the joint parties was that key risks were considered continuously at each meeting of the Project Team and Steering Committee.

The success of the sale depended on a range of factors including the level of market interest, the relative strengths of the bidders, any timetable constraints, the structure of the transaction (such as the term of the licence) and the state of the market. These factors can vary depending on the circumstances. The process adopted in each case will ultimately be a judgement call and so it was considered critical to have an experienced team with a demonstrated track record in achieving successful sale results.

- 2.57 While the advice of the ACT Government Solicitor and Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate is noted, given that ‘key aspects of the proposed sale were unknown’ suggests a greater need for documented risk identification and management at the earliest stages of the sale process, rather than a reason for not documenting risks early.

Use of specialist advisors

- 2.58 The following advisors were engaged to support the sale of ACTTAB:

- Sales Advisor – a professional services firm (Deloitte) was engaged to provide commercial and related advice on the sale and to manage all communication (including information provided through a data room) with interested parties as part of a due diligence process.
- Human Resource Advisor – a senior member of staff from the Human Resources function of the then Chief Minister and Treasury Directorate (CMTD) was available to assist the Sale Project Team to ensure that ACTTAB employee matters were considered.
- Specialist Corporate Legal Advisor – a subject matter expert in the racing and gaming sector was engaged on 27 February 2014 to provide a specialist corporate advisory function, with additional legal advice on transactions relating to the gaming and racing industry where necessary.
- Probity Advisor - the ACT Government Solicitor was engaged to advise the Steering Committee with respect to any probity issue notified by the Steering Committee, or the Sale Project Team arising in relation to the procurement process and thereby monitor compliance with the Probity Plan and the sale process. The Probity Advisor was also required to attend meetings of the Steering Committee and Sale Project Team in relation to the Project.
- Legal Advisor - the ACT Government Solicitor was engaged to provide advice in relation to the sale process. This included the preparation of sale instruments.

The role of the probity advisor

2.59 A representative of the ACT Government Solicitor was the identified Probity Advisor for the sale process. The Probity Plan (December 2013) provided:

The Probity Adviser will:

- (a) advise the Steering Committee with respect to any probity issue notified by the Steering Committee or the Project Team arising in relation to the procurement process and thereby monitor compliance with the Probity Plan and the Sale Process; and
- (b) attend meetings of the Steering Committee and Project team in relation to the Project.

2.60 The Probity Advisor also provided legal advice in relation to the sale process. The Probity Plan (December 2013) allowed for this by stating:

To the extent that the Probity Adviser will provide legal advice to the Steering Committee or the Project Team in relation to procedural aspects of the project, the Probity Adviser will have regard to this Probity Plan in the provision of their advice.

2.61 The Probity Advisor who was also providing legal advice was significantly involved in the entire sale process.

Guidance on the role of a probity advisor

2.62 The Australian Government Solicitor has published guidance in relation to managing probity and process issues in procurement; Managing probity and process issues in procurement (Commercial Note No.15, 14 March 2005). As part of this guidance, the Australian Government Solicitor has also provided guidance in relation to the role of a probity advisor. The guidance states:

A probity adviser may be appointed under a probity plan to monitor and report on compliance with the plan. A probity adviser is usually an adviser who is external to and independent of the process, who will scrutinise (by way of observing and reviewing) the tender and evaluation process, provide advice on probity issues which may arise before and during the tender process, and advise whether the process is equitable and conducted with integrity.

The role of the probity adviser is usually to monitor the tender, evaluation and selection processes in order to advise whether they are defensible and conducted in a fair and unbiased manner. The probity adviser does not undertake the evaluation and is not responsible for advising on the legal issues that arise from the conduct of the tender process. However, the probity adviser will provide advice on the conduct of the tender process (including the tender evaluation procedures), advise whether the tender rules and procedures are followed, and whether the tender process has been conducted fairly and the tenders received are assessed in accordance with the stated evaluation criteria.

In the period following the release of the RFT, for example, the probity adviser can advise on issues such as bidder communications and bid receipt, including the treatment of late bids.

In respect of the evaluation phase, the probity adviser can advise on matters such as the establishment of an evaluation team, assessment of risk and score adjustment, and the assessment of value for money. The probity adviser can also conduct, or arrange for a third party to conduct, various types of probity and security investigations on a particular company and/or its directors and secretaries.

The probity adviser will normally advise and report to the project steering group, and may attend and monitor meetings of other tender committees. Often the probity adviser will also provide all tender evaluation team members with a probity briefing before the actual commencement of tender evaluation.

At the conclusion of the tender process, the probity adviser usually provides confirmation (or sign off) that the process has met all probity and process requirements. This would normally involve the provision of a sign off which confirms that the process followed applicable government policies and the agreed probity plan, and that the tender evaluation was conducted in accordance with the process as set out in the tender evaluation plan.

One person undertaking a Probity Advisor role and providing legal advice

- 2.63 The Australian Government Solicitor's published guidance on the role of a probity adviser (Managing probity and process issues in procurement (Commercial Note No.15, 14 March 2005)) states:

A probity adviser works closely with the client from the beginning of the procurement process, providing advice on probity/process issues which may arise, and providing advice on strategies to overcome potential problems. The probity adviser is therefore expected to give advice which is proactive and strategic in nature. A probity adviser is closely involved in the procurement process, and so cannot be regarded as an 'independent' party. The probity adviser can also fulfil the role of legal adviser to the client.

The extent of proactive involvement by a probity or legal process adviser varies from project to project and client to client. In some cases the client may only require the adviser to be involved at certain key stages of the tender process (for example, at tender opening and to review the tender evaluation process). In other projects, a client might see the adviser as being an integral member of the tender team and expect the adviser to play a proactive role throughout. In other words the role needs to be tailored to the client's own requirements and expectations.

Some clients employ a legal process adviser without appointing a separate legal adviser for the project. In that case, they principally seek advice on process related issues with an expectation, however, that the process adviser would also comment on contractual issues where applicable (in many cases, the client will have used its in-house legal or contracting area to develop the contract in the first instance). Where this occurs the approach has been generally to have one or more team members examine the tender documentation (including the tender evaluation plan) from a probity or legal process perspective, and other team member(s) look at the proposed transaction documents (usually the contract) from a legal perspective.

On occasions the same firm may be approached to formally act as both the legal adviser and the probity adviser for a particular project, with both roles being specifically recognised in the terms of the engagement. In this situation, unless the client otherwise agrees to the roles effectively being combined, the approach has similarly been to have one team member focus on the probity/process issues and another team member focus on the legal issues. As there can be occasions where the dividing line between probity or process and legal issues is not altogether clear, it is important that these team members work closely together. However, the client needs to be aware that the probity adviser role cannot be totally independent.

- 2.64 The Audit Office sought advice from the Australian Government Solicitor with respect to a single person undertaking the role of Probity Advisor and providing legal advice. The Australian Government Solicitor advised that:

The decision to appoint a probity adviser is typically based on a risk assessment of the procurement ... If one person is providing both legal and probity advice there is a greater risk that probity issues may not be identified or properly considered and accordingly the probity of the procurement may be compromised.

- 2.65 Consideration of the separation of probity advice and legal advice roles is consistent with other advice on high risk procurements of this type. For example, the NSW Independent Commission Against Corruption provides the following advice in relation to the independence of probity advice:

A probity adviser should not be encumbered by any actual or perceived conflict of interest that could compromise his or her duty to give candid advice about the probity aspects of the project. The probity adviser or his or her organisation must not be providing another service relating to the project. A probity adviser cannot simultaneously serve in roles such as legal adviser, technical adviser or project manager and still maintain independence. The probity adviser's role in the project should be strictly confined to probity issues and not stray into other fields of advice, even if the adviser has expertise in these areas.

- 2.66 On this issue, the ACT Government Solicitor advised:

In the circumstances of this particular process, having regard to the limited timeframes involved, embedding a probity adviser function into the process as part of the legal adviser role gives the key advantage that the probity adviser is highly conversant with all issues as part of the transaction in a timely manner. The probity adviser provided a great deal of timely and apposite advice throughout the process. This approach complemented the need for seamless and efficient advisory support functions.

It is accepted that the circumstances of each procurement process should be analysed and the appropriateness of any combined legal adviser/probity adviser role carefully considered. The factual circumstances must however be considered for any other processes, including, as was the case with the role of ACTGS in this sale process, that the ACTGS lawyer who assumed the lead in the legal and probity roles, was supported by a team of lawyers including variously two to four lawyers from ACTGS, three to four lawyers from Thompson Geer and three to four lawyers from Minter Ellison who provided legal and in the case of ACTGS probity input on the sale process as required.

2: Preparing for the sale

- 2.67 The ACT Government Solicitor further advised that there was other legal advice that was being provided throughout the process. In this respect the ACT Government Solicitor advised:

Much of the key advice and guidance on the sale process from the Territory's perspective was provided by ... Partner of Thomson Geer who has significant prior experience in wagering and gambling sale transactions and by [a representative of] Deloitte who similarly has experience in significant wagering transactions.

- 2.68 Risk is increased by having a person undertake both a probity and legal advisory role; this is supported by much of the literature and better practice guidance available. Some of this material is referred to in this chapter. The Australian Government Solicitor advised:

In our view, where a single person is providing both legal and probity advice in a procurement that person is not in a position to independently assess whether the probity of the procurement is being adequately addressed. If one person is providing both legal and probity advice there is a greater risk that probity issues may not be identified or properly considered and accordingly the probity of the procurement may be compromised.

- 2.69 Although the ACT Government Solicitor advised that there were lawyers in, and from outside, the ACT Government Solicitor's office who provided legal advice, having the Probity Advisor also providing legal advice is not better practice and increases risk. There is no evidence that there was a need for one person to undertake the Probity Advisor role and provide legal advice. Given the complexity and size of the sale of ACTTAB it would have been prudent to have the probity advisor role separate from other roles.

Documentation and record-keeping

- 2.70 It is standard practice in procurements to ensure that a comprehensive and complete record is retained for all decisions, processes and communication, to provide an evidence trail and facilitate accountability and transparency.

- 2.71 Section 6.2 of the Probity Plan (December 2013) states:

Project Personnel who make a decision that may affect the conduct of the procurement process or any potential or actual Respondent must record in writing their decision, the advisers or other persons who were consulted before making the decision and the basis on which they made that decision.

- 2.72 Section 7 Record Keeping and Process Control of the Probity Plan (December 2013) provides directions to those involved in the sale of ACTTAB about documentation requirements. This section is primarily focused on the maintenance of a Communications Register, management of confidentiality, information security and conflicts of interest. The Probity Plan (December 2013) does not address day-to-day record keeping requirements of the Sale Project Team and Steering Committee members associated with managing and implementing the sale process.

- 2.73 Documentation was inadequate in relation to the sale process, for example:
- the Audit Office was advised that legal advice was provided that the Government Procurement Act 2001 did not apply, but this was not documented. (Unsigned minutes from an (Interim) ACTTAB Sale Working Group meeting on 28 November 2013 nevertheless stated: 'Confirmed that the sales advisor procurement does not fall under the Procurement Act as if we proceed with a Sale of Assets, these are ACTTAB's assets and ACTTAB does not fall under the Procurement Act. If we proceed as a Sale of Shares, then this is a investment transactions (ie not sale of a good or service).' Notwithstanding the reference to the 'sales advisor procurement, which was underway at the time, this has been cited as support for consideration and endorsement that the Government Procurement Act 2001 did not apply); and
  - records provided to support the evaluation of the expressions of interest were reports by the external Sales Advisor (Deloitte), an agenda paper from the Sale Project Team to the Steering Committee summarising the evaluation of the expressions of interest and extracts from email correspondence. Members of the Sale Project Team confirmed during interviews that documentation of individual assessments of submissions had not been retained.
- 2.74 Transparency and accountability requires comprehensive and complete documentation to be retained to evidence transactions. Projects of this size, complexity and risk, typically have a high burden of documentation.
- 2.75 Table 2-3 shows instances where record keeping did not meet minimum requirements for accountability, transparency or risk management that the Audit Office had expected would be able to be provided.

Probity sign-offs on sale process

2.76 Section 10.2 of the Probity Plan (December 2013) states:

The Probity Advisor may:

...

- (d) report in writing to the Project Team on whether, in the Probity Adviser's opinion, the Project has been conducted fairly and in accordance with this Plan.

2.77 Such a role accords with Australian Government Solicitor better practice guidance, (Managing probity and process issues in procurement (Commercial Note No.15, 14 March 2005)) (refer to paragraph 2.62) specifically:

At the conclusion of the tender process, the probity adviser usually provides confirmation (or sign off) that the process has met all probity and process requirements. This would normally involve the provision of a sign off which confirms that the process followed applicable government policies and the agreed probity plan, and that the tender evaluation was conducted in accordance with the process as set out in the tender evaluation plan.

2.78 Probity advice was provided on 4 March 2014 in relation to the Expression of Interest stage of the sale process. In a letter to the Chair of the Steering Committee, the Probity Advisor wrote:

As the appointed probity adviser to the sale process, you have asked for my confirmation that I have no concerns in relation to the public Expression of Interest process recently completed. I note you have raised no specific issues or concerns in relation to the process.

Based on the Deloitte evaluation report and the Project team recommendation to the Steering Committee, I have no reason to believe Deloitte or the Project Team has assessed the responses received otherwise than in accordance with the stated evaluation criteria.

- 2.79 No other advice was provided for any other stage of the sale process.
- 2.80 On 12 August 2014 the new Chair of the Steering Committee sent an email to the Chair of the Sale Project Team which stated:
- ... as part of the finalisation of the sale of ACTTAB we should complete a probity report. You may already have that in hand. Please discuss the process for this.
- 2.81 The Audit Office has been advised that a final 'wrap-up report' has not been produced but is contemplated for when ACTTAB is de-registered, which is expected to occur in July 2015. Such advice is considered to be too late in the process to identify any actions that need to be undertaken to manage any probity risks that are identified.
- 2.82 The ACT Government Solicitor has advised:
- The view of the ACTGS is that it is the role of a probity auditor to independently examine discrete parts and/or the whole of a process and deliver reports as to that process. As is set out in the approved Probity Plan, the role of the probity adviser is iterative: attending meetings, reviewing documents and issues and providing advice as and when necessary. Unless specifically requested to provide any report by the Steering Committee, or unless adverse issues had, in the opinion of the probity adviser arisen, there was no requirement for the probity adviser to provide reports and sign-off for the various stages of the process. This is confirmed in the approved Probity Plan.
- 2.83 The Audit Office notes the views of the ACT Government Solicitor, but notes that, with the exception of advice provided at the expression of interest stage, there was no formal, documented probity advice and no sign-off at key stages of the sale process. Such documentation and sign-off accords with Australian Government Solicitor better practice guidance for a probity adviser, which provides for probity advisor 'sign off which confirms that the process followed applicable government policies and the agreed probity plan, and that the tender evaluation was conducted in accordance with the process as set out in the tender evaluation plan.' Given the risks associated with the sale of ACTTAB, it would have been prudent to have more rigorous and documented probity advice and sign-off at key stages of the sale process.
- 2.84 Documentation of the processes used for the sale of ACTTAB was inadequate and did not meet accountability and transparency requirements for procurement commensurate with the size, complexity and risk of such a sale. Importantly, there was a lack of documented sign off or advice from the Probity Advisor following the completion of key stages of the sale process, including the finalisation of the sale.

---

- 2.85 As a result of the lack of documentation associated with the project, the Audit Office sought access to email records of key representatives of the Sale Project Team and Steering Committee in order to form a view of the processes associated with the sale.

3 THE SALE PROCESS

3.1 This chapter examines activities associated with the sale process, specifically the evaluation of expressions of interest and consideration of probity requirements.

Summary

Conclusions

The sale process was inadequate at the expression of interest stage due to the use of poorly constructed evaluation criteria and an inappropriate assessment of some evaluation criteria, including the use of information that was not submitted by potential purchasers in response to the criteria.

Key findings

|  | Paragraph |
|--|-----------|
| An open approach to the market was taken, whereby any interested party responding to the advertisement of the sale received a Request for Expression of Interest . The open approach to the market was initially flagged as being preferred by the Treasurer in the debate of the resolution for the sale of ACTTAB in the Legislative Assembly in November 2013.   | 3.10      |
| A Request for Expression of Interest was sent out to interested parties that responded to the newspaper advertisements from 3 February 2014 onwards. Expressions of interest were required to be submitted by no later than 5:00 pm on 14 February 2014.  | 3.15      |
| The Request for Expression of Interest sent to interested parties contained all relevant information requirements and was structured appropriately to allow for them to respond.  | 3.18      |
| No evaluation plan(s) were prepared for the sale of ACTTAB.  | 3.28      |
| The evaluation criteria in the Request for Expression of Interest did not align with the Sale Objectives, as identified in the ACT Legislative Assembly resolution in November 2013. It would have been straightforward to directly align the evaluation criteria in the Request for Expression of Interest with the Sale Objectives. This would have provided greater assurance that the Sale Objectives would have been appropriately considered in the evaluation process. Not aligning the criteria to the Sale Objectives presented a risk that important objectives of the sale were | 3.30      | not given appropriate prominence in the selection process.

The criteria used for the evaluation of expressions of interest were poorly crafted as: 3.40

- one of the criteria was ‘binary’ and did not lend itself to being used to make a comparative evaluation between interested parties. Binary requirements are usually conditions for participation in a process rather than an evaluation criteria; and
- one of the Sale Objectives (timeliness) was aggregated with the financial capacity criterion and consequently could not be evaluated independently from financial considerations.

Five responses to the Request for Expression of Interest were received by the closing time of 5:00 pm on 14 February 2014, including responses from the two holders of totalisator pools in Australia. 3.45

The evaluation of the responses took place between 14 and 27 February 2014. The evaluation was initially conducted by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) with an evaluation report (the first evaluation report) produced and sent to the Sale Project Team on 19 February 2014. The evaluation report recommended all five interest parties proceed to the next phase of the process. 3.48

In response to the first evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte), on 20 February 2014 the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice sent an email to members of the Sale Project Team. The email (which was subsequently retracted and updated) provided comments on each of the expressions of interest that were received, and ranked the expressions of interest ‘in order of the quality of their responses’. 3.50

Following a meeting of the Sale Project Team on 20 February, the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) produced a second evaluation report on 21 February 2014. The evaluation report recommended all five potential interested parties proceed to the next phase of the process. 3.53

On 25 February 2014 the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice sent an email to the Sale Project Team that retracted and updated the email previously sent on 20 February 2014. Similar to the first email, comments were provided on each of the expressions of interest that were received, and the expressions of interest were ranked ‘in order of the quality of their responses’. The email provided an opinion that only two of the interested parties should proceed to the next phase. 3.55

On 25 February 2014, the Steering Committee considered the Sales Advisor’s 3.57

(Deloitte) second evaluation report and requested that the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) update the evaluation report and provide a ranking of the interested parties.

On 27 February 2014, the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) produced a third (and ultimately final) evaluation report that recommended inter alia that '[two of the interested parties] should progress to the next phase ...'

At its meeting on 28 February 2014, the Steering Committee considered:

- the third (and ultimately final) evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte); and
- an agenda paper from the Sale Project Team, which the Sale Project Team advised was its evaluation report.

The third (and ultimately final) evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) stated '[two interested parties] should progress to the next phase of the process. The key risk which the shareholders should consider in determining whether to progress the remaining three bidders is their ability to execute a pooling agreement, for which no party has presented a clear alternative to [one of the interested parties], presenting a significant execution concern.' The agenda paper from the Sale Project Team stated '... there are only two suitable candidates who should be invited to participate in the indicative offer stage.'

There was no evidence of:

- documented and retained individual assessments of the submissions by members of the Sales Project Team;
- documentation showing a consolidated assessment of where the individual assessments of the submissions by members of the Sales Project Team were brought together; and
- a formal evaluation report with detail and judgements highlighted.

One of the key probity objectives set out in the Probity Plan was: Establishing and maintaining a clear audit trail for accountability purposes. The creation and maintenance of evaluation documentation is a key part of the accountability requirement. Documentation to support the evaluation of the expression of interest criteria was inadequate.

The Australian Government Solicitor and Mr Charles Scerri, QC concluded that it was more likely than not that the principles of the Hughes Case applied to the sale of ACTTAB. As a result, a 'process contract' existed in the sale of ACTTAB and there was, therefore, an obligation to conduct the sale in accordance with the defined procedures and the stated criteria that was in the Request for Expression of Interest.

| The ACT Government Solicitor advised in responding to the proposed audit report that the principles of the Hughes Case did not apply.   | 3.82  |
| While there is a difference of views, given the type of sale with its complexities and uncertainties, and given the consequences if the Hughes Case did apply, it would have been prudent for such an issue to have been explicitly considered in a risk analysis, in preparation for the sale. However, there is no evidence that this occurred. If it had occurred, any issues emerging could have been managed to reduce any associated risk.  | 3.83  |
| The evaluation of the expression of interest criteria is considered to be inadequate regardless of whether (or not) the principles of the Hughes Case apply. If the Hughes Case does apply the issues have greater gravity because of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• the use of different criteria to those in the Request for Expression of Interest document;</li> <li>• the evaluation of binary criteria in a non binary way; and</li> <li>• evaluation using material not provided by the applicant.</li> </ul>  | 3.84  |
| Neither the final evaluation report prepared by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) or the agenda paper from the Sale Project Team to the Steering Committee precisely or rigorously applied the evaluation criteria set out in the Request for Expression of Interest document sent to interested parties. The incorrect application of evaluation criteria presents a risk to the probity of the sale process. If the Hughes Case is relevant to the sale of ACTTAB, this risk is exacerbated. Regardless, there is a high probability that interested parties would have had an expectation that they would be evaluated against the criteria in the Request for Expression of Interest document. This did not occur. | 3.89  |
| The incorrect application of the probity criterion, which was essentially a ‘binary’ criterion that did not contemplate a subjective assessment, inappropriately excluded interested parties from further consideration. These interested parties may not have met the criterion had it been more aptly worded to allow for a subjective assessment.  | 3.96  |
| The use of external material in evaluating submissions, including the work associated with evaluating interested parties’ responses, should not have been used as the basis for the exclusion of interested parties from further consideration. This material could have been considered had the process been designed differently.   | 3.107 |

wagering business including a pari mutuel pooling arrangement.

Two interested parties operated large totalisator pools in Australia. The three other interested parties did not, and submitted their planned intentions in relation to establishing a pari mutuel pooling arrangement. The three other interested parties were primarily excluded from the process because they were assessed as not meeting the operational capacity requirement. 3.110

The evaluation of the operational capacity criterion inappropriately excluded interested parties from further consideration. These interested parties may not have met the intention of the criterion, if it had specified that they should have already been operating a totalisator pool. If the evaluation criteria had explicitly stated the need to already be operating a totalisator pool, then there would be no issue. 3.129

The 'reserved discretions' in the Request for Expressions of Interest were intended to allow for greater flexibility in the sale process. However, the Australian Government Solicitor and Mr Charles Scerri, QC advised that it is more likely than not that the Hughes Case principles applied and a 'process contract' was relevant to the sale of ACTTAB. Therefore, the 'reserved discretions' in the Request for Expressions of Interest document cannot be relied upon. It would have been prudent not to exercise the 'reserved discretions' as if they had priority over the Request for Expressions of Interest criteria. 3.143

Concerns regarding the incorrect use and application of expression of interest criteria are not issues of semantics as three of the five potential interested parties that provided expressions of interest were excluded from further consideration in the sale process. 3.144

Probity activities associated with managing confidentiality agreements, the approach to the market, probity planning, responding to interested parties' clarification requests and due diligence were performed satisfactorily. 3.147

There were some areas where not all probity requirements were met: 3.148

- formal sign-off on key 'approach to market' documents and evaluation criteria;
- formal sign-off on evaluation processes and key 'milestones' and phases of the procurement process; and
- the management of a complaint.

The Probity Plan (December 2013) required the Probity Advisor to prepare a written report to the Steering Committee on the complaint referred for consideration. There was no evidence of this report and the Steering Committee minutes do not indicate whether any such report was presented to them. 3.157

Context for the sale process

3.2 The ACT Legislative Assembly passed a resolution in support of the sale of ACTTAB on 28 November 2013. The Sale Objectives set out in the resolution were:

- achieve a fair and reasonable price;
- ensure local racing industry is not negatively affected;
- achieve a timely sale;
- ensure the successful party has appropriate experience, capacity and integrity to operate a wagering business; and
- ensure employee welfare is considered.

3.3 Chapter 4 considers performance against these Sale Objectives.

Probity Plan (December 2013)

3.4 On 10 December 2013 the ACT Government approved a Probity Plan for the sale process. The Probity Plan (December 2013) set out 'the framework that will govern procedural aspects of the sale preparation and implementation phases in a manner which reflects a high degree of probity in achieving a value for money outcome.'

3.5 The Probity Plan (December 2013) required that the process be conducted consistently with the Sale Objectives (as established by the resolution of the Legislative Assembly in November 2013). The Probity Plan (December 2013) also required that the Sale Project Team ensure that the sale process be conducted with a high standard of probity and integrity.

Sale process

3.6 The sale of ACTTAB was undertaken in two stages:

- Stage 1 - Expression of Interest (EOI)
  - advertisement and contact with parties who had previously shown interest
  - invitation to express interest
  - evaluation of EOI (and Evaluation Report)
  - short list
- Stage 2 - Bid
  - indicative bid
  - indicative bid valuation
  - final bid
  - final bid evaluation
  - negotiation
  - contractual agreement.

3.7 The process for the sale of ACTTAB is illustrated in Figure 3-1. Also shown in this figure is the progression, or not, of interested parties.

3.8 Stage 1 of the sale process involved seeking expressions of interest from interest parties and was focused on short listing interested parties. The expression of interest stage was a critical stage as it was at this stage that interested parties were excluded from further participation in the process.

3.9 Stage 2 of the sale process, which involved the receipt and evaluation of indicative bids and final bids (the Bid stage), was focused on the value of the deal that could be agreed.

Request for expressions of interest

- 3.10 An open approach to the market was taken, whereby any interested party responding to the advertisement of the sale received a Request for Expression of Interest. The open approach to the market was initially flagged as being preferred by the Treasurer in the debate of the resolution for the sale of ACTTAB in the Legislative Assembly in November 2013.
- 3.11 As part of the debate of the resolution for the sale of ACTTAB in the Legislative Assembly the Treasurer stated:
- The sale will also be conducted through an open competitive process so as to maximise the number of bidders. This approach should ensure the best outcome for the Territory.
- 3.12 Members of the Sale Project Team also advised that, following the release of the PwC ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013), the market had shown some interest in the future sale. Accordingly, a number of interested parties that had submitted unsolicited expressions of interest subsequent to the release of the PwC report in July 2013 were also sent a Request for Expression of Interest in February 2014.
- 3.13 On 24 January 2014 a briefing was provided to the Chief Minister and Treasurer identifying that the strategy for the sale process would include seeking expressions of interest in order to short-list potential purchasers. The briefing advised:
- The sale strategy will use the Expression of Interest process to short list suitable parties to proceed to the Initial Offer Stage subject to signing a confidentiality agreement and accepting the bidding rules in order to be given access to confidential information to conduct due diligence. Short listing during this initial phase will be based on financial and operational capability to run Totalisator operations.
- 3.14 The Sales Advisor (Deloitte), on behalf of the ACT Government, Commerce and Works Directorate and ACTTAB, advertised in the press (Australian Financial Review and Weekend Australian) on 31 January 2014 and on 1 and 2 February 2014 respectively, that:
- ... it was seeking parties with a serious interest in acquiring ACTTAB. Parties responding would receive an invitation to lodge an Expression of Interest (Invitation).
- 3.15 A Request for Expression of Interest was sent out to interested parties that responded to the newspaper advertisements from 3 February 2014 onwards. Expressions of interest were required to be submitted by no later than 5:00 pm on 14 February 2014.
- 3.16 Eleven organisations were invited to lodge an expression of interest and five submissions were made by the due date and time.

Request for Expression of Interest document

- 3.17 A Request for Expression of Interest is expected to include sufficient information for interested parties to respond. Typically a minimum would be:
- a description of the subject of the expression of interest;
  - a formal call for expressions of interest;
  - a description of the process;
  - contact person;
  - indicative timetable;
  - evaluation criteria;
  - documents to be submitted;
  - lodgement requirements;
  - evaluation of applications; and
  - outcome of the process.
- 3.18 The Request for Expression of Interest sent to interested parties contained all relevant information requirements and was structured appropriately to allow for them to respond.
- 3.19 The time for the sale was short, and this was appropriately reflected in sale process documents and consequently in the times available for interested parties to respond to the Request for Expression of Interest, i.e. eleven days. At least one interested party requested an extension to the time, but this was not provided.
- 3.20 While a short response time is not necessarily a concern, it is important that information that is sought reflects the time available to the interested parties. The Sale Project Team, in evaluating the expressions of interest that were received, should have recognised the restricted time available to interested parties. This issue is addressed when considering the evaluation of the submissions in paragraph 3.125.

The Request Expression of Interest evaluation criteria

- 3.21 The Request for Expression of Interest set out the Sale Objectives as well as the evaluation criteria. In relation to the evaluation criteria, the Request for Expression of Interest stated:
- An Applicant's [expression of interest] should contain sufficient information to demonstrate, to the satisfaction of the Vendors ...
- 3.22 The evaluation criteria are shown in Table 3-1.

3: The sale process

Table 3-1 Request for Expression of Interest evaluation criteria

| EOI Criterion        |  |
|----------------------|--|
| Financial capacity   | Applicants must demonstrate the financial capacity to execute a contract sale and purchase for this transaction by no later than 30 June 2014 which must not be subject to the Applicant having to obtain necessary finance. As a guide Applicants should be able to demonstrate, either a net tangible asset position which is currently at least A$100m, a year net profit after tax of at least A$10m or if listed on a recognised stock exchange, a current market capitalisation of at least A$100m; |
| Operational capacity | Applicants must demonstrate that they currently have the ability or have a plan to successfully operate a wagering business including the pari-mutuel pooling arrangements, since existing pooling arrangements may or may not continue post the Sale Process;   |
| Future intentions    | Applicants should provide indicative guidance in relation to their future intentions for ACTTAB post the Sale Process; and   |
| Probity requirements | Applicants must provide a statement that they see no reasons why they, and their associates, would not be considered to be suitable to hold, or to be an associate of the holder, of a totalisator licence in the ACT.   |

3.23 The importance of evaluating expressions of interest against published evaluation criteria is an important principle of probity in procurement. The ACT Government Procurement Policy Circular PC21: Probity and Ethical Behaviour states:

The importance of probity has been reinforced by the Federal Court, which has handed down decisions that highlight the need for government agencies to deal fairly with prospective tenderers, adhere to proper procedures, and to conduct tender evaluations in accordance with the evaluation criteria as outlined in the request for offer documents.<sup>1</sup>

3.24 Similarly, the Australian Government Solicitor has also published guidance in relation to managing probity and process issues in procurement; Managing probity and process issues in procurement (Commercial Note No.15, 14 March 2005). The guidance states, in relation to a duty to act fairly:

... One aspect of this duty involves the requirement to evaluate bids according to the priorities and methodology specific in the RFT. In this context it is now common practice for government agencies to prepare and obtain internal sign off on a formal evaluation plan before bids are opened. Properly drafted and implemented evaluation plans enable agencies to demonstrate that they have objectively evaluated bids in accordance with the RFT and without conscious or subconscious bias towards an initially preferred bidder.

3.25 The Australian Government Solicitor's guidance further states:

... in practice there is often a lack of consistency between evaluation plans and the requirements specific in the applicable RFTs. To avoid this problem, the RFT and the evaluation plan should be drafted together to enable 'side by side' review to ensure that the evaluation methodology proposed in the plan is consistent with the draft RFT.

3.26 It is better practice that the basis of evaluation is also 'fixed' at the same time as the evaluation criteria. This is frequently achieved through determining the basis for the evaluation (i.e. developing an evaluation plan) and preparing the evaluation criteria at the same time and having them approved by the Probity Advisor and the ultimate delegate for the transaction. An arrangement such as this would have served to provide a check that the stipulated criteria would be likely to achieve the desired outcome of the sale.

3.27 While the development of an evaluation plan at the right time would not necessarily have affected the result of the sale, it would have been a strong control over process risk for such a complex and large sale.

3.28 No evaluation plan(s) were prepared for the sale of ACTTAB.

Quality of the Evaluation Criteria

3.29 The evaluation criteria used in the Request for Expression of Interest was analysed. Table 3-2 presents an analysis of the alignment of the expression of interest criteria with the Sale Objectives.

Table 3-2 Alignment of Sale Objectives with evaluation criteria

| Sale Objectives  | EOI Criterion (refer to Table 3-1)                                 | Comment  |
|--|--|--|
| Achieve a fair and reasonable price.   | None   | While no price/value criterion existed, pricing was considered in the indicative Offer and Final bid stages. This is consistent with usual practice. |
| Achieve a timely sale.Ensure the successful purchaser has the appropriate experience, integrity and capacity to operate a wagering business. | Financial CapacityOperational CapacityProbity Requirements | The timeliness of the sale is only referred to in the body of the financial criterion; this restricts the basis for evaluation.                      |
| Ensure the local racing industry is not negatively affected.Ensure employee welfare is considered.   | Future Intentions  | The criterion was supported by some explanatory text about employees and assets, but did not include the racing industry.                            |

3.30 The evaluation criteria in the Request for Expression of Interest did not align with the Sale Objectives, as identified in the ACT Legislative Assembly resolution in November 2013. It would have been straightforward to directly align the evaluation criteria in the Request for Expression of Interest with the Sale Objectives. This would have provided greater assurance that the Sale Objectives would have been appropriately considered in the evaluation process. Not aligning the criteria to the Sale Objectives presented a risk that important objectives of the sale were not given appropriate prominence in the selection process.

3.31 On this issue, however, the ACT Government Solicitor advises that:

The purpose of the REOI was clearly stated to be for ACTTAB and the Territory to determine those applicants that should progress into the "...competitive, staged [sale] process...". On that basis, there is not suggestion or requirement that the evaluation criteria strictly align with the stated sale objectives. The evaluation criteria could be whatever ACTTAB and the Territory considered properly identified the parties who should proceed into the asset sale process. The criteria effectively fulfilled that purpose as well as aligning in material respects with the stated sale objectives: for example, the first and third objectives were reflected in criterion 2, and the fourth and fifth objectives were reflected in criteria 3 and 4, respectively.

3.32 Two other features of the evaluation criteria are:

- the binary nature of one of the criteria; and
- aggregation of unrelated requirements in another criteria.

Binary criteria

3.33 The probity criterion simply required that the interested party 'provide a statement':

Applicants must provide a statement that they see no reason why they, and their associates, would not be considered to be suitable to hold, or to be an associate of the holder, of a totalisator licence in ACT.

3.34 This has two important weaknesses:

- the requirement is binary, in that the interested party either complies (by making the required statement), or does not; it does not request detailed information to allow for either a measured and/or comparative evaluation of the probity of the interested parties; and
- the criterion is only indirectly targeted at probity. The criterion is constructed in a way that the measureable element is the ability of an interested party to provide a particular statement.

3.35 The probity criterion should have been worded to facilitate a measured and comparative assessment of interested parties, or the provision of the material requested should have been made a condition for participation.

Aggregation of unrelated requirements

3.36 The financial capacity criterion stated:

Applicants must demonstrate the financial capacity to execute a contract for sale and purchase for this transaction by no later than 30 June 2014 which must not be subject to the Applicant having to obtain necessary finance. As a guide Applicants should be able to demonstrate, either a net tangible asset position which is currently at least $100m, a prior year net profit after tax of at least A$10m or if listed on a recognised stock exchange, a current capitalisation of at least A$100m.

3.37 A problem with this criterion is that it has defined timeliness in terms of financial capacity when there are other factors that could impact on timeliness, e.g. the time required for applicants to gain regulatory approval.

3.38 This criterion should have been disaggregated into two criteria as follows:

- financial capacity; and
- ability to meet timeline for the transaction.

3.39 This disaggregation would have been appropriate given that the requirement to achieve a timely sale was a specific Sale Objective.

3.40 The criteria used for the evaluation of expressions of interest were poorly crafted as:

- one of the criteria was 'binary' and did not lend itself to being used to make a comparative evaluation between interested parties. Binary requirements are usually conditions for participation in a process rather than an evaluation criteria; and
- one of the Sale Objectives (timeliness) was aggregated with the financial capacity criterion and consequently could not be evaluated independently from financial considerations.

3.41 The ACT Government Solicitor advised that:

The purpose of the REOI was clearly stated to be for ACTTAB and the Territory to determine those applicants that should progress into the " ... competitive, staged, [sale] process ... ". On that basis, there is no suggestion or requirement that the evaluation criteria strictly align with the stated sale objectives. The evaluation criteria could be whatever ACTTAB and the Territory considered properly identified the parties who should proceed into the asset sale process. The criteria effectively fulfilled that purpose as well as aligning in material respects with the stated asset sale objectives: for example, the first and third objectives were reflected in criterion 2, and the fourth and fifth objectives were reflected in criteria 3 and 4, respectively.

3.42 The Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate advised that:

... the evaluation criteria were prepared in collaboration with the Project Team, the Steering Committee, the Sales Advisor and the Legal/Probity Advisor who have a collective wealth of knowledge and experience in this regard.

The sale objectives were identified in the first paragraph of the Request for Expression of Interest document to serve as a guide to applicants.

It was not considered necessary at such an early stage to expect candidates to thoroughly address each objective before they had been given the opportunity to conduct due diligence. ACTTAB was not prepared to allow applicants to conduct due diligence unless they were considered likely to be able to ultimately enter into a sale contract.

3: The sale process

It is my understanding the eligibility criteria were prepared with two key risks in mind, namely execution and timetable risks.

- 3.43 While it is not necessary for the criteria to align with the Sale Objectives, as stated in paragraph 3.30, not aligning the criteria to the Sale Objectives increased the risk that important objectives of the sale were not given appropriate prominence in the selection process. This is what appears to have happened in relation to the ‘achieve a timely sale’ Sale Objective (refer to paragraphs 3.97 to 3.107).
- 3.44 The result of the sale process could have been achieved with less risk if the evaluation criteria had been more focused on the key factors mentioned; execution and timetable.

Market response

- 3.45 Five responses to the Request for Expression of Interest were received by the closing time of 5:00 pm on 14 February 2014, including responses from the two holders of totalisator pools in Australia.

Evaluation of expressions of interest

The evaluation chronology and short listing

- 3.46 The evaluation of expressions of interest was initially undertaken by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte), with input from members of the Sale Project Team and Steering Committee.
- 3.47 On 19 February 2014 the Chair of the Sale Project Team sought legal advice noting that ‘as some respondents have proposed they would offer TOTE odds if they are unable to access a betting pool it may be worthwhile considering if they would be eligible for an exclusive licence under such an arrangement.’ The Audit Office was advised by the Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate that legal advice was provided in emails from the ACT Government Solicitor on 20 February, 25 February 2014 and 2 March 2014. This advice is discussed in paragraphs 3.50 to 3.56 and 3.120 to 3.122. The Audit Office was further advised that ‘it was the content of the legal advice received that convinced the Project Team and Deloitte to exclude three of the respondents at the Expression of Interest stage.’
- 3.48 The evaluation of the responses took place between 14 and 27 February 2014. The evaluation was initially conducted by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) with an evaluation report (the first evaluation report) produced and sent to the Sale Project Team on 19 February 2014. The evaluation report recommended all five interest parties proceed to the next phase of the process.

- 3.49 The first evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) (19 February 2014) recommended:
- ... all five parties proceed to the next phase of the process since there appear to be no compelling reasons to exclude any party based on the evaluation criteria.
- 3.50 In response to the first evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte), on 20 February 2014 the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice sent an email to members of the Sale Project Team. The email (which was subsequently retracted and updated) provided comments on each of the expressions of interest that were received, and ranked the expressions of interest 'in order of the quality of their responses'.
- 3.51 The Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice concluded:
- We have a stated deadline of 30 June to get this matter complete. ... (T)aking through marginal and most likely unsatisfactory bidders to the IM process to my mind unnecessarily adds time, work and cost to the process ... To my mind there are only two (perhaps marginally three) out of this process.
- 3.52 The Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice provided an evaluation that was subjective and did not consider the expressions of interest against the published evaluation criteria. It concluded that certain interested parties should be excluded based on the following reasoning:
- We all knew the key distinguishing question in the EOI was how bidders would address the tote pooling issues and the responses have confirmed what we already (thought) we knew.
- ... none of these parties (the three bidders being excluded) would be entitled to hold a tote licence ...
- 3.53 Following a meeting of the Sale Project Team on 20 February, the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) produced a second evaluation report on 21 February 2014. The evaluation report recommended all five potential interested parties proceed to the next phase of the process.
- 3.54 The second evaluation report (21 February 2014) recommended:
- Considering progressing all five parties to the next phase since there appear to be no compelling reasons to exclude any party based on the evaluation criteria provided to applicants.
- 3.55 On 25 February 2014 the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice sent an email to the Sale Project Team that retracted and updated the email previously sent on 20 February 2014. Similar to the first email, comments were provided on each of the expressions of interest that were received, and the expressions of interest were ranked 'in order of the quality of their responses'. The email provided an opinion that only two of the interested parties should proceed to the next phase.

3: The sale process

3.56 The email from the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice stated:

In my view the Territory can only move into the IM phase with bidders who have satisfied the EOI criteria satisfactorily and whose bids are likely to result in the Territory meeting the sale objectives. In my view only Tabcorp and [another interested party] can be considered to satisfy these requirements.

3.57 On 25 February 2014, the Steering Committee considered the Sales Advisor's (Deloitte) second evaluation report and requested that the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) update the evaluation report and provide a ranking of the interested parties.

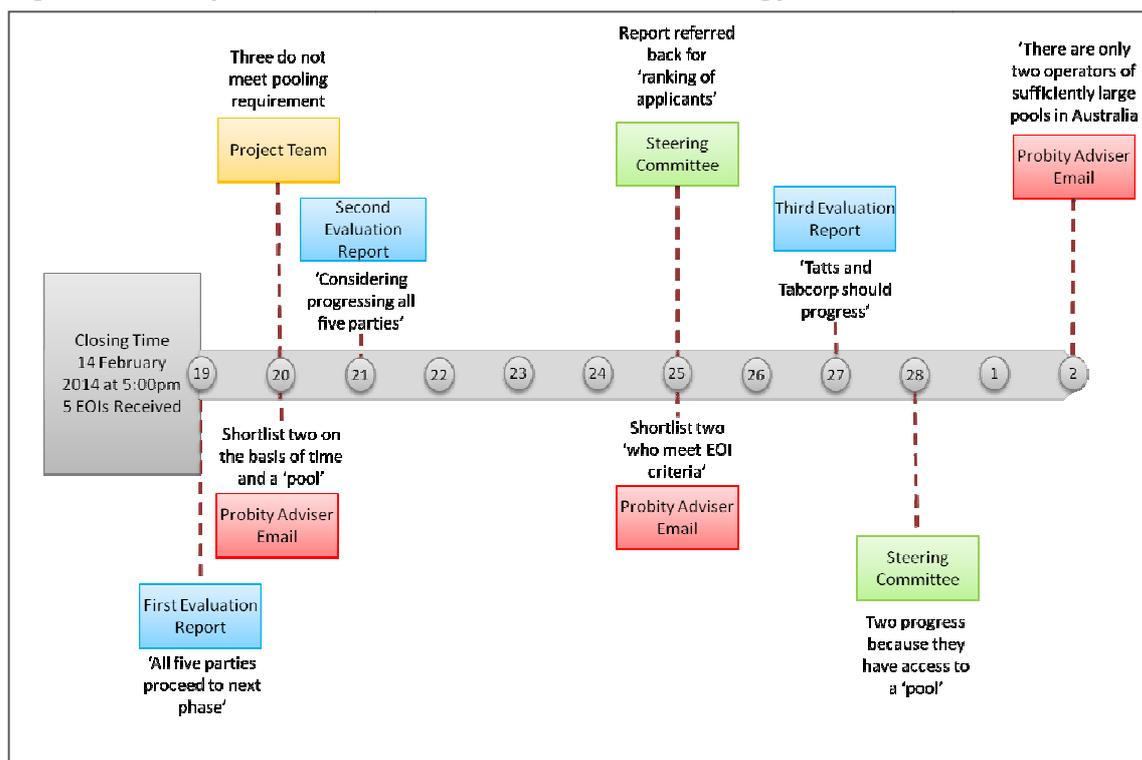

3.58 Minutes of the meeting of the Steering Committee on 25 February 2014 stated:

ACTION: Deloitte and Project Team update the evaluation report with more discussion including a ranking of the applicants.

3.59 On 27 February 2014, the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) produced a third (and ultimately final) evaluation report that recommended inter alia that '[two of the interested parties] should progress to the next phase ...'

3.60 The chronology of the evaluation of expressions of interest is illustrated in Figure 3-2.

Legal/Probity Adviser role in evaluation

3.61 The Legal/Probity Adviser sent two emails to the Sale Project Team, which provided advice and guidance in relation to the evaluation of the expressions of interest that were received. The Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice provided an opinion in relation to which of the interested parties should progress to the next phase of the sale process.

- 3.62 The Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice should not conduct evaluations in procurements as this impairs the conduct of the probity role. The conduct of the probity role was articulated in the Probity Plan (December 2013) where the role was described as being one of responding to requests for probity advice.

Documentation of evaluation

- 3.63 At its meeting on 28 February 2014, the Steering Committee considered:

- the third (and ultimately final) evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte); and
- an agenda paper from the Sale Project Team, which the Sale Project Team advised was its evaluation report.

- 3.64 The third (and ultimately final) evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) stated '[two interested parties] should progress to the next phase of the process. The key risk which the shareholders should consider in determining whether to progress the remaining three bidders is their ability to execute a pooling agreement, for which no party has presented a clear alternative to [one of the interested parties], presenting a significant execution concern.' The agenda paper from the Sale Project Team stated '... there are only two suitable candidates who should be invited to participate in the indicative offer stage.'

- 3.65 The agenda paper of the Sale Project Team stated:

Attached for the consideration of the Steering Committee is the ACTTAB EOI Evaluation report submitted by Deloitte.

The Project Team has reviewed the report and each of the five submissions received in response to the request for EOI's that was advertised in the Financial Review on 31 January 2014 and the Weekend Australian on 1 February 2014 and submit their recommendation:

The Project Team has assessed each proposal against the criteria listed above and considers there are only two suitable candidates who should be invited to participate in the indicative offer stage. The two firms selected are ...

The Project Team found the remaining three applicants had other process risks including passing probity and/or did not provide adequate responses concerning prospective pooling arrangements. The ability to hold a licence under the proposed Totalisator Act is fundamental to the viability of the sale.

3: The sale process

3.66 The minutes of the Steering Committee meeting of 28 February 2014 record that the short listing of interested parties was discussed and that:

The report of the Project Team was considered and it was decided applicants had received adequate notice of the need to address the pooling requirement in order to be eligible to apply for a totalisator licence.

3.67 This issue of adequate notice is considered in paragraph 3.127.

3.68 The minutes of the 28 February Meeting of the Steering Committee also state the following action to be taken as a result of the meeting:

Shareholders to be informed on the EOI outcome subject to confirmation of ACTTAB Board position and resolution of Steering Committee.

3.69 This information was conveyed to the ACTTAB Board and on 3 March 2014 the Chief Executive Officer of ACTTAB advised the Chair of the Steering Committee that 'The Chairman has requested that I inform you that the ACTTAB Board has today unanimously endorsed the proposed recommendation of the Steering Committee to be put to the Shareholders, that only ... be progressed to the next stage of the sales process.'

3.70 On 6 March 2014, in relation to the resolution identified in the 28 February 2014 agenda paper of the Sale Project Team, the Chair of the Steering Committee advised the Chair of the Sale Project Team 'I can confirm that I support this.' On 6 March 2014 the Deputy Chair of the Steering Committee similarly advised 'I too support the recommendation that was presented to the Steering Committee.'

3.71 The three reports of the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) provided a documented assessment of each of the five expressions of interest received against selection criteria. (There are, however, issues associated with the application of the selection criteria, which are discussed in paragraphs 3.86 to 3.133).

3.72 The agenda paper of the Sale Project Team did not provide a detailed assessment of the selection criteria for each of the expressions of interest. The agenda paper of the Sale Project Team did, however, provide an overall summary of information received.

3.73 The evaluation process brought out differences in the conclusions drawn about the interested parties' submissions, specifically the discussions that focused on the short listing with respect to whether all five or only two interested parties should progress. However, the only documentation of the reasons for the evaluation was in:

- the evaluation reports prepared by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte);
- the Sale Project Team agenda paper to the Steering Committee meeting held on 28 February 2014; and
- emails sent by the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice.

3.74 There was no evidence of:

- documented and retained individual assessments of the submissions by members of the Sales Project Team;
  - documentation showing a consolidated assessment of where the individual assessments of the submissions by members of the Sales Project Team were brought together; and
  - a formal evaluation report with detail and judgements highlighted.
- 3.75 Documentation of decision making is important to demonstrate the integrity of an evaluation process. For example, the Commonwealth Procurement Rules 2014 state:
- In conducting procurements, officials are expected to appropriately manage risk. This requires considering the approach to procurement, evaluating available courses of action and recording and documenting relevant decisions ...
- 3.76 The Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate stated:
- The auditors were interested to see the working papers of members of the Project Team in relation the evaluation of the expressions of interest. These working papers do not exist as it was usual practice to circulate draft papers out of session to allow members to prepare for each meeting. Project Team members were not asked to table their working papers.
- 3.77 One of the key probity objectives set out in the Probity Plan was: Establishing and maintaining a clear audit trail for accountability purposes. The creation and maintenance of evaluation documentation is a key part of the accountability requirement. Documentation to support the evaluation of the expression of interest criteria was inadequate.
- 3.78 In relation to the evaluation process, the Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate advised that:
- The Project Team has advised it did not place unquestioning reliance on the advice of the Sales Advisor.
- The Project Team undertook to ensure that the advice was reliable and appropriately addressed all considerations on which a recommendation to the ACTTAB Board and the Voting Shareholders should be based.
- Throughout the sale process the Project Team considered the basis upon which the various experts formed their view on particular issues before taking a final position.
- On occasion the Project Team asked the Sale Advisor to undertake additional work, or sought further advice from other experts including the Legal/Probity Advisors.
- If the Project Team considered any advice may be incomplete or unreliable, I believe the Project Team had an implied duty to make further inquiries to maintain the integrity of the process and to minimise any associated risk.
- In this regard, after attaining satisfaction as to whether the information was reliable and competent, I expect the Project Team needed to ensure the Steering Committee, ACTTAB Board and Voting Shareholders were adequately briefed to be able to make an informed decision at each stage.

3: The sale process

---

I understand the Project Team did not accept on face value the initial draft report prepared by the Sale Advisor that recommended all five applicants proceed to the next stage.

...

In order to reduce the risk of the Board not agreeing to the terms of the sale, the Project Team and the Steering Committee ensured that the Board was briefed and given the opportunity to respond before key decisions were made. The following email extracts were in keeping with this protocol.

The minutes of 28 February 2014 indicate the ACTTAB Chairman would undertake to confirm the position of the Board about the proposed short listing of the Expressions of Interest.

In an email dated 3 March 2014, ACTTAB's CEO advised the Chair of the Steering Committee that the "ACTTAB Board has today unanimously endorsed the proposed recommendation of the Steering Committee to be put to the Shareholders, that only Tabcorp and [another interested party] be progressed to the next stage of the sales process".

The support of the Chair of the Steering Committee was confirmed in an email dated 4 March 2014.

The support of the Deputy Chair of the Steering Committee was confirmed in an email dated 6 March 2014.

The Voting Shareholders were advised in a brief prepared by the Chair of the Project Team on 5 March 2014 regarding the outcome of the call for expressions of interest. The brief outlined the five responses that were received and the assessment of each. The brief indicated only Tabcorp and [another interested party] would be invited to progress through to the indicative offer stage, and provided the Voting Shareholders the opportunity to comment or disagree with that course of action.

Hughes Case

- 3.79 As mentioned in paragraph 1.27 the sale of ACTTAB raised four key legal questions (refer to Appendix A). While all questions are relevant to the sale of ACTTAB, two are particularly pertinent to how the evaluation criteria were assessed. The two questions are:
- Was the sale of ACTTAB subject to the Hughes Case?
  - Do the 'reserved discretions', in the Request for Expression of Interest, remove or reduce the application of the Hughes Case?
- 3.80 The Australian Government Solicitor and Mr Charles Scerri QC provided advice regarding the above questions (refer to Appendix A).
- 3.81 The Australian Government Solicitor and Mr Charles Scerri, QC concluded that it was more likely than not that the principles of the Hughes Case applied to the sale of ACTTAB. As a result, a 'process contract' existed in the sale of ACTTAB and there was, therefore, an obligation to conduct the sale in accordance with the defined procedures and the stated criteria that was in the Request for Expression of Interest.

- 3.82 The ACT Government Solicitor advised in responding to the proposed audit report that the principles of the Hughes Case did not apply.
- 3.83 While there is a difference of views, given the type of sale with its complexities and uncertainties, and given the consequences if the Hughes Case did apply, it would have been prudent for such an issue to have been explicitly considered in a risk analysis, in preparation for the sale. However, there is no evidence that this occurred. If it had occurred, any issues emerging could have been managed to reduce any associated risk.
- 3.84 The evaluation of the expression of interest criteria is considered to be inadequate regardless of whether (or not) the principles of the Hughes Case apply. If the Hughes Case does apply the issues have greater gravity because of:
- the use of different criteria to those in the Request for Expression of Interest document;
  - the evaluation of binary criteria in a non binary way; and
  - evaluation using material not provided by the applicant.
- 3.85 These are discussed in the following section of the report.

Inadequacies in what was evaluated

- 3.86 The assessment of the evaluation process undertaken as part of this performance audit is based on the information contained in the third and final evaluation report prepared by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) on 27 February 2014 and presented to the Steering Committee on 28 February 2014 and the agenda paper from the Sale Project Team.

Use of different criteria to those in the *Request for Expression of Interest

- 3.87 The criteria from the Request for Expression of Interest have been compared to the criteria actually used in evaluating the expressions of interest in the third (and final) evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte). Differences in the criteria are shown in Table 3-3.

3: The sale process

Table 3-3 Comparison of Request for Expression of Interest criteria and actual evaluation criteria use in assessing bids (Deloitte Sales Advisor report)

| EOI criterion (Full details in Table 3-1) | Evaluation report criterion used for ranking | Comment  |
|---|--|--|
| Financial capacity                        | Financial strength                           | Strong alignment   |
| Operational capacity                      | Pooling solution                             | Did not consider broader matters associated with operational capacity and focused explicitly on the pooling solution |
| Future intentions                         |  | Not considered in evaluation for ranking   |
| Probity requirements                      | Likelihood of passing probity                | Took into account a broad range of factors not identified in the EOI criterion (see 3.97)                            |
|   | Ability to meet transaction timeframes       | Evaluated separately for ranking but was not identified as a separate criterion in the EOI                           |

Source: ACT Audit Office

3.88 The agenda paper from the Sale Project Team, provided to the Steering Committee on 28 February 2014, did not provide an explicit assessment of the five responses that were received against the selection criteria. Nevertheless, the agenda paper from the Sale Project Team advised the Steering Committee that:

The request for EOI's indicated that proposals would be assessed against the following criteria:

- Demonstrated financial capacity to complete the transaction by 30 June 2014.
- Demonstrated operational capacity to successfully operate a wagering business. This included a mandatory requirement to demonstrate they currently have the ability or have a plan to successfully operate a wagering business including pari-mutuel arrangements.
- Indicative guidance in relation to the applicant's future intentions for the business.
- Providing a statement that the applicant or their associates can see no reason why they would be considered unsuitable to hold a totalisator licence in the ACT.

3.89 Neither the final evaluation report prepared by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) or the agenda paper from the Sale Project Team to the Steering Committee precisely or rigorously applied the evaluation criteria set out in the Request for Expression of Interest document sent to interested parties. The incorrect application of evaluation criteria presents a risk to the probity of the sale process. If the Hughes Case is relevant to the sale of ACTTAB, this risk is exacerbated. Regardless, there is a high probability that interested parties would have had an expectation that they would be evaluated against the criteria in the Request for Expression of Interest document. This did not occur.

Evaluation of binary and non binary criteria

3.90 In paragraph 3.33 the issue of 'binary' criteria was discussed. It was evident that interested parties responded to the evaluation in line with the stated requirements. For example, the probity criterion required applicants to:

... provide a statement that they see no reason why they, and their associates, would not be considered to be suitable ...

3.91 All applicants provided a statement to the effect required by the criterion.

3.92 However, ultimately, in the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) third and final evaluation report applicants were ranked based on a subjective evaluation of the quality of their response to this binary criterion. The impact of this is described below.

What was asked for:

Applicants must provide a statement that they see no reason why they, and their associates, would not be considered to be suitable to hold, or to be an associate of the holder, of a totalisator licence in ACT.

An interested party's response:

The consortium including its members, subsequent shareholders, directors and key staff acknowledge that in order to submit their bid they must successfully undertake probity. The consortium members and their associates acknowledge the importance and value of the probity process and see no reason why it, or its associates would not be considered suitable by the ACT Gambling and Racing Commission. Many consortium members and/or associates have undertaken probity in a variety in a number of jurisdictions.

The evaluation:

3.93 The third and final evaluation report (27 February 2014) ranked this interested party as equal fourth on this criterion. The correct application of this criterion cannot be a 'ranking'. It is, of its nature, 'met' or 'not met'. The interested party 'met' the criterion through the provision of the required statement and this ranking should not have influenced a decision to exclude certain interested parties.

3.94 The agenda paper from the Sale Project Team to the Steering Committee (28 February 2014) stated:

The Project Team is concerned that the consortium may not pass the probity requirement.

3.95 There were no other statements, reasoning or arguments or documentation in support of the Sale Project Team's view, as articulated in its agenda paper (28 February 2014).

3.96 The incorrect application of the probity criterion, which was essentially a 'binary' criterion that did not contemplate a subjective assessment, inappropriately excluded interested parties from further consideration. These interested parties may not have met the criterion had it been more aptly worded to allow for a subjective assessment.

3: The sale process

Using material not provided by the applicant (ability to complete a timely sale)

3.97 The requirement for a timely completion of the transaction was aggregated with financial capacity considerations, as discussed in paragraph 3.36. An example is set out below.

What was asked for:

Applicants must demonstrate the financial capacity to execute a contract for sale and purchase for this transaction by no later than 30 June 2014 which must not be subject to the Applicant having to obtain necessary finance. As a guide Applicants should be able to demonstrate, either a net tangible asset position which is currently at least $100m, a prior year net profit after tax of at least A$10m or if listed on a recognised stock exchange, a current capitalisation of at least A$100m.

3.98 The information requirements for this criterion stated:

This information may include, but is not limited to, the following: Most recent annual report, most recent annual company return provided to the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (or such equivalent regulatory body), statement of market capital, tax return or bank statement.

Interested parties' responses:

3.99 All interested parties' responses to the financial capacity requirement were focused explicitly on their financial status. None provided a broader response to the timeliness requirement.

3.100 For example, an interested party responded:

[the interested party] is a 100% fully owned subsidiary of [the interested party's parent company], a [country] based company which is listed on the [city] Stock Exchange. ... This shows that as of today the company has a market capitalisation of [currency] 1.3b.

3.101 The interested party also included in its expression of interest a range of supporting financial material.

The evaluation:

3.102 The ranking of expressions of interest by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) included a criterion Ability to meet transaction timeframes, which was assessed based on information that was not provided by applicants.

3.103 In relation to one of the expressions of interest that was received, the agenda paper from the Sale Project Team to the Steering Committee (28 February 2014) stated:

It is noted that Deloitte has previously indicated that if the process involved overseas purchasers a more comprehensive due diligence process may be required. The required probity checks by the regulator are also expected to extend for several months which would put the expected completion within the stated timetable at risk.

- 3.104 The Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice emailed advice and analysis regarding the evaluation of the expression of interest to the Sale Project Team on 20 February 2014 in which it was stated:

We have a stated deadline of 30 June to get this matter complete. ... (T)aking through marginal and most likely unsatisfactory bidders to the IM process to my mind unnecessarily adds time, work and cost to the process ... To my mind there are only two (perhaps marginally three) out of this process.

- 3.105 This statement extends the assessment of timeliness to include consideration of additional work, cost and the likely success of an interested party. This is outside the framing of the criterion which makes a singular link to financial capacity.
- 3.106 The timeliness of the transaction was one of the Sale Objectives and was of considerable importance. However, this requirement was aggregated with other considerations in another criterion and should only have been evaluated in that context. The matter of timeliness (except to the extent it was linked to financial viability) should not have been considered in the evaluation of interested parties' expressions of interest.
- 3.107 The use of external material in evaluating submissions, including the work associated with evaluating interested parties' responses, should not have been used as the basis for the exclusion of interested parties from further consideration. This material could have been considered had the process been designed differently.

Evaluation of the ability to operate a wagering business, including a pari mutuel pooling arrangement

- 3.108 The operational capacity criterion required that interested parties demonstrate that they currently have the ability, or have a plan, to successfully operate a wagering business including a pari mutuel pooling arrangement.

- 3.109 The operational capacity criterion stated:

Applicants must demonstrate that they currently have the ability or have a plan to successfully operate a wagering business including the pari mutuel pooling arrangements, since existing pooling arrangements may or may not continue post the Sale Process.

- 3.110 Two interested parties operated large totalisator pools in Australia. The three other interested parties did not, and submitted their planned intentions in relation to establishing a pari mutuel pooling arrangement. The three other interested parties were primarily excluded from the process because they were assessed as not meeting the operational capacity requirement.

Submissions from interest parties

3.111 Two of the interested parties identified that they were currently operating totalisator pools in Australia and that they had the necessary capacity and experience to run a pari mutuel pooling arrangement in the ACT.

3.112 One of the interested parties advised of their planned intentions as follows:

- continue the existing arrangement with one of the operators of a totalisator pool in Australia;
- if agreement was not reached, seek a pooling arrangement with the other operator of a totalisator pool in Australia;
- operate its own pool; or
- 'offer the same product ... via tote odds betting.'

3.113 Another interested party advised of its planned intentions as follows:

- continue the existing arrangement with one of the operators of a totalisator pool in Australia;
- if agreement was not reached, seek a pooling arrangement with another pari mutuel operator; or
- (noting that one of its subsidiaries was currently operating a pari mutuel arrangement in Europe) seek to either licence its software or alternatively build the necessary software through its technical team in Australia.

3.114 Another interested party identified that 'pari-mutuel betting is not presently offered on any of our sites but partners have experience of running pari-mutuel and this can easily be added to the product portfolio.'

Evaluation results

3.115 The third and final evaluation report from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) provided an evaluation and ranking of the bidders, as shown in Table 3-4.

3.116 The agenda paper from the Sale Project Team to the Steering Committee (28 February 2014) stated:

The Project Team found that the three remaining applicants had other process risks including passing probity and/or did not provide adequate responses concerning prospective pooling arrangements. The ability to hold a licence under the proposed Totalisator Act is fundamental to the viability of the sale.

3.117 In relation to the expression of interest response identified above (refer to paragraph 3.112) the agenda paper from the Sale Project Team to the Steering Committee (28 February 2014) stated:

Nor has [the interested party] provided adequate information to satisfy the pooling requirements in order to be eligible for the pari-mutuel licence offered as a key part of the proposed sale.

3.118 In relation to the expression of interest response identified above (refer to paragraph 3.113) the agenda paper from the Sale Project Team to the Steering Committee (28 February 2014) stated:

The Project Team is concerned that unless [the interested party] can secure a pooling arrangement with [one of the operators of totalisator pools in Australia] they would rely on synthetic pooling or offering fixed odds. This presents a key risk as to whether they would be eligible to hold the pari-mutuel licence which comprises a key part of the proposed sale.

The Project Team does not consider [the interested party] has adequately addressed the pari-mutuel pooling criteria ...

3: The sale process

---

3.119 In relation to the expression of interest response identified above (refer to paragraph 3.114) the agenda paper from the Sale Project Team to the Steering Committee (28 February 2014) stated:

... the response does not adequately address the pooling requirement.

Evaluation process

3.120 In relation to the evaluation of the expressions of interest that were received, the Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate advised:

... the turning point came when the Chair of the Project Team sought legal advice as to whether 'tote odds betting' or 'synthetic pooling' would satisfy the requirements to obtain a totalisator licence. When the legal advice was received indicating that tote odds betting or synthetic pooling did not satisfy the requirements for pari-mutuel betting, the Project Team considered it was inevitable that only [the two operators of totalisator pools in Australia] could proceed to the next stage. In other words, no pari-mutuel pool meant not totalisator licence which in turn meant no totalisator business. The Project Team's recommendation to the Steering Committee indicated this was the primary reason for excluding three of the expressions of interest.

3.121 The Audit Office sought clarification on the legal advice that was provided. The Audit Office was referred to two emails from the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice (20 February 2014 and 25 February 2014). These emails, as discussed previously in paragraphs 3.47 to 3.56, provided a summary of comments on the expressions of interest that were received. The emailed advice from 25 February 2014 stated:

I have three further general comments:

- what is being sold (apart from the assets of ACTTAB) is a license to operate a pari mutuel/totalisator wagering system. This is clearly set out in the new Totalisator legislation. ... all indicate they will offer fixed odds/best tote odds if they cannot do a deal with [one of the two operators of totalisator pools in Australia] to access their pools. Fixed odds offerings are not pari mutuel betting systems and accordingly, none of these parties would seem to be entitled to hold the tote licence unless they actually operate a totalisator. This would seem to defeat the purpose of the sale.
- The Treasurer made a press release in November 2013 regarding the government's intention to sell ACTTAB and to complete the process by 30 June 2014. Those parties sufficiently interested in the sale ought to have been well aware of this and I think could have commenced getting their bid structures together from that time, including addressing the issue of pari mutuel pooling.

3.122 The Audit Office was also referred to an email from the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice on Sunday 2 March 2014 to the members of the Steering Committee. The email stated:

Further to the Steering Committee meeting on Friday 28 Feb 2014 I note you have asked for my advice in relation to the reasoning for requiring the buyer of ACTTAB to have the ability to operate a pari mutuel totalisator and hold a licence in terms of the proposed Totalisator Act, as part of the EOI process.

I understand the pari mutuel totalisator operations of ACTTAB form a substantial part of its business undertaking and it was always in the contemplation of the Territory and ACTTAB that the business would be sold as a going concern in conjunction with an exclusive licence to operate a totalisator in the Territory. Further, it was expected that a significant part of the sale proceeds would result from the offering of the exclusive totalisator licence and it was also considered likely the licence would provide the Territory with an opportunity for ongoing value through licence fees and/or other valuable licence conditions.

It should be noted that in order to operate an effective pari mutuel totalisator pool, the operator must have access to a sufficiently large pool of bets on Australian races in order to ensure attractive returns to punters. There are only two operators of sufficiently large totalisator pools in Australia: ... ACTTAB currently contracts with ... to access its totalisator pool, but it is not clear that ... would agree to novate that agreement to a buyer and this was made clear in the EOI materials.

In light of the above, all respondents to the EOI were asked to indicate that they either already operate a pari mutuel totalisator with access to a pool, or have a plan to access such a pool. It was a matter for respondents to make necessary enquiries and arrangements to satisfy this requirement - either through perhaps an arrangement with [one of the two operators of totalisator pools in Australia] or some other pooling arrangement. Given the sale has been public since November 2013, it is difficult to accept that potential bidders have not had sufficient time to make appropriate enquiries and arrangements to address the pooling requirement.

As I understand the responses to the EOI, other than for ..., no respondent indicated they had an existing pool or had any reasonable plan to operate a pool - including none indicating they had made any contact with ... to discuss access to their pools. Those parties instead indicated they would simply offer fixed odds (or some permutation of fixed odds) if they weren't able to negotiate a novation of the [existing] agreement. An offering of fixed odds is quite distinct from odds offered via a pari mutuel totalisator, does not require a totalisator licence and a sale to such a bidder would result in a very different sale outcome than that currently envisaged.

Issues with the evaluation of this criterion

3.123 There are three issues arising from the evaluation of the operational capacity criterion:

- the criterion states that interested parties must demonstrate that they have the ability, or have a plan, to successfully operate a wagering business, including pari mutuel arrangements. The criterion is silent on the extent, or other expectations, of any 'plan';
- there was arguably insufficient time available to interested parties for them to develop a detailed or comprehensive 'plan'; and
- there was an expectation on the part of the Sale Project Team that interested parties would have approached one of the two operators of totalisator pools in Australia and come to an arrangement with them for the purpose of the expression of interest stage.

3: The sale process

3.124 In relation to the first issue, the operational capacity criterion states that interested parties must demonstrate that they have the ability, or have a plan, to successfully operate a wagering business, including pari mutuel arrangements. The criterion is silent on the extent, or other expectations, of the plan. The three interested parties who were excluded from the process beyond the expression of interest stage all advised of their planned intentions, but this was considered inadequate.

3.125 In relation to the second issue and the limited time available, the applicants had eleven calendar days to prepare their expressions of interest (3 February 2014 to 14 February 2014). However, the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice stated that:

The Treasurer made a press release in November 2013 regarding the Government's intention to sell ACTTAB and to complete the process by 30 June 2014. Those parties sufficiently interested in the sale ought to have been well aware of this and I think should have commenced getting their bid structures together from that time.

3.126 The appropriate mechanism to notify the market of an intended procurement process and to allow prospective applicants to make preparation for an upcoming procurement is through a pre-tender (or pre-sale) notification. This did not occur.

3.127 In relation to the third issue, during interviews Sale Project Team members stated that it was expected that, as part of the 'plan' required by the criterion, interested parties would have reached an agreement with one of the two totalisator pool licence holders. This was also noted by the Probity Advisor in advice to the Steering Committee on 2 March 2014.

3.128 For this expectation of the Sale Project Team to be met, the two operators of totalisator pools would need to agree (in principle) to a competitor accessing its totalisator pool to enable that competitor to compete with them. There was no evidence of analysis to support this expectation.

3.129 The evaluation of the operational capacity criterion inappropriately excluded interested parties from further consideration. These interested parties may not have met the intention of the criterion, if it had specified that they should have already been operating a totalisator pool. If the evaluation criteria had explicitly stated the need to already be operating a totalisator pool, then there would be no issue.

3.130 The ACT Government Solicitor advised that:

It was apparently plain to the decision makers (which accorded with the advice from the Project Team) that the responses to the operational capacity criteria by each of (three unsuccessful applicants) had failed to satisfy the criteria:

- (One) expressed merely that they had some experience offering pari-mutuel wagering;
- (Another) expressed that they would endeavour to reach an agreement with [one of the operators of a totalisator pool in Australia], or if not, with [the other operator of the a totalisator pool in Australia]; and

- (The last) indicated they would hope to contract with a parimutuel operator or build their own system

None of the (three unsuccessful) applicants demonstrated in their response that they operated, had access to or could likely obtain access to a totalisator system and a sufficient pari-mutuel pool in Australia - as would be required to continue to hold the exclusive totalisator licence on offer as part of the sale and operate the ACTTAB pari-mutuel wagering business.

3.131 The Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate advised that:

Four of the five applicants had previously submitted unsolicited expressions of interest before the decision to pursue a sale was announced.

There was significant media coverage at the time the decision was first announced and it was expected any serious bidders would have started to do their 'homework' in relation to any acquisition of the ACTTAB business and its exclusive totalisator licence.

While it was expected that as part of the 'plan' applicants would have at least approached [one of the two operators of totalisator pools in Australia] about possible pooling arrangements, the Project Team recognised that it was unlikely they would have been accepted. This was because they had both submitted an expression of interest and were unlikely to respond favourably to any such requests from rival bidders. [One operator] does not allow co-mingling in any case, and [one operator] has previously only pooled with government owned TABs.

While there was an expectation that participants in developing their 'plan' may approach [one of the two operators of totalisator pools in Australia], the Project Team recognised that there may be other potential pooling arrangements that the Project Team was not aware of and that may have been appropriate to be able to operate a totalisator. No such alternatives were forth coming.

I consider it would have been irresponsible and unfair to other respondents not to exclude any respondents if it was inconceivable, based on the terms of their proposal, that they would be able to be issued the exclusive totalisator licence and successfully operate the ACTTAB totalisator wagering business.

Each expression of interest was carefully evaluated in terms of their relative strengths and weaknesses. The process included an assessment of their business strategies and financial status. This required sound judgement and it was important to be able to call on the knowledge of relevant experts.

The Project Team considered it would be inappropriate to accept any respondent who stood little or no chance in acquiring the totalisator licence and successfully operating the ACTTAB totalisator wagering business. This would have made a farce of the selection process, and would have been unfair to those applicants, who would have been required to spend unnecessary time, effort and money, in participating further in the sale process.

3.132 This audit report acknowledges that the responses by the three excluded interested parties were not as comprehensive as the responses from the two operators of totalisator pools in Australia. However, the criterion required only 'a plan' without specifying the inclusions in that plan. It is also noted that only 11 calendar days were allowed for a response and it would be incorrect to assume that interested parties were put on notice by previous announcements.

3: The sale process

- 3.133 The findings presented in this audit are not that the outcome would have been served by allowing more applicants to progress further in the sale process; the findings are focused on the poorly crafted criteria and the poor evaluation of the criteria.

Reserved discretions

- 3.134 A review of the Request for Expression of Interest document, the expressions of interest received and the evaluation of the expressions of interest for the sale of ACTTAB demonstrates that the responses were not evaluated in accordance with the evaluation criteria included in the Request for Expression of Interest. This has introduced risks to the integrity of the sale.

- 3.135 The Chair of the Sale Project Team advised the Audit Office that the responses to the expression of interest had been evaluated against 'additional criteria' and that this was in line with the Request for Expression of Interest which stated that the submissions 'could be assessed against other criteria'.

- 3.136 The Chair of the Sale Project Team and the Probity Advisor who also provided legal advice similarly advised the Audit Office that they could use 'any other information' to make an assessment of the potential buyers.

- 3.137 The Request for Expression of Interest document also had 'reserved discretions'. Paragraph 6 stated:

EOIs [Expression of Interests] will be assessed by the Vendors in their absolute discretion based on the above criteria, and any other criteria determined relevant by the Vendors, to determine the Applicant's suitability to progress past the EOI stage.

- 3.138 Paragraph 8 stated:

The Vendors are under no obligation to respond to any EOI [Expression of Interest], The Vendors also reserve the right, at any time, and in their absolute discretion, to:

Accept or reject without providing reasons any EOI, offer or bid in connection with the sale of ACTTAB submitted by any applicant at any time;

Request from any or all Applicants any further information they may require;

Vary, cease or suspend the Sale Process or any part of it;

Invite further parties to participate in the Sale Process, at any time; and

Take into account any additional information obtained by the vendors during the sale process.

- 3.139 The Australian Government Solicitor advised that:

In our view none of these reserved rights operate in such a way as to expressly disclaim the REOI [Request for Expression of Interest] from being interpreted to be a "process contract" within the meaning of Hughes. In addition, the discretions do not seek to exclude the Hughes implied obligation to act fairly in terms of the way in which the reserved rights may be exercised and the sale process conducted.

3.140 The ACT Government Solicitor in responding to the draft proposed report stated:

The Report does not appear to acknowledge the expressly reserved discretions stated in the conditions of the REOI, including paragraphs 6 and 8. 3. Reference is made in the Report to advice being obtained from the Australian Government Solicitor. As we have not been privy to the instructions provided nor the advice given, we cannot specifically address that advice

3.141 The Australian Government Solicitor after considering the response of the ACT Government Solicitor advised that:

There are expressly reserved discretions stated in the conditions of the REOI, in particular-paragraphs 6 and 8.

Paragraph 6 refers to the evaluation criteria and states that the 'EOIs will be assessed by the Vendors in their absolute discretion based on the above criteria, and any other criteria determined relevant by the Vendors, to determine the Applicant's suitability to progress past the EOI stage'.

Paragraph 8 sets out the Vendors reserved rights in the conduct of the EOI process. These rights include a right to accept or reject without providing reasons, a right to vary, cease or suspend the Sale process, a right to request further information, take into account additional information or request further information.

In our view none of these reserved rights operate in such a way as to expressly disclaim the REOI from being interpreted to be a "process contract" within the meaning of Hughes. In addition, the discretions do not seek to exclude the Hughes implied obligation to act fairly in terms of the way in which the reserved rights may be exercised and the sale process conducted.

For completeness we do note that Paragraph 9 of the REOI deals with responsibility for costs and states that the Vendors are not liable to reimburse or compensate any Applicant for any fees, costs or expenses incurred in connection with activities relating the sale of ACTTAB and/or the sale process. There is nothing in this provision which negates the potential for the REOI to be interpreted to be a process contract or which involves an express contracting out from the implied obligation to act fairly.

3.142 Mr Charles Scerri, QC advised that:

A subsidiary question upon which AGS advised was whether certain provisions in the REOI excluded the application of Hughes. In particular these were provisions which referred to the vendors' right to act in their absolute discretion in assessing each expression of interest 'based on the [stated] criteria and any other criteria determined relevant by the Vendors'. There was also the reservation of an express 'right to vary, cease or suspend the sale process' and a provision limiting liability for bidders' costs in the sale process. See para. 12 above.

Although these provisions are relevant, I agree with AGS that they are not explicit and direct enough to exclude any obligation that the ACT Government would have otherwise to act fairly and in accordance with the stated procedures.

3: The sale process

- 3.143 The ‘reserved discretions’ in the Request for Expressions of Interest were intended to allow for greater flexibility in the sale process. However, the Australian Government Solicitor and Mr Charles Scerri, QC advised that it is more likely than not that the Hughes Case principles applied and a ‘process contract’ was relevant to the sale of ACTTAB. Therefore, the ‘reserved discretions’ in the Request for Expressions of Interest document cannot be relied upon. It would have been prudent not to exercise the ‘reserved discretions’ as if they had priority over the Request for Expressions of Interest criteria.
- 3.144 Concerns regarding the incorrect use and application of expression of interest criteria are not issues of semantics as three of the five potential interested parties that provided expressions of interest were excluded from further consideration in the sale process.

Probity role and advice

- 3.145 Probity advice is important for managing risks relating to the integrity of the ACTTAB sale process, including risks in evaluation against published criteria.
- 3.146 Table 3-5 provides an assessment of probity activities associated with the sale of ACTTAB. These expected activities are drawn from the Probity Plan (December 2013) for the sale of ACTTAB and guidance on better practice has been taken from the Ethics, Probity and Accountability in Procurement document issued by the Queensland Government and Australian Government Solicitor guidance in relation to managing probity and process issues in procurement; Managing probity and process issues in procurement (Commercial Note No.15, 14 March 2005).

3.147 Probity activities associated with managing confidentiality agreements, the approach to the market, probity planning, responding to interested parties' clarification requests and due diligence were performed satisfactorily.

3.148 There were some areas where not all probity requirements were met:

- formal sign-off on key 'approach to market' documents and evaluation criteria;
- formal sign-off on evaluation processes and key 'milestones' and phases of the procurement process; and
- the management of a complaint.

3.149 The ACT Government Solicitor advised that:

While the Report sought to highlight apparent shortcomings in the probity function performed during the asset sale process based almost exclusively on erroneous conclusions in relation to the REOI process, the text of the Report suggests that the relevant context appears not to have been considered. In the role of probity advisor, the relevant officer provided numerous and regular advices on a significant number of probity matters throughout the asset sale process including but not limited to:

- advising the Director-General and Minister's office on appropriate responses to media enquiries;
- advising the Director-General and Minister's office on appropriate responses to approaches by the ACTT AB employees union and the Canberra Racing Club;
- advising key personnel in relation to management of potential personal conflicts of interest;
- clearing all documents and correspondence issued to potential and actual applicants;
- negotiating and clearing the verification process conducted as part of finalising the due diligence materials and information memorandum;
- clearing all individual processes adopted as part of the overall sale process including bidder interactive meetings and negotiations (this included ensuring no breach of bidder IP occurred);
- preparation and clearing of all due diligence processes and the electronic data room access;
- ensuring the mis-disclosure of certain due diligence material was promptly corrected;
- ensuring the sale advisor kept proper records of all correspondence and conversations with applicants and provided that to the government sale team;
- ensuring the sale advisor provide an assessment to the Territory of any issues they discovered pertaining to their due diligence review of ACTTAB;
- clearing of all employee communications issued to ACTTAB staff as part of the process; and
- clearing all communications processes and media and stock exchange releases.

The fact that performing the dual role allowed the probity advisor to remain in close contact with all key issues and matters on a day to day basis put the probity advisor in a very good position to identify and deal with matters of probity as and when they arose. As was the case in the selection of matters outlined above.

... the senior lawyer appointed to the role of probity advisor in providing both probity and legal advice was supported by a team of lawyers from ACTGS. In addition, a significant amount of legal advice and input was provided by senior lawyers from Thomson Geer and to a relevant extent Minter Ellison acting for ACTTAB. For the Report to suggest ... that one person provided the legal and probity advice on this transaction is erroneous.

The Report appears to confuse the role of a probity advisor with that of a probity auditor. It is incorrect to assert that review and sign off of each key stage of the process is a requirement of a probity advisor. While a probity advisor may provide a summary report at various stages, if requested, as was done by the probity advisor in this case as part of the REOI process, the provision of detailed probity reviews and reports is the accepted role of a probity auditor.

3.150 The findings of the report are based on the fact that a single person undertook legal and probity advisory roles and that these roles are not necessarily compatible. In this regard the Australian Government Solicitor advised:

... we do not recommend that a single person provide both legal advice and probity advice in a major procurement such as an asset sale process. If a single legal practice is providing legal advice and probity advice, various measures can be adopted such as the use of separate advisors or separate teams within the legal practice to provide the legal advice and the probity advice and the development of a comprehensive probity framework or plan for that asset sale process.

3.151 The findings about the functions that the Probity Advisor performed were based on the documentation provided, the Probity Plan requirements and better practice. The report does not contend that the Probity Advisor did not perform any activities; it contends that evidence of some activities expected of a Probity Advisor was not available. The findings about the probity advisor role are drawn from better practice guidance for that role.

Response to a complaint and comment about the process

3.152 The requirements for dealing with complaints were set out in the Probity Plan (December 2013) as follows:

10.3 All written complaints from potential Respondents received by the Territory that relate to the Project must be referred in a timely way to the Probity Advisor for consideration and, if the Probity Advisor considers it appropriate, investigation.

10.4 The Probity Advisor must prepare a written report to the Steering Committee on each complaint referred to him/her for consideration.

3.153 One obvious complaint was received during the sale process from an interested party. Additionally, during the bid stage, one of the potential purchasers expressed a view that the process had changed from what had been previously discussed with the Sale Project Team. This could be interpreted as a complaint.

Complaint in relation to the expression of interest

3.154 A complaint was received by email by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) (who at that time was managing all communication with interested parties) from an interested party in relation to the expression of interest stage. The complaint was received on 18 March 2014 and set out a number of issues relating to the conduct of the expression of interest process as follows:

I sought an extension of time which you advised that we should submit within the timeframe and that if additional information was required, you would contact us ... you specifically acknowledged this when you acknowledged receipt ... to suggest that we did not satisfactorily address the criteria in these circumstances (and without seeking further information) is a significant breach of the promise you made us.

3: The sale process

---

3.155 On 18 March 2014 the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) sent the email to the Chair of the Sale Project Team and the Probity Advisor for advice on how to respond. The Probity Adviser forwarded the email to the Chair of the Steering Committee shortly after.

3.156 In response to a follow-up request from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) on 21 March 2014, the Probity Advisor advised the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) to provide a brief response to the effect that:

... the Vendors did not require any further information from this bidder in order to form the view they should not proceed to the next states of the sale process ... we would be happy to provide a debriefing once the sale process has reached a conclusion.

3.157 The Probity Plan (December 2013) required the Probity Advisor to prepare a written report to the Steering Committee on the complaint referred for consideration. There was no evidence of this report and the Steering Committee minutes do not indicate whether any such report was presented to them.

Comment in relation to the bid stage

3.158 During the bid stage one of the potential purchasers communicated via email:

We note that the process has changed from what we discussed at our meeting on Friday 13th of June in Canberra. In particular we note that the final process letter requires bidders to submit a final bid price based on the terms of the Final Bid Documents – it does not seem to accommodate what was discussed at our last meeting when we discussed allowing mark-ups to non-identified areas for the purpose of the base bid ... We also note that the process we understood to apply to the Final Bid now relates to the Alternate offer – again we believe this will limit materially the value that could well have been ascribed through an Alternate bid process whereby bidders could amend all clauses noting the risk was on them for the changes.

3.159 This communication was in relation to the final bid process letter issued on 20 June 2014. The potential purchaser communicated that the process ‘... has changed from what was discussed in our meeting on Friday 13th June in Canberra’. The communication was referred to the Probity Advisor who provided advice to the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) on the same day who in turn provided a response to the potential purchaser. This communication could have been interpreted as a complaint, which needed to be dealt with through the manner set out in the Probity Plan (December 2013) which required direct intervention of the Probity Advisor and a report to the Steering Committee.

3.160 The ACT Government Solicitor advised:

The suggestion that the comments from [the potential purchaser] in the final stages of the process were a complaint is incorrect. This correspondence amounted to no more than a clarification and/or process query. No complaints were received at any time to the knowledge of the probity advisor from [the potential purchaser]. The other complaint referred to from [the interested party] may not have resulted in a written report to the Steering Committee, however both members of the Committee were made well aware of the issue and the proposed response.

- 3.161 As evident from paragraph 3.158 one of the potential purchasers raised concerns about the conduct of the process. It would have been prudent to treat this in a more formal way.

4 SALE RESULTS

4.1 This chapter analyses the sale with respect to the Sale Objectives, as established by the November 2013 resolution of the ACT Legislative Assembly.

Summary

Conclusion

The sale was successful as it met the five Sale Objectives set out in the November 2013 resolution of the ACT Legislative Assembly:

- achieve a fair and reasonable price;
- ensure local racing industry is not negatively affected;
- achieve a timely sale;
- ensure the successful party has appropriate experience, capacity and integrity to operate a wagering business; and
- ensure employee welfare is considered.

method for discounted cash flow analysis provided by PwC in the ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013). This provided for the valuation of projected future cash flows in applicants' bids in terms of present day values.

There was appropriate consideration of the balance of risk and benefit in evaluating the net present value of upfront payments in potential purchasers' submissions. 4.23

One of the Sale Objectives was to ensure that the local racing industry was not negatively affected by the sale. 4.24

Before the ACT Government decided to pursue the sale of ACTTAB, representatives of the racing industry had proposed that the new owner should be required to fund the local racing industry on a similar basis as other TABs in the larger states. Representatives of the local racing industry indicated that their preferred funding model included a 40 year funding agreement with a fixed annual payment of $9.5 million indexed by CPI plus 6.3 per cent racing turnover generated by ACTTAB (in excess of $152 million). 4.28

PwC and the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) cautioned that a funding agreement of the magnitude proposed by representatives of the ACT racing industry would strongly deter any potential purchasers. 4.29

The racing industry has not been negatively impacted by the sale of ACTTAB. 4.36

One of the Sale Objectives was to ensure that employee welfare was considered. Accordingly, the Request for Indicative Offers, provided to the potential purchasers in March 2014, sought an indication from the shortlisted potential purchasers of which employees would be offered positions with the successful purchaser in the event of the sale. 4.37

In the lead up to the ACT Government's decision to pursue the sale, the Community and Public Sector Union (union) put forward its preferences for proposed sale conditions including enhanced redundancies and a three year job guarantee. Neither of the union's proposals was made a condition of sale as both PwC and the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) cautioned that this would discourage buyers who would be unable to justify investing in a business with such limited cash flows (ACTTAB's profit for 2013-14 was only $750,000). 4.40

Potential purchasers were therefore informed of the preferences of the union and the racing industry and encouraged to submit alternative proposals with indicative pricing. However, no potential purchaser was prepared to fully adopt the preferences of the union or the racing industry. 4.41

Final result

4.2 On 14 October 2014, the ACT Government accepted Tabcorp's final bid price of $105.5 million, subject to a number of terms and conditions.

4.3 A summary of the deal is provided in Table 4-1.

Table 4-1 Final sale price and conditions

| Tabcorp   | ACT Government commitments   |
|---|--|
| Final bid price of $105.5 million. Annual fee of $1 million for the sole totalisator licence (for the term of the sale). Tabcorp to provide for at least ten years, annual payments (indexed by CPI) of $300,000 to the racing industry for sponsorships and hospitality, and $400,000 per annum to community organisations. Tabcorp will also contribute $50,000 per annum (indexed by CPI) to problem gambling over the 50 year licence period. Spend at least $2 million to improve retail outlets over the next three years and to maintain a substantial retail presence in the territory for at least 10 years. Tabcorp committed to offer employment to staff on existing terms and conditions for at least 3 months (this included some other undertakings to facilitate employment of staff across Tabcorp operations). | ACT Government to issue a sole Totalisator licence for 50 years with an annual licence fee of $1million indexed by CPI. ACT Government to issue a Sports Bookmaking Licence (by the Gambling and Racing Commission) for the maximum period of 15 years including retail venue exclusivity and subject to existing tax arrangements. 4.4 The final bid price was more than that offered by the other potential purchaser. Given that the indicative Trade Sale Value of ACTTAB was estimated to be between $35.6 million and $47.6 million, as estimated by PwC in the ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013), this represents a good financial result for the Territory.

Sale result

4.5 Several Sale Project Team members interviewed as part of the audit indicated that the final price paid for ACTTAB significantly exceeded their expectations. Sale Project Team members also noted that the final price was also far in excess (more than double) of the likely value range identified in the PwC report.

4: Sale results

- 4.6 The Deputy Chair of the Steering Committee was the only person interviewed who indicated that the final sale price was ‘about right’. He explained this in terms of the value of ACTTAB’s cash flow in the hands of an established and efficient betting business.
- 4.7 The Deputy Chair also considered that if he could have sold the business by engaging directly, in a fully commercial manner, with the two operators of pari mutuel pools in Australia, the ACT Government could have got ‘a bit more’ for the business (e.g. potentially around $15 million more).

Alignment to Sale Objectives

- 4.8 The sale met all of the Sale Objectives, as set out in the resolution of the Legislative Assembly on 28 November 2013.
- 4.9 Table 4-2 provides a summary of achievements against the Sale Objectives.

Table 4-2 Achievement of Sale Objectives

| Sale Objective  | Sale Outcome | Comment   |
|---|--------------|---|
| Achieve a fair and reasonable price   | Achieved     | Price was above that indicated by the Price Waterhouse Coopers (PwC) ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study .   |
| Ensure local racing industry is not negatively affected   | Achieved     | Ongoing funding to the local industry through the budget process has not been negatively affected by sale.  |
| Achieve a timely sale   | Achieved     | Government announced its intention to sell in November 2013, a preferred purchaser was announced in July 2014 and the sale was completed in October 2014.   |
| Ensure the successful party has appropriate experience, capacity and integrity to operate a wagering business | Achieved     | The preferred purchaser operates a large wagering business in Australia.  |
| Ensure employee welfare is considered   | Achieved     | Employee welfare was considered at relevant stages of the Sale Process. An officer from Chief Minister and Treasury Directorate was available to the Sale Project Team to ensure that these interests received appropriate consideration. |

- 4.10 A number of issues were raised in the Legislative Assembly and the media following the ACT Government’s announcement that Tabcorp’s bid had been accepted. Three issues received considerable attention:
- the assessment of upfront payments versus future revenue (including taxation and licence fees);

- impact of the sale on the local racing industry; and
- consideration of employee welfare.

Upfront payments versus future revenue

4.11 The shortlisted potential purchasers provided bids that included a mix of upfront and ongoing financial benefits. The process for the assessment of these bids followed the staged approach as follows (refer to paragraph 3.6):

- indicative bid
- indicative bid valuation
- final bid
- final bid evaluation
- negotiation
- contractual agreement.

4.12 The indicative bids and final bids offered by the two potential purchasers offered various models and revenue streams. The evaluation of the financial value of the various bids was conducted by way of a discounted cash flow analysis, which allows for a comparison of revenue streams at current day values (Net Present Value).

4.13 That is, the future value of money provided for by the different bid, e.g. ten or 20 years into the future, was valued at current day values through discounted cash flow analysis, for the purpose of appropriately comparing the different bids.

4.14 The rate used for discounting future cash flows required a robust technical analysis to ensure appropriate treatment of cash flows. The Sale Project Team accepted the method for discounted cash flow analysis provided by PwC in the ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013). This provided for the valuation of projected future cash flows in applicants' bids in terms of present day values.

4.15 The approach to discounted cash flow evaluation was applied equitably to both bids.

Final Bid process

4.16 The Audit Office examined the bid process, including the offers that were made by the two potential purchasers. In summary:

- in the final bid process both Tabcorp and the other potential purchaser were provided with an option to submit alternative bids subject to a number of conditions;
- Tabcorp's Alternative Bid conformed to the required conditions, but a substantial part of its value was associated with adjustments to timeframes, warranties and compensation that posed an additional level of risk to the Territory that was not acceptable to the Steering Committee;

4: Sale results

---

- the other potential purchaser's Alternative Bid was substantially higher than its Final Bid, but it introduced a new proposal that was not previously identified in the non-binding offers. The other potential purchaser also sought to amend items within various agreements which were considered to be non-negotiable. The other potential purchaser's Alternative Bid was found to be non-conforming and was not evaluated as part of the final evaluation process.

4.17 At the conclusion of the process Tabcorp's Final Offer, with an additional component included in its Alternative Bid, was accepted.

Rationale for upfront payments

4.18 By virtue of the discounted cash flow analysis conducted by the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) on behalf of the Sale Project Team, as provided for by PwC in the ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013), there was a greater emphasis placed on monies received upfront, as compared to future cash flows, from potential purchasers.

4.19 In its analysis of industry funding scenarios as part of the ACTTAB Future Options Feasibility Study (July 2013) PwC advised:

Following privatisation of other state owned TABs, the relevant state based racing industries have been funded through a combination of direct payments from the TAB operator, product feed from corporate bookmakers and direct Government funding. ... The analysis suggests that unlike other states that have privatised TABs, the ACT Government's obligations to fund the industry far exceed the value of the business, therefore the ACT government will be unable to transfer all of its obligations to fund the racing industry to a new operator. Having said that, there is merit in charging the new operator an annual licence fee as it will provide the ACT government with an ongoing revenue source, and may create additional value through the tax deductibility of the licence fee by the operator. It will be important to ensure that the total licence fee imposed does not prevent ACTTAB from being presented as an attractive investment opportunity with sufficient profit and cash generation justifying a buyers interest in acquiring the business.

4.20 The basis for preferring upfront payments to future cash flows was the subject of advice from the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) and considered and accepted by the ACT Government in May 2014:

As part of the evaluation of indicative offers, Deloitte has advised that given the significant risks associated with the wagering industry the Government's preferred position should be to take all proceeds upfront rather than adopt the ongoing industry funding model.

4.21 Eligibility for Commonwealth Asset Recycling compensation also favoured upfront payment:

... should the proceeds from the ACTTAB sale be deemed eligible for the Commonwealth's proposed compensation of 15% of the proceeds, there is added incentive to maximise the up front payment.

- 4.22 The Commonwealth's Asset Recycling Initiative is designed to help unlock funding for new public infrastructure projects through reinvestment of the sale proceeds from existing government-owned assets. Under this programme the Commonwealth will provide states and territories with incentive payments of 15 per cent of the sale price of privatised assets. The programme was planned to commence in mid-2014 and close in mid-2019.
- 4.23 There was appropriate consideration of the balance of risk and benefit in evaluating the net present value of upfront payments in potential purchasers' submissions.

Affect on the local racing industry

- 4.24 One of the Sale Objectives was to ensure that the local racing industry was not negatively affected by the sale.
- 4.25 The racing industry had been funded by ACTTAB at a rate of 4.5 per cent of total racing turnover up to 2010. Since then the racing industry has received direct funding from the ACT Government. The change to direct funding had been driven by the racing industry's concerns that ACTTAB's financial capacity to fund the industry was declining.
- 4.26 In a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) signed in December 2013, the ACT Government agreed to continue funding the ACT racing industry in 2013-14 by an amount of $7.827 million to be indexed each following year until the end of 2016-17. This level of funding exceeds ACTTAB's annual turnover that is attributed to local races, which was about $4.7 million in 2013-14.
- 4.27 In 2011 the Independent Competition and Regulatory Commission found that the economic contribution of the racing industry to the ACT ranged between $4.9 million and $8.6 million and that this did not justify continuing a high level of budget funding support.
- 4.28 Before the ACT Government decided to pursue the sale of ACTTAB, representatives of the racing industry had proposed that the new owner should be required to fund the local racing industry on a similar basis as other TABs in the larger states. Representatives of the local racing industry indicated that their preferred funding model included a 40 year funding agreement with a fixed annual payment of $9.5 million indexed by CPI plus 6.3 per cent racing turnover generated by ACTTAB (in excess of $152 million).
- 4.29 PwC and the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) cautioned that a funding agreement of the magnitude proposed by representatives of the ACT racing industry would strongly deter any potential purchasers.
- 4.30 In New South Wales, Queensland and Victoria, the local racing industry receives the majority of their funding under commercial agreements with their respective TABs. The revenue generated from wagering on local races in these jurisdictions is a major profit driver for the TAB in each of those states (in the order of 50 percent or more).

4: Sale results

- 4.31 This is not the case in the ACT, Tasmania and the Northern Territory, where local racing industries are dependent on budget funding. This is due to the smaller scale of operations in these jurisdictions.
- 4.32 Tasmania has a 20 year funding agreement (currently being reviewed) and the Northern Territory has a five year funding agreement that is also being reviewed. Although budget funding in each case is more than the ACT, there are more racing clubs to support (16 in Tasmania and seven in the Northern Territory - when compared with three in the ACT). The funding position for the three jurisdictions in 2013-14 is summarised in Table 4-3 below.

Table 4-3 Summary of funding provided to the racing industry in ACT, Tasmania and the Northern Territory in 2013-14

| Financial Year | ACT                      | Tasmania                   | Northern Territory        |
| 2013-14        | $7.8 m(for 3 clubs) | $22.3 m(for 16 clubs) | $14.7 m(for 7 clubs) |

- 4.33 Tabcorp has committed to provide (for at least ten years) annual payments of $300,000 (indexed by CPI) to the racing industry for sponsorships and hospitality and $400,000 per annum to community organisations. Tabcorp will also contribute $50,000 per annum (indexed by CPI) to problem gambling over the 50 year licence period.
- 4.34 The 2013 Memorandum of Understanding remains in effect and is not impacted by the sale of ACTTAB.
- 4.35 The ACT Government agreed to fund the ACT racing industry in 2013-14 by an amount of $7.827 million to be indexed each following year until the end of 2016-17. The local racing industry received $7.5 million in 2012-13.
- 4.36 The racing industry has not been negatively impacted by the sale of ACTTAB.

Consideration of employee welfare

- 4.37 One of the Sale Objectives was to ensure that employee welfare was considered. Accordingly, the Request for Indicative Offers, provided to the potential purchasers in March 2014, sought an indication from the shortlisted potential purchasers of which employees would be offered positions with the successful purchaser in the event of the sale.
- 4.38 Tabcorp's response demonstrated that it had considered this issue in some depth, including recognition of the importance of local employment opportunities within a small jurisdiction such as the ACT.
- 4.39 This resulted in a commitment from Tabcorp to the following.

- offer all staff, excluding the Board, CEO and CEO's Personal Assistant, employment in a form that recognises continuous service and on terms which are substantially similar and no less favourable than employees' current ACTTAB terms;
- ensure no redundancies, for staff offered employment, for a period of at least three months following the date of completion of the sale (and in some cases 12 months following the date of completion of the sale);
- investigate alternative roles in other parts of the Tabcorp group for any ACTTAB staff affected by redundancy (there were approximately 60 open roles for recruitment within Tabcorp at the time);
- pay all redundancy costs (in the event where no alternative roles could be identified) in accordance with the ACTTAB Enterprise Agreement 2011-2014. Tabcorp would also provide career transition services and outplacement services to assist affected employees locate roles outside of Tabcorp; and
- maintain staff salaries at current levels from the date of completion of the sale and to meet with all staff to discuss their future and keep formal lines of communication open during the transition period.

4.40 In the lead up to the ACT Government's decision to pursue the sale, the Community and Public Sector Union (union) put forward its preferences for proposed sale conditions including enhanced redundancies and a three year job guarantee. Neither of the union's proposals was made a condition of sale as both PwC and the Sales Advisor (Deloitte) cautioned that this would discourage buyers who would be unable to justify investing in a business with such limited cash flows (ACTTAB's profit for 2013-14 was only $750,000).

4.41 Potential purchasers were therefore informed of the preferences of the union and the racing industry and encouraged to submit alternative proposals with indicative pricing. However, no potential purchaser was prepared to fully adopt the preferences of the union or the racing industry.

4.42 Sufficient consideration was accorded to employee welfare during the sale process.

RECOMMENDATION 1      PROCUREMENT POLICIES, PROCEDURES AND PROCESSES

The Chief Minister, Treasury and Economic Development Directorate should examine, and if needed amend, its procurement policies, procedures and processes so they comprehensively cover:

Risk management:

- 1) all complex, high value or high risk procurements should be subject to a procurement risk assessment and be supported by an approved risk plan which is developed before procurement activity commences (this plan may subsequently be modified as needed); and
- 2) the risk assessment should guide mitigation measures and inform governance and administrative processes for the procurement;

Evaluation criteria:

- 3) evaluation criteria should be designed to match the way in which they will be evaluated; and
- 4) the assessment of evaluation criteria by an assessor and/or panel members should be precise, rigorous and documented;
- 5) Procurements that are not subject to the ACT Government Procurement Act 2001:
  - i) need to have the policies, procedures and processes to be used defined and documented at the beginning of a procurement activity; and
  - ii) need to be the subject of a risk assessment and have an approved risk plan;

Probity Plan and Probity Advisor role in complex, high value or high risk procurements:

- 6) a Probity Plan should include a requirement for the provision of written independent assurance at key stages of the procurement;
- 7) the Probity Advisor role as a principle should be independent of other roles in the procurement process. However, if this does not occur, the reasons for not so doing should be documented and a risk assessment undertaken to identify how any associated risks are to be managed;

Documentation and record-keeping requirements:

- 8) complex, high value or high risk procurements should be well documented; and
- 9) an audit should be undertaken immediately at the conclusion of the procurement to identify any gaps so that they can be corrected in a timely manner.

APPENDIX A: LEGAL CONSIDERATIONS

---

- A.1 The audit of the sale of ACTTAB raised four key legal questions:
- Was the sale of ACTTAB subject to the Government Procurement Act 2001?
  - Was the sale of ACTTAB a 'Government sale'?
  - Was the sale of ACTTAB subject to the Hughes Case (Hughes Aircraft Systems International v Airservices Australia (1997) 76 FCR 151)?
  - Do the 'reserved discretions', in the Request for Expression of Interest, remove or reduce the application of the Hughes Case?
- A.2 Advice from the Australian Government Solicitor and Mr Charles Scerri, QC was sought to assist in answering these questions. Where relevant, advice from the ACT Government Solicitor is also recognised.

Government Procurement Act 2001

- A.3 The draft proposed audit report, which was provided to the auditees and other entities involved in the sale process, for consideration and comment, identified that the Government Procurement Act 2001 did not apply to the sale of ACTTAB because the sale involved the sale of assets by ACTTAB, which was not covered by the Act.
- A.4 In its response to the draft proposed report, the ACT Government Solicitor advised that it was incorrect to categorise the sale of ACTTAB as a procurement process. The ACT Government Solicitor also advised that 'a key concern for ACTGS is that the Report is nonetheless premised on the presumption that in the Territory, the proposed sale of what was initially proposed to be the shares and/or assets and undertakings of a Territory-owned corporation under the Corporations Act, was required to be governed by procurement principles and processes generally applicable in government tendering or purchasing of goods, services or works.' The ACT Government Solicitor advised that the draft proposed report:

... erroneously characterises the process as a tender or purchase process, referring for example to: "submission of tenders", "tender documentation", "tendering equity" and best practice guide for "Purchasing Decisions" by the Commonwealth's ANAO; "process contract" in the way that term applies by virtue of case law to actual government tendering, purchasing and procurement processes; the requirements of the ACT Procurement Act and the various policies, processes and plans that underpin it, should have been applied to the ACTTAB asset sale process.

There is no purpose or utility in attempting to ascribe, as the Report does, procurement processes to an asset sale process that did not take that form and irrespective of whether or not the sale proceeded as a sale of assets and undertaking by ACTTAB or a sale of the shares of ACTTAB and by the Territory.

ACT Government Solicitor advice

- A.5 The ACT Government Solicitor also advised that the Government Procurement Act 2001 did not at any stage apply to the sale of ACTTAB, because:

---

- the sale of the business of ACTTAB Ltd by ACTTAB Ltd was not subject to the Government Procurement Act 2001, because ACTTAB, as a Territory-owned corporation, was specifically excluded from the operation of the act by virtue of subsection 3(2), which provides a definition of a Territory entity; and
- the sale of the shares of ACTTAB Ltd do not come within the scope of the Government Procurement Act 2001, as it does not meet the definition of procurement, provided for in section 2A of the Government Procurement Act 2001.

A.6 Procurement is defined in section 2A of the Government Procurement Act 2001 as follows:

procurement—

- (a) means the process of acquiring goods, services, works or property by purchase, lease, rental or exchange; and
- (b) includes the process of disposing of goods, works or property including by sale.

A.7 The ACT Government Solicitor further advised:

No direction was issued to ACTTAB Limited by the voting shareholders pursuant to s 17 of the Territory-owned Corporations Act as to the process to be followed. It follows that ACTTAB could not be obliged to apply the Government Procurement Act.

A.8 In support of this view, the ACT Government Solicitor advised:

The ACTTAB asset sale process, as was made clear in all public documents, was at least initially a joint sale process conducted by ACTTAB and the Territory. ACTTAB was at the relevant time a public company limited by shares and independent of the Territory. As the sale could ultimately proceed as either a sale of the assets and undertaking of ACTTAB by ACTTAB or a sale of the shares of ACTTAB by the Territory, this was the only appropriate approach to take from the outset. When it became clear, well into the indicative bid stage of the process, that the sale would proceed as a sale of assets and undertaking by ACTTAB, the Territory then in effect took on more of a supporting and facilitative role in ensuring a successful sale by ACTTAB in a form that the shareholders would approve in accordance with the TOC Act.

There was no sale legislation passed by the Legislative Assembly, as it was considered unnecessary and no direction was issued by the Territory (via the Voting Shareholders) to ACTTAB in terms of s17 of the Territory-owned Corporations Act 1990 (TOC Act).

Accordingly, at no time did the Territory have control over the asset sale process and at no time could the Territory have imposed a government procurement process, including any of the various plans and policies inherent in a government procurement process, upon ACTTAB.

A.9 The ACT Government Solicitor further advised:

It is asserted that the process should have been conducted in accordance with the Government Procurement Act in the event the Territory decided to proceed with a sale of shares. Although the view of the ACTGS is that shares of a Territory-owned Corporation are not within the scope of a procurement as that term is defined in the Government Procurement Act 2001, that is not determinative of any relevant issue as to any process that ACTTAB Ltd was obliged or might choose to follow. At no point did the Territory determine to offer the shares of ACTTAB Ltd for sale. What was offered for sale (refer the first sentence of the REOI document) was the business undertaking of ACTTAB Ltd and ... the sale ultimately proceeded on that basis, via a business sale agreement entered into between ACTTAB Ltd and the purchaser.

November 2013 (Interim) ACTTAB Sale Working Group minutes

- A.10 On 28 November 2013 a meeting of the (Interim) ACTTAB Sale Working Group was held. The meeting was attended by the then Director-General of the Commerce and Works Directorate, two representatives of the Commerce and Works Directorate, one representative of the Chief Minister and Treasury Directorate and two representatives of the ACT Government Solicitor. Unsigned minutes of that meeting were provided to the Audit Office. Under the 'Request for Expression of Interest and Information Memorandum' issue/topic it was reported:

Confirmed that the sales advisor procurement does not fall under the Procurement Act as if we proceed with a Sale of Assets, these are ACTTAB's assets and ACTTAB does not fall under the Procurement Act. If we proceed as a Sale of Shares, then this is a investment transactions (ie not sale of a good or service).

- A.11 While there appeared to be an incorrect reference to the procurement process that was then underway for the Sales Advisor in the minutes, the minutes identify two reasons as to why the Government Procurement Act 2001 would not apply to the sale process.
- A.12 No written legal advice was provided in relation to the application of the Government Procurement Act 2001 at that time.

Australian Government Solicitor advice

- A.13 With respect to the application of the Government Procurement Act 2001, the Australian Government Solicitor advised that 'had the sale resulted in a sale of shares by the ACT Government, such a sale would then have been a "procurement" as defined in the [Government Procurement Act 2001]'. The Australian Government Solicitor further advised:

At least at the REOI [Request for Expression of Interest] stage the sale could have involved either a sale of shares by the ACT Government or the sale of ACTTAB's main undertaking. Because a sale by the ACT Government of its shares in ACTTAB was a possibility it would in our view have been prudent, at least at that stage of the sale process, to treat the process as potentially involving a procurement under the GP Act.

- A.14 In relation to the question of whether the sale of shares would be covered by the Government Procurement Act 2001, the Australian Government Solicitor advised:

The sale of those shares would have been a disposal of property and therefore within the definition of 'procurement' in s 2A of the GP Act. We cannot see any basis for saying that the GP Act would not apply because the sale of shares would be regarded as an 'investment transaction.'

- A.15 Mr Charles Scerri, QC also advised in relation to the application of the Government Procurement Act 2001 that:

... It seems clear (as AGS advised) that if the sale had proceeded as a sale of shares, the sale would have been a 'procurement' within the meaning of this Act [Government Procurement Act 2001]. This is because s.2A of that Act defines 'procurement' to include disposing of property. However, also as advised by AGS,

Appendix A: Legal considerations

since the shares were held in the names of the Chief Minister and Deputy Chief Minister it is not entirely clear that a sale of shares would have been procurement by a "Territory entity" as defined in the Government Procurement Act.

The AGS characterised the sale process as a 'joint sale' by ACTTAB and the Government, and advised that it would be prudent to treat the sale process as potentially involving a 'procurement' under the Government Procurement Act at least until it was determined that it would be an asset sale.

... I consider that advice to be clearly correct. Until a sale of assets was determined upon, it was possible that there would be a sale of shares, i.e. a 'procurement' by a 'Territory entity'. It would not have been prudent to structure and manage the sale process without regard to the requirements of the Government Procurement Act until it was clear the Act did not apply.

- A.16 It would have been prudent to structure and manage the sale of ACTTAB with regard to the requirements of the Government Procurement Act 2001 until it was clear that the Act did not apply (i.e. only assets were being sold and not shares).

A 'Government sale'

- A.17 Advice was sought from the Australian Government Solicitor with respect to whether the sale of ACTTAB was a 'Government sale'. The Australian Government Solicitor advised that the sale could:

... be best described as being a joint Territory and ACTTAB sale. Whilst in practice only ACTTAB could sell its main undertaking and the Government could not do this itself other than via a sale of shares it is clear that in practice the Government exercised a significant degree of control over the sale of ACTTAB's business. ACTTAB did not of its own volition independently pursue and conclude the sale of its main undertaking. Our reasons for reaching this conclusion are as follows:

- the sale required specific approval by ACTTAB's shareholders - ACTTAB was a territory corporation. It was governed by the provisions of the Territory-owned Corporations Act 1990. Pursuant to s16(1)(a) ACTTAB required the prior written consent of its shareholders to dispose of its main undertaking i.e. it could not act or conclude a sale independently. The 2014 ACTTAB Sale Timeline document also clearly shows that the ACTTAB Board required the approval of the Voting Shareholders to approve the sale to the identified preferred purchaser;
- s 22(4)(a) of the Territory-owned Corporations Act 1990 also provides that a territory-owned corporation must not dispose of any of its main undertaking unless the ACT Legislative Assembly approved the disposal-it is understood that consistent with this requirement the ACT Legislative Assembly passed a resolution approving a sale of shares or sale of assets;
- the REOI refers to the ACT Government and the Board of ACTTAB as jointly being the Vendors and carries the logos of both the ACT Government (Commerce and Works Directorate) as well as ACTTAB. The Request for Binding Offers is similarly expressed. Respondents to the REOI and Request for Binding Offers would in our view have reasonably concluded that the ACT Government was, at a minimum, jointly conducting the sale process with the Board of ACTTAB;
- the Probity Plan prepared by the ACT Government Solicitor for the ACT Commerce & Works Directorate was expressed to be for the "Sale Process for the

- Territory's interest in ACTTAB Ltd*" and clearly applied to both Territory personnel as well as to ACTTAB personnel;
- in the Request for Final Binding Offers, the description of the Sale Process Overview specifically refers to "the licence terms that will be offered by the ACT Government as part of the sale".
  - the Business Sale Agreement between ACTTAB (described as the Vendor), the ACT, and the Purchaser included a number of conditions precedent to Completion-see Clause 3.1 and Schedule 8. The approval of the Minister to the transfer of the Totalisator Gaming Licence to the Purchaser, the issue of a Sports Book making licence to the Purchaser, and the approval of the Purchaser conducting lottery products known as Keno and Trackside were all expressed to be conditions precedent to Completion. A failure to satisfy any of these conditions precedent provided the Purchaser with an automatic right to terminate the Business Sale Agreement (see Clause 3.2 of the Business Sale Agreement). It seems clear that the sale of the assets of ACTTAB without the corresponding Government and Gaming Commission approvals for the transfer/granting of the required licences would not have been achievable-the sale of ACTTAB's assets and the transfer/approval of the required totalisator and gaming licences were interdependent. These licences were not assets of ACTTAB which ACTTAB could itself offer to sell to a successful purchaser;
  - pursuant to Clause 6.3(e) of the Business Sale Agreement, the Purchaser at Completion was required to "do or execute all other acts and documents that this agreement requires the Purchaser to do or execute at Completion". One of the documents requiring execution by the Purchaser at Completion was the Industry and Community Support Deed between the Territory, the Purchaser and the Purchaser's Guarantor (see the definition of this Agreement in Clause 1.1 of the Business Sale Agreement). Under Clause 6.5 of the Business Sale Agreement a failure by the Purchaser to execute the Industry and Community Support Deed entitled the ACTTAB not to proceed with the sale-it is clear that the Business Sale Agreement and the Industry Community and Support Deed were interdependent and it is not unreasonable to assume that ACTTAB's shareholders would probably have refused approval for the sale to proceed unless the purchaser had executed the Community and Support Deed;
  - the Steering Committee which was responsible for making a recommendation on a preferred purchaser had joint ACTTAB and Territory representation thru the Chair of ACTTAB and the Director-General of the Commerce and Works Directorate;
  - the Project Team supporting the Steering Committee also had joint Territory and ACTTAB representation;
  - the non-binding MOU between the Territory and ACTTAB details the cooperation arrangements between the Territory and ACTTAB in relation to the sale of ACTTAB- Clause 3 identifies "Sale Decisions" which, in the event of a sale of the assets and undertaking of ACTTAB, were identified to be key matters that are expected to be referred to the ACTTAB Board for decision. These "Sale Decisions" included decisions on the bidders to be shortlisted following completion of the initial expression of interest process and a decision on the preferred bidder as a result of the lodgement of final offers by shortlisted bidders. Taken on its own this clause in the MOU would support an argument that the sale process was controlled by the Board of ACTTAB. In our view however this clause cannot be looked at in isolation. Indeed Clause 7.2 of the MOU states that “responsibility for making any required key decisions as part of the Sale process will rest with the Territory through the Chief Minister and Treasurer as shareholders of ACTTAB and where appropriate, the Board of ACTTAB”. Clause 6.3 of the MOU includes a provision for the Territory to reimburse sale costs to ACTTAB in the event that “the Territory determines to cease the Sale process”. Recital A of the MOU refers to the resolution of the Legislative Assembly on 28 November 2013 to approve “the disposal of the Territory’s interest in ACTTAB”;

Appendix A: Legal considerations

- the Territory indemnified the ACTTAB Board in relation to any Claim arising out of or in connection with, or resulting from any act, omission or conduct of the Director in the capacity of an officer of ACTTAB or in connection with the affairs of ACTTAB which was incurred in relation to the Sale or Sale process. Sale is defined in the Deed of Indemnity to include the sale by ACTTAB of all or any of its main undertakings and assets. As long as the ACTTAB Directors did not act dishonestly, fraudulently, maliciously, in bad faith or criminally or otherwise obtain any personal gain or engage in conduct constituting Gross negligence, the Territory indemnified them for their acts, omissions and conduct in relation to the Sale. If the Territory was not itself involved in and had no control whatsoever over the sale process it is difficult to understand why such an indemnity would have been granted (or indeed needed);
- sale legislation was necessary to facilitate the sale-see the Territory-Owned Corporations Amendment Act 2014 which effected the removal from the Act of references to ACTTAB;

A.18 The sale of ACTTAB is considered to be a joint Territory and ACTTAB sale, which for all practical purposes means it would be appropriate to treat it as a ‘Government sale’.

Hughes Case

A.19 The draft proposed audit report, which was provided to the auditees and other entities involved in the sale process, for consideration and comment, identified that it was likely that the principles of the Hughes Case applied to the sale of ACTTAB and that the concept of a ‘process contract’ was likely to exist.

A.20 The ACT Government Solicitor, in responding to the draft proposed audit report in relation to the application of the Hughes Case, stated:

The Report makes numerous references to Hughes Aircraft Systems International Inc v Aircservices Australia (1997) 76 FCR 151 (Hughes), seeking to apply the judgment to the sale of a government corporation's assets. While the decision of a single judge of the Federal Court of Australia in Hughes has provided some guidance in relation to the conduct of government procurements, the facts of the case are very specific and in the absence of any clarity by an appeal court or the High Court, it is unclear the extent to which the finding of a process contract would apply beyond government tendering processes. It is the view of ACTGS that the case does not extend to the proposed sale of the shares and/or assets and undertakings of a corporation but is confined to government tendering and purchasing processes.

... the Hughes case has no bearing on the conduct of the sale process, other than a likely obligation on the Territory (but not ACTTAB) to conduct itself fairly and in good faith as part of the process. The findings of the Report in relation to the conduct of the sale process do not identify by reference to the evaluation of EOIs against the published criteria, in what way the sale was not conducted fairly and with probity.

A.21 The Australian Government Solicitor after considering the response of the ACT Government Solicitor advised that:

We would agree that if the Government had no involvement in the sale process it would be difficult to argue that the principles in the Hughes case would apply to a sale process conducted solely by ACTTAB. This is not however what happened.

... the sale process can in our view best be described as a joint sale by the Territory and the Board of ACTTAB. It is clear to us that the Territory was intimately involved in all stages of the sale process. It is also clear that it was represented to respondents to the REOI and to the Request for Binding Offers that the sale process was a joint ACTTAB /Territory sale process.

The approach to the market to sell ACTTAB was effectively a two stage tender process consisting of the REOI and the Request for Final Binding Offers. Respondents to the REOI were shortlisted to participate in the Request for Binding Offers based on the assessment of their REOI responses. In our view the REOI and Request for Final Binding Offers should not be seen to be two completely separate and distinct processes. They are inextricably linked. Two stage or even three stage tender processes involving a REOI, followed by a Request for Tender or Request for Proposals sometimes then also followed by a further Request for Revised Offers or even a Request for a Best and Final Offer are in our experience, common Government tendering arrangements.

The ACT Solicitor General has argued that a disposal process cannot be equated with a tender process. In our view, the characterisation of the process as a tender process or as a disposal process is not a relevant consideration with respect to whether or not public law requirements associated with the application of administrative law principles apply.

The sale to the preferred purchaser required the approval of ACTTAB's Voting shareholders, the Chief Minister and Treasurer (acting on behalf of the Territory). Accordingly, the sale decision involved the exercise of the Government's executive power. Indeed the sale could not even commence/be conducted without the prior approval of the ACT Legislative Assembly. In addition ... for so long as the option of a sale of shares remained a possibility, the prudent approach in our view would have been to adopt a process which was governed by the requirements of the GP Act.

Against this background of Territory involvement in the conduct of the sale process, it would in our view have been reasonable for the Applicants in the sale process to have had a legitimate expectation that the process would be conducted in accordance with the rules of natural justice or procedural fairness. A legitimate expectation has been recognised by the courts for some time as an interest that is protected by procedural fairness. In the case Attorney-General of Hong Kong v Ng Yuen-Shiu (1983) All ER at 350 Lord Fraser explained legitimate expectations as justifiably arising on the footing that;

"When a public authority has promised to follow a certain procedure, it is in the interests of good administration that it should act fairly and should implement its promise, so long as implementation does not interfere with statutory duty".

Appendix A: Legal considerations

In the case of Kioa v West (1985) 159 CLR 550 Brennan J as he then was observed as follows:

“There are interests beyond legal rights that the legislature is presumed to intend to protect by the principle of natural justice. It is hardly to be thought that a modern legislature when it creates regimes for the regulation of social interest-licensing and permit systems, means of securing opportunities for acquiring legal rights, schemes for the provision of privileges and benefits at the discretion of Ministers and or public officials-intends that the interests of individuals which do not amount to legal rights but which are affected by the myriad and complex powers conferred on the bureaucracy should be accorded less protection than legal rights. The protected interests which do not amount to legal rights are nowadays frequently described as “legitimate expectations”.

In the same case, Mason J (as he then was) said as follows:

“The law has now developed to a point where it may be accepted that there is a common law duty to act fairly, in the sense of according procedural fairness in the making of administrative decisions which affect rights, interests and legitimate expectations.....”

As we have previously advised the potential for legal challenge for a breach of an implied condition to act fairly was addressed in the Hughes case which established for the first time in Australia authority for the existence of a ‘process contract’, that is, a contract between the entity conducting the tender process and each tenderer to govern the conduct of that tender process, and that a breach of that process contract can involve damage to the tenderer for which the latter may seek remedy. It was held in the Hughes case that the terms of the process contract were a combination of the express terms contained in the conditions of tender and two implied terms, one of which was stated to be implied as a matter of law to the effect that the government entity would exhibit fair dealing in the performance of the process contract.

As we have previously advised we are of the view that there would be a considerable risk that a Court would find the terms of the REOI and Request for Binding Final offers, taken together, constituted a process contract to which the Territory was a party. In reaching this conclusion we have relied on the fact that it was the Territory Government that decided to pursue a sale of its interest in ACTTAB. The sale only proceeded on the basis of an express approval of the ACT legislative Assembly. The sale was conducted jointly by the Board of ACTTAB and the ACT Community and Works Directorate and finally, the sale to the identified preferred purchaser required the approval of ACTTAB's voting shareholders, the Chief Minister and the Treasurer.

Accordingly we remain of the view that there is considerable risk that a Court would find that a process contract did exist and that the implied obligation to exhibit fair dealing (as determined by the Hughes case –and a number of following cases) applied.

A.22 Mr Charles Scerri, QC advised that he supported the Australian Government Solicitor’s view, and stated that:

I agree with that advice, and I consider that the finding that a process contract existed is more likely than not.

It is necessary to describe briefly the sale process that was undertaken.

The first step was the issue of the REOI. That provided that the sale would proceed either as a sale of shares in ACTTAB or as a sale by ACTTAB of its assets and undertaking. The 'Vendors' were defined as the ACT Government and the board of ACTTAB.

The REOI described the sale as a 'competitive sale process'. The REOI said that the exclusive licence currently held by ACTTAB would be offered to the successful purchaser on terms to be negotiated as part of the sale process. The final licence terms would not be determined by the relevant Minister 'until completion of the sale agreement with the successful purchaser.' Paragraph 3 of the REOI said that the sale would be subject to the new legislative provisions proposed by the Totalisator Bill 2013 and would only proceed where it was deemed to be in the best interests of the Vendors.

The REOI contained very detailed provisions as to the information that was required to be submitted in support of an expression of interest. The evaluation criteria were set out in detail. In particular, information was required in relation to the identity of any applicant and its advisors, the applicant's financial capacity, the applicant's operational capacity and the applicant's future intentions.

Applicants were requested to provide an outline of whether they had a preference to acquire the shares of ACTTAB or specified assets.

Clause 8 of the REOI dealt with 'Vendors Rights'. These included an 'absolute discretion' to accept or reject any expression of interest, offer or bid. Clause 9 provided that the vendors would not be liable to reimburse or compensate any applicant for any fees costs or expenses incurred in connection with any activities relating to the sale or the sale process.

The RFBO referred to 'licence terms that will be offered by the ACT Government as part of the sale'. The RFBO contained detailed provisions in relation to the sale process including how data would be made available and how the Q&A process was to be managed.

Other important features of the sale process include the following:

- a) By reason of s.16(1)(a) of the Territory-Owned Corporations Act 1990, ACTTAB was prohibited from selling its main undertaking without the consent of the Voting Shareholders (i.e. the Territory Government).
- b) The sale process was the subject of a Memorandum of Understanding between the ACTTAB and the Territory (MOU). That noted that the Legislative Assembly of the Territory had passed a resolution approving 'the disposal of the Territory's interest in ACTTAB by either a sale of the shares of ACTTAB or a sale by ACTTAB of its main undertaking'. (This resolution was necessary under s.16(4)(a) of the Territory-Owned Corporations Act 1990.) The Schedule to the MOU set out 'Sale Decisions' that were said to be 'the key matters that are expected to be referred to the Board of ACTTAB for decision'. Paragraph B of the Schedule said 'For the avoidance of doubt, if the Sale does not proceed as a sale of the assets and undertaking of ACTTAB, there are no Sale Decisions'.
- c) The sale process required the involvement of the Territory, even where it took the form of an asset sale. In particular, the sale was conditional upon the transfer or issue to the purchaser of ACTTAB's Totalisator Gaming Licence and certain other licences. The transfer of the Totalisator Gaming Licence required the approval of the Minister, it was necessary for the Gaming Commission to issue a Sports Bookmaking licence, and it was necessary for the Gaming Commission to give approval to the purchaser to conduct certain lottery products: see Schedule 8 to the Sale Agreement.

In Hughes, it was held that a tender process for the acquisition of services by the Civil Aviation Authority was subject to a ‘tender process contract’ to the effect that the tender process would be conducted fairly by the Authority and in accordance with the defined procedures and criteria that had been stipulated by the Authority.

In my opinion, a Court is likely to reach the same conclusion in this case. That is, the nature of the sale process, and the involvement of the ACT Government in that process, gave rise to a process contract under which the ACT Government was obliged to conduct the sale fairly and in accordance with the defined procedures and criteria that it had stated would apply to the sale process.

The involvement of the Government did vary once it was agreed with the purchaser that the transaction would take the form of an asset sale, rather than a sale of shares. This is reflected in the REOI and in the MOU (see above). But the Government remained critically involved in relation to the transfer and issue of the relevant licences and approvals (see above).

I have been briefed with an opinion of the Solicitor-General of the Territory dated 10 April 2015 in which he expresses the view that Hughes ‘does not extend to the proposed sale of the shares and/or assets of [ACTTAB] but is confined to government tendering and purchasing processes’. I respectfully disagree.

The general proposition is that where a government has stated that it will follow a particular procedure in relation to dealing with third parties, the government is under an obligation to act fairly and in accordance with the stated procedure. See, for example, Kioa v West (1985) CLR 550. This principle is not limited to purchasing tenders but is a general principle of modern administrative law. In the tendering context, the principle is given effect to by the imposition of a process contract.

- A.23 Legal advice provided for the audit by the Australian Government Solicitor and Mr Charles Scerri, QC concluded that it was more likely than not that the principles of the Hughes Case applied to the sale of ACTTAB. As a result, a ‘process contract’ existed in the sale of ACTTAB and there was, therefore, an obligation to conduct the sale in accordance with the defined procedures and the stated criteria that was in the Request for Expression of Interest.
- A.24 The ACT Government Solicitor advised in responding to the proposed audit report that the principles of the Hughes Case did not apply.
- A.25 While there is a difference of views, given the type of sale with its complexities and uncertainties, and given the consequences if the Hughes Case did apply, it would have been prudent for such an issue to have been explicitly considered in a risk analysis, in preparations for the sale. However, there is no evidence that this occurred. If it had occurred, any issues emerging due to differing views could have been managed to reduce any associated risk

‘Reserved discretions’

- A.26 For a procurement where a ‘process contract’ exists, there is less flexibility in the process, compared with one where such a concept does not apply. If a ‘process contract’ exists then even having ‘reserved discretions’, which are designed to give a vendor flexibility, may not be relied upon.

A.27 In responding to the draft proposed report, the ACT Government Solicitor stated ‘the Report does not appear to acknowledge the expressly reserved discretions stated in the conditions of the REOI, including paragraphs 6 and 8’.

A.28 The Request for Expressions of Interest document had ‘reserved discretions’ identified as follows:

Paragraph 6 stated:

EOIs [Expression of Interests] will be assessed by the Vendors in their absolute discretion based on the above criteria, and any other criteria determined relevant by the Vendors, to determine the Applicant’s suitability to progress past the EOI stage.

Paragraph 8 stated:

The Vendors are under no obligation to respond to any EOI [Expression of Interest]. The Vendors also reserve the right, at any time, and in their absolute discretion, to:

- Accept or reject without providing reasons any EOI, offer or bid in connection with the sale of ACTTAB submitted by any applicant at any time;
- Request from any or all Applicants any further information they may require;
- Vary, cease or suspend the Sale Process or any part of it;
- Invite further parties to participate in the Sale Process, at any time; and
- Take into account any additional information obtained by the vendors during the sale process.

A.29 The Australian Government Solicitor advised that:

In our view none of these reserved rights operate in such a way as to expressly disclaim the REOI [Request for Expression of Interest] from being interpreted to be a “process contract” within the meaning of Hughes. In addition, the discretions do not seek to exclude the Hughes implied obligation to act fairly in terms of the way in which the reserved rights may be exercised and the sale process conducted.

A.30 The Australian Government Solicitor further advised that:

There are expressly reserved discretions stated in the conditions of the REOI, in particular-paragraphs 6 and 8.

Paragraph 6 refers to the evaluation criteria and states that the ‘EOIs will be assessed by the Vendors in their absolute discretion based on the above criteria, and any other criteria determined relevant by the Vendors, to determine the Applicant’s suitability to progress past the EOI stage’.

Paragraph 8 sets out the Vendors reserved rights in the conduct of the EOI process. Their rights include a right to accept or reject without providing reasons, a right to vary, cease or suspend the Sale process, a right to request further information, take into account additional information or request further information.

In our view none of these reserved rights operate in such a way as to expressly disclaim the REOI from being interpreted to be a “process contract” within the meaning of Hughes. In addition, the discretions do not seek to exclude the Hughes implied obligation to act fairly in terms of the way in which the reserved rights may be exercised and the sale process conducted.

For completeness we do note that Paragraph 9 of the REOI deals with responsibility for costs and states that the Vendors are not liable to reimburse or compensate any Applicant for any fees, costs or expenses incurred in connection with activities relating the sale of ACTTAB and/or the sale process. There is nothing in this provision which negates the potential for the REOI to be interpreted to be a process contract or which involves an express contracting out from the implied obligation to act fairly.

A.31 Mr Charles Scerri, QC advised that:

A subsidiary question upon which AGS advised was whether certain provisions in the REOI excluded the application of Hughes. In particular these were provisions which referred to the vendors' right to act in their absolute discretion in assessing each expression of interest 'based on the [stated] criteria and any other criteria determined relevant by the Vendors'. There was also the reservation of an express 'right to vary, cease or suspend the sale process' and a provision limiting liability for bidders' costs in the sale process.

Although these provisions are relevant, I agree with AGS that they are not explicit and direct enough to exclude any obligation that the ACT Government would have otherwise to act fairly and in accordance with the stated procedures.

A.32 The 'reserved discretions' in the Request for Expressions of Interest were intended to allow for greater flexibility in the sale process. However, as it is more likely than not that the Hughes Case principles applied and a 'process contract' was relevant to the sale of ACTTAB the 'reserved discretions' in the Request for Expressions of Interest document cannot be relied upon. It therefore would have been prudent not to exercise the 'reserved discretions' as if these had priority over the Request for Expressions of Interest document and its criteria.

Summary

A.33 The Australian Government Solicitor advised that:

In summary ... the sale process can be categorised as a joint Territory and ACTTAB sale involving a staged tender process comprising a REOI [Request for Expression of Interest] and as Request for Final Binding Offers. Having regard to the Territory's decision-making and approval responsibilities with respect to the sale process there is ... a considerable risk that a Court would find that a process contract existed and that in so far as the exercise of the Territory's rights and decision-making on the sale process is concerned, there was an implied obligation to accord Applicants [bidders] "procedural fairness", i.e. act fairly.

Chairman's statement

“The task is clear, ‘Build a Better Ladbrokes’ and deliver the growth to return the business to one that wins more customers and rewards shareholders.”

With this in mind the immediate future for Ladbrokes is one of opportunity and expectation.

It was with a sense of pride that at the end of 2015 I stepped up to be Chairman of what I regard as one of the biggest and most influential bookmakers. It is a great honour to lead this Company but it also comes with a weight of expectation as we look forward to 2016. I am acutely aware that shareholders have seen recent false dawns and am mindful that your patience has been tested.

While we have ended 2015 confident in the plans laid out by our Chief Executive, Jim Mullen, both for organic growth and for the proposed merger with the Coral Group, we have to acknowledge that these plans come at a cost. The cut in profits and the dividend were necessary steps as part of our journey.

But the task for Ladbrokes is to look forward. 2016 will be an exciting year full of opportunities. The organic plan to grow is showing encouraging signs and creating a belief in our ability to deliver scale and drive Ladbrokes back to former heights and beyond.

The proposed merger with Coral is a fast track to scale and we are pleased that shareholders gave it such a vote of confidence at the General Meeting in November 2015. The competition authorities will not be easy to satisfy, but if we are successful, as we expect to be, the opportunities created are compelling.

Building for long term

The appointment of Jim Mullen came after the Board decided that a new approach was needed for the business. The task set out to him was clear, build a stronger Ladbrokes and gain the scale needed to compete ever more effectively in a challenging market.

Jim and his team were quick to move the business away from the short-term approach that had dominated, to one with a clear plan and longer term targets. Jim has united the Company behind his plan to create a business with more recreational customers, more digital revenue and growing profits by 2017.

He has been clear from day one, that the talent in the business never left, it just needed the encouragement and investment to demonstrate its expertise, particularly around sport. It has been a focus of his tenure and we believe the encouraging customer metrics seen in the second half reflect well on just how much talent there is in the business.

In parallel to Jim's ambition to get Ladbrokes back as the sports betting destination of choice for the recreational customer, he also took forward the discussion on the potential merger with Coral to the point where we now are going through the competition authority process to bring this to fruition.

Throughout the year ahead, the Board are clear on the executive team's task, focus on delivery of the day to day business, increase our appeal to the recreational customer and be ready to exploit the opportunities offered by the merger.

Merger

The rationale behind our merger is clear. Organically our plan recognises that we need to grow to have scale to compete even more effectively in the market. It will create an industry leading retail, digital and international business with huge potential to build scale, and gain wide customer appeal.

We will have the opportunity to create a leading management team by choosing the best of both brands in terms of people, systems and operational excellence. Crucially it also offers significant ongoing synergy benefits of at least £65 million per annum after year three.

The case for the merger is one that you have already backed loud and clear but none of us underestimate the challenge in execution.

Leading the way

2015 has seen yet more change in our market as the ever growing burden of regulation and taxation created the rationale for consolidation. We were quick to realise that this challenge offered an opportunity and moved early with our proposed merger. Others followed and over time we expect more to do so.

We have also seen the continued evolution of the customer and their habits, both on the High Street and in the digital world. The customer expectation of a good retail offer is evolving and that is why we have, and will, continue to look to innovate and to build a multi-channel, or 'One Ladbrokes' approach, as we call it.

Regulation

As ever we continue to face regulatory and political headwinds. In recent years, we have seen the introduction of Point of Consumption tax, increases in Machines Games Duty, machine stake regulations and advertising restrictions.

We are a business in a sector where we accept that there should be an appropriate level of regulation. However, after such high levels of change in such a short period we do believe that it is time for there to be a pause, so that all the changes can bed in and their effectiveness be properly assessed.

While some of the change is outside our control, we seek to lead the industry in best practice. We have actively led and supported self regulation initiatives such as the Senet Group and we remain committed to focusing on fulfilling our license objectives and delivering a safe and responsible offer to our customers.

Board focus

Your Board has undergone several changes this year and after over six years as Chairman, Peter Erskine stood down in December. He leaves with our very best wishes and thanks for all his hard work.

Darren Shapland also stood down from the Board after six years, five as Chair of the Audit Committee. We were delighted towards the end of the financial year to announce that Mark Pain would be joining as the new Chair of the Audit Committee, a role he will maintain in Ladbrokes Coral PLC. Mark has tremendous experience as both an executive and non executive Director and I am delighted that he has agreed to join us.

Finally in September we announced that this year's set of results would be the last for Ian Bull as our Chief Financial Officer. He left us in early 2016 and has been replaced by Richard Snow, who was our Director of Investor Relations. Richard is a chartered accountant by training and has spent his career in banking and in public companies. He will not join the Board but will attend all Board meetings.

With the option of a potential merger ahead, it is not surprising that there is a changing of the guard on the Board. Indeed I think it is essential that we keep the thinking and overview of the business fresh while maintaining experience and knowledge.

As a Board we are keen to ensure that we take a detailed view on not just the issues of today but also longer-term ones. You won't be surprised to know that key decisions such as the merger, our refinancing and the examinership process in the Republic of Ireland were all heavily discussed as well as those for the longer term such as talent management, culture and risk management systems. You can see more on our activities in the Corporate Governance section.

Looking ahead

As I said in my introduction, 2016 is a year both of excitement and expectation for Ladbrokes.

We have a strong brand and a team that is enabling that brand to punch its weight in a very competitive market. We are determined to build on this foundation for the benefit of our customers, shareholders and employees.

The merger, should it be approved, will give us execution challenges. While we will allocate the resources to ensure we hit the ground running, we will be prudent in our approach and not risk our standalone performance. This will be a balancing act but the Board aim to ensure it is one we deliver.

We are confident that while 2016 will be as competitive as ever, we have the right leader, the right team and the right plan to get our brand back to what it does best; sports betting expertise allied to competitive products and excellent customer focus.

There is now a clear sense of purpose and belief amongst our people and this cannot be underestimated, because as ever it is our people who will be the key to our success and we remain thankful for all their hard work and dedication. The value it provides will never be taken for granted.

The 2015 results reflect the need to carry out this significant investment to build our recreational customer base. ## Life of a bet

Customers enjoy placing a bet to enhance the fun of a sporting event and to experience the excitement offered by casino games.

The betting year 2015

MARCH

THE SIX NATIONS

The Six Nations was one of the most exciting in recent history. England, Ireland and Wales went into the final weekend all equal on six points and it was inevitable the title would come down to points difference. What ensued was the highest scoring weekend of the Six Nations on record, with all three teams in contention covering the handicap and costing bookmakers dearly. Ireland's tournament win (2/1 beforehand) was a decent consolation.

JUNE

THE DERBY

Frankie Dettori riding the favourite to victory in The Derby was never likely to be a good result. Golden Horn's win at Epsom was just the first of a string of costly big race triumphs as he went on to take the Eclipse, Champion Stakes and Arc carrying customers with him all the way.

Key events of 2015

JANUARY

PDC Darts World Championship

Gary Anderson may have been the 5/1 third favourite coming into the PDC Darts World Championship, but some shrewd customers had taken 25/1 and bigger in the months leading up to the tournament so while it was not the worst result in the book for us, it wasn't the best either.

FEBRUARY

Super Bowl

The New England Patriots' dramatic win over the Seattle Seahawks turned out to be one of the best sporting results of the entire year for Ladbrokes. In-running betting was huge, as the result was still in doubt down to the last few seconds of the match.

APRIL

Grand National

Many Clouds' 33/1 victory made it three great results in a row in the biggest race of the year. We had been sweating on a huge payout had Tony McCoy's last ever ride on Shutthefrontdoor, been successful. In the end, despite leading for a long time and causing us some concern, he faded into fifth place.

MAY

Mayweather v Pacquiao

The Fight of the Century went exactly as our oddsmakers predicted with a points win for Mayweather over Pacquiao and a £1 million pound plus profit for Ladbrokes in the biggest betting heat in boxing history.

Unfortunately, all of that and more went back to political punters five days later as a shock Tory majority in the general election cost us dearly. One Glasgow shop customer collected almost a quarter of a million on a £30,000 bet at 7/1.

SEPTEMBER

ST LEGER

The Ladbrokes St Leger proved to be one of the biggest horse racing stories of the year. Simple Verse passed the winning post in first place only to be disqualified by the Stewards on the day, seemingly handing the world's oldest Classic to Bondi Beach. The story didn't end there; an appeal was lodged and weeks later the British Horseracing Authority sensationally reversed the decision and handed the victory back to Simple Verse. Ladbrokes paid out backers of both horses, costing us an extra £1m, but the month-long publicity surrounding the race softened the blow.

NOVEMBER

LEAGUE

Ante-post betting slips around the country were being torn up as pre-season favourites Chelsea drifted from 5/4 to 100/1 to win the Premier League following a dismal run of form for The Blues. Conversely, Leicester City's incredible start saw bookies sweating on some potential huge payouts to fans who had backed them at odds as big as 5,000/1.

JULY

Wimbledon

Ante-post favourites Djokovic and Serena Williams both delivered at Wimbledon and a string of pre-tournament doubles hit bookmakers everywhere.

Zach Johnson's win in the Open play-off saw a £1 million swing in our favour over Racing Post tip, Louis Oosthuizen. Otherwise the golfing year was dominated by punters' favourites Spieth, Day and McIlroy.

AUGUST

Challenge Cup

Rugby League may not, to some, be considered a mainstream sport, but to its passionate supporters it is number one for both the dedication and sporting excellence of the stars that play.

In 2015 we took up the sponsorship of the Challenge Cup, the most prestigious tournament in rugby league. It has been a great success. Not only has it engaged our northern customers, but we gained national television exposure culminating in The Challenge Cup Final, a well watched event with Ladbrokes' branding everywhere.

OCTOBER

Rugby World Cup

Despite favourites New Zealand winning the Rugby World Cup (and England's early exit), record breaking in-play betting resulted in a hugely profitable tournament. A few surprise results helped, notably Japan's incredible 66/1 win over South Africa.

DECEMBER

Fury v Klitschko

Despite Tyson Fury being a 4/1 outsider to beat Klitschko, patriotic punters in the shops made this a small losing result for the books.

Chief Executive's review

“In 2015, we made positive progress and customer traction with continued increases in Digital and UK Retail. We saw customers responding well to our products, our value and recently launched multi-channel offer.”

Overview

After a short and intense internal review, it was clear that we needed to change the way we ran the business, build scale, respond faster to the customer and create a sense of urgency across the business.

In July, we announced an aggressive three year investment programme to build our UK Retail, Digital and Australian recreational customer base. The plan is based on restoring a culture of sporting passion and pride in what we do at Ladbrokes and in ensuring that the recreational customer and sports betting is front and centre in all that we do.

The plan was not without challenges and came at a cost as we sought to address urgently the need to invest more heavily in the business, with an inevitable and significant reduction in our profit expectations and cutting the dividend to finance our strategy for growth.

The fall in operating profit in 2015 highlights the reality of our situation, the significant burden of c.£50m increased tax and regulation on our industry and the financial impact of delivering the plan.

It is pleasing that after two quarters of execution of our plan, we can report progress. We take encouragement that the customer metrics and revenue growth in H2 demonstrate a good response from our customers to our focus on people, product and promotions and reflect positively on some of the cultural and operational changes that have taken place. The challenge for Ladbrokes is to build on this start and remain intensely focused on reaching or exceeding the 2017 financial targets we set out in July.

The year ended with Group operating profit of £80.6m<sup>(1)</sup>, which was slightly ahead of expectations with better results in UK Retail in Q4 and somewhat stronger operational trends being the key drivers to this performance.

Within all our key strategy areas we saw improved performance in the second half, helping full year Group net revenue grow 3.2% year on year (excluding High Rollers) against a period which included the 2014 World Cup.

UK Retail in particular performed strongly and we saw an increasing contribution from our market leading Self Serving Betting Terminal (SSBT) estate and encouraging H2 OTC staking trends. Machines, where our strategy is to grow lower staking play through the regular introduction of new slots based games, also performed well.

In Digital, the Point of Consumption (POC) tax, the increased H2 marketing investment required to implement our strategy and the loss we recorded from HVCs in Q1 contributed to a significant decline in profitability. However, while the full year reflected issues both within and outside of our control, we were encouraged by the exit trends we saw under the new strategy with net revenue growth in Q4 at 31.4% and Ladbrokes.com net revenue up 28.4%.

Australia has been one of our strongest performing businesses and, despite strong competition in this market, it delivered net revenue up 70.9% in the year and up 76.3% in Q4 on local currency basis, somewhat ahead of our expectations in July.

Strategy implementation

Following the announcement of our new strategy, the Group has focused on implementing its plan to grow recreational scale across UK Retail, Ladbrokes.com and Australia. This growth is being driven by increasing direct and brand marketing expenditure; through offering focused value propositions to our customers; and through the continuous delivery of innovative products, including, importantly, multi-channel products and services.

UK Retail

In UK Retail, we have sought to increase our appeal to a wider recreational customer base through a focus on people, product and promotions.

We have begun to engage our people on a journey that puts sports betting and sports expertise back at the heart of our offer. We have rolled out tablets to every shop to help promote better communication, training and product knowledge. We also established a retail experience programme to promote greater service standards in our retail estate and have recently begun the process to identify sports experts in every marketplace to help create the strongest sports betting proposition on the High Street.

Our focus has largely been on attracting the recreational football customer and we have invested heavily in marketing and sponsorships that support this aim. We have also advertised more in key media across the UK with 26% year on year increases in red top and TV media. Staking for the 2015/16 football season was up an encouraging 13.2% at the year end with gross win up 28.6% as the English premier league unpredictability contributed to a strong finish to the year.

Our product initiatives have been based around two key innovations in our offer, SSBTs and multi-channel.

We took the decision to create the UK's largest SSBT estate, based on the growing customer interest we had seen in the existing offer. We successfully rolled out over 3,500 new SSBTs in H2 to complement our existing offer and now have at least one in every shop with some of our busier shops, as determined by our local management teams, hosting up to eight terminals.

The range of betting opportunities and markets held on each terminal creates the ability for the customer to create their own multiple bets across a multitude of sports and international territories from the convenience of the UK High Street. The performance of the SSBT product has been strong, growing from just 3% of OTC staking in Q4 2014 to over 8% at the end of 2015. They have proved popular in growing our appeal with customers in the 18-35 year old segment whose primary interest is in football and over 75% of SSBT staking is on football. In addition, they allow customers to bet in-play thereby aligning our retail offer with services our digital customers already enjoy, and while in play accounts for over 30% of SSBT staking in Q4, we see this as an opportunity for further development. With the full roll out now complete, our attention has turned to optimising their performance through promotion of the product and enhancing the proposition. This will help them appeal to a wider range of customers as well as developing our in play business and driving more multiple bets.

Late in Q2 we launched our multi-channel (One Ladbrokes) offer following successful regional trials to attract the recreational customer and specifically targeted our launch to coincide with the football season. We are focused on growing digital actives through the combination of digital and OTC oriented technology products.

The One Ladbrokes appeal is focused on a product driven strategy and already customers can take advantage of products such as retail cash out, bet status trackers, my Accas, live scoreboards and the ability to transfer winnings online. These facilities have proved incredibly popular with over one million bet tracker checks by the year end. The product appeals typically to the younger recreational customer, 56% of signs ups are under 35, and so far we have seen the value of these customers is greater than a pure Ladbrokes.com only customer. All selling of the multi-channel offer has been via our High Street shop estate utilising a retail distribution network of over 2,000 shops.

We have allied market leading product with a cost effective cash incentive to our retail colleagues to recruit customers. I have been delighted by the response of our retail teams to our multi-channel offer and they have been central to us recruiting over 35,000 new digital actives by year end. Customer recruitment continues to progress well. We believe that this combination can continue to grow our multi-channel customer base further, a view backed up by the first few weeks of 2016 and further re-enforces our view that the retail estate still has a very active role in the modern High Street.

We continue to see the benefit of investing some margin to deliver value offers to our customers in key sports through promotions such as Best Odds Guaranteed and Happy Hour or by products such as Top Prices Top Teams. Our colleagues tell us that they have driven the appeal of our retail offer as well as increased the belief of our own retail teams in our competitive proposition. It perhaps should not be a surprise that with this confidence in our people, the trends on our OTC business have improved.

Finally we have seen continued strong performance in our machine product. The key driver in this growth has been through increased play on lower stake slot games. We have grown the percentage of gross win from slots from 33% in Q4 2014 to 40% in Q4 2015. This has been a key part of our machine strategy as we move away from higher stake content and focus on lower value staking games. We launched 27 new slot games in the year compared to just five casino B2 games. Within our machine performance we also complied with all the new DCMS regulations on £50+ staking which saw a 68% reduction in that form of play.

Having prioritised establishing the largest SSBT estate in the UK in H2 2015, we are beginning to invest the £25-30m capital investment programme we set out in July across the UK Retail estate. We expect to spend up to £11m in 2016 improving the core fabric of our estate where the competitive position or local market is expected to deliver an incremental return.

Digital

In Ladbrokes.com, where we had already established a strong sports betting and gaming product, we launched our new desktop product on the Mobenga platform, introduced cash out options across all sports betting platforms and implemented the next level of IMS creating a competitive single wallet offer for customers.

We continued to focus on increasing the quality of content available to customers on our key digital products including live scoreboards and increased the ease of access to live streamed sporting events. However, as announced in July, in the second half of the year we set about to ensure that more people were aware of our product and the significant journey of improvement it had been on. As planned, we increased our marketing intensity to over 30% of net revenue, with a focus on pay per click and affiliate channels. While the overall profit performance of Ladbrokes.com reflects the impact of increased taxation and marketing and product investment, the customer trend data as we exited the year gives cause for encouragement and we will continue to invest heavily in marketing as we approach the European Football championships in June 2016.

Sportsbook has now seen eight consecutive quarters of staking growth and despite coming up against a tough prior year comparative, it ended the year up 44% in Q4. Outside of the Grand National, Boxing Day 2015 saw the highest ever number of actives, 87,000 playing on our sportsbook, crucially showing that while new tablets, laptops and phones were unwrapped on Christmas day, our applications were willingly transferred by the customer. In the few weeks since the start of the new financial year, this number looks increasingly within reach for a normal Saturday. The customer preference to access products from mobile devices continued in the year and grew from 54% of our sportsbook stakes in 2014 to 71% at year end.

While product innovation has driven the sportsbook performance, we have seen the ability to cross sell to Gaming enhanced by the delivery of the IMS single wallet functionality in the year.

In Gaming we delivered our fifth consecutive quarter of growth in Q4, with customers responding well to weekly releases of new games, a new Casino website and the introduction of Live Dealer on all mobile platforms.

As with sportsbook, the attraction of mobile play to the customer continues and it now accounts for 52% of gaming play, up from 34% in 2014.

I called Australia one of the hidden jewels in the Ladbrokes crown in July. With stakes up 63%, actives up 65% and net revenue up 71% (local currency) it has continued to go from strength to strength. The strategy in Australia is to take the team's dedication to innovative products to build a strong customer base backed by a strong investment in brand awareness.

In the year, the business has launched partial cash out offers across all markets. It has also started to drive multi-channel growth through the innovative 'Cash In' feature that allows customers to instantly deposit money into their Ladbrokes account at over 1,000 participating newsagents across Australia. While the performance of the business has been encouraging across the board, we are particularly encouraged by how quickly the brand has grown reaching number three in the year among corporate bookmakers from a standing start in 2013. To keep up this momentum Ladbrokes Australia has become the official corporate bookmaker for the Melbourne

European Retail

In Belgium and Spain we are continuing our existing strategies for growth, building on leading retail positions to develop a multi-channel offer.

Belgium retail performance has been good with non-horse sports betting, evening openings and some investment in our estate fabric helping offset horse racing decline. The retail highlight has been our product innovation in introducing SSBTs and utilising virtual sports on them. Although there is some regulatory uncertainty over virtual sports betting in Belgium, we continue to remain positive on the potential for SSBTs in Belgium retail.

In Spain, through our joint venture, we continue to expand into new territories and saw encouraging profit growth in the more established regions such as Madrid and Aragon. In Catalunya we have achieved the number one market position in retail and saw over 200% growth in net revenue in the year. While our strategy of continuous expansion does come at a continued small operating loss, progress in established territories remains encouraging for the longer-term success of the business. We also took on the role as the official betting partner to La Liga and the raised Sportium brand profile has assisted an encouraging digital performance.

In early Q2, we took the decision to place our Republic of Ireland business into Examinership in order to establish a more viable and competitive business. We exited the process in July with a reduced estate and a reduction in workforce achieved almost entirely through a voluntary redundancy programme. The steps we took allied to a more visibly promotion led business strategy has seen the Republic return to good staking growth and profitability in the second half of 2015. Multi-channel represents an exciting opportunity for Ireland and we used our successful experience of the UK launch to roll out the product in January 2016.

Regulation and Taxation Developments

2015 showed the impact regulation and taxation can have on our business. The increases in MGD and the introduction of POC tax account for c.£50million reduction in our full year operating profit.

We also introduced new DCMS regulations around the playing of B2 games at stakes above £50 in April. This had a significant impact in reducing the higher stakes B2 play and has driven the reduction in stakes at £50+ by just under 70%.

While my central focus has been on delivering the growth in our business necessary to build scale and return value to shareholders, I have been very clear that in delivering my plan we have two non-negotiables in our approach, health and safety and responsible gambling.

We are clear that gambling should be a safe and enjoyable pastime for both our colleagues and customers.

As part of this commitment we have undertaken a review of our approach to health and safety throughout the business. We have also committed to move to single scheduling as a voluntary only policy in the evenings and this is being rolled out through the estate with a target date of being fully operational by autumn. While this will have a financial cost, this is already factored into our wider view on a 2-3% rise in UK Retail operating costs in 2016.

As part of our commitment to responsible gambling we have continued to develop our retail algorithm which identifies changes in behaviour indicating potential problem gambling and assist in helping customers keep their gambling fun. It now covers all customers using cards in our retail estate on both machines and OTC products. We also launched a responsible gambling matrix in our Ladbrokes.com business late in the year. We have continued our membership of Senet and played a key role in the wider self-exclusion pilot schemes ahead of the national scheme to be rolled out in Q2 this year. 2015 was also the first year that responsible gambling targets were included in executive remuneration, and we believe we are the only company in the industry to have done so.

Proposed merger

The proposed merger with the Coral Group was announced in July 2015 and we are grateful for the strong support from shareholders in November. We are now actively engaged with the Competition and Markets Authority ("CMA") in the formal phase two process. We expect to see the preliminary findings of the CMA in late April with the current timetable for publication of the final report being 24 June 2016 in line with the merger timetable we set out last July.

While this process takes place, we will continue to focus on the implementation of the organic strategy and the delivery of business as usual.

Outlook

Our H2 results give us encouragement that our strategy is working. The current year has started well, as the unpredictability of the football season has thus far favoured bookmakers. Customer metrics continue to remain strong and, as a result we maintain our view for 2016. It will be a year of hard work, attention to detail and continued investment as we set about delivering against our 2017 targets.

Retail investment delivering revenue growth in machines and football, positive OTC staking trends in H2

Our UK Retail business performed ahead of our expectations for 2015 reflecting a stronger OTC and machines performance, continued cost control and better results driven margins in Q4. Overall, net revenue increased by 2.0% driven by strong SSBT and machine performance and operating profit declined by 2.7%, much less than the impact from the significant increase in Machines Games Duty from 1 March.

Despite the impact of the 2014 World Cup in the comparable period, OTC staking declined by only 2.1% or 0.4% on a like for like basis. Excluding the World Cup, OTC staking was in line with the prior year or up 1.7% on a like for like basis with H2 returning to growth. Football staking was down 1.5%, but excluding the World Cup period we saw underlying growth of c.14% and following the start of the English Premiership in August, football staking grew by 13.2%.

Gross win margin for the year was 16.2% (2014:16.4%). In H1 we experienced lower OTC margin reflecting the industry wide football losses in Q1 and weaker horse racing margins from our sustained focus on value for customers and customer friendly results. However, the favourable football results towards the end of the year avoided a potentially weaker result.

SSBTs, which are included in OTC, generated stakes of £117.4m, up 144%, with over 76% coming from football. We have seen a growing staking per shop throughout the year whilst margins have been maintained at 25.6% supportive of our wider deployment strategy. In 2015, our SSBT estate grew to 6,408 (2014: 1,731).

We have successfully launched the multi-channel strategy which has delivered 35,000 digital actives by the year end. On average, they are around twice as valuable as standalone digital customers and are cheaper to recruit with over 6,200 shop colleagues benefitting from the £0.8m paid in incentives.

In H1 we launched the new regulations governing stakes above £50. This had a significant impact in reducing the higher stakes B2 play. Good engagement with our customers through implementation of the '£50 journey' and our speed to market on launching innovative lower staking B3 slots and content has seen machine revenue grow by 6.1% with strong growth in slots which now accounts for c.39% of machines gross win (2014: c.31%).

In 2015, there was an average of 8,670 gaming machines in the estate (2014: 8,966). At 31 December 2015 there were 8,586 machines (31 December 2014: 8,789). Average gross win per machine per week was £1,028 (2014: £937).

On 1 March 2015 the rate of Machine Games Duty increased from 20% to 25% resulting in a £24.4m increase in the year.

Operating costs decreased by 0.1% in 2015 reflecting shop closures, or a 2.5% increase on a like-for-like basis. This was broadly in line with the cost guidance we issued in February as we have benefitted from a sustained focus on cost efficiency through a well managed rent renewal process and delivered on our estate optimisation programmes. Our machine revenue share payments were higher than we expected reflecting the stronger performance in 2015. Marketing costs were higher by 30.4% reflecting our investment in customer acquisition and payments to our employees in support of the multi-channel programme. In 2016, we expect UK Retail operating costs to increase by c.2-3% taking account of a continued attractive rental market, staff costs increases including the impact of the National Living Wage being introduced in March 2016 as well as voluntary single scheduling, and the small reduction in the estate planned for 2016.

In 2015, we closed 56 shops as we improve the quality of our estate and remove, where commercially sensible, loss making shops from the portfolio. The closures have generated an exceptional charge of £13.4m (total cash cost £4.4m). In 2016 we expect to close around 25 shops excluding the impact of the proposed merger.

At 31 December 2015 there were 2,153 shops in Great Britain (31 December 2014: 2,209).

The Digital segment comprises all of our Digital operations including Ladbrokes.com and digital Exchanges; Ladbrokes Australia; and other regulated operations in Belgium and our digital joint venture Sportium.es.

In 2015, Digital net revenue increased by 12.9% to £242.8m (2014: £215.1m) driven by a combination of strong customer KPIs as well as favourable sporting results in Q4 resulting in our highest ever level of quarterly net revenue in Ladbrokes.com. However, as a result of the introduction of the POC tax in the UK, substantial losses to HVC's in Ladbrokes.com in Q1 and increased marketing investment in H2 in line with the strategic plan, we recorded an operating loss before exceptional items of £23.8m (2014: profit £14.0m).

Ladbrokes.com and Exchanges

In Sportsbook, amounts staked increased by 29.0% (+33.5% ex World Cup) with actives increasing by 9.9%. In 2015, Mobile represented 70.5% of sportsbook stakes with mobile staking increasing by 69.4%. The gross win margin of 6.1% was 1.7 percentage points lower than 2014; this was partially due to significant losses to HVC's in Q1 but also reflects the impact of customer friendly football results in H1. As a result, Sportsbook net revenue declined by 4.5%.

In July, we launched our new desktop product, powered by the Mobenga platform which gives our customers a consistent experience with our strong Mobile and tablet offers. In addition, other enhancements such as cash-out and single wallet were launched. Whilst the decline in desktop actives has been arrested, desktop staking declined by 17.9%, reflecting increasing customer preference for Mobile products.

As a result of our improved customer offer and the benefits of Ladbrokes Israel use of the Playtech IMS platform, Gaming net revenue increased by 13.3% to £91.2m and we have now seen five sequential quarters of growth in net revenue and actives.

Net revenue from Betdaq and the Ladbrokes Exchange of £13.3m increased by 0.8%.

Operating costs increased by 12.0% to £177.0m (2014: £158.0m) impacted by the increased marketing investment in H2, in line with the strategic plan. Depreciation and amortisation increased to £28.5m (2014: £27.2m) reflecting the investment in systems and product enhancements.

Point of Consumption (POC) tax came into effect from 1 December 2014 levied at a rate of 15% of net revenue. The full year impact of POC tax, a lower Sportsbook gross win margin and the increased investment in marketing has resulted in an operating loss of £20.7m (2014: profit £17.3m).

Our Australian business operates under the Ladbrokes, Bookmaker and Betstar brands. Ladbrokes Australia has continued to successfully pursue its challenger strategy building market share through effective use of affiliates and product innovation such as Live Play and the cash in option via a network of newsagents. This is being supported with increased marketing expenditure and investment in increased product capability and customer support which per the strategy, will be maintained in 2016.

The small operating profit decline is as a result of an increase in marketing investment as well as the weakening of the Australian Dollar.

Looking at performance on a constant currency basis, staking increased by 62.9% driven by a 64.7% increase in active customers and net revenue increased by 70.9% on the back of a 75.6% increase in marketing spend. Gross win margin was 9.8% (2014: 9.0%).

Since launching in Q2 2014, we have increased our Belgium net revenue to £4.0m (2014: £1.6m), incurring start up losses as we drive for growth and capitalise on our significant and long-standing retail presence in Belgium. Belgium Digital actives increased by 141% reflecting the launch in Q2 2014.

Our digital joint venture with Sportium generated revenue growth of 86.2% on increased actives of c.114k up 43.8% and again incurred a development phase operating loss reflecting marketing investment in La Liga sponsorship and associated La Liga promotional campaigns to drive customer acquisition and scale.

In Q2 2015, we closed our Danish online business which had been loss making for some time, deploying our resources into markets where we can build scale.

In Belgium, we are benefitting from the substantial investment in enhancing the quality of the offering in our retail estate for customers with the introduction of virtual betting products and SSBTs. Amounts staked have increased 35.6% while gross win margins reflected lower margin virtual play at 20.3% (2014: 24.7%), meaning net revenue increased by 11.4%. Operating costs were up 15.6% with machine and virtual revenue share and night opening costs being the key drivers and operating profit at £9.5m was down £0.1m on 2014. Since the introduction of the virtual product, the Belgian regulator has restricted the amount of time that all market participants can run the product, which impacted revenues in H2. In January 2016, the regulator has ordered a 'shut-down' of the virtual offering from 1 June 2016 pending changes to the Royal decree on virtual product betting. We continue to lobby the authorities and are confident of a positive outcome for all operators over a product that contributes significant amount in tax revenues.

Following the completion of the Examinership process in July, we now have an estate of 143 shops (down 53 since 31 December 2014) in the Republic of Ireland with a reduced operating cost base. Although almost 90 people left the business, we were pleased that almost all opted to do so under the voluntary redundancy scheme. Including costs of terminating leases early and legal and professional expenses, the total £10.0m cost of the Examinership process is reflected in our exceptional items.

Inevitably, the reduction in the estate impacted our results, and our Republic of Ireland business saw staking decline by 7.8% and revenue by 16.5%. On a like for like basis, the remaining estate of 143 shops recorded an increase of 14.3% in amounts staked including a 20.5% increase in H2. Gross win margin of 12.5% was down 1.2 percentage points reflecting a more competitive offer for our customers primarily in horse racing.

Overall trends in Northern Ireland were similar to the UK and with further cost efficiencies operating profit was slightly down on last year.

Overall Ireland operating profit at £6.8m was up £2.4m on 2014. At 31 December 2015, there were 77 shops in Northern Ireland (31 December 2014: 79).

(1) Profit before tax, net finance and exceptional items.

(2) Net revenue is derived after deducting Freebets and fair value adjustments from gross win.

Revenue

Group revenue increased by £24.9m (2.1%) to £1,199.5m (2014: £1,174.6m). Excluding High Rollers, revenue increased by £36.6m (3.2%) to £1,195.5m (2014: £1,158.9m).

The increase is mainly attributable to growth in our Australian business, strong SSBT and gaming machine performance in UK Retail, improved gaming performance within Ladbrokes.com partially offset by weaker OTC and Ladbrokes.com sportsbook margin on the back of customer friendly results in H1. Notably, 2014 covered the World Cup compared to no major football tournament in 2015.

Operating profit

Operating profit decreased by £55.7m (39.9%) to £83.9m (2014: £139.6m). The key drivers are increased marketing spend, higher gaming taxes (MGD and POC) as well as a decline in High Roller activity.

Operating profit is stated after depreciation and amortisation of £77.4m. The Group expects full year depreciation and amortisation charge for full year ended 31 December 2016 to be in the range of £80-82m.

Excluding High Rollers, operating profit decreased by £44.8m (35.7%) to £80.6m (2014: £125.4m) reflecting the impact of increased MGD, the full year effect of POC tax as well as higher marketing spend in line with our strategy.

Corporate costs

Before exceptional items, total corporate costs increased by £1.1m to £24.0m (2014: £22.9m). The increase is mainly due to the inclusion of bonus provisions in 2015 partially offset by a credit of £1.6m relating to the Hilton hotel guarantees.

Finance expense

Before exceptional items, net finance expense of £28.1m was £0.7m higher than last year (2014: £27.4m) mainly due to a higher blended interest rate as a majority of the bonds were fixed rate bonds in the year.

Profit before tax

The decrease in trading profits has resulted in a 50.3% decrease in full year profit before taxation and exceptional items to £55.8m (2014: £112.2m).

Operating exceptional items before tax

Total operating exceptional items before tax of £99.3m (2014 £73.4m) includes the following:

- £58.3m (2014: £44.5m) impairment loss following review of UK Retail and Ireland shops and software
- £19.8m (2014: £30.7m) of losses on closure of shops in the UK and Ireland (£13.4m loss in closure in UK Retail and £6.4m in European Retail mainly as a result of the Examinership process in the Republic of Ireland)
- £17.6m in relation to transaction costs relating to the proposed recommended merger with the Coral Group
- £3.5m credit in relation to reversal of European indirect tax liability
- £3.8m in relation to the legal and redundancy costs following the Examinership process in the Republic of Ireland
- £3.1m early settlement of contractual liability with an affiliate in Australia
- £0.2m relating to the re-measurement of the contingent considerations in respect of business combinations from 2014 (2014: £3.1m credit)

Of these, c£31.9m is expected to be payable in cash of which c£25.1m was paid in 2015 with the remainder payable in 2016 and beyond.

The total exceptional charge of £99.0m includes a £0.3m credit in relation to exceptional finance income.

Taxation

The UK tax environment has become increasingly challenging in that the tax risk associated with potential change of law could mean that previously agreed losses may never have been fully used in the future. With this backdrop, the Board considered ways in which we can crystallise the value for our shareholders and also further strengthen the balance sheet. The Board approved steps to be taken to accelerate the use of historic corporation tax losses. This has involved adjustments to prior period filings and discussions with HMRC over certain outstanding matters, and the recorded position reflects the agreed or expected outcome of these matters. Previously, the utilisation of certain losses was expected to require future restructuring activity or settlement of matters with HMRC, and as such was not considered sufficiently likely to permit recognition in previous periods. £37.4m of previously unrecognised tax losses have been recognised with £29.3m arising from adjustments to prior years and £8.1m in the current year. We expect c£37.0m tax repayment in 2016.

Going forward, we anticipate that our accounting tax rate will be in the mid teens, more in line with comparable UK based companies. As at 31 December 2015, the Group had £33.6 million (2014: £76.5 million) of unrecognised deferred tax assets, relating to losses, the utilisation of which is not likely at the current time. This is because the losses are within loss making holding companies which are not anticipated to make future profits.

Dividend

The Board today announces a proposed final dividend of 2.0 pence per share (2014: 4.6 pence per share) taking the full year dividend to 3.0 pence per share (2014: 8.9 pence per share). The dividend will be payable on 12 May 2016 to shareholders on the register on 29 March 2016. This is consistent with the dividend policy announced in July 2015.

Earnings per share (EPS)

Underlying

EPS (before exceptional items and High Rollers) decreased by 9.9% to 9.1 pence (2014: 10.1 pence), reflecting the reduced profit before tax and exceptional items, and corporation tax credit in the year.

Statutory

EPS (before exceptional items) decreased 19.0% to 9.4 pence (2014: 11.6 pence), reflecting the reduced profit before tax. EPS (including the impact of exceptional items) was 0.5 pence (2014: 4.4 pence). Fully diluted EPS (including the impact of exceptional items) was 0.5 pence (2014: 4.4 pence) after adjustment for outstanding share options.

Cash flow, capital expenditure, borrowings and banking facilities

Cash generated by operations was £165.2m (2014: £159.0m). After net finance expense paid of £26.6m (2014: £26.4m), income taxes paid of £2.3m (2014: £2.1m) and £66.1m (2014: £59.9m) on capital expenditure and intangible additions; cash inflow was £70.2m (2014: £65.4m). Net proceeds from the share placing of £112.9m were mostly used to pay down borrowings. Post dividend payment of £52.3m (2014: £81.4m) and other net cash outflows of £15.7m (2014: £4.6m), net debt at the end of the period decreased by £115.1m.

At 31 December 2015, gross borrowings of £332.4m less the net of cash and short-term deposits of £28.3m resulted in a net debt of £304.1m (2014: £419.2m). Gross borrowings at 31 December 2015 consists of a £225m, 7.625% bond maturing in 2017 and a £100m, 5.125% retail bond maturing in 2022.

RISK MANAGEMENT PROCESS AND METHODOLOGY

The effective understanding, acceptance and management of risk is fundamental to the strategy of the Group and what could materially affect the ability to achieve strategic goals. Over the period of the year, Ladbrokes has looked to improve its risk management capabilities and enhance its ability to detect and monitor principal risks.

We have adopted an integrated and proactive approach to our risk management and responsibilities, this includes improvement in our ability to discuss and understand our risk. A new Enterprise Risk Management Framework has been established, which includes an assessment of risk appetite and tolerance within the Group as a whole. The level of risk it is considered appropriate to accept in achieving Ladbrokes' strategic objectives is reviewed by the Board.

The Risk Committee considers all identified risks to the business but focuses on the principal risks of the business.

For each risk identified within the impact areas the likelihood, consequence, risk owner (Executive Committee member) and operational lead are identified by the Risk Committee.

The risk owner and operational lead suggest the appropriate mitigating control and actions which are reviewed for appropriateness and monitored regularly by the Risk Committee.

Throughout the year the risk management approach is the subject of continuous review and updated to reflect new and developing issues which might impact business strategy.

Emerging or topical risks are examined to understand the significance to the business. Risks are identified and monitored through workshops and risk registers at the Group level and within key business units.

A Risk Matrix and risk indicators have been established and further developed which helps to monitor progress on risks.

PRINCIPAL RISKS

The risks outlined here are those principal risks that are material to the Group. They do not include all those associated with Group activities and are not set out in any order of priority. Additional risks not presently known to management, or currently deemed less material may also have an adverse effect on the business including:

- Marketplace and Operational – changes in the economic environment, the European Union, changes in consumer leisure spend and international expansion.
- Financial – availability of debt financing and costs of borrowing, taxation and pension fund liability.

SPECIFIC RISKS THAT ARE MATERIAL TO LADBROKES ARE:

| Risks  | Mitigation   | Relevance to strategy                                     | Change in risk to the business |
|--|--|---|--------------------------------|
| Betting and gaming industry   |  |   |                                |
| Taxes, laws, regulations and licensing, regulatory compliance   |  | All   |                                |
| Regulatory, legislative and fiscal regimes for betting and gaming in key markets around the world can change, sometimes at short notice. Such changes could benefit or have an adverse effect on Ladbrokes and additional costs might be incurred in order to comply with any new laws or regulations.   | Regulatory, legislative and fiscal developments in key markets are monitored closely, allowing Ladbrokes to assess and adapt quickly to changes in the environment and minimise risks to the business. Ladbrokes engages with its regulators and the relevant trade organisations with regard to the betting and gaming regulatory framework and other issues of shared concern, such as problem gambling. Ladbrokes has entered into a voluntary code of practice and has a Social Responsibility Committee.      |   |                                |
| Increased cost of product   |  | Grow recreational customer base/develop multi-channel |                                |
| Ladbrokes is subject to certain financing arrangements intended to support industries from which it profits. Examples are the horse racing and the voluntary greyhound racing levies which respectively support the British horse racing and greyhound industries. In addition, Ladbrokes enters into contracts for the distribution of television pictures, audio and other data that are broadcast into Ladbrokes' betting shops. A number of these are under negotiation at any one time. | Ladbrokes engages with the relevant trade associations and the principal bodies of sport and event industries with regard to sports rights payments, including the statutory horse racing levy, animal welfare and other issues.   |   |                                |
| Operational and bookmaking  |  |   |                                |
| Trading, liability management and pricing   |  | All   |                                |
| Ladbrokes may experience significant losses as a result of a failure to determine accurately the odds in relation to any particular event and/or any failure of its risk management processes.   | Ladbrokes' core expertise is trading liability management and it has developed the skills and systems to be able to offer a wide range of betting opportunities and accept large bets. There is in place a highly experienced trading team and risks are spread across a wide range of events. A bookmaker's odds are determined so as to provide an average return to the bookmaker over a large number of events and therefore, over the longterm, Ladbrokes' gross win percentage has remained fairly constant. |   |                                |

| Ladbrokes has a number of key sites, in particular Imperial House at Rayners Lane in London, its head office and main operations centre, its premises at Europort in Gibraltar from where online betting and gaming operations are based, and in Tel Aviv, Israel from where our Digital marketing operates and our operations in Australia.   | Existing business continuity plans and arrangements for off-site data storage, alternate system availability and remote working for key operational and senior management continue to be developed and refined as part of an ongoing review process.  |  |   |

An increasingly important part is being played by formal, biannual Talent Management and Succession Plan reviews.   |  |   |
| Information technology and communications   |   |  |   |
| Technology failure  |   | All  |  |
| Ladbrokes' operations are highly dependent on technology and advanced information systems and there is a risk that such technology or systems could fail. In particular, any damage to, or failure of online systems and servers, electronic point of sale systems and electronic display systems could result in interruptions to financial controls and customer service systems.  | Ladbrokes has a level of resilience in place which seeks to eliminate single points of failure within key technology locations.   |  |   |
| Data management   |   | Develop multi-channel/grow recreationalcustomer base/Australia |  |
| Ladbrokes process sensitive personal customer data (including name, address, age, bank details and betting and gaming history) as part of its business and therefore must comply with strict data protection and privacy laws in all jurisdictions in which the Group operates. Ladbrokes is exposed to the risk that this data could be wrongfully appropriated, lost or disclosed, or processed in breach of data protection regulation. This could also result in prosecutions including potential financial penalties and the loss of the goodwill of its customers and deter new customers. | Security systems are deployed to protect transactional data. | Failure in the supply chain                         | Ladbrokes is dependent on a number of third parties for the operation of its business. The withdrawal or removal from the market of one or more of these major third party suppliers, or failure of third party suppliers to comply with contractual obligations could adversely affect Ladbrokes' operations.  | All                   |    |
|  | Infrastructure suppliers, network and telecommunication suppliers and application service providers are long-term partners in providing an infrastructure which seeks to ensure the delivery of sophisticated and high performance transaction processing systems. There is continual communication with these suppliers and providers at an operating level and service level agreements have been established to maintain high service levels. The ongoing review of business continuity plans includes key supplier alternatives and the continued development of the Supply Relationship Management (SRM) platform. |                       |   |
| Marketplace   |   |                       |   |
| Competition   | Ladbrokes faces competition primarily from other land-based bookmakers, online betting exchanges and other online gambling operators. In particular, the online gambling market is characterised by intense and substantial competition and by relatively low barriers to entry for new participants. In addition, Ladbrokes faces competition from market participants who benefit from greater liquidity as a result of accepting bets and wagers from jurisdictions in which Ladbrokes chooses not to operate (because of legal reasons or otherwise).   | All                   |  |
|  | Ladbrokes' performance and competitive position are continuously monitored and, where appropriate, changes are instituted, including in relation to marketing, product development, yield management, cost control and investment. Acquisition opportunities, with a view to taking advantage of market consolidation, are continuously evaluated.  |                       |   |
| Health and Safety                                   | Failure to meet the requirements of the various domestic and international rules and regulations could expose the company (and individual employees and directors) to material civil/criminal action with the associated financial and reputational consequences.   | All                   |  |
|  | Ladbrokes has numerous policies and procedures in place and these are the subject of a continual review.  |                       |   |

Risks and how we manage them continued

VIABILITY STATEMENT

- In accordance with provision c2.2 of the 2014 revision of the Corporate Governance Code, the Directors have assessed the prospect of Ladbrokes over a longer period than the 12 months required by the ‘Going Concern’ provision.
  - The Board notes that the business has, for many years, a history of planning, budgeting and forecasting and that the nature of forecasts and plans is that they are ‘best’ expectation of the business going forward; thus, they already contain uncertainty and expectations.
  - The directors concluded that three years was an appropriate period of assessment given that this is the key period of focus within the Group’s strategic planning process and is a typical time period for visibility of commercial implications of key drivers of the business. The objectives of the strategic planning process are to consider the Groups strategy and address challenges to this strategy. In support, the Company builds a consolidated financial model containing scenarios which the directors have used to assess the principal risks and uncertainties to the business within the three-year time period.
  - In order to confirm the longer-term viability of Ladbrokes, a series of scenarios were modelled to simulate the potential impacts of exposure to the Company’s principal risks being realised (see section Principal Risks in the Strategic Report). These scenarios included:
    - The impacts of changes to the regulatory landscape (involving a range of risks: taxes, laws, regulations and licensing, regulatory compliance, recruitment and retention of key employees, technology failure, competition, and data management);
    - Loss of trading and reputational damage from data losses (involving increased cost of product and technology failure);
    - Increasing burdens on operating margins due to legislative changes (involving a range of risks: taxes, laws, regulations and licensing, regulatory compliance, recruitment and retention of key employees, technology failure, competition, and data management);
    - Loss of a major site (focused on loss of a key location); and
    - Loss of key leadership personnel (involving a range of risks: taxes, laws, regulations and licensing, regulatory compliance, trading liability management and pricing, and technology failure).
  - These scenarios were assessed taking into account the current risk appetite and mitigation actions Ladbrokes takes in respect of these principal risks.
  - The viability statement and the modelling carried out to support it are made based upon the current Ladbrokes plc business model and balance sheet together with the assumption that future finance facilities that mature during the three-year period will be refinanced.
  - This viability assessment takes into account all the committed expenditure of the Group together with corporate transaction costs securing the completion of the proposed merger with certain businesses of the Gala Coral Group. It does not include the financial results, position and prospects of Gala Coral entities subject of the merger nor the financing facilities as mentioned on page 128 that have been arranged in connection with the proposed merger.
  - Based on the results of the this analysis, the directors have a reasonable expectation that the Company will be able to continue in operation and meet its liabilities as they fall due over the three-year period of this assessment.
- The going concern statement is contained on page 73.

Corporate responsibility

Behaving responsibly has always been a priority for Ladbrokes and Fair Play is built into the way we do business. We do our best to remain leaders in responsible betting and gaming, have a positive impact on our communities and operate with integrity.

Leading the way in responsible betting and gaming

We have always placed great emphasis on being a responsible business, advocating and maintaining high standards across our sector. Our activities during 2015 have continued to support this aim. We have been working across our industry to push the boundaries of our understanding of responsible gambling behaviours and the options for harm minimisation. We are active participants of the Association of British Bookmakers (ABB) and Remote Gambling Association's (RGA) responsible gambling committees, and were key instigators in setting up the IGRG (Industry Group on Responsible Gambling) and the Senet Group.

Through our involvement in several industry working groups, we have:

- Established an update to the ABB Responsible Gambling Code incorporating new requirements for advertising and player protection. The 2015 Responsible Gambling Code includes best practice standards for the use of behavioural data to identify customers who may be developing problems with their gambling based on agreed markers of harm – this measure will enable shop staff to engage earlier with customers who may be at risk;
- Piloted cross-industry self-exclusion schemes in Glasgow, Kent and London. Under these schemes, any customer who visits one of the participating shops and feels they are getting into difficulty with their gambling can now 'self-exclude' by contacting a central team of advisers, who will then tailor their self-exclusion based on locations they frequently visit. These pilot schemes are playing a key part in developing a multi-operator scheme that will be rolled out to all bookmakers during the spring of 2016; and
- Launched a new Player Awareness Systems (PAS) initiative to minimise harm on machine play. The PAS initiative is a response to RGT research in 2014 that showed it was possible to distinguish between problem and non-problem gambling behaviour by players using gaming machines in licensed betting offices. All members of the ABB have signed up to the initiative, which is believed to be a world first in retail betting.

As founding members of the Senet Group, an independent body set up to promote responsible gambling standards, we have helped to run a high impact TV and advertising campaign to educate people about the risks of gambling and how to stay in control.

We are fully aligned with the GB Gambling Commission's objectives to ensure that gambling is crime free, fair and open and children and vulnerable people are protected and indeed commit to these objectives across the whole of our business wherever we operate. During 2015 we were audited by the Gambling Commission – one of the first in the industry – and there were no major issues to report.

Incentivising responsible behaviours

Our Board Committee to oversee delivery against our responsible gambling objectives has continued to evolve. The Social Responsibility Committee is led by Sly Bailey, and comprises two independent non-executive directors, with the Chairman and the Chief Executive in attendance. Following our commitment in 2014, we have now established KPIs to link executive remuneration with responsible gambling performance. This is a major step for us and a first within the sector. This year we have focused the KPIs on: the roll out of our responsible gambling policy especially around colleague understanding and engagement; successful implementation of the DCMS regulations on machine play with stakes over £50; implementation of the Senet Group guidelines; and development of our own trial algorithm on responsible gambling. We recognise that many of the targets are focused on the short term and in implementing new codes and systems, which will also continue into next year. In the future we would like to establish KPIs which are directly linked to the ongoing responsible performance of the business and this is something we are currently working on.

Developing our algorithms to detect problem gambling

Late in 2014 we embarked on a pilot study to track customer behaviour and intervene when we suspect problem gambling might be occurring. Using data from customer loyalty cards, we systematically assessed the gambling habits of approximately 8,000 shop customers on a weekly basis. We defined a set of rules that may indicate a player showing signs of problem gambling and monitored individual players' behaviour against these. During 2015 we dedicated more resources to this algorithm trial, expanded the coverage, experimented with different ways of intervening and teamed up with external partners for greater insights. We also developed a separate algorithm for our Digital customers. Having said that, we are increasingly taking a multi-channel approach to customer development, including offers and promotions and hence need to take a multi-channel approach to monitoring customer behaviours. In an industry first, our algorithm trial now covers OTC transactions as well as machines and is in operation across the UK estate. Our aim is not only to detect and intervene when problem gambling occurs, but to identify the trajectories that lead to such behaviour. If we believe a customer is on a trajectory towards harm, then we will interact with them to try and prevent this from happening.

Positive interactions with our customers

This year we have continued to implement the ABB's Responsible Gambling Code across our business.

The Code highlights four areas for improved performance:

- Providing adequate information on how to gamble responsibly;
- Providing tools to help customers better control their activity;
- Training staff to detect signs of potential problems; and
- Undertaking central analysis of data to spot signs of abnormal activity.

We have stepped up the promotion of responsible gambling messages. As part of this, we have introduced more prominent, more frequent and clearer messages on staying in control in our shops, on our machines and across our Digital estate.

Supporting research, education and treatment

We promote multiple harm minimisation initiatives through our support of the Responsible Gambling Trust (RGT). Organisations that benefited from RGT funding in 2014 included GamCare, the National Problem Gambling Clinic (CNWL) and the Gordon Moody Association.

Our total contribution to RGT amounted to £682,500 in 2015.

Keeping crime out of gambling

Reducing crime and anti-social behaviour remains a key priority for us. Our efforts to date have been focused on machine damage, monitoring customer behaviour in and around our shops and eliminating gambling related crime (such as money laundering). We have also continued to be vigilant and active on all matters relating to sporting integrity.

Ladbrokes' dedicated Anti-Money Laundering (AML) team ensures compliance with AML and anti-terrorism financing legislation wherever we operate. To this effect, we have established a comprehensive compliance programme, including detection and monitoring systems across all our business activities.

Similarly, health and safety is another key priority for us. During the year Jim Mullen, CEO, emphasised the importance of having a robust health and safety culture throughout the business. As part of implementing his new strategy, we have looked at how we approach health and safety and decided to make some changes. These largely affect the structure and reporting lines but we are also embarking on a cultural shift to re-enforce that everybody has a part to play in this vital area. Separate to this, within our retail estate we have decided to move to single scheduling in the evenings to a voluntary basis only.

Betting shops have some of the lowest levels of crime among high street retailers. However, during 2015 we were unfortunate to have a serious incident involving the attack of one of our employees. This is currently the subject of an ongoing criminal prosecution by the Crown Prosecution Service against the attackers.

Where possible, we work in partnership with local authorities and other bodies to ensure gambling remains crime free. Our partners include Crimestoppers, the Association of Business Crime Partnerships and the Safe Bet Alliance (SBA). We also continue to support the SBA's National Standards for Bookmakers.

Protecting our customers and keeping our data safe

Having effective data and information security systems in place is only a first step to protecting our customer and corporate information. Human behaviour can be the biggest threat to maintaining cyber security. To address this we have developed a comprehensive cyber security programme based on the UK Government's 10 steps to Cyber Security, and, during 2015, launched a new information security web portal to help educate our employees and tell them what they need to know to minimise our risks. We will be implementing further elements of this programme in 2016, including global staff training and development of our IT monitoring and security systems.

Benchmarking our performance

We continually compare our performance with that of our peers through external benchmarking and peer review. We actively engage with two investor indices, the Dow Jones Sustainability Index (DJSI) and FTSE4Good – both provide us with benchmarking information on our CR and sustainability programmes. For the 13th consecutive year we have been a constituent of the DJSI, an elite index for responsible companies. We are the only European betting company included in the prestigious World Index, achieving maximum scores of 100% for our approach to responsible gambling and our anti-crime measures. Since 2002 we have also been a member of FTSE4Good. This year we were ranked in the 99th percentile of companies in our industry segment, achieving maximum scores for customer responsibility and corporate governance.

Having a positive impact on our communities An employer of choice

As our international operations continue to grow, it's important that our people have plenty of reasons to be excited about working at Ladbrokes and grow with us. From the moment someone joins us, training and career progression is our top priority. We're proud of our 'grow our own' approach and we offer all of our people every opportunity they need to develop and progress with us. Our Chief Executive, Jim Mullen is a case in point, since he started life in the industry working as a retail assistant in a shop in Glasgow.

We have further developed our learning and development programmes, across all our grades, and extended our 'Females in Leadership' programme, offering mentoring opportunities and increasing the visibility of senior female role models.

Gender diversity – females as a % of total employees

(1) 2014 data restated to be the number of individuals who were directors of Group companies rather than the number of directorships.

(2) The top four management grades, including those who were also directors of Group companies.

(3) 2015 data includes UK, Ireland, Gibraltar and Australia. 2014 data for the UK only.

Our policies remain consistent with the requirements of the Universal Declaration on Human Rights and the spirit of the International Labour Organization core labour standards.

Employees of the future engaging with our communities

The Ladbrokes UK-wide apprenticeship scheme is in its third year and has grown steadily. We received over 13,200 applications to join the scheme in 2015, with a selection of 419 eventually joining us. We lifted the maximum age-restriction of 24 years so that any talented candidate could secure a place. The 12-month, fully supported, development programme provides candidates with accredited training in customer service, literacy and numeracy and responsible gambling. Upon completion, successful apprentices obtain an NVQ Level 2 in Customer Service and a position in one of our shops.

Economic contribution to society

At Ladbrokes we employ over 14,700 people across 15 countries, contributing substantially to economic activity and employment wherever we do business. According to research conducted in 2013, the UK betting industry directly accounts for £2.3 billion toward GDP and 38,800 full-time equivalent jobs. The indirect economic footprint is even greater, amounting to £5 billion and around 100,000 full-time equivalent jobs in total. In 2015, Ladbrokes paid a total of £264m in wages and salaries, of which £232m was in the UK.

Our tax impacts

Tax revenue is vital to economic prosperity and social stability. We recognise that our contribution to governments and national finances through the taxes we pay is important and significant. Our approach to tax payments and disclosure is guided by the four principles below:

- Complying with and following the law in all countries of operation;
- Being transparent in our reporting of tax affairs to all our stakeholders, meeting all regulatory requirements and reflecting best practice;
- Engaging proactively and openly with local and national tax authorities; and
- Driving sustainable returns for our shareholders.

We take part in PwC's Total Tax Contribution survey, an annual benchmarking exercise comparing the total tax contribution and wider socio-economic impacts of some of the biggest companies in the UK. Of the ~100 companies taking part in the assessment, Ladbrokes is among the smallest when measured by market capitalisation. However, the 2015 results show that Ladbrokes punches well above its weight, ranking 26th for taxes borne in the UK and 57th for wages and salaries paid in the UK.

It is clear that the betting sector is heavily taxed. In 2015 our effective tax-rate on profits amounted to 86%. This covers tax contributions of over £20m to local councils in the UK and over £277m in taxes to the UK Treasury and the greyhound and horse racing industries. Internationally, we paid an additional £42.8m in taxes across our markets of operation.

Operating with integrity

As with any major business, our activities have an impact on the environment. Our main impact is caused by the electricity and gas used on our premises. Fossil fuel consumption emits greenhouse gases (GHG) which contribute to climate change. Climate change in turn poses a risk to our business, especially as we expand into overseas markets.

Our carbon footprint

Our GHG emissions decreased by 11% in 2015. The energy usage of our GB shop estate decreased by 3.3%, mainly due to the implementation of new LED lighting systems.

Global GHG emissions by revenue<sup>1,2,3,4</sup>

|  | 2015 | 2014 |
|--|------|------|
| Metric tonnes CO <sub>2</sub> e per £m net revenue | 39.6 | 45.9 |

GHG emissions from our global operations in tonnes CO<sub>2</sub>e

(1) Based on 2015 UK Defra GHG reporting guidance and conversion factors and includes Scope 1: direct emissions from the combustion of fuel and Scope 2: indirect emissions from the purchase of electricity.

(2) Emissions from our global operations include those arising from our businesses in the UK, Ireland, Belgium, Gibraltar and Spain. We are working on gathering GHG data for our other overseas activities. We estimate (based on pro-rata headcount) that this will increase our global GHG emissions by no more than an additional 3%.

(3) Excluding fugitive emissions from refrigerants, which represent less than 2% of GHG emissions from our business operations.

(4) Excluding High Rollers.

Board and Committees support

The Company has systems in place to ensure that the Board is supplied with appropriate and timely information to enable it to discharge its duties. An encrypted electronic Board Portal is used to distribute Board and Committee papers and to provide efficient distribution of business updates and other resources to the Board. Board members request additional information or variations to regular reporting as required. A procedure exists for directors to seek independent professional advice in the furtherance of their duties if necessary.

The Company Secretary is responsible for advising the Board through the Chairman and the Committees on all governance matters. All directors have access to the advice and services of the Company Secretary.

All directors receive an induction on joining the Board.

A combination of tailored Board and Committee agenda items and other Board activities, including briefing sessions, assist the directors in continually updating their skills and the knowledge and familiarity with the Company required to fulfil their role both on the Board and on Board Committees. #### Board evaluation

An annual formal Board evaluation is undertaken focusing on the performance of the Board and of its Committees and individual directors. In 2015, the evaluation was externally facilitated by Lintstock Limited. Other than the provision of a software solution to manage insider lists, Lintstock has no other connection with the Company. The evaluation exercise used questionnaires tailored to the requirements and specific circumstances of the Company. The questionnaires were completed by each director in relation to their own performance and on the effectiveness of the Board and its Committees.

The evaluation was thematic and considered:

- Board composition, expertise and dynamics;
- Board support and time management;
- Board Committees;
- Strategic oversight;
- Risk management and internal control;
- Succession planning and human resources management; and
- Priorities for change.

The results of the evaluation were considered by the Board and the individual Committees and actions arising were agreed.

In addition, the Chairman conducted an appraisal of each director. The Senior Independent Director, having consulted with each of the other directors, conducted an appraisal interview with the Chairman.

The Board's 2015 evaluation highlighted a number of areas of focus, including:

- Enhancing the Board's engagement with the Retail and Digital businesses through a tailored programme of operational visits and management presentations;
- More effective use of the depth of talent and experience that exists around the Board table; and
- Refreshing the Board's membership to ensure that the composition is appropriate for the Group's next phase of development.

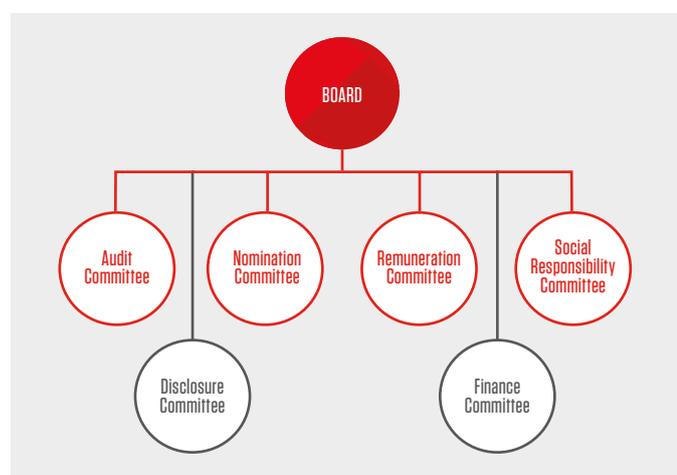

An update on progress in these areas will be provided in the Annual Report and Accounts 2016.

In 2014, the annual evaluation highlighted a number of areas of focus and progress against these areas is as follows:

| 2014 area of focus  | Progress made during 2015  |
|---|--|
| Reviewing the structure and content of papers presented to the Board  | A revised Board pack structure has been agreed with the Chairman and is being implemented in 2016.   |
| Increasing the proportion of time at meetings devoted to discussions on strategic issues and a range of specific topics | A greater proportion of the Board's meeting time was devoted to strategy during the year.  |
| Increased focus on the Group's risk management process, principal risks and key dependencies                            | The frequency of reporting on principal risks has been increased.  |
| Greater exposure to senior management and more engagement in the evaluation of the Group's talent pool                  | The Nomination Committee's membership was extended to include all Independent Non-Executive Directors and the Committee receives regular updates on senior management and talent developments. |

Board committees

The Board has four principal Committees and two standing Committees:

Principal Committees

The principal Committees of the Board are the Audit Committee, Nomination Committee, Remuneration Committee and Social Responsibility Committee. The membership of each of the Committees is comprised of only independent non-executive directors. Terms of Reference for the principal Committees are available on the Company's website at www.ladbrosesplc.com/investors. Details of the responsibilities and activities of the principal Committees are outlined in each of the respective reports on pages 44 to 71.

Standing Committees

In addition to the principal Committees, the Board has established two standing Committees which review and approve routine operating and regulatory matters. These standing Committees generally comprise any two of the Chairman, Chief Executive or Chief Financial Officer.

The Disclosure Committee meets on an ad hoc basis to consider and make decisions relating to the handling of inside information concerning the Company and the Group. The Disclosure Committee is responsible for ensuring the timely and accurate disclosure of inside information to the market in accordance with the Company's obligations under the Financial Conduct Authority's Disclosure and Transparency Rules and for monitoring compliance with the Company's disclosure controls and procedures.

The Finance Committee meets as required to deal with all routine business (excluding matters that are specifically reserved to the Board or to another Committee) and specific matters delegated to it by the Board requiring attention between scheduled Board meetings.

Attendance at meetings of the Disclosure Committee and Finance Committee are set out in the table below:

| Directors as at 31 December 2015 | Disclosure Committee | Finance Committee |
|----------------------------------|----------------------|-------------------|

In addition, the Executive Committee, Risk Committee and Investment Committee referred to elsewhere in this Annual Report are not formal Board Committees.

Financial reporting, internal control and risk management systems

The Board has ultimate responsibility for the internal control and risk management systems operating throughout the Group and for reviewing their effectiveness. No such systems can provide absolute assurance against material misstatement or loss. The Group's systems are designed to manage rather than eliminate the risk of failure to achieve business objectives and to provide the Board with reasonable assurance that potential problems will normally be prevented or will be detected in a timely manner for appropriate action.

The Board as a whole is responsible for ensuring that the Annual Report is fair, balanced and understandable. The Board has reviewed the Annual Report 2015 and, taken as a whole, considers it to be fair, balanced and understandable and provides shareholders with information necessary to assess the Company's position and performance, business model and strategy. In arriving at this conclusion, the Board's review draws on its collective knowledge of the business, which is regularly updated by management reports and presentations at scheduled Board and Committee meetings and other business updates provided between meetings.

The Company had procedures in place throughout the year and up to 22 February 2016, the date of approval of this Annual Report, which accord with the Guidance on Risk Management, Internal Control and Related Financial and Business Reporting published by the FRC in September 2014. The Board has delegated the detailed design of the systems of internal control and risk management to the executive directors.

Control framework

The control framework and key procedures during 2015 in relation to the financial reporting process were as follows.

The Group operates through two primary Business Channels and a number of Business Support Units:

There is an Executive Head responsible for each of these Business Channels and Business Support Units.

Business planning

Corporate strategy and Group-wide business objectives are reviewed annually by the Board and the Group profit plan is approved by the Board. The Business Support Unit management integrate Group-wide objectives into business strategies for presentation to the Board with supporting financial objectives. Operating plans for each Business Support Unit comprise financial and operating targets, capital expenditure proposals and performance indicators and are reviewed by the Executive Committee.

Reporting and oversight

The Chief Executive and the Executive Heads comprise the Executive Committee and meet monthly to consider Group strategy, financial performance, business development and management issues. Other senior executives participate as appropriate. In addition, there are weekly and monthly financial and operational review meetings together with an annual programme of plan/forecasting and strategy reviews attended by the Chief Executive and Chief Financial Officer together with, as appropriate, other Executive Heads and executives. The Board regularly receives reports from Executive Heads covering areas such as operations, forecasts, business development, strategic planning, human resources, legal and corporate matters, compliance, health and safety and corporate responsibility.

Investment

There is a Group-wide policy governing appraisal and approval of investment expenditure and asset disposals. An Investment Committee comprising of the Chief Executive and the Chief Financial Officer, consider all significant financial commitments, including past investment appraisals. Major projects are reported on at each scheduled Board meeting. Post-investment appraisals are undertaken on a systematic basis and are formally reviewed by both the Board and the Investment Committee.

Risk

An ongoing process is in place for identifying, evaluating and managing the risks faced by the Group. Principal (including specific material) risks and their financial implications are appraised by the Executive Committee which is assisted by a committee of Business Support Unit executives (the Risk Committee). This is an integral part of the strategic planning process. The appropriateness of controls is considered, having regard to cost/benefit, materiality and the likelihood of risks crystallising. Principal (including specific material) risks and actions to mitigate those risks are considered at Board meetings and are formally reviewed and approved by the Board twice yearly. Each significant risk is assigned executive director/ Executive Head ownership. During the year, the Group's risk management systems were enhanced. A new Enterprise Risk Management Framework has been established, which includes an assessment of risk appetite and tolerance within the Group as a whole. The Board has conducted a robust assessment of the principal risks facing the Company and the Group. Details of the principal risks and how they are managed are shown on pages 26 to 29.

Policies and controls

Key policies and control procedures (including treasury, compliance and information system controls) are documented and have Group-wide application. There are also operating procedure manuals that are integrated with Group-wide controls. High standards of business ethics and compliance with laws, regulations and internal policies are demanded from employees at all levels. To underpin the effectiveness of controls, it is Group policy to recruit and develop management and other employees of high calibre, integrity and with appropriate disciplines. A system of bi-annual self-certification of compliance with key controls and procedures is operated throughout the Group.

The role of the Audit Committee in reviewing the effectiveness of the systems of internal control and risk management is explained in the Audit Committee Report on page 45. The Group has an internal audit function, which is outsourced to Deloitte LLP, and reports to management and the Audit Committee on Group operations. The Board also conducts a continual assessment of the effectiveness of the internal control and risk management systems. The assessment takes account of all significant aspects including risk assessment, the control environment and control activities, information and communication, and monitoring.

Anti-bribery and whistleblowing

The Board recognises that as a global betting and gaming business there is potential for exposure to bribery and corruption. Failure by employees, suppliers or agents to comply with anti-bribery and corruption legislation (including the UK Bribery Act and the US Foreign Corrupt Practices Act), or any failure in policies and procedures to monitor and prevent non-compliance, anywhere in the world, could result in substantial penalties, criminal prosecution and significant damage to the reputation of the Company.

The Board ensures that there are a number of policies, procedures, management systems and internal controls in place across the business to prevent bribery and corruption occurring. This includes policies on whistleblowing, anti-bribery, gifts and hospitality, charitable donations and sponsorship. Supplementary audit, monitoring and review processes are designed to identify breaches of Group controls. The Whistleblowing Policy enables and encourages employees to report in confidence any possible malpractice, impropriety or other matters of concern which may arise in the business. Any matters raised in accordance with the Policy are investigated thoroughly and reports are provided at each meeting of the Audit Committee.

Relations with shareholders

There is a regular programme of meetings with major institutional shareholders to consider the Group's performance and prospects. In addition, presentations are made twice yearly after the announcement of results, the details of which, together with the Group's financial reports and announcements, can be accessed at www.ladbrokeplc.com/investors. During 2015, the Chairman met with several institutional investors and their representative bodies in addition to results presentations, the Annual General Meeting and the General Meeting to approve the proposed merger with certain businesses of Gala Coral (Gala Coral). Other directors are available to meet the Company's major shareholders if requested. A report on investor relations, which includes updates on meetings with major institutional shareholders, is given at each Board meeting. The Company's brokers also present to the Board annually.

Principles of ownership, corporate governance and voting guidelines issued by the Company's major institutional shareholders, their representative bodies and advisory organisations are circulated to, and considered by, the Board.

The Company corresponds regularly on a range of subjects with its individual shareholders who have an opportunity to question the Board at the Annual General Meeting. Further information on our relations with shareholders is contained in the 'Shareholder information' section on page 142.

Corporate governance continuedDear Shareholder

I am pleased to present the activities of the Audit Committee during the year.

During the year, there were a number of changes to the membership of the Committee. I succeeded Darren Shapland as Chairman of the Committee, David Martin was appointed as a member and John Kelly ceased to be a member following his appointment as Chairman of the Company.

I would like to thank Darren for his contribution to the work of the Committee during his six years on the Board.

In addition to our usual matters, including the financial results for the full year and half year and the quarterly trading statements, applicable accounting policies and going concern assumptions, the Committee has increased its focus on the Group's risk management processes and procedures, specifically in relation to the international businesses, and has also regularly reviewed the Group's approach to managing cyber security.

A review was again carried out of the Committee's effectiveness which concluded that the Committee continued to operate effectively. A number of areas of improvement were also identified, for which I will lead the implementation process.

Mark Pain

Chairman of the Audit Committee

Committee activities

The main activities of the Committee during 2015 included:

- The critical review of the significant financial reporting issues in connection with the preparation of the Company's financial and related formal statements, with the assistance of reports received from management and the external auditor, including the process for assessing whether the going concern basis of accounting remains appropriate;
- Assessing the scope and effectiveness of the systems established to identify, assess, manage and monitor financial and non-financial risks;
- Monitoring the integrity and effectiveness of the Company's internal financial controls by reference to:
  - (a) summaries of business risks and mitigating controls
  - (b) regular reports and presentations from the heads of key risk functions, internal audit and external audit
  - (c) the results of the system of annual self-certification of compliance with key controls and procedures;
- Monitoring and reviewing the plans, work and effectiveness of the internal audit function, including any actions taken following any significant failures in internal controls. During the year, the Committee focused on the control improvements required and progress made. Whilst progress has been steady, there remain improvements to be made so that the necessary controls are embedded fully across the Group's operations;
- Reviewing, with the external auditor, its terms of engagement, the findings of its work, and at the end of the audit process reviewing its effectiveness;
- Reviewing the independence and objectivity of the external auditor; and
- Considered the due diligence performed with regard to the disclosures made in the Circular to shareholders in relation to the proposed merger with certain businesses of Gala Coral.

External auditor

The Company's external auditor, PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP (PwC), were appointed at the Annual General Meeting held on 7 May 2014 following a competitive tender process. The provision of statutory audit services to the Company and its subsidiary undertakings will be subject to a competitive tender process prior to 7 May 2024.

The external auditor reports to the Committee on the actions taken to comply with professional and regulatory requirements and with best practice designed to ensure its independence. In addition, the Committee has adopted a policy on the engagement of external auditors for the provision of non-audit services which can be viewed at www.ladbrosesplc.com/investors.

The policy sets out controls intended to ensure that the independence of the external auditor is not impaired and stipulates:

- The nature of non-audit services that are permitted to be performed by the external auditor;
- Levels of authority for management to engage the external auditor for approved non-audit services; and
- That any non-audit services to be provided by the external auditor for a single project or specific services for fees in excess of £100,000 must be approved in advance by the Committee.

Details of non-audit services are presented to the Committee for its review at each meeting. Fees for non-audit services provided by PwC in the year amounted to £2.0m (2014: £0.5m) of which £1.6m related to one-off services provided for the proposed merger with certain businesses of Gala Coral. The Committee considered that PwC was best placed to perform this work because of its knowledge of the Group which would enable the service to be provided efficiently. The Committee is satisfied that the provision of approved non-audit services has not compromised the independence and objectivity of the external auditor.

The performance of the external auditor is reviewed by the Committee on an annual basis through a qualitative assessment of the services provided against the agreed audit plan and taking account of feedback received from management. Following this review the Committee is satisfied that the external audit process operates effectively.

Accounting and key areas of judgement

The main areas considered by the Committee in relation to 2015 are set out below:

| Matter considered   | Action  |
|---|---|
| Taxation   |   |
| Accounting for uncertain tax positions and the level of deferred and current tax asset recognition and disclosure in relation to accumulated tax losses are based on a series of judgements. These judgements have an impact on the corporation tax rate and recognition of deferred tax assets in 2015 the Group has recognised a corporation tax credit of £35.0m (excluding the tax credit on exceptional items). In addition to the recognition, the Committee also considered the appropriateness of the disclosures provided in the Annual Report. | The Committee received regular reports from management on the corporation tax rate as well as the judgements exercised in arriving at the corporation tax rate, recognition of corporation tax credits and the deferred tax recognised and disclosed. Assumptions underlying the positions taken on significant deferred tax assets were supported by reports from other tax, advisory and legal firms. The Committee discussed the key judgements in relation to both the uncertain tax positions and understood the basis on which deferred and current tax was recognised or disclosed. The Committee also considered the work done and the conclusions reached by PwC over this area as part of their audit. |
| Carrying value of long-lived assets  |   |
| In addition to the licences in the Retail estate, as a result of recent acquisitions and the significant level of investment in technology over the past three years, the Group has significant goodwill and other intangible assets which needed to be reviewed for impairment. In 2015, the Group has recognised an impairment loss of £53.2m in respect of long-lived assets.   | The carrying value of all long-lived assets are tested for impairment annually. ## Dear Shareholder

I am pleased to present the Report of the Nomination Committee.

Christine Hodgson and Darren Shapland were appointed as additional members of the Committee during the year and, Mark Pain was also appointed as a member of the Committee on 25 January 2016. These appointments further strengthened the composition of the Committee. I was appointed as Chairman of the Committee on 3 December 2015.

During the year, the Committee led the processes for the appointment of the Chief Executive, a new Non-Executive Director and the replacement of Chairman of the Company. Further details on the appointment processes can be found on page 48.

In light of the retirement of Ian Bull as Chief Financial Officer at the end of February 2016, the Committee also considered who would act as Chief Financial Officer until the proposed merger with certain businesses of Gala Coral was completed.

During 2016, the Committee will focus further on refreshing its membership and Board and senior management succession planning.

John M Kelly

Committee activities

The main activities of the Committee during 2015 included:

- Led the processes for the appointment of a new Chief Executive Officer and a new Non-Executive Director;
- Considered the composition of the Board Committees and recommended to the Board that David Martin be appointed as a member of the Audit Committee following the departure of Darren Shapland, and that Sly Bailey be appointed as a member of the Social Responsibility Committee;
- Led the process to consider candidates to replace Peter Erskine as Chairman of the Company. John Kelly was not involved in the Committee's subsequent decision concerning his appointment as Chairman;
- Following the appointment of John Kelly as Chairman of the Board, recommended that Christine Hodgson be appointed as Senior Independent Director and Sly Bailey be appointed as Chairman of the Social Responsibility Committee;
- Recommended the appointment of Richard Snow as Acting Chief Financial Officer; and
- Considered the output of the 2014 Board evaluation in terms of candidates for re-election at the 2015 Annual General Meeting.

Diversity

The Company has a well established and published equal opportunities policy that guides all colleagues in how they fairly deal with all colleagues and customers irrespective of age, gender, sexual orientation, religion, disability or ethnic origin. That policy applies on how people are selected to work at the Company and applies at all levels. The Company has a succession policy that ensures all key roles including director positions are considered and the Company considers candidates for roles from the widest possible field. The Board regularly reviews succession arrangements for all key roles and the Nomination Committee reviews succession arrangements for directors. The Strategic report includes details of wider workforce gender diversity which are shown on page 34.

The Board endorses the aims of the Davies Report entitled 'Women on Boards' and when considering future appointments, with the support of the Nomination Committee, will aim to build on its current position. The Company currently has two women on the Board (Christine Hodgson and Sly Bailey) and therefore 25% of the Board is made up of women. The Company has therefore achieved its aspiration to increase the percentage of women on the Board to 25% by 2016. The Board will continue to ensure appropriate representation by women, both on the Board and throughout the business, whilst at all times ensuring the Company selects on merit. The charts on page 39 illustrate the diversity of the Board.

The Committee continued to provide support for fostering and developing talent and increasing diversity in the talent pool. A series of presentations were made to the Committee which led to a number of constructive discussions. Their advice and support has assisted the management team in improving the content of their talent programmes and talent mapping exercises.

Time commitments

On 17 February 2016, the Committee considered the output of the 2015 Board evaluation, following which the Committee concluded that each of the current directors is devoting sufficient time to their duties and responsibilities and brings relevant skills and judgement to the work of the Board. Each of the current directors, with the exception of Ian Bull, will therefore stand for re-election at the 2016 Annual General Meeting.

Appointment of Jim Mullen

In 2014, the Committee began the process for the appointment of a new Chief Executive Officer and appointed JCA Group and Korn Ferry to assist with the executive search process. JCA Group and Korn Ferry are both signatories to the Executive Search Firms Voluntary Code of Conduct. The process was led by the Chairman with regular updates being provided to the Board by the Committee.

The Board as a whole considered the specific qualities they wanted in the Chief Executive, which included:

- Experience of the betting and gaming industry and a passion for the sports industry as a whole;
- A proven track record as a successful leader;
- Knowledge and experience in operating an international business; and
- Extensive and proven experience in the digital marketplace.

JCA Group and Korn Ferry proposed a number of candidates who were initially interviewed by the Chairman and Senior Independent Director. The final candidates were then interviewed by the non-executive directors, following which, it was determined by the Committee that it be recommended to the Board that Jim Mullen be appointed as Chief Executive from 1 April 2015. The recommendation was subsequently approved by the Board.

Following the identification of Jim Mullen as the preferred candidate, the Remuneration Committee approved a competitive remuneration package for Jim Mullen. Further details on this can be found in the Directors' Remuneration Report on page 53.

Appointment of Mark Pain

During the year, the Committee began the search for an independent non-executive director and engaged Lygon Group to identify suitable candidates to join the Board. Lygon Group is a signatory to the Executive Search Firms Voluntary Code of Conduct.

As part of the Committee's role in refreshing the Board, it was determined that the new non-executive director would be appointed to act as Chairman of the Audit Committee, and would also continue as a non-executive director of the enlarged Group should the merger with Gala Coral complete.

Potential candidates were identified by Lygon Group and details were circulated to the Committee, following which a short-list of candidates was produced. Potential candidates were interviewed by Committee members, the executive directors and board members of Gala Coral. It was determined that Mark Pain be appointed as a non-executive director and the Committee recommended the appointment to the Board, which subsequently approved the appointment.

Appointment of Chairman

On 7 May 2015, it was announced that Peter Erskine would be retiring as Chairman during 2015 and that a search process would be undertaken to find his successor. Subsequently, Korn Ferry and Lygon were appointed to commence the search exercise. During the Board's discussions around the proposed merger with Gala Coral it became clear that John Kelly's in-depth industry experience, coupled with his understanding of the businesses and cultures of both the Company and Gala Coral, identified him as the prime candidate to succeed Peter Erskine. Following consultation with the Company's major shareholders, John Kelly was appointed as Chairman with effect from 3 December 2015.

Dear Shareholder

I am pleased to present the activities of the Social Responsibility Committee during the year.

During the year, I was appointed as an additional member of the Committee and subsequently was appointed as Chairman of the Committee following the appointment of John Kelly as Chairman of the Board.

During the year, the Committee further reviewed the policies and procedures relating to responsible gambling, which included a visit to the Group's operations in Gateshead. Further details on the Committee's visit to Gateshead can be found on page 50.

During 2016, the Committee will focus further on responsible gambling and will also review and monitor the policies and processes in relation to ethics, supply chain and health and safety.

Committee activities

The main activities of the Committee during 2015 included:

- Reviewed the communications in relation to responsible gambling;
- Considered the responsible gambling targets for awards made to directors and senior executives under the Performance Share Plan;

COMMITTEE VISIT TO THE GATESHEAD OPERATIONS

In November 2015, the Committee and Jim Mullen, Chief Executive, visited our Gateshead Audit Centre, which was established in 1973 to support the growing Retail estate. During 2015, the headcount at Gateshead grew as the team expanded to incorporate our growing focus on responsible gambling.

During the visit, the Committee were given an overview and live demonstrations of the responsible gambling reports generated by the audit team, that included activity relating to exceptional business occurrences, debit card usage, potential anti-money laundering and the retail algorithm process.

Commenting on the visit, Jim Mullen said “It was an extremely worthwhile day and gave the Committee a valuable insight into the activities of our Gateshead team who now use their skills and experience to help keep our customers gambling responsibly”.

Directors' remuneration report

“2016 will be a pivotal year for the business. The Remuneration Committee is committed to ensuring that remuneration arrangements at Ladbrokes continue to support its objectives.”

Dear shareholder

As the Chairman of the Ladbrokes Remuneration Committee, I am pleased to present the 2015 Directors' Remuneration Report, which has been prepared in accordance with the relevant provisions of the Listing Rules, section 421 of the Companies Act 2006 and Schedule 8 of the Large and Medium-sized Companies and Groups (Accounts and Reports) Regulations 2008 (as amended). The Report is set out in two parts:

- Our remuneration policy (Policy Report) which was approved by shareholders on 7 May 2014. For clarity we have updated the Policy Report to reflect 2016 figures where relevant. There will be no vote on this section at the 2016 Annual General Meeting (AGM); and
- Our Annual Report on Remuneration detailing how our policy was implemented in the year ending 31 December 2015 and how it will be implemented in the year ending 31 December 2016, which is subject to an advisory vote.

Impact on remuneration of key events in 2015

2015 has been a momentous year for Ladbrokes. In June, our newly appointed Chief Executive, Jim Mullen, announced a three-year strategic plan to build a stronger Ladbrokes. The proposed merger with Gala Coral fast-tracks progress to the scale proposed under the strategic plan and was approved by shareholders at the General Meeting on 24 November 2015.

Notwithstanding these significant corporate changes, the principles underpinning the Ladbrokes remuneration policy still remain applicable and are unchanged from last year.

These remuneration principles are to:

- Be strongly aligned with shareholder value creation;
- Support the achievement of organisational goals and be aligned with long-term business strategy;
- Enable the Company to attract, retain and motivate key individuals; and
- Be positioned competitively against best market practice, while paying no more than necessary.

After the announcement of the new strategic plan and proposed merger, the Remuneration Committee reviewed the remuneration arrangements across the business to assess whether current arrangements continue to align with these principles. The review showed that the existing arrangements broadly continue to support Ladbrokes' objectives; however changes were required to the 2015 bonus.

The new strategy requires significant up-front investment in Ladbrokes' core businesses. Although these investments will build a materially stronger business in the medium/long term, these do impact profits in the short term. Therefore, to ensure that our employees are incentivised to implement our strategy, the 2015 bonus PBIT threshold, on-target and stretch numbers were changed from £95m, £110m and £120m to £80.4m, £90m and £101.25m respectively which takes into account the strategic investment made by Ladbrokes in the business in the second half of the year. Further details on resulting bonus payouts are provided later in this statement.

We have also granted a number of share and cash-based awards to key below-Board colleagues to aid retention over the critical merger period. These awards are likely to vest in 2016 and 2017. None of the executive directors have received an award linked to retention in relation to the merger.

At the 2015 AGM, Ladbrokes received a 69.8% vote in favour of the 2014 annual report on remuneration. The Board notes the level of votes against the report primarily related to Richard Glynn's termination arrangements. Richard Glynn's termination arrangements were agreed at the time of his recruitment and were determined to be in line with UK damages principles. The Remuneration Committee understands that contracts of this type are no longer best practice and confirms the termination arrangements for current executive directors are in line with market practice and will be determined using payment in lieu of notice (PILON) principles.

2015 performance

In July 2015, Jim Mullen laid out his strategy and whilst still early days, customer metrics in H2 have been encouraging. Operating profit of £80.6 million for the year reflects the increased marketing spend in line with the new strategy and c.£50 million increase in gambling taxation.

For the 2015 annual bonus, up to 60% of the maximum bonus opportunity was dependent on stretching profit targets with the remainder dependent on individual objectives. For the Chief Executive and Chief Financial Officer this included a number of financial and strategic measures which were primarily focused on the delivery of the new strategy for Ladbrokes and work on the proposed merger.

In 2015, the operating profit excluding High Rollers was £80.6m which is above the threshold requirement of £80.4m. Therefore, for achieving this level of profit, the Chief Executive received £27,316 which is 7% of his salary pro-rated for his tenure as Chief Executive in 2015. The Chief Executive also achieved his personal objectives to a satisfactory level therefore in total he received £97,891 which is 26% of his salary pro-rated for his tenure as Chief Executive in 2015. The Chief Financial Officer received £101,502 which is 25% of his salary. For the Chief Executive, a third of the earned bonus was deferred into shares for three years. As the bonus targets were reset for the new strategy on 1 July 2015, the Remuneration Committee has ensured that the bonus payouts reflect the performance outcome of the second half of the year.

Further details on the 2015 bonus targets and resulting bonus outcomes can be found on page 64.

The 2013 awards under the Performance Share Plan (PSP) were based 50% on three-year Earnings per Share (EPS) performance and 50% on three-year Total Shareholder Return (TSR) to the end of 2015. Neither the EPS nor TSR threshold targets were met, therefore the 2013 PSP awards will lapse fully.

The third and final performance test of the Ladbrokes Growth Plan (LGP), a one-off share plan, was measured at the end of June 2015. No additional shares were earned as the share price did not exceed the share price required during the performance measurement period. However, as per the rules of the plan, a third of shares earned from the first performance test at the end of June 2013 by the Chief Financial Officer and by the former Chief Executive vested in August 2015.

Ladbrokes remuneration in 2016

A key event for Ladbrokes in 2016 is the outcome of the proposed merger with Gala Coral. The Committee intends to continue to operate its existing remuneration programmes until the proposed merger with Gala Coral, including a 2016 PSP award.

If the merger is confirmed, the Remuneration Committee will review the existing remuneration policy prior to completion to determine whether any revisions are required to ensure the policy continues to be appropriate for the enlarged Group post-completion. Any revisions will be offered for shareholder approval at a General Meeting once this review has been completed. The pay structure for executive directors of the enlarged Group post-completion will reflect their roles and responsibilities and will reflect market norms for those executives who will remain with the enlarged Group longer term.

Upon merger, Ladbrokes outstanding incentives will be treated in line with plan rules. It is anticipated that outstanding awards granted under the PSP will be rolled over into Ladbrokes Coral shares.

Certain performance targets and measures attached to the 2015 and 2016 PSP will require review and potential revision upon merger to reflect and incentivise the objectives of the enlarged Group. Shareholders will be consulted with regard to any proposed changes.

Other

There have been a number of changes in Board membership in 2015. Jim Mullen became the new Chief Executive of Ladbrokes on 1 April 2015. His remuneration arrangements in 2015 are in line with the approved policy and consist of a base salary of £500,000 p.a.; a bonus of up to 170% of base salary, one-third of which will be deferred for three years; a pension allowance of 22.5% of his base salary and benefits worth c.£15,000 which includes car allowance and private healthcare. In 2015, Jim Mullen received a share award equal to 200% of his base salary under the PSP. This award has stretching performance conditions attached to its vesting. Effective from 1 March 2016, Jim Mullen's base salary will be £525,000 p.a. This salary increase takes into account his performance over the year and his below-market positioning. We also intend to grant a PSP award in 2016 equal to 175% of his salary (at 1 January 2016, £500,000 p.a.) which is in line with the approved policy. All other arrangements remain the same and are in line with the approved policy.

Ian Bull will be leaving Ladbrokes before the end of February 2016. His termination arrangements are in line with the key terms and conditions detailed in his service contract:

- He will receive six months pay in lieu of notice which will be paid in six monthly instalments and is equivalent to salary, pension and benefits that would have been paid to him during this time. He received his first monthly instalment of £42,500 in November 2015. The remainder will be paid in the five months following his departure;
- His termination agreement stated that his pay in lieu of notice will be reduced accordingly if he finds alternative employment. Ian Bull has found alternative employment at Parkdean Resorts therefore his remaining payments will be reduced accordingly. These amounts are yet to be determined and will be disclosed in next year's Annual Report;
- He will receive his 2015 annual bonus in cash which is equal to £101,502;
- His 2015 PSP share award will vest at the normal vesting date subject to the extent which performance conditions have been satisfied. In recognition of his contribution to Ladbrokes, the Committee has disapplied any time pro-rata to his 2015 PSP award and will not apply a two-year holding period; and
- The temporary monthly allowance of £10,000 paid to Ian Bull from 1 March 2015 to 30 November 2015 was not taken into account when calculating his termination arrangements.

As announced on 11 December 2015, Richard Snow, Director of Investor Relations became the acting Chief Financial Officer upon Ian Bull's departure on 26 February 2016. He will not join the Board but will be invited to attend Board meetings.

We have also had a number of changes to non-executive director membership of the Board. Peter Erskine stood down from the Board in December 2015, with John Kelly appointed Non-Executive Chairman. John Kelly's annual fee for this role is £285,000. Upon John Kelly's appointment, Christine Hodgson became the acting senior independent non-executive director and will receive a total annual fee of £70,000. Mark Pain, who joined the Board on 3 December 2015 will receive a total annual fee of £70,000 which takes into account his role as Audit Committee Chair.

2016 will be a pivotal year for the business. The Remuneration Committee is committed to ensuring that remuneration arrangements at Ladbrokes continue to support its objectives. The Remuneration Committee values all feedback from shareholders, and hopes to receive your support at the forthcoming AGM.

POLICY REPORT

The following sections set out the Directors' Remuneration Policy (the Policy). The Policy was approved by shareholders at the 2014 AGM on 7 May 2014.

For avoidance of doubt, it is the Company's policy to honour in full any pre-existing obligations that have been entered into prior to the effective date of this Policy. Therefore, the Remuneration Committee reserves the right to make any remuneration payments and payments for loss of office notwithstanding that they are not in line with the Policy, where the terms of these payments were agreed:

- (i) before the Policy came into effect; or
- (ii) at a time when the relevant individual was not a director of the Company and, in the opinion of the Remuneration Committee, the payment was not in consideration for the individual becoming a director of the Company.

Governance

For these purposes 'payments' includes the Remuneration Committee satisfying awards of variable remuneration and, in relation to an award over shares, the terms of the payment are 'agreed' at the time the award is granted.

Further details regarding the operation of the Policy can be found on pages 63 to 71 of this report.

Notes to the policy table

There have been no changes to the policy table from the policy table presented in the 2014 Director's Remuneration Report.

Performance measures – annual bonus

The annual bonus performance measures are chosen to provide an appropriate balance between incentivising executive directors to meet financial targets for the year and to deliver specific strategic, operational and individual goals. This balance allows the Remuneration Committee to reward performance effectively against the key elements of our strategy.

The precise bonus targets are set by the Remuneration Committee each year to ensure that executive directors are appropriately focused on the key objectives for the next 12 months. In doing so, the Remuneration Committee intends to take into account a number of internal and external reference points, including the Company's business plan.

Performance measures – PSP

The ultimate goal of our strategy is to provide long-term sustainable returns to shareholders. The Remuneration Committee strives to achieve this by aligning the performance measures under the PSP with the long-term strategy and priorities of the Company and considers that strong performance under these metrics should result in sustainable long-term growth.

The Remuneration Committee considers that a combination of financial and strategic measures and a measure of value delivered to shareholders is most appropriate when measuring long-term sustainable performance at Ladbrokes. The use of a scorecard of measures recognises and rewards performance against a wide range of relevant measures and helps ensure awards are less 'all or nothing', and therefore more motivational.

Additional disclosure – legacy arrangements LGP

The LGP was approved by shareholders on 14 May 2010. Full details of the LGP were set out in the circular sent to shareholders seeking approval for the LGP at the time of implementation. As a legacy arrangement which has now expired, the LGP is not included within the policy table above or in the rest of this policy report. However, we have chosen to voluntarily disclose summary details of the LGP here for ease of reference.

- Purpose and link to strategy – The LGP was a one-off long-term incentive plan which was designed to incentivise over 140 key senior executives to support revitalisation of the business and create significant, sustainable long-term shareholder value. The plan rewarded value creation of between £400m to £1.3bn for shareholders.
  - Operation – One-off awards were made under this plan in 2010 to the then Chief Executive and in 2011 to other participants. No further awards will be made under the plan as it ended in June 2015. The performance period for all awards is five years, which began in June 2010 and ended in June 2015. A portion of the award was eligible for vesting at the end of year three of the performance period (June 2013). In 2013, 40.7% of the maximum award did vest, as a share price of 220.7 pence was maintained for a period of 30 consecutive dealing days. No further vesting occurred at the end of year four (June 2014) or at the end of year five (June 2015). Participants may receive the value of dividends paid on any vested shares.
  - Maximum opportunity – Executive directors were required to invest up to 150% of base salary in shares and could receive up to a four times matching award in respect of that investment. The matching award normally only vested to the extent this investment is retained. In the case of the then Chief Executive, he was required to invest in c.1 million Ladbrokes shares and was eligible to receive a four times matching award.
  - Performance measures – Awards were subject to share price performance conditions. Any share price target must be attained throughout a period of 30 consecutive dealing days. 25% of the award would have vested if a share price of £2.00 was achieved. 100% of the award would have vested if a share price of £2.97 was achieved. Vesting was on a straight line basis between the minimum and maximum share price targets, i.e. between £2.00 and £2.97. A share price of 220.7 pence was maintained at the end of year three therefore 40.7% of the maximum award vested.
- The Remuneration Committee had the authority to amend the targets if it is necessary to take account of exceptional factors including, for example, corporate events or exceptional market or industry factors which would otherwise render the targets inappropriate.

Remuneration arrangements throughout the Company

The remuneration policy for our executive directors is designed to be aligned with the remuneration philosophy and principles that underpin remuneration for the wider Group.

Although there are differences in pay between the executive directors and the wider colleague population, all reward arrangements are built around the common objectives and principles outlined below:

| Remuneration objectives  | Arrangement(s) used for wider Group  |
|--|--|
| Be strongly aligned with shareholder value creation.   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– Key personnel participate in PSP with the same performance metrics as for executive directors.</li> <li>– Two all-employee share incentive schemes are in operation (the Share Incentive Plan and the Savings-Related Share Option Scheme) to encourage share ownership.</li> <li>– Key Group financial measures under colleague bonus arrangements are aligned with those for executive directors to ensure consistency across the organisation and delivery of strategic goals. Colleagues also have relevant (and therefore motivational) team and individual targets to focus the team on key deliverables in their area of business.</li> <li>– Use of survey data to ensure all elements of remuneration are aligned with market as appropriate.</li> </ul> |
| Support the achievement of organisational goals and be aligned with long-term business strategy. |  |
| Enable the Company to attract, retain and motivate key individuals.                              |  |
| Be positioned competitively against market practice, while paying no more than necessary.        |  |

Recruitment policy

Principles and approach

In determining remuneration arrangements for new appointments to the Board (including internal promotions), the Remuneration Committee applies the following principles:

- The Remuneration Committee is at all times conscious that any arrangements should be in the best interests of Ladbroke's and our shareholders, without paying more than is necessary;
- The Remuneration Committee takes into consideration all relevant factors, including the calibre of the individual, the nature of the role, local market practice, the individual's current remuneration package, Ladbroke's remuneration policy, internal relativities and existing arrangements for other executive directors;

- Salaries will reflect the skills and experience of the individual, and may be set at a level to allow future salary progression to reflect performance in the role. The Committee also retains the right to determine that in the first year of appointment any annual bonus award will be subject to such conditions as it may determine; and
- Typically, the remuneration package for a new appointment will be based on (or be transitioned onto) the same elements of the remuneration package as the other executive directors, in line with the policy table presented above.

It would be expected that the structure and quantum of the variable pay elements would reflect those set out in the policy table above. However, at recruitment, the Committee would retain the discretion to flex the balance between annual and long-term incentives and the measures used to assess performance for these elements, with the intention that a significant portion would be delivered in shares.

At recruitment, variable pay could, in exceptional circumstances, be delivered via alternative structures, again with the intention that a significant portion would be share-based, but in all circumstances subject to the overriding cap of 420% of salary.

The Committee retains discretion to make appropriate remuneration decisions outside the standard policy to meet the individual circumstances when an interim executive director is required to fill a role on a short-term basis or if exceptional circumstances require that the Chairman or a non-executive director takes on an executive function on a short-term basis.

Buy-outs

To facilitate recruitment, the Remuneration Committee may make compensatory payments and/or awards for any remuneration arrangements subject to forfeiture on leaving a previous employer.

In doing so, the Remuneration Committee will take account of any terms attached to the forfeited arrangements. Awards will take such form as the Committee considers appropriate taking into account all relevant factors such as the nature of the award, any performance conditions attached to those awards, the likelihood of those conditions being met, and the proportion of vesting/performance period remaining. The Committee's intention is that the value awarded would be equivalent to the value forfeited.

Recruitment of the Chairman and non-executive directors

In the event of the appointment of a new Chairman or non-executive director, remuneration arrangements will normally be in line with those detailed in the relevant table on page 70.

Disclosure

The remuneration structure of any new director will be disclosed in a timely manner and, as far as possible, in the relevant RNS notification at the time of appointment. In the next remuneration report, the Remuneration Committee will explain to shareholders the rationale for the relevant arrangements.

Policy on payment for loss of office

The Remuneration Committee takes a number of factors into account when determining leaving arrangements for an executive director:

- The Remuneration Committee must satisfy any contractual obligations: (a) being consistent with the Policy set out in this report; or (b) if they are inconsistent having been entered into on a date on or before 27 June 2012 in accordance with relevant legislation;
- The treatment of outstanding share awards is governed by the relevant share plan rules. The following table summarises the leaver provisions of share plans under which executive directors may currently hold awards;
- Other payments which may be made as a result of loss of office include legal fees within an agreed maximum limit, outplacement counselling within an agreed maximum limit, payment for any outstanding accrued holiday and any other payments required by statute; and
- The Remuneration Committee strongly believes that there should be no reward for failure. When exercising any discretion under the plans referred to below, the Committee will take into account the circumstances of the individual's departure and performance in the role.

| Plan                            | Good leaver categories   | Treatment for a good leaver   | Treatment for any other leaver  |
|---------------------------------|--|---|---|

This amount will normally be subject to the achievement of the financial and individual objectives set at the beginning of the plan year. Any payment will be following the end of the relevant financial year and will normally be pro-rated for time served during the year, unless the Remuneration Committee determines otherwise. Any amounts which would have ordinarily been deferred into the deferred bonus plan may be paid in cash at the same time. The Remuneration Committee, however, has the ability to exercise its discretion to pay a bonus as it considers appropriate. | No bonus.   |

Corporate events affecting discretionary share plans

Ladbrokes' discretionary share plans shall be operated in accordance with the relevant rules as approved by shareholders and amended from time to time in accordance with these rules. In particular, the plan rules provide for adjustments in certain circumstances. For example, awards may be adjusted in the event of any variation of share capital, demerger, special dividend, reorganisation or similar event.

In the event of a change in control or winding up of the Company, existing share awards under these plans will be treated as follows:

| Plan                          | Treatment in an event of a change of control  |
|-------------------------------|---|
| Deferred Bonus Plan    | Vest in full on the date on which the change in control occurs.   |
| Performance Share Plan | Vest in line with the plan rules to the extent the Remuneration Committee determines the performance conditions have been satisfied and on a time-apportioned basis, subject to Remuneration Committee discretion to determine otherwise. |

Awards under the share plans may vest on the same basis in the event of a voluntary winding up of the Company.

Non-executive directors' letters of appointment

The non-executive directors, including the Chairman of the Company, have letters of appointment which set out their duties and responsibilities. They do not have service contracts with either the Company or any of its subsidiaries.

The key terms of the appointments are set out in the table below:

| Provision          | Policy   |
|--------------------|--|
| Period      | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- After the initial term, non-executive directors are typically expected to serve a further three-year term.</li> <li>- Whilst appointed for a three-year term, in line with the UK Corporate Governance Code, the Chairman and all non-executive directors are subject to annual re-election by shareholders at each AGM.</li> </ul> |
| Termination | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- The appointment of a Chairman or a non-executive director is terminable without notice by either the Company or the director.</li> <li>- Non-executive directors and the Chairman are not entitled to any compensation upon leaving office.</li> </ul>  |

Availability of documentation

All executive directors' service contracts and the letters of appointment for non-executive directors are available for inspection at the Company's registered office during normal hours of business, and at the place of the Company's 2016 Annual General Meeting on 5 May 2016 from 10.45am until the close of the meeting.

Illustration of our forward-looking remuneration policy

In support of the remuneration philosophy, Ladbrokes' remuneration arrangements have been designed to ensure that a significant proportion of pay is dependent on the delivery of stretching short-term and long-term performance targets, aligned with the creation of sustainable shareholder value.

The Remuneration Committee considers the level of remuneration that may be received under different performance outcomes to ensure that this is appropriate in the context of the performance delivered and the value added for shareholders.

The following charts provide illustrative values of the remuneration package for executive directors under three assumed performance scenarios. Details relating to Ian Bull's arrangements which he has until he leaves the Company before the end of February 2016 have been included to illustrate the remuneration policy for executive directors other than for the Chief Executive.

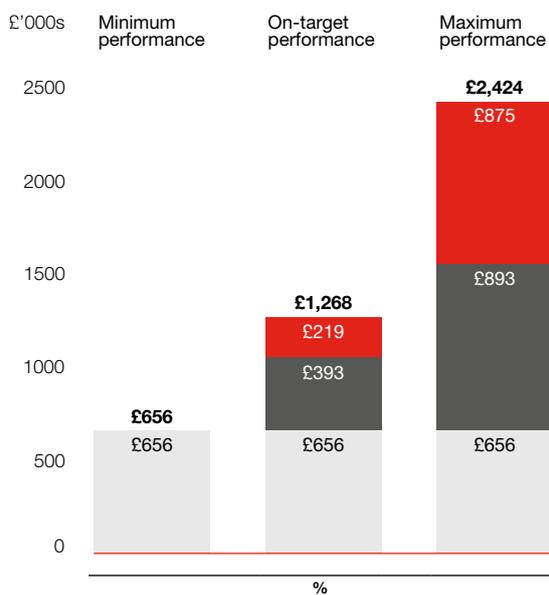

In line with the regulations, the illustrations show the potential remuneration levels under Ladbrokes' forward-looking remuneration policy. These charts are for illustrative purposes only and actual outcomes may differ from that shown.

All-employee share plans have been excluded. The Chief Financial Officer chart is based on Ian Bull's package as the most recent Chief Financial Officer. The scenario chart for the Chief Financial Officer does not include the 2015 temporary monthly allowance of £10,000 paid to Ian Bull from 1 March 2015 to 30 November 2015.

Consideration of conditions elsewhere in the Company

The Remuneration Committee takes into consideration the pay and conditions of colleagues throughout the Group when determining remuneration arrangements for executive directors. Information relating to wider workforce remuneration is provided in regular updates to the Remuneration Committee. This takes the form of a comparison of reward elements across all main workforce groups, updates on total reward communications and details of business wide reviews such as annual bonus awards and salary increases.

In particular, the Remuneration Committee pays specific attention to the general level of salary increases and bonus outcomes within the wider population.

Whilst the Remuneration Committee does not directly consult with our colleagues as part of the process of determining executive pay, the Committee does receive feedback from colleague surveys and takes this into account when reviewing executive pay. In addition, a significant number of our colleagues are shareholders and so are able to express their views in the same way as other shareholders.

Consideration of shareholder views

The Remuneration Committee continues to be mindful of shareholder views when evaluating and setting on-going remuneration strategy, and we commit to consulting with shareholders prior to any significant changes to our remuneration policy.

The Remuneration Committee also considers shareholder feedback received in relation to an AGM at its next meeting following the AGM.

Minor amendments to policy

The Remuneration Committee may make minor changes to this policy, which do not have a material advantage to directors, to aid in its operation or implementation without seeking shareholder approval for a revised version of this policy.

Methodology

- (a) Salary and fees – this represents the base salary or fees paid in respect of the relevant financial year. No sums were paid to third parties in respect of any executive director's services (2014: nil).
- (b) Benefits – this represents the taxable value of all benefits paid in respect of the relevant financial year. Executive director benefits include private healthcare (for the executive and his family), and a cash allowance in lieu of a company car.
- (c) Cash allowance in lieu of pension – executive directors receive a cash allowance in lieu of pension contributions equivalent to 22.5% of salary. In 2015, Ian Bull received an overpayment of £2,250 which will be offset accordingly against his termination payments.
- (d) Annual bonus – this reflects the nil bonus awarded in respect of the performance year for 2014. Bonuses of 26% and 25% of salary were awarded to the Chief Executive and Chief Financial Officer respectively for the 2015 performance year. For the Chief Executive, one third of his bonus, equivalent to £32,630, was deferred into shares for three years. As part of the Chief Financial Officer's termination agreement, his entire bonus for the performance year for 2015 was paid in cash. Further details are provided on page 64. Under Richard Glynn's termination arrangements, he was entitled to receive a bonus as if he had been in service for 2015. This table does not include this payment, further details can be found on page 66.
- (e) Long-term incentives – this figure represents the value of long-term incentive plans with a performance period ending in the relevant year. PSP: The 2014 and 2015 figures reflect that no shares vested under the 2012 and 2013 awards under the PSP for Richard Glynn and Ian Bull. Jim Mullen joined Ladbrokes in November 2013 therefore did not receive an award under the 2013 PSP. Further details in respect of the achievement of performance conditions are provided on page 64. LGP: The 2014 and 2015 figures reflect that there was no additional vesting under the second and third performance tests in June 2014 and June 2015. Further details in respect of the achievement of performance conditions are provided on page 65.
- (f) Other – Ian Bull was paid a temporary monthly allowance of £10,000 between 1 March 2015 to 30 November 2015. Peter Erskine and John Kelly received an expense payment of £30,283 and £8,690 representing the reimbursement of the costs of holidays which both had to cancel due to corporate activity associated with the proposed merger with Gala Coral.
- (g) Remuneration for Jim Mullen covers only his period since his appointment as Chief Executive. Jim Mullen was appointed Chief Executive on 1 April 2015 on a salary of £500,000 p.a. He was previously the Managing Director of Ladbrokes Digital. His salary, bonus, benefits and pensions for 2015 have been pro-rated to reflect the period from 1 April 2015 to 31 December 2015.
- (h) This table does not include payments relating to Richard Glynn's loss of office which can be found on page 66.
- (i) Peter Erskine's Chairman fee was £250,000 p.a. which he received until 3 December 2015. John Kelly's Chairman fee is £285,000 p.a. which he received from his appointment on 3 December 2015. The senior independent non-executive director and Chairman of the Audit Committee received a total fee of £70,000 p.a. from 3 December 2015 onwards; previously these roles received £60,000 p.a. Other non-executive directors receive a basic fee of £43,000 p.a. Additional fees are payable for the role of Chairman of the Remuneration Committee at a rate of £10,000 p.a. and for membership of the Audit and/or Remuneration Committee at a rate of £7,000 per annum. David Martin's fee was paid to Arriva plc by mutual agreement up to 31 December 2015. Peter Erskine retired on 3 December 2015 and Darren Shapland retired on 24 September 2015. John Kelly became the Chairman, Christine Hodgson became the acting Senior Independent Non-Executive Director and Mark Pain joined the Board on 3 December 2015 as the Chairman of the Audit Committee. Fees paid to each non-executive director reflect time spent on the Board in 2015 and responsibilities. The fees for Richard Moross in 2014 were reported in error as £50,000 and have now been restated as £60,000.

Additional disclosures in respect of the single figure table

Annual bonus

The table below sets out the annual bonus awards made to executive directors in respect of 2015:

|            | 2015 annual bonus | As % of 2015 salary |
|------------|-------------------|---------------------|
| Jim Mullen | £97,891           | 26%                 |
| Ian Bull   | £101,502          | 25%                 |

60% of the 2015 annual bonus was based on PBIT for the year (excluding profit from High Rollers and exceptional items). 40% of the 2015 annual bonus was based on individual objectives, which are primarily financial in nature. Furthermore, the individual objectives element of the bonus remains subject to a profit underpin.

In June 2015, the Chief Executive announced a new three-year strategy which requires significant up-front investment. Although these investments will build a materially stronger business in the medium/long term, these do impact the PBIT in the short term. Therefore, to ensure that our executive directors and other employees are incentivised to implement our strategy, the 2015 bonus PBIT threshold, on-target and stretch numbers were changed from £95m, £110m and £120m to £80.4m, £90m and £101.25m respectively which takes into account the strategic investment made by Ladbrokes in the business in the second half of the year. At threshold PBIT up to 10% of this element of bonus can vest, at on-target PBIT up to 40% of this element can vest, and at stretch PBIT 100% of this element can vest. Please note this is dependent on achieving at least a personal performance rating of 3 or above.

In 2015, operating profit excluding High Rollers was £80.6m which is in-between the threshold requirement of £80.4m and target of £90m. Therefore for the profit element the Chief Executive received £27,316 which is 7% of his salary pro-rated for his tenure as Chief Executive in 2015. The Chief Financial Officer received £20,880 which is 5% of his salary.

The Chief Executive was also awarded £70,575 which is equivalent to 19% of base salary under individual objectives. This is because he received a personal performance rating of 4 out of 5.

This rating takes into account the development and implementation of the new long-term strategy and positive progress made against this strategy in 2015.

The Chief Financial Officer was also awarded £80,622 which is equivalent to 20% of base salary under individual objectives. This is because he received a personal performance rating of 5 out of 5.

This rating takes into account support with the potential merger and positive progress of the new long-term strategy in 2015.

The Chief Executive and Chief Financial Officer were able to receive payment under the individual objectives as the profit underpin of £80.4m was met. The Committee has ensured that the bonus payouts reflect the performance outcome of the second half of the year. Please note that executive directors only receive full vesting under the individual objectives element of the annual bonus if a personal performance rating of 5 is received, and stretch PBIT targets are achieved.

Performance Share Plan

The PSP value shown in the single figure table relates to the 2013 award, for which the performance period was 1 January 2013 to 31 December 2015.

The performance conditions for this award are set out below:

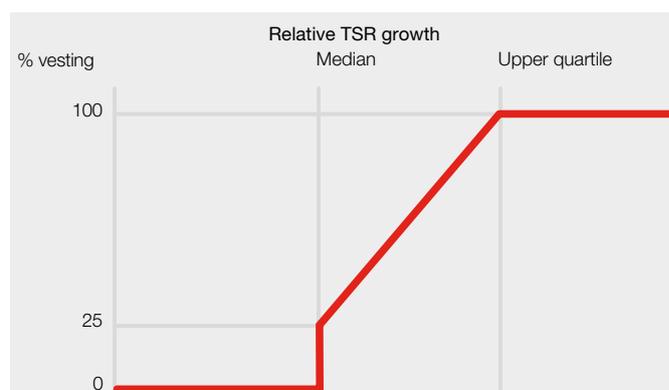

50% of the award – three-year relative TSR performance against a peer group of sectoral peer companies.

The peer group for the 2013 award is set out below:

|                     |               |
|---------------------|---------------|
| 888 Holdings        | Paddy Power   |
| Boyd Gaming         | Punch Taverns |
| Bwin PartyGaming    | Rank Group    |
| Enterprise Inns     | Whitbread     |
| Mitchells & Butlers | William Hill  |
| OPAP                |               |

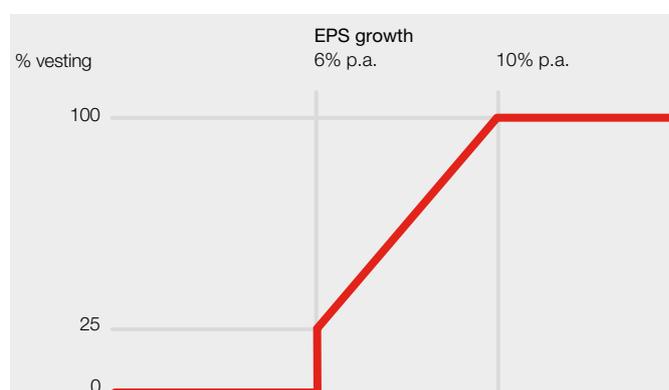

The original comparator group consisted of 14 comparators, however Sportingbet and GTech were removed for the entire performance period as they were acquired in March 2013 and April 2015 respectively.

Three-year TSR growth vs. sectoral peer growth

50% of the award – three-year EPS growth

Three-year EPS growth

|               | Actual performance     | Vesting as % of element |
|---------------|------------------------|-------------------------|
| Relative TSR  | 12 out of 12 companies | 0%                      |
| EPS growth    | -35% per annum         | 0%                      |
| Total vesting |                        | 0% of maximum           |

There will be nil vesting of the PSP awards made in 2013.

Ladbrokes' Growth Plan

The LGP was a one-off long-term incentive plan where awards were made under this plan in 2010 to the then Chief Executive and in 2011 to other participants. The performance period for all awards was five years which began in June 2010 and ended in June 2015. A portion of the award was eligible for vesting after three years in 2013 (first performance test) with a further portion eligible for vesting at the end of year four (June 2014, second performance test) and year five (June 2015, third performance test) if performance targets had not been fully met at previous performance tests. The performance conditions for this award are set out below:

| Share price maintained for a period of 30 consecutive dealing days | Percentage of the award vesting |
|--|---------------------------------|
| 200 pence  | 25%                             |
| Between 200 pence and 297 pence                                    | Pro rata                        |
| 297 pence  | 100%                            |

Straight line vesting operates between these points.

The first performance test on 29 June 2013 resulted in 40.7% vesting of the maximum opportunity as a share price of 220.7 pence was maintained for a period of 30 consecutive dealing days. The second performance test on 29 June 2014 resulted in no additional vesting as a share price of above 220.7 pence was not maintained for a period of 30 consecutive dealing days between 29 June 2013 and 29 June 2014. Therefore, at the third performance test on 30 June 2015, a share price of above 220.7 pence had to be maintained for a period of 30 consecutive days between 30 June 2014 and 29 June 2015, for any additional vesting to occur.

Performance out-turn

A share price above 220.7 pence was not maintained at any point between 30 June 2014 and 29 June 2015, therefore there was no vesting under the third performance test in 2015.

Scheme interests awarded during the financial year

Performance Share Plan awards

For 2015, PSP awards are granted over Ladbrokes shares with the number of shares under award determined by reference to a percentage of base salary.

Performance for these awards is measured over the three financial years from 1 January 2015 to 31 December 2017. They are subject to the following performance conditions.

25% of the award will be based on TSR percentage outperformance of six sector peers

| TSR % outperformance of the six sector comparators | Percentage of the award vesting |
|--|---------------------------------|
| Less than median                                   | 0%                              |
| Median   | 25%                             |
| Median + 10% p.a.                                  | 100%                            |

Straight line vesting operates between these points.

The peer group for the 2015 award is set out below:

|                  |              |
|------------------|--------------|
| 888 holdings     | Paddy Power  |
| Betfair          | Sporthex     |
| Bwin Partygaming | William Hill |

If the peer group for 2015 was to fall below five companies, i.e. in the event of takeovers, a peer will be selected from a 'reserve list' of companies (which originally included for 2015, GTech, International Game Technology, Betsson, Rank Group and Playtech). This would ensure that the peer group consists of a minimum of five companies. The replacement company will be effective for the entire performance period. In February 2016, Bwin Partygaming was acquired by GVC Holdings and Betfair and Paddy Power merged to form Paddy Power Betfair. The Committee has decided to replace Bwin Partygaming with GVC Holdings over the entire performance period. The Committee has also decided that Paddy Power and Betfair both remain in the peer group with the TSR of both 'companies' adjusted in line with changes to Paddy Power Betfair's share price from 1 February 2016. Please note that GTech acquired International Game Technology in April 2015 with the new entity renamed International Game Technology. Therefore both companies have been removed from the reserve list.

25% of the award will be based on three-year cumulative EPS performance

| EPS performance      | Percentage of the award vesting |
|----------------------|---------------------------------|
| Less than 29.0 pence | 0%                              |
| 29.0 pence           | 25%                             |
| 37.0 pence           | 100%                            |

Straight line vesting operates between cumulative EPS performance of 29.0 pence and 37.0 pence. Cumulative EPS performance excludes exceptional items and High Rollers.

25% of the award will be based on three-year Free Cash Flow (FCF) performance

| FCF performance   | Percentage of the award vesting |
|-------------------|---------------------------------|
| Less than £273.9m | 0%                              |
| £273.9m           | 25%                             |
| £345.3m           | 100%                            |

Straight line vesting operates between FCF performance of £273.9m and £345.3m.

FCF for the purposes of the Plan is defined as the new cash flow from operating activities plus dividends received from joint ventures and associates, less income taxes paid, net capital expenditure and net interest payments (including bond coupons). FCF excludes distribution of dividends, repayment of debt and merger and acquisition activity.

25% of the award will be based on performance against responsible gambling measures

The measures in relation to this element of the award will be determined and independently measured and assessed by the Social Responsibility Committee through a set of KPIs. These KPIs will reflect the GB Gambling Commission's objectives and regulatory and voluntary sector-level changes and our own initiatives.

These KPIs will be assessed over the three-year performance period using three annual scorecards and the cumulative impact over the same period.

Directors' remuneration report continued

The Remuneration Committee and the Social Responsibility Committee intend to disclose targets and the performance level at the end of the performance period due to commercial sensitivity. As with all measures under the 2015 PSP, threshold performance will result in 25% of this element of the PSP vesting.

The following table provides details of the awards made under the PSP in 2015.

|            | Type of award      | Number of shares | Face value (£) | Face value (% of salary) | Threshold vesting (% of face value) | Maximum vesting (% of face value) | End of performance period |
| Ian Bull   |                    | 546,348          | £599,999       | 150%                     |                                     |                                   |                           |

Face value has been calculated using the five-day average share price prior to the date of grant (12 May 2015) of 109.82 pence. Vesting of these awards is subject to the achievement of stretching performance conditions as detailed on page 65.

Share Incentive Plan awards

Executive directors are eligible to participate in HMRC-approved all-employee share plans on the same basis as other eligible colleagues. During 2015, Ian Bull participated in the Share Incentive Plan (SIP). During 2015 under the SIP, Ian Bull purchased 811 shares and 811 bonus shares were awarded to him, along with 130 shares in respect of dividends paid by the Company on 14 May 2015 and 12 November 2015.

Payments to past directors

There were no payments to past directors in 2015.

Payments for loss of office

Richard Glynn left Ladbrokes on 31 March 2015. His service contract, effective from 22 April 2010, provides for a 12-month notice period and was structured that any termination payments had to be determined in line with UK damages principles. He received the following payments upon his departure:

- £580,000 and £131,000 for 12 months salary and pension contribution;
- £34,000 for 12 months car allowance and private medical insurance;
- £6,692 in lieu of accrued untaken holiday as at his leaving date;
- £100,000 for failure to grant a Performance Share Award in March 2015; and
- £1,000 for value of expenses in relation to his laptop and mobile phone for 12 months.

He also received life assurance cover (equal to four times salary) for 12 months and a contribution of £10,000 towards his legal costs and £40,000 (excluding VAT) for outplacement counselling services.

Richard Glynn was also allowed to receive a bonus in 2015 as if he had been in service for 2015, and on the basis that his personal performance would have been in line with the Remuneration Committee's ratings for the financial year 2013 and 2014 and the financial performance conditions would be applied on the same basis as for other executive directors. Therefore he is entitled to £31,687 relating to the profit element of the bonus and £81,867 based on his personal performance rating of 4 (out of 5). This equates to £113,554.

His existing unvested share awards held under Ladbrokes' executive share plans on his departure date were treated upon the discretion of the Remuneration Committee in accordance with good leaver provisions:

- 87,173 shares held under the Deferred Bonus Plan for performance in 2012 with a normal vesting date of February 2016 vested in May 2015;
- 2013 and 2014 PSP awards of 446,271 and 759,958 shares respectively will vest at the end of the performance period (February 2016 and February 2017 respectively), subject to satisfaction of performance conditions and time pro-rating in accordance with the plan rules; and
- The final one third of the shares under the Ladbrokes Growth Plan of 547,522 shares, vested at the end of the normal vesting date of August 2015. Richard Glynn would have been also entitled to any additional shares if there was any improvement on share price by the third performance test in June 2015, i.e. a share price of above 220.7p is maintained for 30 consecutive days by 29 June 2015. However, there was no further improvement therefore no additional shares vested under this plan.

Richard Glynn was also entitled to continue to hold nil-cost options granted to him in April 2010 under 2010 Share Option Plan which vested in April 2013. These options would continue to be exercisable until April 2020 and were exercised in 2015.

Under the rules of the all-employee Share Incentive Plan and the relevant tax legislation, in 2015 Richard Glynn forfeited the 560 'bonus shares' (termed free shares under tax legislation) that he had held for less than one year; and retained the remaining 2,079 'bonus shares' which he had held for more than one year. He also retained the 860 'salary shares' (termed partnership shares under the legislation) and 114 'dividend shares' which he had held for more than one year.

Ian Bull will leave Ladbrokes before the end of February 2016. As part of his settlement agreement, he received a payment of £42,500 in November 2015 which is the first monthly instalment of his PILON. The remaining five instalments will be paid following his departure in February 2016 and will be reduced accordingly for his new employment at Parkdean Resorts.

Statement of directors' shareholdings and share interests

Directors' shareholdings and share ownership guidelines

The Company's shareholding guidelines require executive directors to build up over time a personal shareholding equivalent in value to at least one year's base salary. Executives are encouraged to retain vested shares earned under the Company's incentive plans until the shareholding guidelines have been met.

Shares which the executive directors hold outright and/or vested shares under the Company's share plans count towards the requirement. Unvested share awards only count towards the requirement if vesting is not subject to any further performance conditions or other conditions such as continued employment.

On this basis, Ian Bull has met the Company's shareholding requirement in full. Jim Mullen has not yet met his requirement as 2015 is his first year in the Chief Executive role and as an executive director.

Historical TSR performance and Chief Executive's remuneration outcomes

As the Company is a constituent of the FTSE250, it is considered an appropriate indication of market movements against which to benchmark the Company's performance. The chart below summarises the Company's TSR performance against the FTSE250 index over the seven-year period to 31 December 2015 below.

Seven-year TSR performance

The table below summarises the Chief Executive's single figure for total remuneration, annual bonus pay-outs and long-term incentive vesting levels as a percentage of maximum opportunity over the seven-year period to 31 December 2015.

| Annual bonus pay-out(as a % of maximum opportunity)   |                        | 0%    | 76%                 | 50%   | 50%   | 0%    | 0%    | 15%                 |

(1) The above number for Christopher Bell in 2010 reflects his remuneration including in respect of his notice period and excludes any payments associated with his departure. Richard Glynn was appointed as Chief Executive on 22 April 2010 and the above number reflects his remuneration from that time to the year end.

(2) The above number for Richard Glynn in 2015 reflects his remuneration including in respect of his notice period and excludes any payments associated with his departure. Jim Mullen was appointed as Chief Executive on 1 April 2015 and the above number reflects his remuneration from that time to the year end. The annual bonus payout relates to what was paid to Jim Mullen in 2015 as Chief Executive.

(3) Increases in total compensation in 2012 and 2013 have been as a result of increased pay-outs under the Company's long-term incentive plans, as a result of meeting the relevant performance targets, e.g. PSP and LGP. Richard Glynn did not receive any changes to salary or cash allowance in lieu of pension since his appointment in April 2010 to his departure in March 2015.

Percentage change in remuneration of the Chief Executive

The table below illustrates the increase in salary, benefits (including cash allowance in lieu of pension) and annual bonus for the Chief Executive and that of a representative group of the Company's colleagues.

For these purposes, we have used all UK-based colleagues as the comparative group, as this represents the most appropriate comparator group for reward purposes for our UK-based Chief Executive.

|                         | % change in base salary 2015 vs. 2014 | % change in benefits (including cash allowance in lieu of pension) 2015 vs. 2014 | % change in annual bonus 2015 vs. 2014 |
|-------------------------|---------------------------------------|--|--|
| Chief Executive         | -10.3%                                | -14.0%   | N/A                                    |
| All UK-based colleagues | 2.5%                                  | 0%   | N/A                                    |

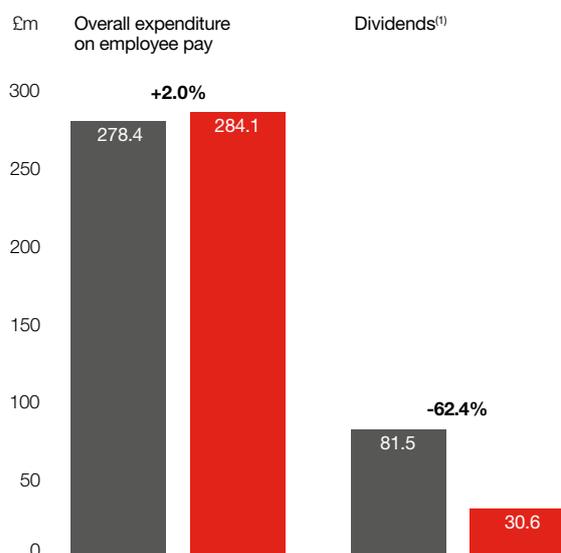

The % changes for the Chief Executive have been determined with reference to aggregate numbers for Jim Mullen and Richard Glynn when undertaking Chief Executive responsibilities. The % change in annual bonus for 2015 vs. 2014 cannot be calculated as annual bonus pay-outs in 2014 were zero for the Chief Executive and other UK-based colleagues.

Relative importance of the spend on pay

The chart below illustrates the current year and prior year overall expenditure on pay and dividends paid.

Relative importance of the spend on pay

● 2014 ● 2015

The figures presented have been calculated on the following basis:

- Overall expenditure on employee pay – represents total staff costs; and
- Dividends – dividends paid (or declared to be paid) in respect of the year.

(1) Total dividend per share FY2015: 3.0 pence (FY2014: 8.9 pence)

Implementation of remuneration policy in 2016

This section provides an overview of how the Committee is proposing to implement the remuneration policy in 2016.

The Committee is intending to implement the policy as follows until the completion of the proposed merger. Prior to completion of the proposed merger, the Committee will review the policy and its execution and will make any necessary revisions which would be communicated to shareholders for their approval. Remuneration arrangements after the proposed merger for executive directors, including those from Gala Coral, will be in line with the applicable policy.

Ian Bull will be leaving at the end of February 2016, therefore specific detail on his arrangements have not been included below as he is not entitled to a bonus or a PSP award for 2016. He will be however receiving a salary, benefits and pensions until his departure date in line with implementation of the remuneration policy in 2015, and payment in lieu of notice as described on page 53.

Base salary

In determining salary increases for 2016, the Remuneration Committee took into consideration business performance, affordability and pay and conditions across the Group and determined that there will be 5% increase for the Chief Executive in 2016.

The table below shows base salaries for 2016:

|            | Base salary from 1 March 2016 |
|------------|-------------------------------|

Benefits

Benefits are generally set at an appropriate market competitive level, taking into account a number of factors including market practice for comparable roles within appropriate pay comparators.

There will be no changes to the benefits package received by executive directors in 2016.

Cash allowance in lieu of pension

The executive directors have elected to receive a cash allowance of 22.5% of salary in lieu of pension, and there will be no change to cash allowance levels for 2016.

The table below shows cash allowances for 2016:

|            | 2016 cash allowance in lieu of pension £ (% of salary) |
|------------|--|

2016 cash allowance has been calculated taking into account his salary increase of 5% from 1 March 2016.

Please note that the executive directors do not have a prospective right to defined benefit pension arrangements.

Annual bonus

The maximum annual bonus opportunity will remain at 170% of base salary for the Chief Executive in 2016.

The table below provides further information on the performance measures against which performance will be measured:

|  | Relative weighting (% of maximum bonus opportunity) |
|--|---|
| Financial – operating profit <sup>(1)</sup>    | 60%   |
| Individual – mainly specific financial targets | 40%   |

(1) Profit before tax, net financial expense and exceptional items.

Profit is the key financial measure for Ladbrokes. Profit attributed to High Rollers is excluded from the profit performance calculations for annual bonus purposes. The individual objective element of the bonus remain subject to a profit underpin.

At this stage, the annual bonus targets are considered commercially sensitive. This is because of the close link between the selected performance measures and strategy. However, in next year's Annual Report, we commit to providing shareholders with as much context as possible on performance against those targets and the resulting bonus out-turn rationale, within commercial constraints.

Performance Share Plan

It is anticipated that Jim Mullen will receive a 2016 PSP award of 175% of his salary (as at 1 January 2016). The performance measures will be the same as for the 2015 PSP award, with the TSR peer group modified to take M&A activity into account, i.e. will consist of 888 Holdings, GVC Holdings, Paddy Power Betfair, Sportech and William Hill, and the TSR outperformance and responsible gambling targets in line with the 2015 PSP award. The three-year cumulative EPS and FCF 2016 targets will be as follows:

| EPS performance      | Percentage of the award vesting |
|----------------------|---------------------------------|
| Less than 21.7 pence | 0%                              |
| 21.7 pence           | 25%                             |
| 26.4 pence           | 100%                            |

| FCF performance | Percentage of the award vesting |
|-----------------|---------------------------------|
| Less than £219m | 0%                              |
| £219m           | 25%                             |
| £310m           | 100%                            |

Non-executive director remuneration

The table below shows the non-executive director fee structure as at 1 January 2016.

|   | 2016 fees       |
|---|-----------------|
| Chairman (inclusive of Board member fee)                                  | £285,000        |
| Senior independent non-executive director                                 | £70,000         |
| Board member  | £43,000-£55,000 |
| Additional fee for Audit Committee Chairman*                              | £15,000         |
| Additional fee for Remuneration Committee Chairman*                       | £10,000         |
| Additional fee for membership of the Audit and/or Remuneration Committee* | £7,000          |

* Not payable to Chairman or senior independent non-executive director.

Board members who receive a fee of £55,000 for being a Board member will not be entitled to the additional £7,000 for being a member of the Audit and/or Remuneration Committee. However, they will be entitled to the applicable additional fee for being an Audit or Remuneration Committee Chairman.

On 3 December 2015, in light of the changes to the Board membership, it was decided to increase the Chairman's annual fee from £250,000 to £285,000, the senior independent non-executive director's total annual fee from £60,000 to £70,000 and offer a total annual fee to the Chairman of the Audit Committee of £70,000.

There are no additional fees for membership of the Social Responsibility Committee or the Nomination Committee.

External appointments

The Company recognises the benefits of executive directors taking on external appointments as non-executive directors, subject to the limitations set out in the Policy Report and to Committee approval.

With effect 1 September 2014, Ian Bull became a non-executive director of St Modwen Properties PLC. For the period from 1 January 2015 until 31 December 2015, Ian received fees of £49,392, which he is allowed to retain.

Consideration by the Committee of matters relating to directors' remuneration

The Ladbrokes Board entrusts the Committee with the responsibility for the remuneration policy in respect of executive directors and senior executives and ensuring its ongoing appropriateness and relevance. In setting the remuneration for these groups, the Committee takes into account the pay and conditions of the wider workforce as a matter of course.

The table below shows the Committee members during the year and their attendance at Committee meetings:

| Directors as at 31 December 2015 | Number of meetings eligible to attend | Number of meetings attended |

(1) Sly Bailey was unable to attend one Committee meeting due to prior business commitments.

(2) John Kelly became Chairman and a member of the Committee as of 3 December 2015. He attended two meetings during the year by invitation to support his handover as Chairman of the Company.

The Chief Executive, the Group HR Director and the Group Head of Reward attend Committee meetings by invitation, other than when their personal remuneration is being discussed. The Company Secretary acted as secretary to the Committee.

During the year, the Committee received independent advice on executive remuneration matters from Kepler, a brand of Mercer which is part of the MMC group of companies (Kepler). Kepler was appointed by the Committee as independent remuneration advisers following a tender process in 2014 and was retained during the 2015 financial year. Kepler is a signatory to the Code of Conduct for Remuneration Consultants in the UK, details of which can be found on the Remuneration Consultants Group's website at www.remunerationconsultantsgroup.com. Services provided by Kepler included advice on remuneration packages for executives and non-executives, assistance with a review of the current incentive arrangements in light of the new strategy and potential merger and drafting the Director's remuneration report, as well as other ad-hoc advice related to remuneration. The fees paid to Kepler in relation to advice provided to Committee for 2015 were £98,465.

Deloitte LLP also provided the Company with a TSR monitoring update. Deloitte received £1,750 for their services in 2015. Deloitte also provides the Company with internal audit and miscellaneous tax and consulting services.

Mercer provides advice to pensions trustees in Ireland. However, the Committee is satisfied that neither Kepler as a part of Mercer nor Deloitte, in providing remuneration advice to the Committee, had any connection that impaired its independence.

Shareholder voting

The table below outlines the result of the votes on the 2014 Directors' Remuneration Report at the 2015 AGM:

| AGM date |                               | Number of votes cast | For                    | Against                | Withheld   |
|----------|-------------------------------|----------------------|------------------------|------------------------|------------|
| 2015     | Annual Report on Remuneration | 523,171,666          | 365,015,508(69.8%) | 158,156,158(30.2%) | 84,319,464 |

The Policy Report was last approved at the 2014 AGM where it received a 98.0% 'for' vote.

As discussed in the Chairman's letter, the Board notes the vote in respect of the Directors' Remuneration Report and understands that it primarily relates to Richard Glynn's termination arrangements. Ladbrokes has spoken with several shareholders about the termination arrangements for Richard Glynn where his contract required that any settlement had to be determined in line with UK damages principles. The Remuneration Committee acknowledges that the use of such contracts is no longer best practice; therefore the current executive team have contracts where termination arrangements are determined on PILON principles which are in line with market practice.

Directors' authority to issue and purchase shares

At the Annual General Meeting held on 7 May 2015, the directors were authorised to allot ordinary shares up to a nominal value of £87,167,847 and were further authorised to make market purchases of up to 92,295,379 of the Company's ordinary shares.

Corporate responsibility

The 2015 Corporate Responsibility (CR) report is available at www.ladbrokeplc.com and should be considered in conjunction with the highlights disclosed on pages 31 to 35.

The processes described in the section 'Financial reporting, internal control and risk management systems' on pages 41 to 43 applied to CR (including human rights issues as appropriate), as did the practices described on page 40 for ensuring the Board is supplied with appropriate and timely information and training and for assisting the directors to update their knowledge. In addition to business presentations regularly made to the Board at which CR was considered as appropriate, the Board conducts an annual CR review and Board members regularly receive CR updates. CR performance is included in business unit accountability systems and remuneration arrangements. The Remuneration Committee, in determining executive remuneration, takes into account CR matters as described in the Directors' remuneration report.

The risks and opportunities relating to CR in 2015 and going forward primarily revolve around the reputation of the Group and the quality of its brands. The promotion of responsible gambling and the protection of children and the vulnerable was of particular importance. CR also impacted on the performance of the Group's employees on whom the Group relies for the provision of high-quality services to customers and the health and safety of these employees and the customers they serve.

The identification and management of CR issues, the CR reporting framework and any associated data has been reviewed by the Company's CR adviser, Carnstone Partners LLP.

Details of the Group's disclosure of its greenhouse gas emissions are set out in the Strategic report on page 35.

Employee policies

The Board values two-way communication between senior management and employees on all aspects of the Company's strategy, Company performance, management effectiveness and approach to wellbeing.

There is a rolling three-year internal communications strategy and delivery plan which includes interventions such as regular management roadshows, virtual strategy briefings, visits to operating units, responses to the regular colleague opinion survey and updates on performance.

The internal communications channels include a mobile device platform, face to face events, a corporate intranet, phone broadcasting, SMS alerts, a Company magazine, leadership and line manager briefing packs.

The UK Retail Colleague Forum, which was launched in 2012 as an evolution of our Staff Council, provides a further mechanism for employee dialogue and engagement.

In addition, those employees who are eligible are also encouraged to become involved in the Group's performance through participation in share schemes. Retail colleagues also have the opportunity to raise issues with the senior management team by submitting emails for consideration to our 'speak up' mailbox, or by calling on one of our 'speak up' days.

Throughout the Group, the principles of equal opportunities are recognised in the formulation and development of employment policies.

It is the Company's policy to give full and fair consideration to applications from people with disabilities, having regard to their particular aptitudes and abilities. If an employee becomes disabled, the Company's objective is the continued provision of suitable employment, either in the same or an alternative position, with appropriate adjustments being made if necessary. Employees with disabilities share equally in the opportunities for training, career development and promotion.

Significant agreements that take effect, alter or terminate upon a change of control following a takeover bid

The agreements between Ladbrokes Group Finance plc (LGF), a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company, and five separate banks for the provision by the banks of revolving credit facilities of up to £350m on a committed basis provide that the banks may give notice of cancellation if a change of control occurs. On cancellation the amounts drawn would be immediately repayable. In the context of a takeover bid, the acquirer would normally arrange substitute facilities. In addition, LGF issued bonds in March 2010 and June 2014. The bonds have a 'Put Event' that allows bondholders to exercise put options when a change of control occurs. The put options allow the bondholders to require LGF to purchase the bonds at a price of 101 pence.

Nevada regulator

Shareholders of Ladbrokes are subject to regulation by the Nevada State Gaming Control Board and the Nevada Gaming Commission as a result of the Company's ownership of licensed subsidiaries in Nevada, USA and the Company's registration as a publicly traded company operating in Nevada. Information regarding Nevada gaming regulatory requirements is available at www.ladbrokesplc.com/investors.

Financial risk management

A description of the Group's financial risk management objectives and policies and its exposure to price, credit liquidity and cash flow risk is contained in note 24 to the consolidated financial statements and forms part of the Report.

Auditor and disclosure of information to the auditor

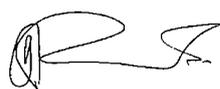

Each of the directors in office as of the date of approval of the Report confirms that, so far as he or she is aware, there is no relevant audit information (being information needed by the auditor in connection with preparing its report) of which the auditor is unaware and that he or she has taken all the steps that he or she ought to have taken as a director in order to make himself or herself aware of any relevant audit information and to establish that the auditor is aware of that information.

Going concern

Having assessed the principal risks and other matters discussed in the connection with the viability statement on page 30, the directors considers it appropriate to adopt the going concern basis of accounting in preparing the financial statements.

The Directors' report and the Strategic report were approved by the Board and have been signed on its behalf by the Company Secretary.

By order of the Board.

Statement of directors' responsibilities

The directors are responsible for preparing the Annual Report, the Directors' Remuneration Report and the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and regulations.

Company law requires the directors to prepare financial statements for each financial year. Under that law the directors have prepared the consolidated financial statements in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRSs) as adopted by the European Union, and the Company financial statements in accordance with United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice (United Kingdom Accounting Standards and applicable law). Under company law the directors must not approve the financial statements unless they are satisfied that they give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Group and the Company and of the profit or loss of the Group for that period. In preparing these financial statements, the directors are required to:

- select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently;
- make judgements and accounting estimates that are reasonable and prudent;
- state whether IFRSs as adopted by the European Union and applicable UK Accounting Standards have been followed, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the consolidated and Company financial statements respectively;
- prepare the financial statements on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the Company will continue in business.

The directors are responsible for keeping adequate accounting records that are sufficient to show and explain the company's transactions and disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the Company and the Group and enable them to ensure that the financial statements and the Directors' Remuneration Report comply with the Companies Act 2006 and, as regards the consolidated financial statements, Article 4 of the IAS Regulation. They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the Company and the Group and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

The directors are responsible for the maintenance and integrity of the Company's website. Legislation in the United Kingdom governing the preparation and dissemination of financial statements may differ from legislation in other jurisdictions.

The directors consider that the annual report and accounts, taken as a whole, is fair, balanced and understandable and provides the information necessary for shareholders to assess a company's performance, business model and strategy.

Each of the directors, whose names and functions are listed in pages 36 to 37 of this Annual Report confirm that, to the best of their knowledge:

- the consolidated financial statements, which have been prepared in accordance with IFRSs as adopted by the EU, give a true and fair view of the assets, liabilities, financial position and profit of the Group; and
- the Strategic report and Directors' report contained in the Annual Report includes a fair review of the development and performance of the business and the position of the Group, together with a description of the principal risks and uncertainties that it faces.

Each director in office at the date the directors' report is approved, that:

- (a) so far as the director is aware, there is no relevant audit information of which the Company's auditors are unaware; and
- (b) he has taken all the steps that he ought to have taken as a director in order to make himself aware of any relevant audit information and to establish that the Company's auditors are aware of that information.

Report on the financial statements

Our opinion

In our opinion:

- Ladbrokes plc's Group financial statements and Company financial statements (the "financial statements") give a true and fair view of the state of the Group's and of the Company's affairs as at 31 December 2015 and of the Group's profit and cash flows for the year then ended;
- the Group financial statements have been properly prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRSs") as adopted by the European Union;
- the Company financial statements have been properly prepared in accordance with United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice; and
- the financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Companies Act 2006 and, as regards the Group financial statements, Article 4 of the IAS Regulation.

What we have audited

The financial statements, included within the Annual Report and Accounts (the "Annual Report"), comprise:

- the consolidated balance sheet as at 31 December 2015;
- the Company balance sheet as at 31 December 2015;
- the consolidated income statement and consolidated statement of comprehensive income for the year then ended;
- the consolidated statement of cash flows for the year then ended;
- the consolidated statement of changes in equity for the year then ended; and
- the notes to the financial statements, which include a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information.

Certain required disclosures have been presented elsewhere in the Annual Report, rather than in the notes to the financial statements. These are cross-referenced from the financial statements and are identified as audited.

The financial reporting framework that has been applied in the preparation of the Group financial statements is applicable law and IFRSs as adopted by the European Union. The financial reporting framework that has been applied in the preparation of the Company financial statements is United Kingdom Accounting Standards, comprising FRS 101 "Reduced Disclosure Framework", and applicable law (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice).

Our audit approach

Overview

- Overall group materiality: £4.7 million which represents 5% of average profit before tax and exceptional items over the previous three years (2014: £5.7 million).
- We conducted full scope audits at five reporting units: UK Retail, UK Digital, Australia and two reporting units included within Corporate costs.
- Specific audit procedures on revenue and receivables were performed on the High Rollers reportable segment.
- Our audit scope addressed over 80% of the Group's revenue and profit before tax and exceptional items.
- Impairment assessments for: Goodwill, and retail licence intangible assets and property, plant and equipment ("PPE").
- Compliance with laws and regulations given the developing nature of the digital gaming sector.
- Accounting for the fair value of contingent consideration relating to business combinations made in 2013 (Playtech and Betdaq).
- Recognition and disclosure of tax losses and the provision for uncertain tax positions.
- Nature and presentation of exceptional items.

The scope of our audit and our areas of focus

We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (UK and Ireland) ("ISAs (UK & Ireland)").

We designed our audit by determining materiality and assessing the risks of material misstatement in the financial statements. In particular, we looked at where the directors made subjective judgements, for example in respect of significant accounting estimates that involved making assumptions and considering future events that are inherently uncertain. As in all of our audits we also addressed the risk of management override of internal controls, including evaluating whether there was evidence of bias by the directors that represented a risk of material misstatement due to fraud.

The risks of material misstatement that had the greatest effect on our audit, including the allocation of our resources and effort, are identified as "areas of focus" in the table below. We have also set out how we tailored our audit to address these specific areas in order to provide an opinion on the financial statements as a whole, and any comments we make on the results of our procedures should be read in this context. This is not a complete list of all risks identified by our audit.

| Area of focus  | How our audit addressed the area of focus  |
|--|--|
| Impairment assessments for: Goodwill, retail licence intangible assets and property, plant and equipment ('PPE'); Refer to page 46 (Audit Committee Report), note 4 (Summary of significant accounting policies), note 14 (Impairment testing of goodwill and indefinite life intangible assets). IAS 36 'Impairment of Assets' requires that Goodwill and other indefinite lived intangible assets are subject to an impairment review at least annually, or more frequently when there is evidence of a trigger event. IAS 36 also requires a number of specific disclosures in respect of the impairment assessment. A new Strategy was announced during the first half of the year, which included a reassessment of the prospects of the Group, in particular the cash generating units that make up the Retail segments, together with a plan for greater investment in the shorter term. The impairment reviews performed by management did not identify any impairment in respect of goodwill, but did result in an impairment charge of £53.2m in respect of retail licence intangible assets and PPE which was recorded in the first half of the year and reported in the interim results to 30 June 2015. | In respect of each impairment assessment, over goodwill and retail licence intangible assets and PPE, a key component of our work was to consider the budgets and cash flow forecasts prepared by management, as outlined below. This was then supplemented by specific procedures in relation to the goodwill assessments and in relation to retail licence intangible assets and PPE. Procedures on budgets and cash flow forecasts: We obtained the annual impairment assessments performed by management in respect of goodwill and agreed the cash flow forecasts therein to the latest Board approved budgets and plans as at 31 December 2015. We evaluated the assumptions in the forecasts and plans and considered the evidence in support of them, principally in relation to historical trends and actual performance in 2015. This included considering trends in gross win and margins and changes to the cost base (such as Machine Game Duty and marketing costs) and whether the expected growth in Digital were appropriately reflected as relevant. Our work did not highlight any material issues. We also compared the actual results for each cash generating unit for the year ended 31 December 2015 and the latest Board approved budgets and plans to the forecasts prepared with the new Strategy prior to June 2015 and found management's forecasting ability to be reliable for the purposes of the impairment assessments. |
| Goodwill The Group has goodwill of £157.2 million including amounts relating to the business combinations of Playtech (£34.9 million) and Betdaq (£31.5 million) and Gaming Investments Pty Ltd (£19.4 million). Whilst the annual impairment review of goodwill performed by management as at 31 December 2015 supported the carrying values above, we focused on this area as the preparation of these assessments involve a significant degree of judgement and the results are sensitive to changes in the future forecasts of cash flows and other assumptions such as growth and discount rates.   | We also considered the discount rates used in the goodwill and retail licence intangible assets and PPE impairment assessments by comparing them to the cost of capital for the Group. We found these to be consistent and in line with our expectations. In addition to testing the results of the impairment assessments performed by management and whether the amount of any impairment charge identified was appropriate, we also considered the disclosures given in the Annual Report and found that these satisfied the requirements of IAS 36. For the goodwill impairment reviews showing headroom and not giving rise to impairments, we also performed sensitivity analysis on the level of cash flows, the discount and growth used in the impairment assessments and concurred with management's conclusion that a material change in these assumptions would be required to trigger an impairment charge.  |

| Retail licence intangible assets and PPE As noted above, an impairment assessment was performed for the Retail cash generating units in mid 2015 following the announcement of the new Strategy. As a result, management determined that an impairment charge of £53.2 million was required to reduce the value of these assets to their recoverable amount. As at 31 December 2015 the Group has retail licence intangible assets with an indefinite life of £383.4 million following the impairment noted above. We focused on the UK Retail, Northern Ireland and Republic of Ireland cash generating units in particular as these comprise the majority of the Group's Retail licence intangible assets and PPE balances. Our focus was on the sufficiency of the impairment charge of £53.2 million recorded in the interim results for the six months ended 30 June 2015 and whether an additional impairment charge was required at the year end. | We obtained the impairment assessments for retail licence intangible assets and PPE prepared by management at the interim stage and agreed the forecasts to the latest Board approved plans at that time and performed procedures consistent with those described above. We evaluated management's determination of individual cash generating units either at a shop or group of shops level and evaluated the evidence of player activity in support of grouping where relevant. We found the basis for the grouping to be supported. We understood the basis of preparation of shop (or group of shops) forecasts compared to the overall Retail forecasts and found them to be consistent. Having considered the above we found the impairment charge of £53.2m recorded at the interim stage to be appropriate. We also compared the actual results of UK Retail, Northern Ireland and Republic of Ireland for the year ended 2015 and the budgets for 2016 to the previous forecasts and plans under the Strategy announced in mid 2015 and found that they were consistent and that management's forecasts were reliable for the purposes of the impairment assessments and that, accordingly, there was no indication that further impairments were required at 31 December 2015. We also performed sensitivity analysis on the level of cash flows, the discount and growth used in the impairment assessments and we concurred with management's conclusion that a reasonably possible change in these could trigger impairment charges in the future. |
| Compliance with laws and regulations given the developing nature of the digital gaming sector The international legal and licencing framework for digital gaming is territory specific. Regulations are developing and this evolving environment makes compliance an increasingly complex area with territory specific regulations, responsible gambling and anti-money laundering obligations. Given the potential for litigation and licence withdrawal, the risk of non-compliance with digital gaming laws and licence regulations could give rise to material fines, penalties, legal claims or market exclusion.  | We evaluated the controls and risk management processes in operation in respect of compliance with digital licencing regulations responsible gambling and anti-money laundering obligations covering player registration controls, customer deposits and withdrawals. We assessed how the management monitor legal and regulatory developments and their assessment of the potential impact on the business. We also read the Group's reports on litigation matters provided by management. We discussed each of the material cases noted in the reports to determine the Group's assessment of the likelihood and magnitude of any liability that may arise. Our work included testing to assess the completeness of the matters in the Group's litigation reports in order to assess the appropriateness of the provisions recorded by management. We also read, where required, external legal or regulatory advice sought by the Group. Whilst acknowledging that this is a judgemental area, we found that the Group had an appropriate basis of accounting for these matters in the financial statements.  |

| Accounting for the fair value of contingent consideration relating to business combinations made in 2013 (Playtech and Betdaq) The Group is required to fair value the contingent consideration associated with the business combinations of Playtech and Betdaq made in 2013 at each balance sheet date. At 31 December 2015 the total contingent consideration was £32.3 million with a fair value movement of £0.2 million recognised in the income statement for the year. This is determined through a cash flow forecast model. The inputs to these models are subject to judgement regarding the determination of EBITDA forecasts, discount rates and a multiple specific to the Ladbrokes share price.   | We obtained the Playtech and Betdaq contingent consideration models prepared by management. We assessed the appropriateness of the models by testing the integrity, comparing the data in the models to the relevant agreements and testing key inputs to third party sources and publically available information where appropriate. The key inputs we focused on were the forecast results for each business, the probability range associated with future EBITDA forecasts and the discount rate. We compared the forecast results with the latest Board approved budgets and considered the results of the testing performed on the same forecasts for the impairment area of focus above. The nature of the valuation of the contingent consideration results in a number of scenarios where a reasonably probable change in the assumptions may materially impact the fair value. We therefore considered management's proposed disclosures with regard to the impact of changes in assumptions and found them to be reasonable in light of our procedures.         |
| Recognition and disclosure of tax losses and the provision for uncertain tax positions. Refer to page 46 (Audit Committee Report), note 4 (Summary of Significant Accounting Policies) and note 10 (Income tax expense) The Group's total tax credit of £48.3 million for the year reflects the recognition and use of previously unrecognised tax losses. This includes £35.6 million relating to mainly UK adjustments in respect of prior years, a further £18.4 million in respect of tax losses utilised during the year, offset by a number of individually immaterial items. The Group also has unresolved tax positions in the UK, the valuation of which is a judgemental area. There is significant judgement applied in determining the Group's deferred tax assets relating to tax losses, in terms of both recognition and disclosure. | We considered the overall tax figures recorded in the financial statements and the related disclosures in the context of the Group's Board approved tax strategy. With regard to adjustments in respect of prior years we read and understood the Group's correspondence with HMRC and considered the advice received by the Group from its third party advisers to assess the appropriateness of the related amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. We assessed whether there was evidence to determine that additional deferred tax assets should be recognised or disclosed, taking into account forecast profits and the Board's approved tax strategy. We also assessed the key judgements with respect to open positions and settlements and read correspondence with the taxation authorities. We obtained evidence to support the provisions and consider these to reflect management's best estimates. We found that the overall position adopted in the financial statements and the related disclosures in respect of tax was reasonable. |

| Nature and presentation of exceptional itemsRefer to page 46 (Audit Committee Report), note 2 (Basis of Preparation) and note 6 (Exceptional items) The financial statements include certain items which are disclosed as 'exceptional'. The most significant of these exceptional charges are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– Impairment loss of £58.3 million;</li> <li>– Loss on shop closures of £19.8 million; and</li> <li>– Corporate transaction costs of £17.6 million</li> </ul> Total exceptional items amounted to £99.0 million. We focused on this area because exceptional items are not defined by IFRSs and it therefore requires judgement regarding their size and nature by management to identify such items. Consistency in identifying and disclosing items as exceptional is important to maintain comparability of the results year on year.   | We assessed the appropriateness and application of the Group's accounting policy in respect of those items classified as exceptional in nature. We tested the presentation of the exceptional items in the financial statements by assessing whether the classification was in line with the Group's accounting policy on exceptional items set out in note 2 of the financial statements and whether, in our view it was reasonable for these items to be separately disclosed as exceptional. We also tested the nature of costs included to supporting documentation on a sample basis. We found that the Group's accounting policy had been followed, and that the costs disclosed were appropriate for inclusion.  |   |  |                           |                                    |                      |  |
| How we tailored the audit scope We tailored the scope of our audit to ensure that we performed enough work to be able to give an opinion on the financial statements as a whole, taking into account the geographic structure of the Group, the accounting processes and controls, and the industry in which the Group operates. The Group is structured into five reportable segments being UK Retail, European Retail, Digital, Core Telephone Betting and High Rollers. The Consolidated financial statements are a consolidation of reporting units that make up the five reportable segments and Corporate costs. We identified five of the Group's reporting units (UK Retail, UK Digital, Australia and two reporting units included within Corporate costs) that required an audit of their complete financial information, due to their size or risk characteristics. In addition we performed specified audit procedures on revenue and receivables in the High Rollers reportable segment due to risk of fraud in revenue recognition. All work was undertaken by the Group engagement team with the exception of Australia for which a component PwC audit team performed the audit work under the instruction and direction of the Group engagement team. Our audit scope addressed over 80% of the Group's revenue and profit before tax and exceptional items. The Group consolidation and a number of other areas were audited centrally. This included tax, share-based payments and pensions. Materiality The scope of our audit was influenced by our application of materiality. We set certain quantitative thresholds for materiality. These, together with qualitative considerations, helped us to determine the scope of our audit and the nature, timing and extent of our audit procedures on the individual financial statement line items and disclosures and in evaluating the effect of misstatements, both individually and on the financial statements as a whole. | Based on our professional judgement, we determined materiality for the financial statements as a whole as follows: <table border="1" data-bbox="799 1051 1465 1219"> <tr> <td colspan="2">materiality for the financial statements as a whole as follows:</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Overall Group materiality</td> <td>£4.7 million (2014: £5.7 million).</td> </tr> <tr> <td>How we determined it</td> <td>5% of average profit before tax and exceptional items over the previous three years.</td> </tr> </table> Rationale for benchmark applied We applied this benchmark because, in our view, profit before tax and exceptional items is the metric against which the performance of the Group is most commonly measured and because in our view this is the most relevant measure of recurring performance. For the current year, our materiality calculation was based on average profit before tax and exceptional items over the previous three years as the Group's new Strategy includes significant additional marketing spend which impacts profitability in the shorter term. We agreed with the Audit Committee that we would report to them misstatements identified during our audit above £250,000 (2014: £300,000) as well as misstatements below that amount that, in our view, warranted reporting for qualitative reasons. | materiality for the financial statements as a whole as follows: |  | Overall Group materiality | £4.7 million (2014: £5.7 million). | How we determined it | 5% of average profit before tax and exceptional items over the previous three years. |

Under the Listing Rules we are required to review the directors' statement, set out on page 73, in relation to going concern. We have nothing to report having performed our review.

Under ISAs (UK & Ireland) we are required to report to you if we have anything material to add or to draw attention to in relation to the directors' statement about whether they considered it appropriate to adopt the going concern basis in preparing the financial statements. We have nothing material to add or to draw attention to.

As noted in the directors' statement, the directors have concluded that it is appropriate to adopt the going concern basis in preparing the financial statements. The going concern basis presumes that the Group and Company have adequate resources to remain in operation, and that the directors intend them to do so, for at least one year from the date the financial statements were signed. As part of our audit we have concluded that the directors' use of the going concern basis is appropriate. However, because not all future events or conditions can be predicted, these statements are not a guarantee as to the Group's and Company's ability to continue as a going concern.

Under ISAs (UK & Ireland) we are required to report to you if we have anything material to add or to draw attention to in relation to:

|---|--|

|---|--|

Under the Listing Rules we are required to review the directors' statement that they have carried out a robust assessment of the principal risks facing the Group and the directors' statement in relation to the longer-term viability of the Group. Our review was substantially less in scope than an audit and only consisted of making inquiries and considering the directors' process supporting their statements; checking that the statements are in alignment with the relevant provisions of the Code; and considering whether the statements are consistent with the knowledge acquired by us in the course of performing our audit. We have nothing to report having performed our review.

Adequacy of accounting records and information and explanations received

Under the Companies Act 2006 we are required to report to you if, in our opinion:

- we have not received all the information and explanations we require for our audit; or
- adequate accounting records have not been kept by the Company, or returns adequate for our audit have not been received from branches not visited by us; or
- the Company financial statements and the part of the Directors' Remuneration Report to be audited are not in agreement with the accounting records and returns.

We have no exceptions to report arising from this responsibility.

Directors' remuneration

Directors' remuneration report - Companies Act 2006 opinion

In our opinion, the part of the Directors' Remuneration Report to be audited has been properly prepared in accordance with the Companies Act 2006.

Other Companies Act 2006 reporting

Under the Companies Act 2006 we are required to report to you if, in our opinion, certain disclosures of directors' remuneration specified by law are not made. We have no exceptions to report arising from this responsibility.

Corporate governance statement

Under the Listing Rules we are required to review the part of the Corporate Governance Statement relating to ten further provisions of the Code. We have nothing to report having performed our review.

Responsibilities for the financial statements and the audit

Our responsibilities and those of the directors

As explained more fully in the Statement of Directors' Responsibilities set out on page 75, the directors are responsible for the preparation of the financial statements and for being satisfied that they give a true and fair view.

Our responsibility is to audit and express an opinion on the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and ISAs (UK & Ireland). Those standards require us to comply with the Auditing Practices Board's Ethical Standards for Auditors.

This report, including the opinions, has been prepared for and only for the Company's members as a body in accordance with Chapter 3 of Part 16 of the Companies Act 2006 and for no other purpose. We do not, in giving these opinions, accept or assume responsibility for any other purpose or to any other person to whom this report is shown or into whose hands it may come save where expressly agreed by our prior consent in writing.

What an audit of financial statements involves

An audit involves obtaining evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements sufficient to give reasonable assurance that the financial statements are free from material misstatement, whether caused by fraud or error. This includes an assessment of:

- whether the accounting policies are appropriate to the Group's and the Company's circumstances and have been consistently applied and adequately disclosed;
- the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by the directors; and
- the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We primarily focus our work in these areas by assessing the directors' judgements against available evidence, forming our own judgements, and evaluating the disclosures in the financial statements.

We test and examine information, using sampling and other auditing techniques, to the extent we consider necessary to provide a reasonable basis for us to draw conclusions.

We obtain audit evidence through testing the effectiveness of controls, substantive procedures or a combination of both.

In addition, we read all the financial and non-financial information in the Annual Report to identify material inconsistencies with the audited financial statements and to identify any information that is apparently materially incorrect based on, or materially inconsistent with, the knowledge acquired by us in the course of performing the audit. If we become aware of any apparent material misstatements or inconsistencies we consider the implications for our report.

Notes to the consolidated financial statements

1 Corporate information

Ladbrokes plc (the Company) is a public limited company incorporated and domiciled in the United Kingdom whose shares are publicly traded on the London Stock Exchange. The address of its registered office and principal place of business is disclosed in the corporate information section of the Annual Report.

The consolidated financial statements of the Company and its subsidiaries (together, 'the Group') for the year ended 31 December 2015 were authorised for issue in accordance with a resolution of the directors on 22 February 2016.

The nature of the Group's operations and its principal activities are set out in note 5.

2 Basis of preparation

The consolidated financial statements of the Group have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRSs) and IFRS Interpretations Committee (IFRS IC) pronouncements as adopted for use in the European Union and the Companies Act 2006 applicable to companies reporting under IFRSs. The accounting policies set out in this section as detailed have been applied consistently year on year.

The Group financial statements are prepared under the historical cost convention unless otherwise stated. The statements are also prepared on a going concern basis.

The consolidated financial statements are presented in Pounds Sterling (£), which is the Group's functional and presentational currency. All values are in millions (£m) rounded to one decimal place except where otherwise indicated.

To assist in understanding its underlying performance, the Group has defined the following items of pre-tax income and expense as exceptional in nature:

- profits or losses on disposal, closure or impairment of non-current assets or businesses;
- unrealised gains and losses on derivative financial instruments;
- corporate transaction costs;
- changes in the fair value of contingent consideration; and
- the related tax effect of these items.

Any other non-recurring items are considered individually for classification as exceptional by virtue of their nature and size.

The separate disclosure of these items allows a clearer understanding of the trading performance on a consistent and comparable basis, together with an understanding of the effect of non-recurring or large individual transactions upon the overall profitability of the Group.

The exceptional items have been included within the appropriate classifications in the consolidated income statement. Further details are given in note 6.

3 Changes in accounting policies

From 1 January 2015 the Group has applied, for the first time, certain standards, interpretations and amendments. These include Annual Improvements to IFRSs – 2010-2012 Cycle and 2011-2013 Cycle and Defined Benefit Plans: Employee Contribution – Amendments to IAS 19.

The adoption of these amendments did not have any impact on the current period or any prior period and is not likely to affect future periods.

4 Summary of significant accounting policies

Basis of consolidation

The consolidated financial statements comprise the financial statements of the Group at 31 December each year. The underlying financial statements of subsidiaries are prepared for the same reporting year as the Company, using consistent accounting policies. Control is achieved where the Company is exposed, or has rights, to variable returns from its involvement with the investee and has the ability to affect these returns through its power over the investee.

All intercompany transactions, balances, income and expenses are eliminated on consolidation.

Subsidiaries are consolidated, using the acquisition method of accounting, from the date on which control is transferred to the Group and cease to be consolidated from the date on which control is transferred from the Group.

On acquisition, the assets and liabilities and contingent liabilities of a subsidiary are measured at fair value at the date of acquisition. Any excess of the cost of acquisition over the fair values of the separately identifiable net assets acquired is recognised as goodwill. Where necessary, adjustments are made to the financial statements of subsidiaries to bring the accounting policies used in line with those used by the Group.

Critical accounting estimates and judgements

The preparation of financial information requires the use of assumptions, estimates and judgements about future conditions. Use of available information and application of judgement are inherent in the formation of estimates. Actual results in the future may differ from those reported. In this regard, management believes that the accounting policies where judgement is necessarily applied are those that relate to: the measurement and impairment of goodwill and indefinite life intangible assets; the measurement and accounting for business combinations; the measurement of pension and other post-employment benefit obligations; the determination of the initial fair value of betting and gaming transactions; the recoverable amount of trade receivables; income tax and the valuation of financial guarantee contracts. The estimates and underlying assumptions are reviewed on an ongoing basis. Revisions to accounting estimates are recognised in the period in which the estimate is revised.

4 Summary of significant accounting policies continued

Further information about key assumptions concerning the future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty are set out below.

Goodwill and indefinite life intangible assets

The Group has determined that betting shop licences have indefinite lives (see note 13 for further details).

The Group determines whether goodwill and indefinite life intangible assets are impaired at least on an annual basis. This requires an estimation of the 'value in use' of the cash generating units to which the goodwill and intangible assets are allocated. Estimating a value in use amount requires management to make an estimate of the expected future cash flows from each cash generating unit and also to choose a suitable discount rate in order to calculate the present value of those cash flows. Further details are given in notes 13 and 14.

Business combinations

The Group applies judgement in determining whether a transaction is a business combination, which includes consideration as to whether the Group has acquired a business or a group of assets.

For business combinations, the Group estimates the fair value of the consideration transferred, which includes assumptions about the future business performance of the business acquired and an appropriate discount rate to determine the fair value of any contingent consideration. Judgement is also applied in determining whether any future payments should be classified as contingent consideration or as remuneration for future services.

The Group then estimates the fair value of assets acquired and liabilities assumed in the business combination, including any separately identifiable intangible assets. These estimates also require inputs and assumptions including future earnings, customer attrition rates and discount rates. The Group engages external experts to support the valuation process, where appropriate.

The fair value of contingent consideration recognised in business combinations is reassessed at each reporting date, using updated inputs and assumptions based on the latest financial forecasts for the relevant business. Judgement is applied as to whether changes should be applied at the acquisition date or as post-acquisition changes. Further details of these judgements are given in note 33. Fair value movements and the unwinding of the discounting is recognised within operating expenses.

Pension and other post-employment benefit obligations

The cost of defined benefit pension plans and other post-employment benefits is determined using actuarial valuations. The actuarial valuation involves making assumptions about discount rates, expected rates of return on assets, future salary increases, mortality rates and future pension increases. Due to the long-term nature of these plans, such estimates are subject to significant uncertainty. Further details are given in note 30.

Betting and gaming transactions

Betting and gaming transactions are measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable from customers.

This is normally the nominal amount of the consideration but on certain occasions, the fair value is estimated using valuation techniques, taking into account the credit profile of customers in determining the collectability of the consideration. In addition, where there are indicators that any trade receivable is impaired at the balance sheet date, management makes an estimate of the asset's recoverable amount. Further details are given in note 18.

Income tax

The Group is subject to tax in a number of jurisdictions.

Significant judgement is required in determining the provision for income taxes due to uncertainty of the amount of income tax that may be payable, and in respect of determining the level of the future taxable profits of the Group that support the recognition and recoverability of deferred tax assets. Further details are given in note 10.

Provisions in relation to uncertain tax positions are established on an individual rather than portfolio basis, considering whether, in each circumstance, the Group considers it more likely than not that the uncertainty will crystallise.

Financial guarantee contracts

The valuation of financial guarantee contracts and related indemnities requires use of assumptions of the risks of default of the guaranteed entities and the credit profiles of the counterparties. Further details are given in note 25.

Investments in joint ventures

A joint venture is an entity in which the Group holds an interest on a long-term basis and which is jointly controlled by the Group and one or more other venturers under a contractual agreement.

Management has assessed whether it has joint control of the arrangement. Joint control exists only when decisions about the relevant activities require the unanimous consent of the parties that collectively control the arrangement. In assessing this joint control no significant judgements have been necessary.

The Group's share of results of joint ventures is included in the Group consolidated income statement using the equity method of accounting. Investments in joint ventures are carried in the Group consolidated balance sheet at cost plus post-acquisition changes in the Group's share of net assets of the entity less any impairment in value. The carrying value of investments in joint ventures includes acquired goodwill.

If the Group's share of losses in the joint venture equals or exceeds its investment in the joint venture, the Group does not recognise further losses, unless it has incurred obligations to do so or made payments on behalf of the joint venture. Further details are given in note 16.

Investments in associates

Associates are those businesses in which the Group has a long-term interest and is able to exercise significant influence over the financial and operational policies but does not have control or joint control over those policies.

The Group's share of results of associates is included in the Group's consolidated income statement using the equity method of accounting. Investments in associates are carried in the Group's consolidated balance sheet at cost plus post-acquisition changes in the Group's share of net assets of the entity less any impairment in value. The carrying value of investments in associates includes acquired goodwill. Further details are given in note 17.

Goodwill

Goodwill on acquisition is initially measured at cost, being the excess of the cost of the business combination over the Group's interest in the net fair value of the separately identifiable assets, liabilities and contingent liabilities of a subsidiary or associate at the date of acquisition. In accordance with IFRS 3 Business Combinations, goodwill is not amortised but reviewed annually for impairment and as such, is stated at cost less any provision for impairment of value. Any impairment is recognised immediately in the consolidated income statement and is not subsequently reversed. On acquisition, any goodwill acquired is allocated to cash generating units for the purpose of impairment testing. Where goodwill forms part of a cash generating unit and part of the operation within that unit is disposed of, the goodwill associated with the operation disposed of is included in the carrying amount of the operation when determining the gain or loss on disposal of the operation.

Intangible assets

Intangible assets acquired separately are capitalised at cost and those acquired as part of a business combination are capitalised separately from goodwill if the fair value can be measured reliably on initial recognition. The costs relating to internally generated intangible assets, principally software costs, are capitalised if the criteria for recognition as assets are met. Other expenditure is charged in the year in which the expenditure is incurred. Following initial recognition, intangible assets are carried at cost less any accumulated amortisation and any accumulated impairment losses.

The useful lives of these intangible assets are assessed to be either finite or indefinite. Where amortisation is charged on assets with finite lives, this expense is taken to the consolidated income statement through the 'depreciation, amortisation and amounts written off non-current assets' line item. Useful lives are reviewed on an annual basis.

Intangible assets with indefinite useful lives are tested for impairment annually at the cash generating unit level.

A summary of the policies applied to the Group's intangible assets is as follows:

|   | Licences   | Software   | Customer relationships                  | Brand                                   | Domain names                            |
|---|--|--|---|---|---|
| Useful lives                                  | indefinite   | finite   | finite                                  | finite                                  | finite                                  |
| Method used                                   | not depreciated or revalued                          | 2-5 years straight line                          | 1-15.5 years straight line              | 3-10 years straight line                | 10 years straight line                  |
| Internally generated or acquired              | acquired   | acquired and internally generated                | acquired                                | acquired                                | acquired                                |
| Impairment testing/recoverable amount testing | annually and where an indicator of impairment exists | useful lives reviewed at each financial year end | where an indicator of impairment exists | where an indicator of impairment exists | where an indicator of impairment exists |

An intangible asset is derecognised on disposal, with any gain or loss arising (calculated as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the item) included in the consolidated income statement in the year of disposal.

Property, plant and equipment

Land is stated at cost less any impairment in value. Buildings, plant and equipment are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation and any impairment in value. Depreciation is calculated using the straight line method to allocate the cost of each asset to its residual value over its useful economic life as follows: Buildings – 50 years or estimated useful life of the building, or lease, whichever is less, to estimated residual value. Fixtures, fittings and equipment – four to 10 years as considered appropriate to write down cost to estimated residual value.

The carrying values of plant and equipment are reviewed for impairment annually as to whether there are events or changes in circumstances indicating that the carrying values may not be recoverable. If any such indication exists and where the carrying values exceed the estimated recoverable amount, the assets or cash generating units are written down to their recoverable amount.

The recoverable amount of plant and equipment is the greater of fair value less costs to sell and value in use. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the asset. For an asset that does not generate largely independent cash inflows, the recoverable amount is determined for the cash generating unit to which the asset belongs.

Impairment losses are recognised in the consolidated income statement in the 'depreciation and amounts written off non-current assets' line item.

An item of property, plant and equipment is derecognised upon disposal, with any gain or loss arising (calculated as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the item) included in the consolidated income statement in the year of disposal.

Leases

Leases that transfer to the Group substantially all the risks and rewards associated with ownership of the leased item are capitalised at the inception of the lease at the fair value of the leased item or, if lower, at the present value of the minimum lease payments. Lease payments are apportioned between the finance charges and reduction of the lease liability so as to achieve a constant rate of interest on the remaining balance of the liability. Finance charges are charged directly against income.

Capitalised leased assets are depreciated over the shorter of the estimated useful life of the asset and the lease term.

Leases where the lessor retains substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership of the asset are classified as operating leases. Operating lease payments, other than contingent rentals, are recognised as an expense in the consolidated income statement on a straight line basis over the lease term.

Recoverable amount of non-current assets

At each reporting date, the Group assesses whether there is any indication that an asset may be impaired. Where an indicator of impairment exists, the Group makes a formal estimate of the recoverable amount. Where the carrying amount of an asset exceeds its recoverable amount, the asset is considered impaired and is written down to its recoverable amount.

The recoverable amount is the higher of an asset's or cash generating unit's fair value less costs to sell and its value in use and is determined for an individual asset, unless the asset does not generate cash inflows that are largely independent of those from other assets or groups of assets.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents consist of cash at bank and in hand, short-term deposits with an original maturity of less than three months and customer balances, net of outstanding bank overdrafts.

Financial assets

Financial assets are recognised when the Group becomes party to the contracts that give rise to them.

The Group classifies financial assets at inception as loans and receivables, financial assets at fair value through profit or loss or available-for-sale financial assets.

Loans and receivables are non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments that are not quoted in an active market. On initial recognition, loans and receivables are measured at fair value net of transaction costs. Subsequently, the fair values are measured at amortised cost, using the effective interest method, less any allowance for impairment.

Trade receivables are generally accounted for at amortised cost. The Group reviews indicators of impairment on an ongoing basis and where such indicators exist, the Group makes an estimate of the asset's recoverable amount.

Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss comprise derivative financial instruments. Financial assets through profit or loss are measured initially at fair value with transaction costs taken directly to the consolidated income statement.

Subsequently, the fair values are remeasured, and gains and losses are recognised in the consolidated income statement.

Available for sale financial assets comprise equity investments that are neither classified as held for trading nor designated at fair value through profit or loss. Available for sale financial assets are measured initially at fair value. Subsequently, the fair values are remeasured, and gains and losses are recognised in the consolidated statement of comprehensive income.

Financial liabilities

Financial liabilities comprise trade and other payables, interest bearing loans and borrowings, contingent consideration, ante-post bets, guarantees and derivative financial instruments. On initial recognition, financial liabilities are measured at fair value plus transaction costs where they are not categorised as financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss. Financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss include contingent consideration, derivative financial instruments, ante-post bets and guarantees.

Trade and other payables are held at amortised cost and include amounts due to clients representing customer deposits and winnings, which is offset by an equal and opposite amount within cash and cash equivalents.

Financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss are measured initially at fair value, with transaction costs taken directly to the consolidated income statement. Subsequently, the fair values are remeasured and gains and losses from changes therein are recognised in the consolidated income statement.

All interest bearing loans and borrowings are initially recognised at fair value net of issue costs associated with the borrowing. After initial recognition, interest bearing loans and borrowings are subsequently measured at amortised cost using the effective interest rate method.

The Group has provided financial guarantees to third parties in respect of lease obligations of certain of the Group's former subsidiaries within the disposed hotels division. Financial guarantee contracts are classified as financial liabilities and are measured at fair value by estimating the probability of the guarantees being called upon and the related cash outflows from the Group.

Derecognition of financial assets and liabilities

Financial assets are derecognised when the right to receive cash flows from the assets has expired or when the Group has transferred its contractual right to receive the cash flows from the financial assets or has assumed an obligation to pay the received cash flows in full without material delay to a third party, and either:

- substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred; or
- substantially all the risks and rewards have neither been retained nor transferred but control is not retained.

Financial liabilities are derecognised when the obligation is discharged, cancelled or expires.

Derivative financial instruments

The Group uses derivative financial instruments such as cross currency swaps, foreign exchange swaps and interest rate swaps, to hedge its risks associated with interest rate and foreign currency fluctuations. Derivative financial instruments are recognised initially and subsequently at fair value. The gains or losses on remeasurement are taken to the consolidated income statement.

Derivative financial instruments are classified as assets where their fair value is positive, or as liabilities where their fair value is negative. Derivative assets and liabilities arising from different transactions are only offset if the transactions are with the same counterparty, a legal right of offset exists and the parties intend to settle the cash flows on a net basis.

Provisions

Provisions are recognised when the Group has a present obligation (legal or constructive) as a result of a past event, it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation and a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation.

Provisions are measured at the directors' best estimate of the expenditure required to settle the obligation at the balance sheet date and are discounted to present value where the effect is material using a pre-tax rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the liability. The unwinding of the discount is recognised as a finance expense.

Foreign currency translation

The presentation and functional currency of Ladbrokes plc and the functional currencies of its UK subsidiaries are Pounds Sterling (£).

Transactions in foreign currencies are initially recorded in Pounds Sterling at the foreign currency rate ruling at the date of the transaction. Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are retranslated at the foreign currency rate of exchange ruling at the balance sheet date.

All foreign currency translation differences are taken to the consolidated income statement. Non-monetary items that are measured at historical cost in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rate at the date of the initial transaction. Non-monetary items measured at fair value in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rate at the date when the fair value was determined.

The main functional currencies of overseas subsidiaries is the Euro (€) and the Australian Dollar ($). At the reporting date, the assets and liabilities of these overseas subsidiaries are translated into Pounds Sterling (£) at the rate of exchange ruling at the balance sheet date and their income statements are translated at the average exchange rates for the year. The post-tax exchange differences arising on the retranslation are taken directly to a separate component of equity. On disposal of a foreign entity, the deferred cumulative amount recognised in equity relating to that particular foreign entity is recognised in the consolidated income statement.

The following exchange rates were used in 2014 and 2015:

| Currency               | 2015    |          | 2014    |          |
|------------------------|---------|----------|---------|----------|
|                        | Average | Year end | Average | Year end |
| Euro (€)               | 1.37    | 1.36     | 1.25    | 1.28     |
| Australian Dollar ($) | 2.03    | 2.03     | 1.83    | 1.90     |

Income tax

Deferred tax is provided, using the liability method, on all temporary differences at the balance sheet date, between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their carrying amounts for financial reporting purposes.

Deferred tax liabilities are recognised for all taxable temporary differences:

- except where the deferred tax liability arises from the initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction that is not a business combination and, at the time of the transaction, affects neither the accounting profit nor the tax profit; and
- associated with investments in subsidiaries and associates, except where the timing of the reversal of the temporary differences can be controlled and it is probable that the temporary differences will not reverse in the foreseeable future.

Deferred tax assets are recognised for all deductible temporary differences and carry forward of unused tax assets and unused tax losses, to the extent that it is probable that taxable profit will be available against which the deductible temporary differences and carry forward of unused tax assets and unused tax losses can be utilised:

- except where the deferred tax asset relating to the deductible temporary difference arises from the initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction that is not a business combination and, at the time of the transaction, affects neither the accounting profit nor the tax profit; and
- in respect of deductible temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries and associates, deferred tax assets are only recognised to the extent that it is probable that the deductible temporary differences will reverse in the foreseeable future and taxable profit will be available against which the temporary differences can be utilised.

The carrying amount of deferred tax assets is reviewed at each balance sheet date and reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that sufficient taxable profit will be available to allow all or part of the deferred tax asset to be utilised.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rates that are expected to apply to the year when the asset is realised or the liability is settled, based on tax rates (and tax laws) that have been enacted or substantively enacted at the balance sheet date.

Deferred tax balances are not discounted.

Interest or penalties payable and receivable in relation to income tax are recognised as an income tax expense or credit in the consolidated income statement. The impact of the change in the current year is described in note 10.

Income tax relating to items recognised directly in equity is recognised in equity and not in the consolidated income statement.

4 Summary of significant accounting policies continued

Revenues, expenses and assets are recognised net of the amount of sales tax except:

- where the sales tax incurred on a purchase of goods and services is not recoverable from the taxation authority, in which case the sales tax is recognised as part of the cost of acquisition of the asset or as
- part of the expense item as applicable; and
- receivables and payables are stated with the amount of sales tax included.

The net amount of sales tax recoverable from, or payable to, the taxation authority is included as part of receivables or payables in the consolidated balance sheet.

Pensions and other post-employment benefits

The Group's defined benefit pension plan, the Ladbrokes Pension Plan holds assets separately from the Group. The pension cost relating to this plan is assessed in accordance with the advice of independent qualified actuaries using the projected unit credit method.

Actuarial gains or losses are recognised in the consolidated statement of comprehensive income in the period in which they arise.

Any past service cost is recognised immediately to the extent that the benefits have already vested and otherwise is amortised on a straight line basis over the average period until the benefits vest. The retirement benefit asset recognised in the balance sheet represents the fair value of scheme assets less the value of the defined benefit obligations as adjusted for unrecognised past service cost.

The Group's contributions to defined contribution schemes are charged to the consolidated income statement in the period to which the contributions relate.

In accounting for the Group's defined benefit pension plan, it is necessary for management to make a number of estimates and assumptions each year. These include the discount rates, future changes to salaries, employee turnover, inflation rates and life expectancy. In making these estimates and assumptions, management considers advice provided by external advisers, such as actuaries. Where actual experience differs to these estimates, actuarial gains and losses are recognised directly in equity. Refer to note 30 for details of the values of assets and obligations and key assumptions used.

Although the Group anticipates that plan surpluses will be utilised during the life of the plan to address member benefits, the Group recognises its pension surplus in full on the basis that it does not consider there to be substantive restrictions on the return of residual plan assets in the event of a winding up of the plan after all member obligations have been met. The related tax is accounted on an income basis.

Equity instruments

Equity instruments issued by the Company are recorded at the proceeds received net of direct issue costs.

Treasury shares

Own equity instruments that are reacquired (treasury shares) are deducted from equity. No gain or loss is recognised in profit or loss on the purchase, sale, issue or cancellation of the Group's own equity instruments.

ESOP trusts

Where the Group holds its own equity shares through ESOP trusts these shares are shown as a reduction in equity.

Any consideration paid or received for the purchase or sale of these shares is shown in the reconciliation of movements in shareholders' funds and no gain or loss is recognised within the consolidated income statement or the statement of comprehensive income on the purchase, sale, issue or cancellation of these shares.

Dividends

Final dividends proposed by the Board of Directors and unpaid at the year end are not recognised in the financial statements until they have been approved by shareholders at the Annual General Meeting. Interim dividends are recognised when paid.

Revenue

The Group reports the gains and losses on all betting and gaming activities as revenue, which is measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable from customers less free bets, promotions, bonuses and other fair value adjustments. Gross win includes free bets, promotions and bonuses.

For licensed betting offices, on course betting, Core Telephone Betting, mobile betting, High Rollers, Digital businesses (including sportsbook, betting exchange, casino, games, other number bets), revenue represents gains and losses, being the amounts staked and fees received, less total payouts. Open betting positions are carried at fair value and gains and losses arising on these positions are recognised in revenue.

Revenue from the online poker business reflects the net income (rake) earned from poker games completed by the year end.

In the case of the greyhound stadia, revenue represents income arising from the operation of the greyhound stadia in the year, including sales of refreshments, net of VAT.

Finance expense and income

Finance expense and income arising on interest bearing financial instruments carried at amortised cost are recognised in the consolidated income statement using the effective interest rate method. Finance expense includes the amortisation of fees that are an integral part of the effective finance cost of a financial instrument, including issue costs, and the amortisation of any other differences between the amount initially recognised and the redemption price. All finance expenses are recognised over the availability period.

Net gains and losses in respect of mark to market adjustments on financial instruments carried at fair value, foreign exchange adjustments and net gains and losses on financial guarantees are included in exceptional items in the consolidated income statement.

Share-based payment transactions

Certain employees (including directors) of the Group receive remuneration in the form of equity settled share-based payment transactions, whereby employees render services in exchange for shares or rights over shares (equity settled transactions).

The cost of equity settled transactions is measured by reference to the fair value at the date on which they are granted. Further details of which are given in note 31. In valuing equity settled transactions, no account is taken of any performance conditions, other than conditions linked to the price of the shares of Ladbrokes plc (market conditions).

The cost of equity settled transactions is recognised in the consolidated income statement with a corresponding credit in equity, over the period in which the performance conditions are fulfilled, ending on the date on which the relevant employees become fully entitled to the award (vesting date). The cumulative expense recognised for equity settled transactions at each reporting date until the vesting date reflects the extent to which the vesting period has expired and the number of awards that, in the opinion of the directors of the Group at that date, based on the best available estimate of the number of equity instruments, will ultimately vest.

No expense is recognised for awards that do not ultimately vest, except for awards where vesting is conditional upon a market condition, which are treated as vesting irrespective of whether or not the market condition is satisfied, provided that all other performance conditions are satisfied.

The dilutive effect of outstanding options is reflected as additional share dilution in the computation of earnings per share as shown in note 12.

The Group has an employee share incentive plan and an employee share trust for the granting of non-transferable options to executives and senior employees.

Shares in the Group held by the employee share trust are treated as treasury shares and presented in the balance sheet as a deduction from equity. Refer to consolidated statement of changes in equity.

Future accounting developments

The standards and interpretations that are issued, but not yet effective, up to the date of issuance of the Group's financial statements are disclosed below. The Group intends to adopt these standards, if applicable, when they become effective. None of these is expected to have a significant effect on the consolidated financial statements of the Group, except the following set out below:

IFRS 9, 'Financial instruments', addresses the classification, measurement and recognition of financial assets and liabilities was issued in July 2015. IFRS 9 retains and establishes three primary measurement categories for financial assets: amortised cost, fair value through OCI and fair value through P&L. The basis of the classification depends on the business model and the contractual cash flow characteristics of the financial asset. Investments in equity instruments are required to be measured at fair value through profit or loss with the irrevocable option at inception to present changes in fair value in OCI not recycling. There is now a new expected credit losses model that replaces the incurred loss impairment model used in IAS 39. For financial liabilities there were no changes to classification and measurement except for the recognition of changes in own credit risk in other comprehensive income, for liabilities designated at fair value through profit or loss. The standard is effective for accounting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2018. Early adoption is permitted. The Group is yet to assess IFRS 9's full impact.

IFRS 15, 'Revenue from contracts with customers' deals with revenue recognition and establishes principles for reporting useful information to users of financial statements about the nature, amount, timing and uncertainty of revenue and cash flows arising from an entity's contracts with customers. IFRS 15 will only impact revenue that is not governed by IAS 39. Revenue is recognised when a customer obtains control of a good or service and thus has the ability to direct the use and obtain the benefits from the good or service. The standard replaces IAS 18 'Revenue' and IAS 11 'Construction contracts' and related interpretations. The standard is effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2017 and earlier adoption is permitted. The Group is assessing the impact of IFRS 15.

IFRS 16, 'Leases' sets out the principles for the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosure of leases. The objective is to ensure that lessees and lessors provide relevant information in a manner that faithfully represents those transactions. IFRS 16 now requires lessees to recognise a lease liability reflecting future lease payments and a 'right-of-use asset' for virtually all lease contracts. This information gives a basis for users of financial statements to assess the effect that leases have on the financial position, financial performance and cash flows of the entity. The standard replaces IAS 17 'Leases' and related interpretations. The standard is effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2019 and earlier adoption is permitted for entities that apply IFRS 15 at or before the date of initial application of IFRS 16. The Group is assessing the impact of IFRS 16.

IFRS 9, 15 and 16 are yet to be EU endorsed.

There are no other IFRSs or IFRS IC interpretations that are not yet effective that would be expected to have a material impact on the Group.

5 Segment information

The Group's operating segments are based on the reports reviewed by the Board of Directors (who are collectively considered to be the Chief Operating Decision Maker) to make strategic decisions, and allocate resources.

The performance of the Group's segments is assessed and measured according to the nature of the services provided. IFRS 8 requires segment information to be presented on the same basis as that used by the Board for assessing performance and allocating resources, and the Group's operating segments are aggregated into the five reportable segments detailed below:

- UK Retail: comprises betting activities in the shop estate in Great Britain.
- European Retail: comprises all activities connected with the Ireland (Northern and Republic of), Belgium and Spain (JV) shop estates.
- Digital: comprises betting and gaming activities from online and mobile operations which includes Ladbrokes.com, Ladbrokes Australia, Betdaq, Belgium online and Spain (JV) online.
- Core Telephone Betting: comprises activities relating to bets taken on the telephone, excluding High Rollers.
- High Rollers: comprises activities primarily relating to bets taken on the telephone from High Rollers.

The Board continues to assess the performance of operating segments based on a measure of net revenue, profit before tax and net finance expenses. This measurement basis excludes the effect of exceptional items (income or expenditure) from the operating segments.

Transfer prices between operating segments are on an arm's-length basis in a manner similar to transactions with third parties.

(1) Impairment loss of £58.3 million comprises a £51.8 million impairment of shop licences, impairment of £1.4 million of shop assets and a £5.1 million asset impairment of which £4.9 million relates to software. The total £53.2 million shop impairment has arisen as a result of the annual licence impairment review and includes a £13.5 million charge in UK Retail and a £39.7 million charge in European Retail (Ireland). The £5.1 million asset impairment relates to assets no longer in use.

(2) The £19.8 million loss on closure includes a £13.4 million loss on closure of UK Retail shops and a £6.4 million loss on closure of European Retail shops. These include a loss on disposal of intangible assets of £7.8 million, a loss on disposal of property, plant and equipment of £5.3 million and cost accruals of £6.7 million.

(3) The Group incurred corporate transaction costs of £17.6 million in relation to the proposed merger with the Coral Group.

(4) The fair value of the contingent consideration in respect of the business combinations with Playtech and Betdaq has been remeasured at 31 December 2015. This resulted in an overall charge to the income statement of £0.2 million.

(5) At 31 December 2014 a provision was made for a liability arising from European indirect tax changes. A subsequent settlement has been agreed which has resulted in an exceptional credit of £3.5 million.

(6) Legal and redundancy costs of £3.8m in relation to the Examinership in Republic of Ireland.

(7) Early settlement of a contractual agreement with an affiliate in Australia.

Operating expenses include corporate transaction costs, the fair value adjustment to contingent consideration, the provision for gaming European indirect tax liability, Examinership costs, the early termination of contract and £6.7 million of costs relating to the shop closures.

In addition to the defined exceptional items set out in note 2 the Group considered the credits arising on the reversal of the provision for European indirect tax liability, Examinership costs and early termination of contract to be of sufficient materiality to be separately identified and of a nature unrelated to the underlying trading performance of the Group in the year.

The cash flow effect of the exceptional items was an outflow of £25.1 million in the year.

In addition to salary, employees may qualify for various benefit schemes operated by the Group. Eligibility for benefits is normally determined primarily according to an employee's length of service and level of responsibility. The amounts of some benefits are proportionate to individual salary.

Benefits may include paid leave for holidays, maternity and illness, as well as insured benefits. The latter can cover private healthcare for the employee and their immediate family, long-term disability, personal accident and death in service cover. Company cars, including fuel benefits, are provided predominantly to meet job requirements but also to certain executives.

The principal benefit schemes are:

(i) Pensions

Ladbrokes Pension Scheme (LPS)

Under the auto-enrolment legislation, employees meeting the statutory eligibility requirements are automatically enrolled in the LPS, a defined contribution scheme. The contributions paid by the Group and employees meet those statutorily required.

Subject to meeting certain eligibility and employment grade criteria, employees can choose for the Group to match their contributions up to specified limits. For the majority of employees the maximum match is 6% of base salary. The maximum match is higher for some employees, depending upon grade and pensionable service.

Ladbrokes Pension Plan (LPP)

This was closed to new employees on 1 August 2007 and closed to benefit built up from 31 August 2015, at which date all active members were offered membership of the LPS. Members contributed on average six per cent of pensionable salary per annum (executives contributed on average seven per cent of pensionable salary per annum). Calculated to 31 August 2015, members and Executive Section members received deferred pension benefits (including contingent death benefits) under the LPP based on their service, accrual rates and Final Pensionable Salary linked to their pension histories. Benefit generally accrued to provide a target pension of half (for joiners before June 2002: two thirds) of final pensionable salary for an employee attaining age 65 with at least 40 years' membership. A spouse's pension is payable following death. See note 30 for further details.

LPP – Executive Section

Members contribute on average seven per cent of pensionable salary per annum. Benefit accrued to provide a target pension from all sources of two thirds of final pensionable salary for an executive attaining age 65 with at least 26.7 years' membership (for joiners before June 2002, employees attaining age 60 with at least 20 years' service). A spouse's and children's pensions are payable following death.

LPP incorporated an Earnings Cap on Pensionable Salary. Executive directors and senior executives, for whom this applies, had a choice between:

- (i) membership of the Executive Section of the LPP plus a cash supplement of up to 22.5 per cent of base salary in excess of the Earnings Cap; or
- (ii) a cash supplement of up to 22.5 per cent of base salary in lieu of membership of the LPP.

(ii) Share-based payments

Details of employee share schemes operated by the Group are shown in the Directors' remuneration report on pages 51 to 71 that forms part of the Annual Report 2015.

Details of options granted in 2015 and outstanding at 31 December 2015 are shown in note 31. Details of directors' remuneration can be found in the Directors' remuneration report on page 63.

(1) The 2015 prior year adjustment arises from a decision to recognise the offset of historic losses. This, together with the recognition of current year losses and other movements has resulted in a c£40 million tax receivable. The greater part of this will be received in 2016.

(1) The movement in the deferred tax liabilities in relation to the fair value adjustments on acquisitions and the retirement benefit asset include a £0.2 million movement in relation to foreign exchange and a £0.6 million movement charged directly to other comprehensive income, respectively.

As at 31 December 2015, the Group had £33.6 million (2014: £76.5 million) of unrecognised deferred tax assets, relating to losses, the utilisation of which is not likely at the current time. This is because the losses are within loss making holding companies which are not anticipated to make future profits. There are no significant taxable temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries.

The standard rate of UK Corporation Tax was reduced from 23% to 21% from 1 April 2014. This was further reduced to 20% from 1 April 2015. Accordingly, the Company's profits for this accounting period are taxed at an effective rate of 20.25%. It was also announced that the standard rate of UK Corporation Tax will be reduced from 20% to 19% from 1 April 2017, with a further reduction to 18% from 1 April 2020.

Goodwill relates to the consideration exceeding the fair value of net assets of business combinations including the deferred tax liability arising on statutory licence acquisitions.

Licences comprises the cost of acquired betting shop licences. The acquired betting shop licences are not amortised as they are considered to have an indefinite life for a combination of reasons:

- Ladbrokes is a leading operator in well-established markets;
- there is a proven, sustained demand for bookmaking services;
- existing law acts to restrict entry; and
- Ladbrokes has a very strong track record of renewing its betting permits and licences at minimal cost.

Software relates to the cost of software acquisition and the capitalised costs in respect of internally generated software together with software acquired as part of business combinations.

The customer relationships intangible assets relate to the Group's acquisition of its former partner in the Nordic region, acquisitions in the prior years of Betdaq and Gaming Investments Pty and Betstar Pty.

Brand and domain names intangible assets relate to the Group's acquisitions prior years of Betdaq, Gaming Investments Pty Ltd and Betstar Pty.

Refer to notes 6 and 14 for details of the impairment charge.

14 Impairment testing of goodwill and indefinite life intangible assets

Goodwill and indefinite life intangible assets are tested annually for impairment at each reporting date by comparing the carrying amounts of these assets with their recoverable amounts (being the higher of fair value less costs to sell and value in use).

Goodwill

Goodwill is tested for impairment by allocating its carrying amount to groups of cash generating units (CGUs) expected to benefit from the synergies of the combination. If the recoverable amount of a group of CGUs exceeds its carrying amount, the group of CGUs and any goodwill allocated to that group of CGUs would be regarded as not impaired. The carrying amounts of goodwill by segment are as follows:

|                 | 2015£m   | 2014£m   |
|-----------------|--------------|--------------|
| Goodwill        |              |              |
| UK Retail       | 35.4         | 35.4         |
| European Retail | 11.6         | 12.7         |
| Digital         | 110.2        | 111.1        |
|                 | 157.2 | 159.2 |

No impairments were identified in both years.

Licences

Licences have been allocated to the individual UK and European Retail CGUs that are expected to benefit from the assets. Each CGU represents the lowest level within the Group at which the licences are monitored for internal management purposes which in the majority of instances is an individual shop. Where the cash flows of one or more shops are not entirely independent, these are grouped to form a CGU. The carrying value of licences at 31 December 2015 was £383.4 million (2014: £447.1 million) allocated as £264.4 million to UK Retail (2014: £284.5 million) and £119.0 million to European Retail (2014: £162.6 million).

Basis on which recoverable amount has been determined

The recoverable amounts of the CGUs are determined from value in use calculations. These are based on budgets approved by the Board for the next four years extrapolated thereafter using a 2% growth rate (2014: 1%) for UK Retail and Digital and 1-2% growth rate for European Retail (2014: 1%). This rate does not exceed the average long-term growth rate for the relevant markets.

Key assumptions used in value in use calculations

The key assumptions taken into account by management are the net cash flows (which are impacted by amounts staked and gross win margin) and the discount rate applied. The estimated amounts staked and gross win margin are based upon historic experience, management's best estimate of future trends and performance taking account of industry sources. The pre-tax discount rate applied to cash flow projections for CGUs in UK Retail is 10.9% (2014: 10.8%), in European Retail is between 9.9% and 10.9% (2014: between 9.4% and 10.4%) and in Digital is 8.5% (2014: 9.6%).

The recoverable amounts of certain individual UK Retail CGUs were below their carrying amounts at 31 December 2015 and accordingly an impairment loss of £21.1 million has been recognised in the consolidated income statement for the year ended 31 December 2015 (2014: £26.8 million) offset by impairment reversals of £7.6 million within the 'Depreciation, amortisation and amounts written off non-current assets' line as an exceptional item. In respect of European Retail shop licences there has been a charge of £40.2 million for year ended 31 December 2015 (2014: £13.1 million) offset by impairment reversals of £0.5 million (2014: £10.0 million).

The recoverable amount of individual CGUs is sensitive to changes in cash flows, growth rates or discount rate. Change in the cash flow projections or the discount rate would trigger a further impairment loss. For example, an increase of 0.5% in the pre-tax discount rate would have resulted in an additional impairment loss of approximately £3.9 million (2014: £7.9 million) for UK Retail and £3.6 million (2014: £3.2 million) for European Retail, or a reduction in projected cash flows of 5% would have resulted in an additional impairment loss of approximately £3.8 million (2014: £4 million) for UK Retail and £4.4 million (2014: £3.3 million) for European Retail. An assumption of no growth after 2019 would have resulted in an increase in impairment loss of approximately £11.1 million for UK Retail and £9.5 million for European Retail. For Digital, no reasonably possible change in key assumptions would result in an impairment.

At 31 December 2015 and at 31 December 2014 the Group had no significant derivatives.

It is, and has been throughout the year under review, the Group's policy that no trading in financial instruments shall be undertaken other than betting and gaming transactions. The Group's exposure to ante-post betting and gaming transactions is not significant.

The main financial risks for the Group are interest rate risk, credit risk and liquidity risk. The Board reviews and agrees policies for managing each of these risks and they are summarised below. The Group also monitors the market price risk arising from all financial instruments.

Interest rate risk

The Group is exposed to interest rate risk on interest bearing loans and borrowings and on cash and cash equivalents.

The Group's policy for the year ended 31 December 2015 was to maintain a minimum of 25% (2014: 25%) of total borrowings at fixed interest rates to reduce its sensitivity to movements in variable short-term interest rates. At 31 December 2015, £323.1 million or 100% (2014: £322.3 million or 73.4%) of the Group's gross borrowings were at fixed rates.

Interest on financial instruments at floating rates is repriced at intervals of less than six months. Interest on financial instruments at fixed rates is fixed until the maturity of the instrument.

Interest rate sensitivity

The table below demonstrates the sensitivity to reasonably possible changes in interest rates on income and equity for the year when this movement is applied to the carrying value of financial assets and liabilities.

| Effect on:                | Profit before tax |            | Equity     |            |
|---------------------------|-------------------|------------|------------|------------|
|                           | 2015£m        | 2014£m | 2015£m | 2014£m |
| 100 basis points increase | 1.1               | 0.1        | –          | –          |
| 200 basis points increase | 2.2               | 0.2        | –          | –          |

The sensitivity has been estimated by applying the basis points movement to the carrying value of the financial assets and liabilities, subject to interest at floating rates, held by the Group at the year end. Due to current low interest rates, any further decline would not have a material impact on income and equity for the year. As such, sensitivity to a decrease in interest rates has not been presented.

Foreign currency risk

Other than the translation of foreign currency subsidiaries, there is no significant foreign currency exposure.

The Group had no other foreign currency borrowings at 31 December 2015 (2014: £0.4 million overdraft denominated in Euros).

24 Financial risk management objectives and policies continued

Credit risk

The Group is not subject to significant concentration of credit risk, with exposure spread across a large number of counterparties and customers.

It is the Group's policy that all customers who wish to trade on credit terms are subject to credit verification procedures. In addition, receivable balances are monitored on an ongoing basis. Any changes to credit terms are assessed and authorised by senior management on an individual basis.

The Group's High Rollers division consists of individuals who place sizeable stakes. The Group manages this activity and the associated risk exposure by utilising senior management expertise to manage the levels of stakes placed. Of the £5.2 million (2014: £7.5 million) trade receivables balance, £1.9 million (2014: £3.2 million) relates to the Group's Core Telephone Betting and High Rollers divisions.

With respect to credit risk arising from the other financial assets of the Group, which comprise cash and cash equivalents and a loan to a joint venture, the Group's exposure to credit risk arises from default of the counterparty, with a maximum exposure equal to the carrying amount of these instruments. Credit risk in respect of cash and cash equivalents is managed by restricting those transactions to banks that have a defined minimum credit rating and by setting an exposure ceiling per bank.

The Group also has exposure to credit risk arising from the financial guarantee contracts provided by the Group. This risk is partly mitigated by the indemnity received from Hilton Hotels Corporation for any loss incurred in connection with these guarantees. For further detail of these guarantees refer to note 25.

Liquidity risk

The Group's objective is to maintain a balance between continuity of funding and flexibility through the use of borrowings with a range of maturities. The Group's policy on liquidity is to ensure that there are sufficient medium-term and long-term committed borrowing facilities to meet the medium-term funding requirements. At 31 December 2015, there were undrawn committed borrowing facilities of £346.8 million (2014: £283.0 million). Total committed facilities had an average maturity of 3.5 years (2014: 4.1 years).

The total gross contractual undiscounted cash flows of financial liabilities, including interest payments, fall due as follows. Cash flows in respect of financial guarantee contracts reflect the probability weighted cash flows. The maximum exposure is described in note 25.

Capital risk management

The primary objective of the Group's capital management is to ensure that it maintains a credit quality that enables the Group to raise funds at an economic interest rate and to maintain healthy capital ratios in order to support its business and maximise shareholder value. The Group manages its capital structure and makes adjustments to it in light of changes in economic conditions. To maintain or adjust the capital structure, the Group may adjust the dividend payment to shareholders, adjusted borrowings, return capital to shareholders or issue new shares.

The Group monitors capital using a net debt to EBITDA ratio (before exceptional items). The target range is less than 2.0 (2014: less than 2.0) times net debt to EBITDA ratio. The ratio at 31 December 2015 was 1.9 times (1.9 adjusted to remove profit from High Rollers) and at 31 December 2014 was 1.9 times (2.1 adjusted to remove profit from High Rollers).

The Group's funding policy is to raise funds centrally to meet the Group's anticipated requirements. These are planned so as to mature at different stages in order to reduce refinancing risk. The Board reviews the Group's capital structure and liquidity periodically.

Fair value of financial instruments

Assets and liabilities designated at fair value through profit or loss and available for sale financial assets are carried at fair value. The fair value of cash at bank and in hand approximates to book value due to its short-term maturity. The fair value of the £225 million 7.625% bond at 31 December 2015 was £239.7 million (2014: £244.3 million) and is classified as a level 1 fair value measurement for disclosure purposes, as the fair value is determined based on quoted prices in active markets for identical liabilities. The fair value of the £100 million 5.125% bond at 31 December 2015 was £98.3 million (2014: £100.2 million) and is classified as a level 1 fair value measurement for disclosure purposes, as the fair value is determined based on quoted prices in active markets for identical liabilities. The amortised cost of interest bearing loans and borrowings, with the exception of the £225 million 7.625% bond and the £100 million 5.125% bond, and the carrying value of all other assets and liabilities approximates to fair value.

Included within other financial assets is the Group's investment in TBHG, a financial asset measured at initial fair value of £3.4 million on 28 February 2013 which was acquired in connection with the business combination with Betdaq. There have been no changes in the fair value of the investment at 31 December 2015.

Included in trade and other payables are £5.3 million of ante-post liabilities (2014: £5.3 million). Ante post liabilities are valued using methods and inputs that are not based upon observable market data. There are no reasonably probable changes to assumptions or inputs that would lead to material changes in the fair value determined, although the final value will be determined by future sporting results. The principal assumptions relate to anticipated gross win margins on unsettled bets.

Included within other non-current financial liabilities is contingent consideration associated with business combinations of £32.3 million (2014: £32.1 million), classified as level 3 financial instruments, as its fair value is measured using techniques where the significant inputs are not based on observable market data. The fair values are remeasured at each reporting date and gains and losses from changes therein are recorded in the consolidated income statement within exceptional items (note 6).

Betdaq

Betdaq contingent consideration is linked to the performance of the business over a four year period and is capped at €535.0 million. The fair value of the contingent consideration has been estimated using a discounted cash flow analysis at the balance sheet date. The key assumptions in estimating the fair value are the EBITDA projections of the Betdaq business for 2016, the predicted Ladbrokes plc EBITDA multiple in 2016 (9.8x) and the discount rate applied (13.5%). All of these assumptions have been applied on a probability-weighted basis.

The contingent consideration is sensitive to changes in these assumptions. For example, an increase of 10% in EBITDA projections would result in an increase in contingent consideration of £1.5 million and a decrease of 2% in the discount rate would result in an increase in contingent consideration of less than £0.1 million. A decrease in the EBITDA multiple of 2x would result in a decrease in contingent consideration of £0.2 million.

Playtech

The fair value of the contingent consideration in relation to Playtech has been estimated using a discounted cash flow analysis at the balance sheet date. The key assumptions in estimating the fair value are a range of EBITDA projections of the Digital business for 2017, which are based on the projections in place at the time of the acquisition and then updated with an estimated uplift for the benefits of the transaction, the predicted Ladbrokes plc EBITDA multiple in 2017 (9.8x); and the discount rate applied (a range of 13.7% to 20.7%, depending on the year). All of these assumptions have been applied on a probability-weighted basis.

The contingent consideration is sensitive to changes in these assumptions. For example, an increase of 10% in EBITDA projections would result in an increase in contingent consideration of £12.6 million and a decrease of 2% in the discount rate would result in an increase in contingent consideration of £1.3 million. An increase of 1x in the EBITDA multiple would increase the contingent consideration by £3.5 million.

Other

Also included within other non-current financial liabilities are financial guarantee contracts of £3.2 million (2014: £4.8 million), classified as level 3 financial instruments as their fair value is measured using techniques where the significant inputs are not based on observable market data. Further information about financial guarantee contracts, including sensitivities, and a reconciliation of changes in fair value in the year, is included below.

Financial guarantee contracts

The Group has given guarantees to third parties in respect of lease liabilities of former subsidiaries within the disposed hotels division. The Group received an indemnity from Hilton Hotels Corporation (HHC), at the time of the hotels disposal, in relation to any loss the Group may subsequently incur under these third party guarantees. The guarantees expire between 2017 and 2042 and the lease liabilities comprise a combination of minimum contractual and turnover based elements.

The undiscounted maximum liability exposure in respect of the guarantees for all years up to 2042 is £560.8 million (2014: £679.6 million), with a maximum indemnity receivable of the same amount. Included in the maximum liability exposure is £402.1 million (2014: £434.8 million) in relation to the turnover based element of the hotel rentals and £158.7 million (2014: £244.8 million) in relation to the minimum contractual based element. The maximum liability represents the total of all guaranteed rentals under the non-cancellable agreements into which the Group has entered.

The net present value of the maximum exposure at 31 December 2015 is £210.3 million (2014: £258.7 million). Included in the net present value of the maximum exposure is £141.4 million (2014: £149.1 million) in relation to the turnover based element of the hotel rentals and £68.9 million (2014: £109.6 million) in relation to the minimum contractual based element.

The Group monitors its exposure under these guarantees on a regular basis and seeks, where appropriate, to novate its obligations. The financial guarantees liability has been valued using a probability based model to estimate the net present value of the liabilities payable in the event of a default by the hotels covered by the guarantees, and the probability of such a default and new tenants being identified.

At 31 December 2015 the Group has recognised a financial liability of £3.2 million (2014: £4.8 million) in respect of these guarantees. The liability has reduced in 2015 as a result of the Group being released from its obligations for one of its hotels, the liability of which was due to expire in 2029. The key assumption in the probability model is the hotels default rate. A rate of 1.5% has been used at 31 December 2015 (2014: 1.5%). The £1.6 million credit has been included within the Group's corporate costs. The table below provides a breakdown of the movement in the liability since 1 January 2015:

|   | Liability£m |
|---|-----------------|
| At 1 January 2015                          | 4.8             |
| Reduction due to release from one hotel guarantee | (1.6)           |
| At 31 December 2015                        | 3.2      |

A 0.5 percentage point increase in the default rate would increase the financial liability by £1.0 million. A 1.0 percentage point increase in the discount rate would reduce the financial liability by £0.2 million.

28 Employee share ownership plans

The Ladbrokes Share Ownership Trust (LSOT) is used in connection with the Group's Deferred Bonus Plan, the Ladbrokes Growth Plan, the Restricted Share Plan, the Performance Share Plan and the 2010 Share Award Plan (together 'the Plans') (refer to note 31 for further details of the Plans and the various performance conditions). The LSOT may also be used in connection with the Group's other share-based plans, including the 1978 and 1983 Share Option Scheme and the International Share Option Scheme. The trustee of the LSOT, Computershare Trustees (CI) Limited, subscribes for the Group's shares or purchases them in the open market, as required, on the basis of regular reviews of the anticipated commitments of the Group, with financing provided by the Group.

The Ladbrokes Share Incentive Plan (LSIP) is currently used in connection with the Group's OWN share plan (the OWN plan) and Freeshare share plan (Freeshare) (refer to note 31 for further details). The trustee of the LSIP, Computershare Trustees Limited, purchases the Company's shares in the open market, as required, using:

- (i) Deductions made from the salaries of participants in the OWN plan; and
- (ii) Dividends paid on the shares held by the LSIP. Under the OWN plan, to match those shares acquired using participants' salary deductions, one additional share is allotted by the Group to the LSIP for every one share purchased by the employee.

All expenses of the LSOT and LSIP are settled directly by the Group and charged in the financial statements as incurred.

The following table shows the number of shares held in trust that have not yet vested unconditionally and the associated movement in shareholders' funds.

|   | LSOT                  |                      | LSIP                  |                      | Total                 |                      |

30 Retirement benefit schemes

Defined contribution schemes

The total cost charged to the consolidated income statement of £3.8 million (2014: £3.1 million) represents contributions payable to these schemes by the Group at rates specified in the rules of the scheme.

Defined benefit plans

The Group's only significant defined benefit retirement plan is the Ladbrokes Pension Plan, which is a final salary pension plan for UK employees. This was closed to new employees on 1 August 2007 and closed to future accrual on 31 August 2015.

At retirement each member's pension is related to their pensionable service and final pensionable salary. The weighted average duration of the expected benefit payments from the Plan is around 17 years.

The Plan's assets are held separately from those of the Group. The Plan is approved by HMRC for tax purposes, and is managed by an independent set of Trustees. The Plan is subject to UK regulations, which require the Group and Trustees to agree a funding strategy and contribution schedule at least every three years. Under the current contribution schedule in place, the Group pays contributions to the Plan of £0.75 million each year to cover the expenses of running the Plan and will pay £0.125 million each month from April 2016 to June 2017.

There is a risk to the Group that adverse experience could lead to a requirement for the Group to make additional contributions to recover any deficit that arises.

The results of the formal actuarial valuation as at 30 June 2013 were updated to 31 December 2015 by an independent qualified actuary in accordance with IAS 19 (Revised) Employee Benefits. The value of the defined benefit obligation and current service cost have been measured using the projected unit credit method, as required by IAS 19 (Revised). Actuarial gains and losses are recognised immediately through other comprehensive income.

The amounts recognised in the balance sheet are as follows:

|   | 2015£m     | 2014£m |
|---|----------------|------------|
| Present value of funded obligations                         | (283.2) | (296.3)    |
| Fair value of plan assets                                   | 359.5   | 365.8      |
| Net asset   | 76.3    | 69.5       |
| Disclosed in the balance sheet as: Retirement benefit asset | 76.3    | 69.5       |

The Group has considered the appropriate accounting treatment in respect of the pension plan surplus, taking into account the current agreement with the Trustees to pay contributions into the Plan. The Group has concluded that under current accounting rules recognition of the surplus as an asset is appropriate on the grounds that the Group has an unconditional right to a refund of a current (or projected future) surplus at the end of the life of the Plan.

The amounts recognised in the income statement are as follows:

The Group expects to contribute £1.8 million to its defined benefit plan in 2016.

The major categories of plan assets as a percentage of total plan assets are as follows:

|                                       | 2015%  | 2014% |

The Plan assets are held exclusively within instruments with quoted market prices in an active market with the exception of the holdings in an insurance policy. At 31 December 2015 these represented c.0.2% of the Plan's total assets.

The Plan does not invest directly in property occupied by the Group or in financial securities issued by the Group. Although, as the Plan holds pooled investment vehicles, there may at times be indirect employer related investment. At 31 December 2015 these represented less than 0.1% of the Plan's total assets.

The investment strategy is set by the Trustees of the Plan in consultation with the Group. The current long-term strategy is to invest in a matching portfolio sufficient to meet the next 15 years of cash flows with the remaining assets invested in return seeking funds.

The post-retirement mortality assumed for most members is based on the standard SAPS mortality table with the CMI 2012 projections, which takes into account future improvements, adjusted to reflect plan specific experience. The assumption used implies that the expected lifetime of members aged 65 in 2015 is 87.0 (2014: 86.9) years for males and 89.2 (2014: 89.1) years for females. For members with large pensions a longer lifetime is assumed (90.1 (2014: 90.1) for males and 91.2 (2014: 91.1) for females).

Changes to the assumptions will impact the amounts recognised in the consolidated balance sheet and the consolidated income statement in respect of the Plan. For the significant assumptions, the following sensitivity analysis provides an indication of the impact on the defined benefit obligation for the year ended 31 December 2015:

|   | 2015% | 2014% |
|---|-----------|-----------|
| – 0.5% p.a. decrease in the discount rate | 8.1       | 8.3       |
| – 0.5% p.a. increase in price inflation   | 5.0       | 5.2       |
| – One year increase in life expectancy    | 2.6       | 2.4       |

These sensitivities have been calculated to show the movement in the defined benefit obligation in isolation, and assuming no other changes in market conditions at the accounting date. This is unlikely in practice, for example, a change in discount rate is unlikely to occur without any movement in the value of the assets held by the Plan.

31 Share-based payments

The Group has the following share-based payment plans, all of which are settled by equity: the Restricted Share Plan; the Deferred Bonus Plan; the Performance Share Plan; the Ladbrokes Growth Plan; the International Share Option Scheme; the 1978 Share Option Scheme; Sharesave; the OWN Plan; and Freeshare. The plans and the various performance conditions are discussed in more detail below:

(i) Restricted Share Plan

Awards made under the Restricted Share Plan will vest after three years and are not subject to performance conditions, other than service conditions.

(ii) Deferred Bonus Plan

For certain senior executives, one third of the gross annual bonus is delivered in shares that vest after three years. For other employees, one third of the gross annual bonus is delivered in shares that vest after two years.

(iii) Performance Share Plan

An award under the Performance Share Plan consists of a conditional allocation of shares that will vest, subject to the achievement of performance conditions, at the end of the three year performance period. The awards have two separate performance conditions; half of the award vests based on TSR and half of the award vests based on EPS growth.

(iv) Ladbrokes Growth Plan

Awards are subject to share price growth performance conditions. Any share price target must be attained throughout a period of 30 consecutive dealing days and performance is assessed over a five year period. Up to one third of the award may vest at the end of year three if the performance targets have been achieved at that time. A further third may vest at the end of year four if the targets have been met at that time. The remainder of the award may vest at the end of year five, subject to the achievement of the performance targets.

(v) International Share Option Scheme and the 1978 Share Option Scheme

The share options granted are all market value options with a three year vesting period. Vested options lapse if they have not been exercised within 10 years of the date of grant. All options have an EPS growth based performance condition. Options have not been granted since 2009 and there is no present intention to grant options in the future.

(vi) 1983 Savings Related Share Option Scheme ('Sharesave')

Under Sharesave, options are granted at a 20% discount to market value. The scheme operates with a savings period of either three or five years, at the end of which the option may be exercised.

(vii) OWN Plan

Under the OWN Plan, employees can contribute up to £75 per month to acquire shares. For every one share purchased, the Group provides a match of one additional share.

(viii) Freeshare

Under Freeshare, an award of up to £250 in value was made to participating employees on reaching one year's service. Freeshares have not been awarded since 2010 and there is no present intention to make awards in the future.

(1) The number of awards outstanding at 31 December 2014 for the Restricted Share Plan, Deferred Bonus Plan and the Ladbrokes Growth Plan were incorrectly stated in the Annual Report and Accounts 2014. The outstanding awards at 1 January 2015 for these three plans as disclosed above have therefore been restated.

Share awards granted during the year in respect of the Performance Share Plan:

|                             | 2015      | 2014      |

| Weighted average fair value | £0.96     | £0.93     |

The fair value of share awards was measured by calculating the present value of the dividends receivable between the grant date and the vesting date and valuing the market related performance conditions through the use of a closed-form model, similar to a Monte Carlo simulation.

The following table shows the number and weighted average exercise prices of share options granted, exercised and lapsed during the year in respect of the 1978 and International Share Option Schemes and also Sharesave:

The key inputs into the valuation models were as follows:

|                                     | 2015 | 2014 |
|-------------------------------------|------|------|
| Weighted average share price (£)    | 1.11 | 1.35 |
| Weighted average exercise price (£) | 0.92 | 1.17 |
| Expected volatility (%)             | 32.0 | 32.0 |
| Expected life (years)               | 2.2  | 2.10 |
| Risk free rate (%)                  | 0.79 | 1.10 |
| Expected dividend yield (%)         | 7.3  | 5.9  |

Expected volatility was determined by calculating the historical volatility of the Group's share price over the previous three years. The expected life used in the model has been adjusted, based on management's best estimate, for the effects of non-transferability, exercise restrictions and behavioural considerations.

The Group recognised total expenses of £4.1 million (2014: £2.8million) relating to equity settled share-based payment transactions.

32 Commitments and contingencies

Operating lease commitments – Group as lessee

The Group has a number of lease agreements that, pursuant to their economic substance, qualify as non-cancellable operating lease agreements. These primarily relate to rents payable on land and buildings. The terms of the leases vary significantly but can broadly be summarised as follows:

Lease terms

Shop leases are typically agreed on five year exit cycles (either expiry or break), with a maximum term length of 15 years. Some leases are shorter in duration or with earlier exits.

Determination of rent payments

Rent payments are based on the amount specified in the agreement.

Terms of renewal

The agreements are not terminated automatically after expiry of the lease term and in the majority of cases, lease extension options have been agreed upon and in many other cases, there will be an opportunity to negotiate lease extensions with the lessor at market rates.

Restrictions

There are no restrictions imposed upon the Group concerning dividends, additional debt or further leasing under any of the existing lease arrangements.

34 Proposed merger with Coral

Ladbrokes plc and Gala Coral Group Limited have agreed terms of a recommended merger (the "Merger") of Ladbrokes with certain businesses of Gala Coral, including Coral Retail, Eurobet Retail and Gala Coral's Online business to create a leading European betting and gaming group that is better positioned to compete more effectively (the "Combined Entity").

Funding

In October 2015 the Group signed a £1.35 billion facility with a syndicate of relationship banks to provide committed financing for the proposed merger.

The new facility has three tranches and will be available for drawing subject to completion of the merger with Coral.

- Tranche A – £600 million Term Facility - October 2016 and, subject to extension options, January 2018
- Tranche B – £400 million Revolving Credit Facility – October 2020
- Tranche C – £350 million Revolving Credit Facility – June 2019

The Group's remaining standalone £350 million June 2019 bank facilities will be cancelled as a condition precedent to drawing on the new facility.

Cash costs of £3.8 million in relation to the new facility have been capitalised within financial assets.

Playtech Agreement

To assist in the flexibility for the Combined Entity to achieve integration and realise synergies, Playtech plc has agreed conditional upon completion, to accelerate the determination of amounts due to it under its marketing services agreement with Ladbrokes.

The sum agreed is £75 million, of which £40 million shall be satisfied by way of the issue of shares in the Combined Entity on completion of the Merger and with a further guaranteed £35 million in cash paid upon the delivery by Playtech of key operational milestones but, in any event, within 42 months following completion of the Merger.

3 Summary of significant accounting policies

Investments

Investments held as fixed assets are stated at cost less provision for impairment.

As at 1 January 2014, in accordance with Paragraph D15 of IFRS 1 'First time adoption of International Financial Reporting Standards' (IFRS 1) Appendix D, the Company has measured all investments at a deemed cost, being the previous GAAP carrying amount as at this date.

The Company assesses these investments for impairment wherever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying value of an investment may not be recoverable. If any such indication of impairment exists, the Company makes an estimate of the recoverable amount. If the recoverable amount is less than the value of the investment, the investment is considered to be impaired and is written down to its recoverable amount. An impairment loss is recognised immediately in the profit and loss account.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and short term deposits in the balance sheet consist of cash at banks and in hand, short-term deposits with an original maturity of less than three months.

Financial assets

Financial assets are recognised when the Company becomes party to the contracts that give rise to them.

The Company classifies financial assets at inception as either financial assets at fair value or loans and receivables. On initial recognition, loans and receivables are measured at fair value. Financial assets at fair value comprise guarantees provided to the Company. Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss are measured initially at fair value, with transaction costs taken directly to income statement. Subsequently, the fair values are remeasured and gains and losses from changes therein are recognised in the income statement.

Loans and receivables are non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments that are not quoted in an active market. On initial recognition, loans and receivables are measured at fair value plus directly attributable transaction costs. Subsequently, such assets are measured at amortised cost, using the effective interest (EIR) method, less any allowance for impairment.

Financial liabilities

Financial liabilities comprise guarantees given to third parties and contingent consideration. On initial recognition, financial liabilities are measured at fair value plus transaction costs where they are not categorised as financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss. Financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss are measured initially at fair value, with transaction costs taken directly to the income statement. Subsequently, the fair values are remeasured and gains and losses from changes therein are recognised in the income statement.

Financial guarantee contracts

The Company has provided financial guarantees to third parties in respect of lease obligations of certain of the Company's former subsidiaries relating to the disposed hotels division.

Financial guarantee contracts are classified as financial liabilities and are measured at fair value by estimating the probability of the guarantees being called upon and the related cash outflows from the Company.

Derecognition of financial assets and liabilities

Financial assets are derecognised when the right to receive cash flows from the assets has expired or when the Company has transferred its contractual right to receive the cash flows from the financial assets or has assumed an obligation to pay the received cash flows in full without material delay to a third party, and either:

- Substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred; or
- Substantially all the risks and rewards have neither been retained nor transferred but control is not retained.

Financial liabilities are derecognised when the obligation is discharged, cancelled or expires.

Current and deferred income tax

The tax expense for the period comprises current and deferred tax. Tax is recognised in the income statement, except to the extent that it relates to items recognised in other comprehensive income or directly in shareholders' funds. In this case, the tax is also recognised in other comprehensive income or directly in shareholders' funds, respectively.

The current income tax charge is calculated on the basis of the tax laws enacted or substantively enacted at the balance sheet date in the countries where the Company operates and generates taxable income. Management periodically evaluates positions taken in tax returns with respect to situations in which applicable tax regulation is subject to interpretation. It establishes provisions where appropriate on the basis of amounts expected to be paid to the tax authorities.

Deferred income tax is recognised on temporary differences arising between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their carrying amounts in the financial statements. However, deferred tax liabilities are not recognised if they arise from the initial recognition of goodwill; or arise from initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction other than a business combination that at the time of the transaction affects neither accounting nor taxable profit or loss.

Deferred income tax is recognised using the tax rates (and laws) that have been enacted or substantially enacted by the balance sheet date and are expected to apply then the related deferred income tax asset is realised or the deferred income tax liability is settled. Deferred tax assets are only recognised to the extent it is probable that there will be suitable taxable profits from which they can be recovered.

Deferred income tax assets and liabilities are offset when there is a legally enforceable right to offset current tax assets against current tax liabilities and when the deferred income taxes assets and liabilities relate to income taxes levied by the same taxation authority on either the same taxable entity or different taxable entities where there is an intention to settle the balances on a net basis. Deferred tax balances are not discounted.

Foreign currency translation

The presentation and functional currency of the Company is Pounds Sterling (£).

Transactions in foreign currencies are initially recorded in Pounds Sterling (£) at the foreign currency rate ruling at the date of the transaction. Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are retranslated into Pounds Sterling (£) at the rates of exchange ruling at the balance sheet date (the closing rate).

All foreign currency translation differences are taken to the income statement with the exception of differences on foreign currency borrowings that provide a post-tax hedge against a net investment in a foreign entity. These are taken directly to equity until the disposal of the net investment, at which time they are recognised in the income statement. Tax charges and credits attributable to exchange differences on those borrowings are also dealt with in equity.

Non-monetary items that are measured in terms of historical cost in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rate at the date of the initial transaction. Non-monetary items measured at fair value in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rate at the date when the fair value was determined.

Dividends

Final dividends proposed by the Board of directors and unpaid at the year end are not recognised in the financial statements until they have been approved by shareholders at the Annual General Meeting. Interim dividends are recognised when paid.

Pensions and other post-employment benefit obligations

The Company is the principal employer of the Ladbrokes Pension Plan, a funded defined benefit group plan. The pension cost relating to the plan is assessed in accordance with the advice of independent qualified actuaries using the projected unit credit method.

Any actuarial gains or losses are taken to equity in the period in which they arise. Any past service costs are recognised immediately to the extent that benefits have already vested and, otherwise, are amortised on a straight line basis over the average period until the benefits vest.

The defined benefit asset recognised in the balance sheet represents the fair value of plan assets less the present value of defined benefit obligations as adjusted for any unrecognised past service costs. The Company recognises its pension surplus in full on the basis that it does not consider there to be substantive restrictions on the return of residual plan assets in the event of a winding up of the plan after all member obligations have been met. The related tax is accounted on an income basis.

Equity instruments

Equity instruments issued by the Company are recorded at the proceeds received net of direct issue costs.

ESOP trusts

Where the Company holds its own equity shares through an ESOP trust these shares are shown as a reduction in equity. Any consideration paid or received for the purchase or sale of these shares is recognised as deductions in equity and no gain or loss is recognised within the income statement or the statement of total recognised gains and losses on the purchase, sale or cancellation of these shares.

Treasury shares

Own equity instruments that are reacquired (treasury shares) are deducted from equity. No gain or loss is recognised in the income statement on the purchase, sale, issue or cancellation of the Company's own equity instruments.

Share-based payments

The cost of equity settled transactions with employees is measured by reference to the fair value at the date on which they are granted (see note 31 of the consolidated financial statements for further details).

The cost of equity settled transactions is recharged to the respective employing entities, with a corresponding increase in equity booked within Ladbrokes plc.

4 Judgements and key sources of estimation uncertainty

The preparation of financial statements requires management to make assumptions, estimates and judgements that affect the amounts reported as assets and liabilities as at the balance sheet date and the amounts reported as revenues and expenses during the year. Use of available information and application of judgement are inherent in the formation of estimates. Actual results in the future may differ from those reported. In this regard, management believes that the accounting policies where judgement is necessarily applied are those that relate to:

- the cost of pension and other post employment benefit obligations;
- income tax;
- contingent consideration; and
- valuation of financial guarantee contracts.

The estimates and underlying assumptions are reviewed on an ongoing basis. Revisions to accounting estimates are recognised in the period in which the estimate is revised. The following estimates are dependent upon assumptions which could change in the next financial year and have a material effect on the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities recognised at the balance sheet date:

Pension and other post-employment benefit obligations

The cost of defined benefit pension plans and other post-employment benefits is determined using actuarial valuations. The actuarial valuation involves making assumptions about discount rates, expected rates of return on assets, future salary increases, mortality rates and future pension increases. Due to the long-term nature of these plans, such estimates are subject to significant uncertainty.

Financial guarantee contracts

The valuation of financial guarantee contracts and related indemnities requires use of assumptions of the risks of default of the guaranteed entities and the credit profiles of the counterparties.

Income tax

Significant judgement is required in determining the provision for income taxes due to the uncertainty of the amount of income tax that may be payable, and in respect of determining the level of the future taxable profits of the Company that support the recoverability of the deferred tax asset.

Notes to the reconciliation of equity from UK GAAP to FRS 101 as at 1 January 2014 and 31 December 2014

1. Reclassification of deferred tax liabilities and assets

Previously under UK GAAP, the Company presented:

- the retirement benefit asset net of the related deferred tax liability. Under FRS 101, deferred tax liabilities are separately disclosed as non-current liabilities on the balance sheet; and
- deferred tax assets in relation to share based payments as current trade receivables. Under FRS 101, deferred tax assets are offset with deferred tax liabilities when there is a legally enforceable right to offset current tax assets against current tax liabilities and when the deferred assets and liabilities relate to income taxes levied by the same taxation authority on the same taxable entity.

Based on the above, the following reclassification adjustments were recognised:

|   | 1 Jan 2014   | 31 Dec 2014  |
|---|--------------|--------------|
|   | £m           | £m           |
| Increase retirement benefit asset   | 6.7          | 0.3          |
| Decrease trade and other receivables  | (2.8)        | (2.4)        |
| Net reclassification adjustment to increase deferred tax liabilities | (3.9) | (2.1) |

2. Remeasurement of the retirement benefit asset

Remeasurement to reflect movement from FRS 17 to the requirements of IAS 19.

Based on the above, the following remeasurement adjustments have been recognised:

|                                      | 1 Jan 2014 | 31 Dec 2014 |
|--------------------------------------|------------|-------------|
|                                      | £m         | £m          |
| Increase retirement benefit asset    | 19.6       | 67.9        |
| Increase trade and other payables    | (45.5)     | (48.2)      |
| Decrease trade and other receivables | –          | (29.2)      |

3. Remeasurement of trade and other receivables and trade and other payables

Previously under UK GAAP, the Company recognised all tax related balances (corporation tax and deferred tax) of the Group on the basis that all United Kingdom based entities are treated as a single entity for tax purposes. Under IFRS, tax balances that relate to the activities, assets and liabilities of other subsidiary companies should not be recognised in the financial statements of the Company.

Based on the above, the remeasurement adjustment to trade and other receivables consists of the following:

|   | 1 Jan 2014    | 31 Dec 2014   |
|---|---------------|---------------|
|   | £m            | £m            |
| De-recognition of corporation tax debtor balances | (2.8)         | (9.4)         |
| Reduction of deferred tax asset balances          | (13.6)        | (16.7)        |
| Trade and other receivables                       | –             | 0.5           |
| Total                                      | (16.4) | (25.6) |

4. Remeasurement of deferred tax liabilities

The deferred tax liabilities of the Company have been restated as a result of the derecognition of the deferred tax asset in relation to the asset limit, adjustments to the actuarial gain recognised in other comprehensive income and other temporary differences relating to the retirement benefit asset.

|  | 1 Jan 2014 | 31 Dec 2014 |
|--|------------|-------------|
|  | £m         | £m          |
| Increase retirement benefit asset related deferred tax liabilities | (6.9)      | (13.5)      |

The Company will continue to provide shareholders with confirmation of the dividends paid to them and this should be included with any other dividend income received when calculating and reporting total dividend income received. ## Be on your guard – beware of fraudsters!

The Company is aware of shareholders receiving unsolicited calls or correspondence concerning investment matters. Calls are typically from people stating they are 'brokers' based overseas and they offer to 'buy' the individual's shares at inflated prices claiming that there is a 'secret' takeover or merger. Shareholders are advised to be very wary of any unsolicited advice, offers to sell or buy their shares or offers of free company reports. Operations to buy shares at inflated prices or to sell what often turn out to be worthless, high risk or even non-existent shares are commonly known as 'boiler room' scams.

More detailed information on boiler room scams is available at www.ladbrokesplc.com/investors. If you think you have been contacted by share fraudsters, you can report the matter to the Financial Conduct Authority by calling +44 (0)800 111 6768 or by completing the online form available at www.fca.org.uk/scams.

Jim Mullen, Chief Executive, commented:

"These strong numbers show customers are responding positively to the new strategy at a time when the sporting gods have generally been on our side and we've enjoyed some helpful bookmaker friendly results. This combination has helped boost profits in the first half of the year.

"History would strongly dictate that such a run of results in our favour would see customer staking suffer, but encouragingly these numbers firmly buck that trend and combine strong staking and a good margin. However, 130 years of experience in sports betting has shown us that we will endure a run of customer friendly results and margins will normalise. Despite this assumption on results and our intention to continue investing in marketing, we have slightly increased our full year expectations.

"Encouragingly we have delivered a good performance across all the key customer metrics outlined in last year's strategic plan and that gives us confidence that we are well placed to deliver against our stated 2017 targets. We have grown recreational customers, increased our football business, attracted more multi-channel customers and grown strongly in Australia. However, we are taking nothing for granted.

"We will continue to compete hard on pricing, product and customer services and maintain a relentless focus on meeting and exceeding customer expectations. With the merger on the horizon we recognise there is a lot of hard work still to come, but this is an exciting time for Ladbrokes and we approach the opportunities ahead with a strong sense of confidence."

Chief Executive's Review

Overview

These half year results illustrate the progress that has been made at Ladbrokes after our first full year of operations under our strategic plan. Ladbrokes is now on a better footing than it was when we announced the strategy and these numbers show the customer is responding and the positive impact it is beginning to have on our numbers.

Our whole strategy is based on delivering against our 2017 targets. In the UK, we have grown our recreational customer base and developed our multi-channel product whilst increasing footfall in retail; in Australia we have concentrated on growing our market share. Underpinning the entire performance has been the cultural return to one of sporting passion within Ladbrokes: it's at the heart of our business and gets us closer to our customers to help deliver what they want when they want it.

We fully recognise that we have had the better of the sporting results in the UK which is reflected in the strong gross win margin for the half year. More encouraging, however, are the underlying customer metrics. Staking has held up impressively despite the bookie friendly margin. One year on from unveiling our strategy we are encouraged by the progress but are not getting carried away.

While we are now ahead of our expectations for the full year we are yet to experience a customer friendly run of results in this calendar year but believe it prudent to expect them at some time.

At the half year, our Group operating profit of £52.3m, up 34.4% year on year reflects the improved customer metrics we have seen across the different divisions combined with favourable sporting results.

In this half, we have continued to bolster our marketing presence to attract recreational customers. With our sponsorship of the SPFL and the announcement of our exciting new partnership with the English FA to become its official betting partner we have continued to prioritise football as a key growth area. We have been encouraged by the customer response to our football offer and our underlying customer metrics are good; like for like staking in the 2015-16 English Premier League season grew 14.7% year on year in UK Retail and 11.7% in Ladbrokes.com and as at 30 June, football as a percentage of staking had grown by four percentage points to 19.0% of Retail OTC staking.

Our BetStation product (formerly SSBTs), in which we took a market-leading position by number of machines across the estate as part of our strategy, has continued to perform well and now account for c10% of staking in OTC. Gaming machines have continued to perform well with sustainable growth continuing to come from lower stake slots and B3 content. Over 90% of machine gross win now comes from stakes of £50 or less.

In Ladbrokes.com, the continued marketing investment required to implement our strategy has helped deliver a record half year with net revenue up 45.5%. Importantly customer metrics in sportsbook and gaming demonstrate the attractiveness of our products, their value and their reliability. With staking in sportsbook up 19.5% (30.4% adjusted for significant HVC activity in H1 2015), actives up 38.4% and mobile staking growth of 44.5% we have now delivered ten consecutive quarters of year on year growth. Gaming saw 124 new games introduced with gaming actives growing 47.9% and net revenue up 26.8%.

Our multichannel strategy has now delivered over 100,000 actives and has now been rolled out to Ireland and Belgium.

Australia continues to go from strength to strength with staking up 53.7%, actives up 70.6% and net revenue up 41.5% year on year on a local currency basis.

Sporting Headlines

The half has been notable for the ongoing unpredictability of the EPL. 5000/1 shots Leicester City, who won the league and saw us pay out c.£3m to far-sighted customers, were the perfect example of the league's unpredictability. Week in week out customers' accumulators and coupons were victims of surprise results.

This trend continued as the European Championship got underway. Despite Wales's good showing, the early exit of the other Home Nations and Republic of Ireland meant that while significant liabilities were avoided we ran the risk of customer appetite declining. However, this did not materialise. The final, ending at 0-0 after 90 minutes, with a winning goal by an unfancied substitute in extra-time was a fitting snapshot of the tournament and the season. While results were obviously welcome it was pleasing that against the European Championship in 2012, we managed to deliver 43.5% staking growth for UK Retail and 103% staking growth and 65.1% actives growth for Ladbrokes.com.

The bookie-friendly results of football helped to offset the worst Cheltenham Festival on record and a very customer-friendly Royal Ascot. The fiercely competitive nature of our industry around racing festivals ensure that when results go against you it can leave its mark. Even though Rule The World's Grand National win gave us a good result, the Aintree meeting was also costly.

Strategy Implementation

The Group has continued to implement its plan to grow recreational scale across UK Retail, Ladbrokes.com and Australia. This growth is being driven by increasing direct and brand marketing expenditure; through offering clear value propositions to our customers; and through the continuous delivery of innovative products, including, importantly, multi-channel products and services.

UK Retail

Our UK Retail performance has been good. While we have benefitted from favourable results we have not seen the overall decline in staking that our industry would normally expect. Ultimately that assures us we are attracting the right type of recreational customers who are responding to our product offerings, and that UK retail is still an attractive proposition for both customers and our business.

We have worked at leveraging the Ladbrokes brand to revitalise our retail offering: we have an increased presence in the tabloid press, we're offering clear calls to action and are staying close to the customer with relevant, consistent offers, such as "Best Odds Guaranteed +" for horseracing customers.

Football remains a key priority for us, and with competitive pricing, relevant promotions and a strong product offering we are seeing positive results.

It has also been an integral part of the growth we have seen in BetStation where football accounts for over 75% of staking. We took the bold decision last year to expand to have the largest SSBT estate on the UK High Street and as a percentage of OTC staking they now account for c.10% (vs 15H1 c.4%). Staking grew over 160% and whilst there is inevitably a degree of substitution, there is meaningful net incremental growth which we estimate to be c.30%. BetStation are now a core part of the retail environment and during the Euros we enjoyed our first ever £5 million staking week.

Multi-channel has been one of the four key pillars of the Ladbrokes strategy. We have delivered over 100,000 actives from a standing start last August with 79,000 recruited in this H1. The recent Euros saw us promote our multichannel product with over 13,000 new actives generated during this period. Retail customers converted to multi-channel continue to be more valuable than purely digital customers.

Our success in recruiting customers has been through improving the customer experience and motivating our retail colleagues who are the most effective sales people for our digital product. Over 9,400 colleagues have been rewarded so far with over 170 earning an additional £1,000 plus for their hard work.

Our strategy for machines' growth remains simple as we look to encourage low staking, recreational use with net revenue up 5.3%. We continue to develop our responsible gambling measures and along with industry partners we have introduced a range of responsible gambling features to our machines product. Ultimately, the combination of a rigorous approach to responsible machine play coupled with a clear focus on slots games and B3 play are providing a more sustainable income for the business.

Underpinning all of the encouraging results and customer trends we have seen in UK Retail has been the embedding of a sporting passion culture that is returning to our colleagues across the country. We will continue to work hard to ensure that our people share the sporting passion of our customers, allowing them to engage more authentically with each other and deliver a first rate High Street service.

Digital

Total digital net revenue increased by 40.9% to £158.1m (H1 2015: £112.2m) as customers responded to our improved brand presence, product quality and stability, and the business benefitted from favourable sporting results.

In Ladbrokes.com, we have increased our marketing spend and the improvements to our products in H1 have been driven by a customer-focus rather than a technology-focus. We have deliberately steered clear of major capital projects. Our products have evolved to reflect changing customer demands and align the Ladbrokes experience to their own expectations. The response has been positive.

During H1, Sportsbook delivered a 10th consecutive quarter of year on year growth with staking up 19.5% (30.4% adjusted for significant HVC activity in H1 2015) and actives up 38.4%. The encouraging numbers stem from a simple approach focused on three key areas: mobile growth, bet in play and football. The share of staking from mobile is now 77.8% and football growth is 50.6% whilst bet-in-play growth is 43.6% when adjusted for significant HVC activity in H1 2015.

We have also expanded our coverage of other sports: while the likes of tennis, golf and cricket remain popular, basketball is now the fourth most popular sport in our Sportsbook. The revenue derived from sports such as basketball are especially encouraging as the breadth of our recreational customer base is widened and we become less reliant on HVCs and major sporting events to deliver positive numbers.

In H1, Gaming enjoyed its 7th consecutive quarter of year on year net revenue growth with positive trends across all key products. The consistent growth in Gaming actives is now being seen in net revenue (H1 up 26.8%) while delivering our non-negotiable position on responsible gambling: we have planned thoroughly for the impact of the changes such as time outs and auto self-exclusions required to fulfil our Responsible Gambling obligations and remain comfortable that their impact is in line with our expectations.

As one of our four key pillars for successful delivery of the strategy, we are pleased to see that Australia has delivered another strong set of numbers. A differentiated approach compared to our competitors Down Under has allowed us to capitalise on the excellence of our product, and the entrepreneurial abilities of our management team have been supported by a higher intensity of marketing activity. As a result, year on year revenue on a local currency basis increased by 41.5%, driven by a 70.6% increase in active customers and staking growth of 53.7%.

While Australia experiences a period of regulatory uncertainty, such as the changes to the bet-in-play product, we continue to view it as a very attractive market. Our team have led the Australian bookmaking field in delivering innovative products to customers, such as Odds Boost which up to 80% of our daily customers are taking advantage of and InfoHub which helps to make Ladbrokes the go-to bookmaker in Australia for a data-rich experience.

European Retail (local currency)

In Belgium retail, our investment in SSBTs and virtual products helped to account for staking growth of 14.3%. A slight increase in gross win margin to 20.2% helped deliver a net revenue increase of 17.7%.

Our Republic of Ireland business has seen the benefits of a more competitive estate following the Examinership process last year. Our 'value proposition' work has helped us reposition the brand for our Irish audience. On a like for like basis, the reduced estate of 142 shops saw staking grow 9.7%. We have invested in BetStation and the rollout of multi-channel and are encouraged by the customer response.

We continue to invest in Spain with launches in three new regions, Cantabria, Asturias and Meilla helping to explain a small EBIT loss. Our Sportium retail JV had staking growth of 41.4% and gross win growth of 38.7% which reassures us that the Spanish business will emerge from this investment phase to contribute positively to the bottom line.

Regulation Developments

While our central strategy is on delivering growth, building scale and returning value to shareholders, we are clear that we have two non-negotiables in our approach: health and safety and responsible gambling.

As part of this commitment we have undertaken a review of our approach to health and safety throughout the business. We have begun to roll out the move to single scheduling as a voluntary only policy in the evenings. Having reviewed the practical application of the policy, expected costs will be higher than planned. We are on track to have this policy operating across the UK retail estate by October. We remain convinced it is the right decision for the business.

As part of our commitment to responsible gambling we have continued to develop our retail algorithm which identifies changes in behaviour indicating potential problem gambling and assist in helping customers keep their gambling fun. It now covers all customers using cards in our retail estate on both machines and OTC products. We have now begun to develop our responsible gambling facility in Gateshead and expanded the team there to grow our ability to track multi-channel players as well as build our analytical capability. We recently had our retail algorithm independently assessed and have been making improvements to its operations based on this work. We are now looking at ways to improve our recently launched Digital matrix.

We have continued our membership of Senet and played a key role in the wider industry self-exclusion pilot scheme roll out in Q2 this year. We have also introduced industry initiatives such as a reduction in the auto pop-up time limit from 30 to 20 minutes and a stake auto pop-up reduction from £250 to £150 on our machines.

The Board have once again signed off responsible gambling remuneration targets for 2016 and we believe we are the only company in the industry to do so.

In Belgium, regulatory uncertainty over virtual betting remains, but we do not expect this to have any material impact in the remainder of the financial year.

Australia has seen several bursts of regulatory activity with the New South Wales Government banning greyhound racing in July and the lack of clarity around the legality of the bet-in-play product being decided with a ban earlier in the period. While regulatory complexity will continue in Australia, neither of these two decisions is viewed as having a major impact on our business.

Merger Update

While our organic strategy continues to deliver we also have the exciting opportunity provided by the potential merger with the Coral Group.

The recent publication of the final conclusions by the CMA that the merger can proceed subject to 350-400 shop disposals to ease competition concerns is a significant step forward for the merger. We are now engaging with potential buyers and remain hopeful that a competitive process can be successfully completed by the end of Q3. The timetable from then would be for completion in autumn with significant restructuring of the organisation taking place in Q4.

Trading Update and Outlook

15/12/2016

Our H1 results give us encouragement that our strategy is working. The traditional relationship between staking and favourable results was not so evident in H1 and although we enjoyed the better of the sporting results we were even more pleased to see the customer continuing to respond to the delivery of our strategy.

H2 has started much like H1 2016. We have had a strong finish to Euro 2016, whereas the Goodwood and Galway festivals have heavily favoured customers. For the five week period ended 2 August 2016, Group net revenue (excluding High Rollers) was up 14.5% year on year.

2016 is a year of investment in growing our recreational customer base and the Group will therefore elect to invest a proportion of incremental profit in further customer acquisition. Taking into account our H1 performance, management's expectations for the current financial year have increased slightly.

We are confident that our business is in a better position than it was to withstand the vagaries of sporting results. There remains much to do, notwithstanding the merger, to ensure Ladbrokes remains where we want to be as we head towards 2017 with sustained confidence.

H1 delivered a strong margin led OTC performance and machines growth. Net revenue for the period was 6.4% higher supported by strong growth in BetStation and operating profit increased 11.6% despite the increased rate of Machine Games Duty. OTC staking continued to prove resilient, growing 1.3% on a like for like basis despite higher margins, primarily in football. Staking in traditional racing products continued to decline exacerbated by a rise in the number of UK horse racing cancellations.

OTC gross win margin of 17.4% (H1 2015: 16.0%) benefitted from our continued focus on football, the unpredictability of the Premier League and favourable results in Euro 2016 which more than offset customer friendly Cheltenham and Royal Ascot festivals.

Staking through BetStation, which is included in OTC, grew 164.4% reflecting the enlarged BetStation estate and strong customer adoption. BetStation now represent c.10% of OTC staking (H1 2015: c.4%) with over 75% of staking coming from football. At 30 June 2016 there were 6,458 BetStation (H1 2015: 2,810).

We have continued to drive our multi-channel offer, signing up an additional 79,000 digital customers in H1 2016.

Machines net revenue grew 5.3% driven by our sustained focus on introducing and promoting lower staking slots and B3 content. Machine gross win per terminal per week in H1 2016 was £1,083 (H1 2015: £1,022).

Operating costs increased by 3.8% or by 5.3% on a like for like basis reflecting higher revenue share payments on machines and BetStation, higher staff costs from the impact of the National Living Wage, implementation of voluntary single scheduling as well as higher colleague bonus charges owing to the strong performance in H1. Marketing costs were higher by 13.6% reflecting our investment in customer acquisition through our multi-channel programme. We expect full year operating costs to increase c.4-5%.

In H1 2016, we closed 6 shops as we improve the quality of our estate and remove, where commercially sensible, loss making shops from the portfolio. Our target for 2016 remains c.25 closures excluding the impact of the proposed merger.

At 30 June 2016, there were 2,147 shops in Great Britain (30 June 2015: 2,169). At 30 June 2016 there were 8,560 gaming machines (30 June 2015: 8,643) reflecting shop closures.

2. Digital

The Digital segment comprises all of our Digital operations including Ladbrokes.com and digital Exchanges; Ladbrokes Australia; and other regulated operations including our operations in Belgium and our digital joint venture Sportium.es.

In H1 2016, Digital net revenue increased by 40.9% to £158.1m (H1 2015: £112.2m) reflecting strong underlying KPIs and favourable sporting results mainly in the U.K. However, as a result of the sustained marketing investment in H1, in line with our strategic plan, we recorded an operating loss before exceptional items, including our share of the digital joint venture Sportium.es, of £9.6m albeit an improvement on H1 2015.

Other regulated operations includes our digital activities in Belgium and Spain (JV).

Belgium net revenue increased to £3.0m (H1 2015: £2.1m) however we incurred start up losses as we continue to invest and capitalise on our large retail presence in Belgium. Belgium actives were up 37.7%. In June, the Belgian federal government announced that on-line gaming will be subject to a 21% VAT which will come into force in August 2016. We expect this will have a small negative impact for 2016 as we will be able to recover input VAT.

Our digital joint venture with Sportium generated revenue growth of 59.6% on increased actives of c.88,000, up 24.5% and again incurred a development phase operating loss.

3. European Retail

European Retail comprises our operations in Belgium, Spain and Ireland which are discussed in detail below. European Retail revenue was up 7.3% and operating profit before exceptional items was £8.9m, up 43.5% on H1 2015.

15/12/2016

Revenue

Group revenue increased by £73.0m (12.4%) to £661.8m (H1 2015: £588.8m). Excluding High Rollers, revenue increased by £76.4m (13.1%) to £661.8m (H1 2015: £585.4m).

The increase is mainly attributable to higher Digital Sportsbook staking, higher UK Retail OTC and Digital sportsbook gross win margins, strong growth in machine performance in UK Retail, improved gaming performance in Digital and the Euro 2016 Championship.

Operating profit <sup>(1)</sup>

Operating profit increased by £10.5m (25.2%) to £52.2m (H1 2015: £41.7m).

Operating profit is stated after depreciation and amortisation of £39.6m (H1 2015: £39.1m). The Group expects full year depreciation and amortisation charge to be in the range of £82-84m.

Excluding High Rollers, operating profit <sup>(1)</sup> increased by £13.4m (34.4%) to £52.3m (H1 2015: £38.9m) reflecting increased profits from all segments apart from Telephone Betting.

Margins in H1 have benefitted from results and were ahead of our expectations. Therefore, the 40:60 guidance for H1:H2 operating profit we provided in February 2016 is no longer applicable.

Corporate costs

Before exceptional items, total corporate costs decreased by £2.5m to £9.7m (H1 2015: £12.2m). The decrease is primarily due to the inclusion of redundancy costs in relation to the International head office team in the comparable period and reversal of provisions in the current period.

The Group expects corporate costs before exceptional items for 2016 to be broadly in line with the charge in the full year ended 31 December 2015.

Finance expense

Before exceptional items, net finance expense of £12.5m was £1.7m lower than last year (H1 2015: £14.2m) reflecting a lower average net debt in the period.

Profit before tax

The improved trading performance has resulted in a 44.4% increase in first half profit before taxation and exceptional items to £39.7m (H1 2015: £27.5m).

Exceptional items before tax

Total exceptional items before tax of £14.5m (H1 2015: £78.9m) comprises the following:

- £5.6m in relation to transaction costs relating to the proposed merger with the Coral Group (H1 2015: £3.8m)
- £6.5m in relation to integration planning costs relating to the proposed merger with the Coral Group
- £3.4m in relation to provisions for contract disputes
- £0.8m credit in relation to closure of shops in the UK and Ireland (H1 2015: charge of £17.1m) following release of provision in respect of prior year closures
- £0.2m credit relating to the re-measurement of the contingent considerations in respect of business combinations from 2014 (H1 2015: £1.8m credit)

In H2, the Group expects to incur further exceptional items from UK shop closures, transaction advisory and financing fees in respect of the proposed merger with Coral Group, as well as merger related integration planning costs.

Taxation

The Group taxation charge before exceptional items was £4.9m. This represents an effective tax charge of 12.3% (H1 2015: 10.2%). There was a tax credit of £0.4m in relation to exceptional items in H1 2016 (H1 2015: £12.8m credit). The estimate of the full year effective taxation rate remains broadly in line with previous guidance to the market in February 2016.

Dividend

The Board today announces an interim dividend of 1.0 pence per share. The dividend will be payable on 10 November 2016 to shareholders on the register on 23 September 2016.

Cash flow, capital expenditure, borrowings and banking facilities

Cash generated by operations was £117.0m. After net finance expense paid of £14.1m, income taxes received of £34.6m and £31.8m incurred on capital expenditure and intangible additions; cash inflow was £105.7m. Post dividend payment of £20.3m and other net cash outflows of £8.5m, net debt at the end of the period decreased by £76.9m.

The Group expects capital expenditure for full year ended 31 December 2016 to be in the range of £90-£95m.

At 30 June 2016, gross borrowings of £323.6m and lease liabilities of £4.6m less the net of cash and short-term deposits of £101.0m resulted in a net debt of £227.2m (31 December 2015: £304.1m).

Going concern

In assessing the going concern basis, the directors considered the Group's business activities, the financial position of the Group and the Group's financial risk management objectives and policies. The directors consider that the Group has adequate resources to continue in operational existence and that it is therefore appropriate to adopt the going concern basis in preparing the unaudited interim financial statements for the half year ended 30 June 2016.

Principal risks and uncertainties

Key risks are reviewed by the Executive Committee (made up of executive directors and senior management) and the Audit Committee advises the Board of Ladbrokes plc on a regular basis and where appropriate, actions are taken to mitigate the key risks that are identified. The Board has overall responsibility for risk management as an integral part of strategic planning.

The principal risks and uncertainties which could have a significant effect on the Group are as follows:

Strategy

Achieving the Group's strategy will deliver long-term growth for the benefit of all stakeholders whilst minimising some of the key risks that Ladbrokes faces. Failure to achieve the strategy has the potential to affect the business and its performance.

Principal risks faced by Ladbrokes that are comparable to those faced by most other businesses and not set out in any order of priority:

Additional risks not presently known to management, or currently deemed less material may also have an adverse effect on the business.

Marketplace and operational

Changes in the general economic environment, changes in consumer leisure spend, and international expansion could impact demand for the Group's products and services. Whilst the UK's decision to exit the European Union has currently caused economic and political uncertainty, the Group has not noted any material adverse changes in customer behaviour. The vote has also led to a weakening of Sterling and to date this has not had a material impact on the Group's results. The uncertainty and market volatility seems likely to continue for a period of time and the Group's Executive Committee continues to monitor political developments to identify and assess medium to long term implications of the UK exiting the European Union and the impact that it may have on our business.

Financial

The costs of borrowing, taxation and the pension fund liability could increase and/or debt financing could cease to be available. The Group is subject to risks resulting from currency and interest rate fluctuations.

Specific risks which are either unique or material to Ladbrokes or apply to the industry it operates in and not set out in any order of priority:

Betting and gaming industry

Taxes, laws, regulations, licensing and regulatory compliance

Taxes, laws and regulatory, licensing, legislative and fiscal regimes for betting and gaming in key markets around the world can change, sometimes at short notice. Such changes could benefit or have an adverse effect on Ladbrokes and additional costs might be incurred in order to comply with any new laws or regulations. In addition, Ladbrokes' systems and controls to ensure regulatory compliance (including in relation to anti-money laundering) may fail or be found to be inadequate, which could result in criminal or civil claims.

Increased cost of product

Ladbrokes is subject to certain financing arrangements intended to support industries from which it profits. Examples are the horseracing and the voluntary greyhound racing levies which respectively support the British horseracing and greyhound industries. Such arrangements could change resulting in increased levies. In addition, Ladbrokes enters into contracts for the distribution of television pictures, audio and other data that are broadcast into Ladbrokes' betting shops. A number of these are under negotiation at any one time and increased costs under these contracts could result in increases in content costs.

Operational and bookmakingTrading, liability management and pricing

Ladbrokes may experience significant losses as a result of any failure to determine accurately the odds in relation to any particular event and/or any failure of its pricing, trading liability and risk management processes.

Loss of key locations

Ladbrokes has a number of key sites, in particular Imperial House at Rayners Lane in London, its head office and main operations centre, its premises in Europort in Gibraltar from where online betting and gaming operations are based, and in Tel Aviv, Israel from where our Digital marketing operates and our operations in Australia. The unplanned unavailability of any of the key sites could have an adverse effect on the Group.

Recruitment and retention of key employees and succession planning

There is competition in the betting and gaming industry for skilled personnel. The loss of any of the Group's key personnel or inability to continue to recruit, motivate and retain highly experienced and qualified employees could have an adverse effect on the Group.

Information technology and communicationsTechnology failure

Ladbrokes' operations are highly dependent on technology and advanced information systems and there is a risk that such technology or systems could fail or be subject to cyber attacks or be disrupted. In particular, any damage to, or failure of online systems and servers, electronic point of sale systems and electronic display systems could result in interruptions to financial controls and customer service systems. In addition, technological developments could require upgrades or replacement of the Group's technology and systems.

Data management

Ladbrokes processes a large amount of sensitive personal customer data (including name, address, age, bank details and betting and gaming history) as part of its business and therefore must comply with strict data protection and privacy laws in all jurisdictions in which the Group operates. Ladbrokes is exposed to the risk that this data could be wrongfully appropriated, lost or disclosed, or processed in breach of data protection regulation including the new General Data Protection Regulation (EU) (GDPR) when such regulation comes into force in 2018. This could also result in prosecutions including financial penalties and the loss of the goodwill of its customers and could deter new customers.

Failure in the supply chain

Ladbrokes is dependent on a number of third parties for the operation of its business. The withdrawal or removal from the market of one or more of these major third party suppliers, or failure of third party suppliers to comply with their contractual obligations could adversely affect Ladbrokes' operations.

MarketplaceCompetition

Ladbrokes faces competition primarily from other land-based bookmakers, online betting exchanges and other online gambling operators. In particular, the online gambling market is characterised by intense and substantial competition between operators and by relatively low barriers to entry for new participants. In addition, Ladbrokes faces competition from market participants operating in low tax jurisdictions and from those who benefit from greater liquidity as a result of accepting bets and wagers from jurisdictions in which Ladbrokes chooses not to operate (because of legal reasons or otherwise).

Health and Safety

Failure to meet the requirements of the various domestic and international rules and regulations which relate to health and safety could expose the Group (and individual employees and directors) to material civil/criminal action with associated financial and reputational consequences.

Further information in relation to these principal risks and uncertainties can be found on pages 26 and 30 of the Group's Annual Report and Accounts 2015.

Statement of Directors' Responsibilities

Independent review report to Ladbrokes plc

Report on the condensed consolidated financial statements

Our conclusion

We have reviewed Ladbrokes plc's condensed consolidated financial statements (the "interim financial statements") in the interim report of Ladbrokes plc for the 6 month period ended 30 June 2016. Based on our review, nothing has come to our attention that causes us to believe that the interim financial statements are not prepared, in all material respects, in accordance with International Accounting Standard 34, 'Interim Financial Reporting', as adopted by the European Union and the Disclosure Rules and Transparency Rules of the United Kingdom's Financial Conduct Authority.

What we have reviewed

The interim financial statements comprise:

- the condensed consolidated statement of financial position as at 30 June 2016;
- the condensed consolidated income statement and statement of comprehensive income for the period then ended;
- the condensed consolidated statement of cash flows for the period then ended;
- the condensed consolidated statement of changes in equity for the period then ended; and
- the explanatory notes to the interim financial statements.

The interim financial statements included in the interim report have been prepared in accordance with International Accounting Standard 34, 'Interim Financial Reporting', as adopted by the European Union and the Disclosure Rules and Transparency Rules of the United Kingdom's Financial Conduct Authority.

As disclosed in note 2 to the interim financial statements, the financial reporting framework that has been applied in the preparation of the full annual financial statements of the Group is applicable law and International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRSs) as adopted by the European Union.

Responsibilities for the interim financial statements and the review

Our responsibilities and those of the directors

The interim report, including the interim financial statements, is the responsibility of, and has been approved by, the directors. The directors are responsible for preparing the interim report in accordance with the Disclosure Rules and Transparency Rules of the United Kingdom's Financial Conduct Authority.

Our responsibility is to express a conclusion on the interim financial statements in the interim report based on our review. This report, including the conclusion, has been prepared for and only for the company for the purpose of complying with the Disclosure Rules and Transparency Rules of the United Kingdom's Financial Conduct Authority and for no other purpose. We do not, in giving this conclusion, accept or assume responsibility for any other purpose or to any other person to whom this report is shown or into whose hands it may come save where expressly agreed by our prior consent in writing.

What a review of interim financial statements involves

We conducted our review in accordance with International Standard on Review Engagements (UK and Ireland) 2410, 'Review of Interim Financial Information Performed by the Independent Auditor of the Entity' issued by the Auditing

15/12/2016

Practices Board for use in the United Kingdom. A review of interim financial information consists of making enquiries, primarily of persons responsible for financial and accounting matters, and applying analytical and other review procedures.

A review is substantially less in scope than an audit conducted in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (UK and Ireland) and, consequently, does not enable us to obtain assurance that we would become aware of all significant matters that might be identified in an audit. Accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion.

We have read the other information contained in the interim report and considered whether it contains any apparent misstatements or material inconsistencies with the information in the interim financial statements.

- the related tax impact effect on these items.

Any other non-recurring items are considered individually for classification as exceptional by virtue of their nature and size. The exceptional items have been included within the appropriate classifications in the consolidated income statement.

3. Segment information

The Group's operating segments are based on the reports reviewed by the Board of Directors (who are collectively considered to be the Chief Operating Decision Maker) to make strategic decisions.

The performance of the Group's segments is assessed and measured according to the nature of the services provided. IFRS 8 requires segment information to be presented on the same basis as that used by the Board for assessing performance and allocating resources, and the Group's operating segments are aggregated into the five reportable segments detailed below:

- UK Retail: comprises betting activities in the shop estate in Great Britain.
- European Retail: comprises all activities connected with the Ireland (Northern and Republic of), Belgium and Spain shop estates.
- Digital: comprises betting and gaming activities from online and mobile operations which include Ladbrokes Israel, Ladbrokes Australia, Betdaq and Exchanges and Digital operations in Belgium and Spain.
- Core Telephone Betting: comprises activities primarily relating to bets taken on the telephone, excluding High Rollers.
- High Rollers: comprises activities primarily relating to bets taken on the telephone from High Rollers.

The Board continues to assess the performance of operating segments based on a measure of net revenue, profit before tax and net finance expense. This measurement basis excludes the effect of exceptional items (income or expenditure) from the operating segments.

Transfer prices between operating segments are on an arm's-length basis in a manner similar to transactions with third parties.

(1) The Group incurred £5.6m of costs in relation to the proposed merger with the Coral Group.

(2) Integration planning costs of £6.5m have been incurred in relation to the proposed merger with the Coral Group.

(3) The £0.8m gain on closure relates to UK Retail. This gain includes a loss on disposal of intangible assets of £0.7m, a loss on disposal of property, plant and equipment of £0.3m and release of £1.8m in respect of onerous lease provisions for prior shop closures.

(4) The fair value of the contingent consideration in respect of the business combinations with Playtech and Betdaq has been remeasured at 30 June 2016. This resulted in an overall credit to the income statement of £0.2m.

Operating expenses include corporate transaction costs, integration planning costs, the fair value adjustment to contingent consideration, the provision for contract disputes and a £1.8m credit relating to shop closures.

In addition to the defined exceptional items, set out in note 2, the Group considered the integration planning costs and a provision in relation to contract disputes to be of sufficient materiality, to be separately identified, and of a nature unrelated to the underlying trading performance of the Group in the half year.

5. Taxation

The tax charge for the half year ended 30 June 2016 was £4.5m (30 June 2015: credit of £10.0m) of which a credit of £0.4m (30 June 2015: credit of £12.8m) related to exceptional items.

In 2015 it was announced that the standard rate of UK Corporation Tax will be reduced from 20% to 19% from 1 April 2017, with a further reduction to 18% from 1 April 2020. However, the Chancellor, in his Budget on 16 March 2016, announced that the main rate of corporation tax will be cut further to 17% from 1 April 2020.

The deferred tax assets and liabilities at the balance sheet date are calculated at the substantively enacted rate of 18%; applicable at the balance sheet date. Whilst detailed calculations have not been prepared at this stage, it is estimated that the impact of the future corporation tax rate reductions to 17% would be to reduce the deferred tax liabilities by approximately £4.0m and to reduce the deferred tax assets by approximately £1.2m.

Net deferred tax liability of £51.6m consists of £20.7m of deferred tax asset which has been offset against a deferred tax liability of £72.3m due to the right of offset.

12. Financial guarantees

The Group has given guarantees to third parties in respect of lease liabilities of former subsidiaries within the disposed hotels division. The Group received an indemnity from Hilton Hotels Corporation (HHC), at the time of the hotels disposal, in relation to any loss the Group may subsequently incur under these third party guarantees. The guarantees expire between 2017 and 2042 and the lease liabilities comprise a combination of minimum contractual and turnover based elements. The undiscounted maximum liability exposure in respect of the guarantees for all years up to 2042 is £550.2m (31 December 2015: £560.8m), with a maximum indemnity receivable of the same amount. Included in the maximum liability exposure is £395.7m (31 December 2015: £402.1m) in relation to the turnover based element of the hotel rentals and £154.5m (31 December 2015: £158.7m) in relation to the minimum contractual based element. The maximum liability represents the total of all guaranteed rentals under the non-cancellable agreements into which the Group has entered.

The net present value of the maximum exposure at 30 June 2016 is £201.9m (31 December 2015: £210.3m). Included in the net present value of the maximum exposure is £136.1m (31 December 2015: £141.4m) in relation to the turnover based element of the hotel rentals and £65.8m (31 December 2015: £68.9m) in relation to the minimum contractual based element.

The Group monitors its exposure under these guarantees on a regular basis and seeks, where appropriate, to novate its obligations.

At 30 June 2016 the Group has recognised a financial liability of £3.2m (31 December 2015: £3.2m) in respect of these guarantees. The key assumption in the probability model is the hotels default rate. A rate of 1.5% has been used at 30 June 2016 (31 December 2015: 1.5%).

The financial guarantees liability has been valued using a probability based model to estimate the net present value of the liabilities payable in the event of a default by the hotels covered by the guarantees, and the probability of such a default and new tenants being identified.

A 0.5 percentage point increase in the default rate would increase the financial liability by £1.0m. A 1.0 percentage point increase in the discount rate would reduce the financial liability by £0.2m.

13. Financial instruments

The following table presents the Group's financial assets and liabilities that are measured at fair value at 30 June 2016, by level of fair value hierarchy. All assets and liabilities measured at fair value are measured as level 3 (fair value is measured using techniques where the significant inputs are not based on observable market data).

|   | Level 1£m | Level 2£m | Level 3£m |

| Assets measured at fair value          |               |               |               |

| Liabilities measured at fair value     |               |               |               |
| Ante-post liabilities                         | -             | -             | (9.0)         |
| Other non-current financial liabilities       | -             | -             | (35.3)        |
| Total                                  | -             | -             | (44.3)        |
| Net liabilities measured at fair value | -             | -             | (40.9)        |

Carrying amounts versus fair values

Assets and liabilities designated at fair value through profit or loss and available for sale financial assets are carried at fair value. The fair value of cash at bank and in hand approximates to book value due to its short-term maturity. The fair value of the £225m 7.625% bond at 30 June 2016 was £231.9m (31 December 2015: £239.7m). The fair value of the £100m 5.125% bond at 30 June 2016 was £101.7m (31 December 2015: £98.3m). The amortised cost of interest bearing loans and borrowings, with the exception of the £225m 7.625% bond and the £100m 5.125% bond, and the carrying value of all other assets and liabilities approximates to fair value.

Trade and other payables

15/12/2016

Included in trade and other payables are £9.0m of ante-post liabilities (31 December 2015: £5.3m). Changes in the fair value of these instruments are recorded in the consolidated income statement.

Other non-current financial liabilities

Included within other non-current financial liabilities is contingent consideration associated with previous business combinations of £32.1m (31 December 2015: £32.3m), classified as level 3 financial instruments, as its fair value is measured using techniques where the significant inputs are not based on observable market data. Financial guarantees are also classified as level 3 financial instruments; a description of the valuation techniques, significant inputs and assumptions is described in note 12.

a) Betdaq

The estimated fair value of the contingent consideration at 30 June 2016 is £nil (31 December 2015: £0.8m), which is classified at Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy. The change in fair value since the acquisition date has been recorded in the income statement within exceptional items.

Betdaq contingent consideration is linked to the performance of the business over a four year period and is capped at €535.0m. The fair value of the contingent consideration has been estimated using a discounted cash flow analysis at the acquisition date. The key assumptions in estimating the fair value are the EBITDA projections of the Betdaq business for 2016, the predicted Ladbrokes plc EBITDA multiple in 2016 (9.1x) and the discount rate applied (14.4%). All of these assumptions have been applied on a probability-weighted basis.

The contingent consideration is sensitive to changes in these assumptions. For example, an increase of 10% in EBITDA projections would result in an increase in contingent consideration of £1.4m.

Notes to financial information

b) Playtech

The estimated fair value of the contingent consideration at 30 June 2016 is £32.1m (31 December 2015: £31.5m), which is classified at Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy. The change in fair value since the acquisition date has been recorded in the income statement within exceptional items. This valuation does not include the impact of the updated agreement which is contingent on merger completion.

The fair value of the contingent consideration in relation to Playtech has been estimated using a discounted cash flow analysis at the acquisition date. The key assumptions in estimating the fair value are a range of EBITDA projections of the Digital business for 2017, which are based on the projections in place at the time of the acquisition and then updated with an estimated uplift for the benefits of the transaction, the predicted Ladbrokes plc EBITDA multiple in 2017 (9.1x); and the discount rate applied (a range of 20.7% to 13.5%, depending on the year). All of these assumptions have been applied on a probability-weighted basis.

The contingent consideration is sensitive to changes in these assumptions. For example, an increase of 10% in EBITDA projections would result in an increase in contingent consideration of £13.5m and a decrease of 2% in the discount rate would result in an increase in contingent consideration of £1.0m. An increase of 1x in the EBITDA multiple would increase the contingent consideration by £3.9m.

14. Post balance sheet events

On 26 July 2016 the CMA (Competition & Markets Authority) issued its final findings report, with completion subject to adherence to a set of conditions, primarily the sale of 350-400 shops.

The group has in place facilities of £1,350,000,000 which are contingent on the completion of the proposed merger with the Coral Group. The facilities comprise 3 tranches, one term loan with a maturity, subject to extension options, of July 2018 and two revolving credit facilities with maturities of June 2019 and October 2020 respectively. On the completion of the merger, bilateral revolving credit facilities of £350,000,000 will be cancelled.

The Facilities Agreement was amended in June 2016. The amendment allows for borrowings under the £600,000,000 term loan tranche to be extended, at the option of the borrower, for an additional period of 6 months to July 2018.

Ladbrokes reports profit as digital turnaround begins to take hold

By Derek du Preez August 4, 2016

SUMMARY:

Bookmaker Ladbrokes has turned its fortunes around and has reported a profit for the first six months of the year – compared with a loss of £54.1 million last year.

0 Comments

British betting and gambling

company Ladbrokes is thanking the “sporting gods” as it reports a profit of £25.2 million for the first six months of the year. This compares to a loss of £54.1 million for the same period last year.

And whilst chief executive Jim Mullen was quick to acknowledge that the company had experienced some “helpful bookmaker friendly results”, its also clear that Ladbroke’s investments in digital are working favourably for the firm.

The turnaround will be welcome news for investors, which last quarter saw Ladbrokes indicating that the digital investments were impacting the bottom line – with the company citing shop closures, software write downs and increased digital marketing spend.

However, it seems that Ladbrokes' decision to implement a new strategy, following a short and intense internal review, is finally paying off. The company is attempting to attract and retain multi-channel digital customers that will use its new, digitally integrated 'One Ladbrokes' platform.

The results out today show a 13.1% year-on-year increase in revenue to £661.8 million, while pre-tax profits also surged 61.1% to £39.8 million.

Chief executive Mullen said:

These strong numbers show customers are responding positively to the new strategy at a time when the sporting gods have generally been on our side and we've enjoyed some helpful bookmaker friendly results. This combination has helped boost profits in the first half of the year.

History would strongly dictate that such a run of results in our favour would see customer staking suffer, but encouragingly these numbers firmly buck that trend and combine strong staking and a good margin. However, 130 years of experience in sports betting has shown us that we will endure a run of customer friendly results and margins will normalise. Despite this assumption on results and our intention to continue investing in marketing, we have slightly increased our full year expectations.

Encouragingly we have delivered a good performance across all the key customer metrics outlined in last year's strategic plan and that gives us confidence that we are well placed to deliver against our stated 2017 targets. We have grown recreational customers, increased our football business, attracted more multi-channel customers and grown strongly in Australia. However, we are taking nothing for granted.

We will continue to compete hard on pricing, product and customer services and maintain a relentless focus on meeting and exceeding customer expectations.

Progress

Ladbrokes noted that the half year results indicate that progress is being made after a first full year of operations under the strategic plan. It said that the numbers show the customer is responding to the investments and that it is beginning to have a positive impact on numbers.

The company said that its multi-channel strategy had now delivered over 100,000 active users and had been rolled out to Ireland and Belgium – this number is from a standing start last August and 79,000 users have been recruited in the first half of this year.

Interestingly, Ladbrokes is using its in-store retail staff to help recruit users to the digital products and is rewarding them for the efforts. The betting maker said:

Our success in recruiting customers has been through improving the customer experience and motivating our retail colleagues who are the most effective sales people for our digital product. Over 9,400 colleagues have been rewarded so far with over 170 earning an additional £1,000 plus for their hard work.

Digital results

Ladbrokes said that total digital net revenue increased by an impressive 40.9% to £158.1 million, up from £112.2 million for the same period last year, which it claimed was down to “improved brand presence, product quality and stability”.

It added that it is staying clear of capital intensive projects and its focus is primarily on the customer experience.

In Ladbrokes.com, we have increased our marketing spend and the improvements to our products in H1 have been driven by a customer-focus rather than a technology-focus. We have deliberately steered clear of major capital projects. Our products have evolved to reflect changing customer demands and align the Ladbrokes experience to their own expectations. The response has been positive.

Ladbrokes highlighted, however, how telephone betting continues its long term decline, with many customers migrating to digital products and platforms. Amounts staked declined by 11.1%.

Interestingly, the bookmaker is also using its digital prowess to try and become a more responsible betting company, where it is making investments in data and algorithms to try and assess customers that may have a problem. Ladbrokes said:

As part of our commitment to responsible gambling we have continued to develop our retail algorithm which identifies changes in behaviour indicating potential problem gambling and assist in helping customers keep their gambling fun. It now covers all customers using cards in our retail estate on both machines and OTC products.

We have now begun to develop our responsible gambling facility in Gateshead and expanded the team there to grow our ability to track multi-channel players as well as build our analytical capability. We recently had our retail algorithm independently assessed and have been making improvements to its operations based on this work.

My take

Although Ladbrokes points to favourable sporting conditions for the uptick in its results, its clear that its digital priorities are beginning to

Liberal MP pours cold water on TAB sale bid

Government backbencher Murray Cowper has spoken out against a building political consensus for selling the TAB.

VIDEO Country racing on show

Mr Cowper, whose Murray-Wellington electorate includes significant horse breeding and training operations, claimed there was not the support from the industry that Premier Colin Barnett and leading trainer Michael Grant said there was.

Last week, The West Australian revealed the WA Racing Response Group, chaired by Mr Grant and formed to formulate the industry's response to the privatisation issue, had given the Government the green light to proceed with the sale process.

It was done on the basis that the industry would be no worse off financially, that sale proceeds were set aside for an infrastructure fund and that governance issues were settled.

But Mr Cowper said Mr Grant did not speak for the whole industry and he remained personally opposed to the sale.

"The industry is bigger than just Perth and there are significant elements in country gallops, trots and greyhounds that aren't on board," he said.

The West Australian canvassed opinion of racing leaders across codes and from representatives of regional racing groups and found general support for Mr Grant's position.

Country Racing Association president Kevin Scott said the CRA supported Mr Grant and WARRG "100 per cent".

"We believe the WARRG will do everything to get the best outcome for the industry," he said.

"If we don't go as one constructive group we might as well not go at all.

"All we want is to be no worse off."

Pinjarra Harness Racing Club president Barry Warwick said: "I'm for it as long as we can get the right result out of it.

"At first I was pretty anti-selling but I've had a good, hard look at it.

"It all comes down to the outcome for the industry."

Gloucester Park president John Burt said WARRG had set parameters for the industry's support and presented them to Government.

"If they're met, we're happy to see the TAB sold," he said.

Mr Barnett and Nationals Leader and Racing Minister Brendon Grylls have both said they want to sell the TAB and believe they have the support of the industry.

Labor says it will sell only if the industry agrees and wants to consult more widely.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Nice to come down here and see how the other half live actually. [Laughs].

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Get that chip off your shoulder.

[Laughter]

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: [Laughs] Just mucking around.

UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Hard working people.

COLIN BARNETT: Okay, what do you want to talk about?

QUESTION: Western Power, if I may.

COLIN BARNETT: Yeah sure.

QUESTION: Mark McGowan obviously has launched this campaign, yesterday he denied it's a fear campaign but then at the same press conference flanked by union officials they said that they're worried about the risk of bushfires because of a lack of maintenance if it's sold. Surely it is just a fear campaign?

COLIN BARNETT:

It is. And look, the government's seriously looking at either the full or part privatisation of Western Power. We haven't made a decision but I expect we will in the next few weeks. And I would hope that both the Liberal and National Party are aligned on that. But there's obviously some sensitivity; Western Power's a utility in Western Australia. But the world's changing. If we are to continue as a government- and it applies to any government to build new infrastructure. Hospitals, schools, roads, bridges, whatever it might be, it costs a lot of money. And that's traditionally been financed by taxes - that will continue - and borrowings, but there's an opportunity now to allow Australians - in this case maybe Western Power customers, superannuation funds - to also invest in that utility. And probably a better thing to be paying dividends for superannuation than simply paying interest rates to international banks. So it's a different way of looking at financing.

If Western Power is privatised it would pay off a large amount of debt. Not debt that the government itself has incurred, it's just debt of Western Power. Because we've had 450,000 increase in population in the last eight years. That means more power lines, more connections and the like. So that's just natural growth. Someone's got to pay for it and some private investment might be the way to do it. So Western Power if it is privatised will operate as it is now. As a regulated monopoly, if you like. A regulated utility, so the public have nothing to fear. What it does do is free up money to reduce debt and free up money for new expenditure on schools, hospitals, all the things that a growing population needs.

QUESTION:

Is it a bit dishonest though, that scaremongering? Particularly around bushfire threats?

COLIN BARNETT:

Oh look, Western Power does an excellent job in responding to bushfires. Just recently in Yarloop I think something like about $20 million was spent by Western Power on restoring power supplies immediately. And there's just been a massive program of replacing wooden poles throughout the state. That's one of the reasons Western Power's got a high level of debt. The huge expenditure on ensuring that the risk of fire was absolutely minimised.

QUESTION:

Is the assurance there that nothing with change for this business model? That there will be no compromise on safety or maintenance because it will still be under the same regulator?

COLIN BARNETT:

That's right. It'll have to meet the national standards in every sense. Even its level of profit will be regulated, so for customers- and Western Power runs the poles and wires so it doesn't have that direct customer base like say Synergy does or Horizon. People will not see any difference. But what they will see is the level of debt is significantly reduced and that frees up money for important investment by government in other essential areas.

|                |   |
| QUESTION:      | You said before you're worried about a Medicare-style campaign around Western Power. Are you still fearful of that given it's been two days in a row now with some pretty hard lines from the opposition in relation to this?   |
| COLIN BARNETT: | Look, I'm sure that will happen. I'm sure during the election campaign the Labour Party and the unions will campaign that way. I have said clearly we will make a decision on Western Power. We will make that public when we've made that decision. And we will take it to the election. So, I think that's a proper responsible way for a government to behave and that would give the opportunity for the public of Western Australia to think about it. And there's no doubt freeing up of those funds would allow much needed expenditure in a whole range of areas, and that in itself will create literally thousands of jobs. |
| QUESTION:      | Is the share float plan something you're seriously considering?   |
| COLIN BARNETT: | We're looking at all those options, we are. We have- and I'll be quite honest, we have not yet made the decision.   |
| QUESTION:      | Tatts and Tabcorp are looking at a merger, it's being reported. What impact on the price- what impact would it have, sorry, on the price of any potential TAB sale here in WA?  |
| COLIN BARNETT: | Look, I don't believe it will make a difference on the price. I mean I guess if they weren't merged they may  | bid against each other. But I think today in a very sophisticated financial world, people- any bidder will just simply do their own financial modelling. Analyse, you know, the cash flow that will come from a TAB. And I'm pleased that the racing industry in broad terms now supports the privatisation of the TAB again.

Racing's in trouble. It's been declining in terms of people going to the races; revenue's not as strong as it could be. So a privatised TAB I think offers a lifeline to the racing industry in terms of upgrading facilities, whether it's Ascot or Belmont, and regenerating that sport, that interest.

QUESTION:

But it would have to impact on price wouldn't it? Because Tabcorp and Tatts- my understanding from what the Treasurer said [indistinct] were the two main likely bidders for TAB. So if they're then one big conglomerate surely that would [indistinct]?

COLIN BARNETT:

[Talks over] No, look I don't it will. There may well be other bidders as well. In fact I'd expect there to be other bidders. But the government will only sell the TAB if it gets the right price for it. And you can be pretty certain what the price is going to be for these assets. Everyone knows the finances and that put it through the analys- spits out a number and that's what people will bid.

QUESTION:

Have you got your in-principle agreement with the racing industry or are you still working towards that?

- COLIN BARNETT: Well the Government doesn't require the agreement of the racing industry but now I think most sections of the racing industry do agree that it's the right thing to do and I think broadly in terms of sort of government policy, it's not appropriate today for a government to own a betting agency, I just don't think that's - that's not life in the 21st century.
- QUESTION: Are you sure...
- QUESTION: That was the term that you used, you said that you'd like to get an in-principle agreement before the election.
- COLIN BARNETT: Well yes and I think we have now, the racing industry's come out broadly in support of it,.I mean they're looking for some investment into facilities, we accept that, they're wanting to be assured that the revenue stream to the racing codes will continue and it will, that will be part of the sale conditions.
- QUESTION: The issue with the importation of the Adler shotgun has come up in Federal Parliament. It's been pushed from I think the Liberal Democrats in areas above [indistinct]. The Prime Minister says it's up to the states to regulate there and come up with a consensus. Do you have a view, or have you added any risk advice on what the WA's view is on the importation?
- COLIN BARNETT: Look I am far from being an expert on guns but I guess as a matter of policy I do not support that gun. I saw some footage on television of it being fired, it's obviously rapid fire capacity. Australia has put in policies to contain gun ownership and use and I do not support allowing a weapon like that into this state.

QUESTION:

The Opposition have just held a press conference outside ABV which is a transformer manufacturing company that used to make the transformers for Western Power. They say that that company's lost that contract either to New South Wales or New Zealand companies and 80 jobs will go, do you know much about that?

COLIN BARNETT:

I don't know about that but look, Western Power's a huge business. It buys equipment from all over the place so that's a commercial matter and then they just simply act almost independent of government, with their own independent board and make those commercial decisions.

QUESTION:

But it would be linked to any potential sale is it?

COLIN BARNETT:

No.

QUESTION:

No. Can I also just clarify though do you think unions warning of more bushfires if you sell Western Power and there's not the maintenance going into it, is it a bit irresponsible and insensitive to people who have lost homes to these sorts of things?

COLIN BARNETT:

Well look, most bushfires - the vast majority of bushfires are handled by volunteer fire brigades, not by Western Power. If power lines come down then the utility, whether it's government or privately owned has a responsibility to restore power supplies. That's what it does. It's not out there fighting fires.

QUESTION:

What do you think about Laine McDonald's calls for breastfeeding, bottle feeding to be allowed in the Parliament?

COLIN BARNETT:

Well a new member of parliament and I wish her well in her parliamentary career. That issue came up a few years ago. Look it is not in my view necessary for a mother to take a baby into the chamber. All members of parliament have their own offices within the Parliament where they've got privacy and if a mother and a baby needs to breastfeed, and that mother's not peered(*) I can guarantee from a government point of view, we will always give her an immediate peer so that that mother can leave the chamber, look after her baby and return when she's finished.

QUESTION:

Do you think though that it is capacity for parliament though, WA Parliament, to be a bit more family-friendly?

COLIN BARNETT:

No, no.

QUESTION:

I mean potentially crèche or something like that?

COLIN BARNETT:

Well there may be an argument but I don't - there's not many members of parliament that have a baby but everyone respects the mother and the child but not on the floor of the chamber. I mean it is only for members of parliament, and that's the principle; we don't start to have babies and children in the Parliament and there's plenty of opportunity for privacy. There is other spaces in the Parliament that can be used if a mother's breastfeeding and as I said from my point of view in the Liberal Party, we would always give a balance peer to make sure that there's no disadvantage to a political party if there is a mother with a baby so we have covered that vote and make sure we take one of our members out so there is no advantage.

QUESTION:

Can you just tell us about what you opened today and why you think it's money well spent?

COLIN BARNETT:

Yes at the Dog Refuge Home in Shenton Park has now just rebuilt its facilities. That was made possible by a grant from Lottery West of $1.2 million and this allows not only a better way of dealing with the hundreds of dogs that this refuge home handles for to introduce the dog to the new family and make sure they understand the dog and any personality or quirks it's got and also importantly an education centre so dog owners and prospective dog owners can know how to care for a dog, help train a dog, to feed it properly and the like and be most of all responsible dog owners. And I would urge people if you are getting a dog, they're wonderful pets to have. Get a rescue dog, that's terrific. If you want a particular breed then buy from an accredited quality breeder and also make sure that your dogs are sterilised so that you don't have unwanted litters and therefore unwanted puppies so responsible dog ownership's a big part of this.

Okay thanks for coming out.

QUESTION: One more question if that's alright.

COLIN BARNETT: Yeah sure yeah.

QUESTION: You spoke previously today about a new draft policy as part of Design WA, what's the expected benefit to Western Australians?

COLIN BARNETT: Well our housing patterns are changing, more people are wanting to live closer into the city, more people are choosing to live in apartments, both younger people and also [inaudible] downsizing when the children have left home. So the design of the...
